Further Relaxation of Nat. Selective Service Controls by Department

Substitution of a reporting system and abandonment of the permit system previously in effect under National Selective Service Civilian Regulations was announced recently by Hon. Colin Gibson, Humphrey Mitchell, Minister of Labour.

Said Mr. Mitchell: "Almost immediately after V-E Day and again after V-J Day we proceeded to amend the regulations consistently with the changing manpower situation. With the easing of the heavy demands of war production, it was felt that the natural flow of labour, employee initiative and employer enterprise could be best facilitated by a steady process of relaxation of controls. However, in the interests of preserving efficient employment service, only the minimum of requirements will remain in effect."

The few remaining requirements are:

1. Employers are required to notify the National Employment Office of all vacancies in their establishments.
2. Employers are required to report to their nearest National Employment Office all additions to their staffs.
3. Unemployed workers seeking employment are required to register with the National Employment Office.
4. A person terminating employment either employer or employee, is required to give seven days' notice.

He note in addition, that advertising by either employer or employee is now entirely unrestricted.

"These few remaining requirements are the only minimum necessary to give to the Local Employment Offices a reasonably complete picture of the manpower supply and demand to enable them to render efficient services and the National Employment Service relies upon the continuance of the excellent wartime co - operation afforded by Management and Labour to get full effect to the programme," stated Mr. Mitchell.

Cantata Presented By Grace Church Ch.

Despite the icy condition of the roads and walks, the service in Grace United Church on Sunday, were particularly well attended and in the evening the edifice was a close filled when the choir presented the cantata "Carol of the Bells." In the morning, Rev. C. D. McLellan was in charge and preached an interesting sermon and the large choir under the leadership of Mrs. V. Drury sang the anthem, "Jesu Bambino." Mrs. B. M. Black presided at the organ and in the evening gave a number of selections preceding the service. The cantata which had taken great preparation and for which Mrs. W. V. Drury is to be congratulated for its thoroughness and the truly wonderful singing of the choir, took in all about forty minutes and the sermon was dispensed with by the minister, Rev. C. D. McLellan, who expressed his own as well as the appreciation of the congregation to the leader, Mrs. Drury, the organist, Mrs. B. M. Black and to the large choir of approximately 45, for their wonderful production of the cantata. In addition, to the several choral parts there were vocal solos sung by Mrs. Drury, Mrs. F. B. Elliott, Mrs. Septimus Booth, Donald Elliott, Mrs. Smith and Earl Morrison, as well as a trio by Mrs. Drury, Miss Shirley Jeffs and Mrs. Dickey, and a mixed quartette by Miss Edna Hull, Miss Shirley Jeffs, Earl Morrison and G. F. Smith.

The cantata was said to have been the best in recent years in the history of the church and too much praise cannot be given to Mrs. Drury, Mrs. Black and the choir.

The service opened with the processional hymn and the choir walking up the centre aisle and taking their places in the choir. The recessional hymn and the three-fold Amen! sung in the vestibule, brought the service to a close.

The choir sang the anthem "There Were Shepherds" and an English carol. Mrs. Harold Denison sang the solo "Ring Out Merry Bells," and the service was brought to a close by the choir singing "The Hallelujah Chorus."

HOCKEY SEASON IN NAPANEE, OPENS THURS. JANUARY 3

For several years there has been no organized senior hockey of any kind in the town and now with the return of so many boys from overseas a good brand of hockey should be available to the public. Games will be played on Tuesday and Thursday nights at the Napanee Rink, except Deseronto's three home games.

Thursday, January 3rd marks the opening of the schedule when Newburgh meets the Gibbard Club. It is sincerely hoped that this game will be well attended and that the calibre of hockey played will be a drawing card in itself for future games.

Re-union of Cochrane Family in Napanee

On Sunday they enjoyed a get-together when eleven of them gave a singing contribution in one of the Napanee churches. Irving, with his two sisters, Adelina and Isabella of Queen's University, are visiting this week, in Montreal and Chateauguay, in Quebec Province, with relatives.

Family Given Scare Christmas Day Fire

A fire which might have resulted much more seriously, but quick action had not been taken, occurred about 4.30 a.m. on Christmas Day at the home of Clare Tumor, Water Street. Mr. and Mrs. Tumor and two daughters escaped from the home by jumping out of an upstairs window after the alarm had been given by a son of the family who was sleeping downstairs, where the fire started.

In the room where the boy was sleeping a Christmas tree had been erected and decorated and a coal oil heater had been left lighted to heat the room. Apparently the oxygen in the room had been all used up by the heater and a puff of flame shot through the room. The boy was awakened and over the rest of the family who were upstairs. The father broke a window and threw a mattress out. The ground on which the family landed ,when they jumped. The two girls were slightly injured by the jump. Damage to the building by fire was very slight, but the contents were blackened by the smoke from the oil stove.

On Christmas Day two small fires which did slight damage occurred in Napanee. Overheated flues were to blame at the home of Blake Allen and caused practically no damage.

Odessa Continuation School

Odessa Continuation School closed for the Christmas holidays on Friday, December 21st. During the last hour teachers and pupils enjoyed a social time together. Christmas cards were sent, after which the gifts from the Christmas tree were distributed to the form representatives.

The Principal, Mrs. Slingerland, in a brief address, extended Christmas holiday greetings to the pupils. The school will reopen on Thursday, January 3rd.

The purchase of a ... projector for the Continuation School is under consideration by the School Board and Old Literary Society. Recently the pupils had the pleasure of listening to the complete recording of Gershwin's Rhapsody in Blue. These valuable records were made available through the efforts of Major McCool, Assistant Supervisor of Music for Ontario. Major McCool paid a short visit to the school in November and expects to come again shortly. On his visit, Mr. McCool addressed the pupils. He was a prisoner-of-war in Germany, for some time, and has just been released from military service.

During the month of November the pupils heard the radio broadcasts on Vocational Guidance, from the Ontario Department of Education. These were given each Tuesday morning. During the coming term plans are under way to listen to the music of J. Eaton Broadcasts from Toronto.

Two very fine Christmas gifts were received by the teachers, by the pupils. To Mrs. Slingerland, the Principal, a handsome mirror and to the Assistant, Miss Mitchell, a pair of very artistically-designed glass bookends.

3. Unemployed workers seeking employment are required to register with the National Employment Office.
4. A person terminating employment, either employer or employee, is required to give seven days' notice.

He note in addition, that advertising by either employer or employee is now entirely unrestricted.

These few remaining requirements are the only minimum necessary to give to the Local Employment Offices a reasonably complete picture of the manpower supply and demand to enable them to render efficient service, and the National Employment Service relies upon the continuance of the excellent wartime co - operation afforded by Management and Labour to get full effect to the programme," stated Mr. Mitchell.

He was born at Newburgh, near Napanee.

Amherst Islanders Hope For New Ferry

Amherst Island Township Council has submitted a tender to War Assets Corporation for the purchase of two motorship Mohawk, which was declared surplus by the Royal Canadian Navy.

The ferry steamer Amherst Islander, which has served Island residents for sixteen years, is proving too small for the increased traffic. The ferry provides a daily service between Amherst Island and the mainland, a distance of three miles, and makes two trips to Kingston each week.

Cantata Presented By Grace Church Ch.

Despite the icy condition of the roads and walks, the services in Grace United Church on Sunday, were particularly well attended and in the evening the edifice was almost filled when the choir presented the cantata "Carol of the Bells." In the morning, Rev. C. D. McLellan was in charge and preached an interesting sermon and the large choir under the leadership of Mrs. V. Drury sang the anthem, "Jesu Bambino." Mrs. B. M. Black, organist, presided at the organ and in the evening gave a number of selections preceding the service. The cantata which had taken great preparation and for which Mrs. W. V. Drury is to be complimented for its thoroughness and the truly wonderful singing of the choir, took in all about forty minutes and the sermon was dispensed with by the minister, Rev. C. D. McLellan, who expressed his own as well as the appreciation of the congregation to the leader, Mrs. Drury, the organist, Mrs. B. M. Black and to the large choir of approximately 45, for their wonderful production, of the cantata. In addition to the several choral parts there were vocal solos sung by Mrs. Drury, Mrs. F. B. Elliott, Mrs. Septimus Booth, Donald Elliott, Mrs. Smith and Earl Morrison, as well as a trio by Mrs. Drury, Miss Shirley Jeffs and Mrs. Dickey, and a mixed quartette by Miss Edna Hull, Miss Shirley Jeffs, Earl Morrison and G. F. Smith.

The cantata was said to have been the best in recent years in the history of the church and too much praise cannot be given to Mrs. Drury, Mrs. Black and the choir.

The service opened with the processional hymn and the choir walking up the centre aisle and taking their places in the choir. The recessional hymn and the three-fold Amen! sung in the vestibule, brought the service to a close.

CANDLELIGHT SERVICE AT TRINITY CHURCH

A very impressive candlelight service was held at 5 o'clock on Sunday afternoon, December 23rd, in Trinity United Church, when the choir of the church, under the direction of Mrs. J. E. Madden rendered special Christmas music, and Rev. Noble Hatton, the minister of the church, gave a short Christmas message.

A feature of the musical program was the singing of "He Shall Feed His Flock" by eleven members of the Cochrane family, including Mr. and Mrs. W. C. Cochrane and nine of their ten children, Irving, Adelina, Isabella, Doreen, Katharine, Robert, John, Nora and Jessie.

The choir sang the anthem "There Were Shepherds" and "Christmas Carol". Mrs. Harold Denison sang the solo "Ring Out Merry Bells," and the service was brought to a close by the choir singing "The Hallelujah Chorus."

For several years there has been no organized senior hockey of any kind in the town and now with the return of so many boys from overseas a good brand of hockey should be available to the public. The league will be comprised of four teams: Desoronto, Newburgh each entering one club, and the Napanee being represented by Gibbards and the Battery. Games will be played on Tuesday and Thursday nights at the Napanee Rink, except Deseronto's three home games.

Thursday January 3rd marks the opening of the schedule when Newburgh meets the Gibbard Club. It is sincerely hoped that this game will be well attended and that the calibre of hockey played will be a drawing card in itself for future games.

Re-union of Cochrane Family in Napanee

Mr. and Mrs. W.E. Cochrane and nine of their ten children, had a happy Christmas re-union here. Their son, Sergt. Irving D. Cochrane, returned from overseas after four and a half years of active service.

All the family are musicians and singers and before Irving went active gave a number of concerts in aid of the Red Cross.

On Sunday they enjoyed a get-together when eleven of them gave a singing contribution in one of the Napanee churches. Irving, with his two sisters, Adelina and Isabella of Queen's University, are visiting this week, in Montreal and Chateauguay, in Quebec Province, with relatives.

Mr. Cochrane has returned to his duties as Collector of Customs after two months' absence on sick leave.

Family Given Scare Christmas Day Fire

A fire which might have resulted much more seriously, if quick action had not been taken, occurred about 9 a.m., on Christmas Day at the home of Clare Tumor, Water Street. Mr. and Mrs. Tumor and two daughters escaped from the home by jumping out of an upstairs window after the alarm had been given by a son of the family and then hurried downstairs, where the fire started.

In the room where the boy was sleeping a Christmas tree had been erected and decorated and a coal oil heater had been lighted to heat the room. Apparently the oxygen in the room had been all used up by the heater and the tree had caught fire from a shot through the room. The boy was awakened and called the rest of the family who were upstairs. The father broke a window and threw a mattress out on the ground on which the family landed when they jumped. The two girls were slightly injured by the jump. Damage to the building by fire was very slight, but the contents were blackened by the smoke from the stove.

New Treas. For L. and [illegible] Assumes His

Capt. W. W. Exley [illegible] ly appointed treasurer of Lennox and Addington, on Monday of this week, and qualifications for office were received until Wednesday noon, on account of Tuesday being a legal holiday.

Several Reeves were elected by acclamation but elections are being held in some of the municipalities.

The following are the results of the nominations so-far as we could secure them before going to press:

Two Fire Calls Christmas Day

On Christmas Day two small fires which did slight damage, occurred in Napanee. Overheated furnace pipes at the home of Blair Allen caused practically no damage.

At the home of Oscar Asselstine, Water Street, a fire in the stove pipes and the chimney, was quickly gotten under control by the firemen and no damage was caused.

Odessa Continuation School

Odessa Continuation School closed for the Christmas holidays on Friday December 21st. During the last term teachers and pupils enjoyed a social time together. Christmas cards were sent, after which the gifts from the Christmas tree were distributed on the term report cards.

The Principal, Mrs. Sinclair and in a brief address, extended Christmas holiday greetings to the pupils. The school will reopen on Thursday, January 3rd.

The purchase of a [illegible] property for the Continuation School is under consideration by the School Board and Literary Society. Recently the pupils had the pleasure of listening to the complete recording of Gershwin's Rhapsody in Blue. These valuable records were made available through the efforts of Major McCord, Assistant Supervisor of Music for Ontario. Major McCord paid a short visit to the school in November and expects to come again shortly. On his visit, Mr. McCord addressed the pupils. He was a prisoner-of-war in Germany, for some time, and has just been released from military service.

During the month of November the pupils heard the radio broadcasts of Vocational Guidance from the Ontario Department of Education. These were given each Tuesday morning. During the coming term plans are under way to listen to the music of I Pagliacci broadcasted from Toronto.

Two very fine Christmas gifts were presented to the teachers by the pupils. So to Miss Sinclair and the Principal, a handsome mirror and to the Assistant, Miss Mitchell, a pair of very artistically-designed glass bookends.

CANDLELIGHT SERVICE AT GRACE CHURCH

The regular choir of Grace Church directed by Mrs. W. V. Drury, and assisted by a junior choir, led in an impressive candlelight service in Grace United Church on Sunday evening, December 23rd.

The choirs sang several anthems, solos were sung by Miss Mary Knapp, G. F. Smith, Mrs. W. V. Drury, and two trios were sung by G. F. Smith, Earl Morrison and Donald Elliott.

A tableau depicting the Christmas story was portrayed in the chancel by Miss Doreen Hall, Mrs. Drury and Mrs. Leland Lorne Clark, Garnet Leary, Curtis Allen, William Ramsay, Lawrence Osborne and Bruce Hall.

The service was conducted by the minister, Rev. C. D. McLellan, who read appropriate selections of scripture during the programme.

AN ERA

e of 1945 marks the end of an era.
of atomic energy, wh ich has the problem for all mankin d, ushers
ne. What the future has in store generations will know. It is a safe
, however, that the use to be made new power, will depend on t he moral er of those entrusted with its secrets.

The year has closing does not g ive much hope or encouragement that without a change in the attitude of men and women, t he moral character necessary for the construct ive use of atomic energy will be immediately available.
We have just concluded the most de vastating, most calamitous war in all history— a war in which millions were killed, other mill ions were maimed, and untold numbers render ed homeless.
Brutality on an organized mass sc ale, never before attempted, was revealed as th e curtains which had obscured Europe for five y ears, were lifted. Morals were thrown to the w olds, religious ideals and ideas were scoffed a t by ruthless and pagan dictators. The trou t towards secularism and self-satisfying, wh ich marked the pre-war years, reached its clim ax.

This has had a reflex influen ce on people in the victorious nations. Wit h disclplines and restraints imposed duri ng the war removed, the tendency to "let-go" is ir resistable.
The sale of intoxicants has increase d are on the up-grade; juvenile deli nquency, rampant; nudity and gangsterism p revail; marriage — the spiritual and mora l bonds of war.

This has its effect on nations, well as individuals. War creates false stand ards, stirs unnatural emotions and leaves the na tions weak and tired out. Now we must build . Again, we have all the materials with which to build.
Modern science has equipped mankin d with all the instruments to make for univer sal happiness. Already, however, there is obse rvable the scramble for economic advantage, an d nations are sparring for positions of privile ge.

The curtain goes down on a tired- out world facing intricate problems.

There is some gleam of hope ! T he United States is taking a large place in reco nstructing the world. The partial success of th e Conference just concluded in Moscow, is en couraging.
The organization of The United Nati ons Organization which will meet soon, is ho peful. Men in all walks of life are becoming conv inced that only in religion can character, stren gth enough to be trusted with the secrets of aton ic energy be developed. Thus, as we face the New Year, there is hope. But the prospect is one of a world which demands work, sacrifice and above all, devotion and consecration to God and humanity.

NO, SURELY NOT ! !

The Globe and Mail — Toronto's morning paper — which has been kindly disposed towards the liquor interests and whose Fourth columnist, Mr. J. V. McCrea, sees red at the least mention of restraining the flow of liquor, seems to have been aroused from its apathy towards this national menace. In recent issues it has had a rather restrained comment on the traffic. In the Monday issue, however, it gave front page prominence to an article by Ralph Hyman on the relation between the consumption of alcoholic beverages and the increasing sale of liquor. Mr. Hyman gives the situation as it has developed in Toronto. He says:—

"In Toronto, the motor carnage took 91 lives during 1945, an average of one every four days, and 2,859 persons were injured in 4,400 accidents. Eight motorists involved in fatal accidents were found to have been drinking.
Liquor was a factor in 103 cases where persons lost the lives or suffered injuries.

There were 275 motorists involved in all types of ac who had taken one or more drinks bef ing behind the wheel. Not all were dr of them were in that state of mind. Some of them had should be in red as a reminder of the blood spilled in this daily warfare on city streets.

"It is a sordid story of car-driving citizens who killed and crippled and caused property damage because they disregarded ordinary, commonsense rules. They drank and drove, they drove too fast, they failed to grant right of way to pedestrians and other motorists, they disregarded signals.

"Dr. Smirlie Lawson, supervisor coroner for Ontario, believes that about 25 per cent. of Ontario's traffic slaughter is the result of accidents involving liquor."

This is not a very pretty picture, nor are the prospects for the New Year any brighter.
More cars will be on the road and every effort will be made by brewers and distillers to sell more liquor.

The lethargy of public opinion in the light of this situation is hard to understand. Now that newspapers, like The Globe and Mail which to say the least, are not noted for their temperance policies, are aroused over the trend of things, churches and social service organizations can take courage and go on to wipe out this blot on our civilization.

BRUSHING BACK THE TIDE

The old story about King Canute, who believed he was so strong that he could brush back the tide, and actually tried to do so, is not less ridiculous than some of his spiritual descendants who, in one area or another, try to brush back the tide. Even in this country there are these who refuse to see that the Second World War has let loose a tidal wave which threatens to engulf society, if not controlled and channeled into constructive uses. They stand, broom in hand, and keep brushing frantically in the hope that they may succeed where King Canute failed.

One of these is a certain Lewis Milligan who, in recent years, has become the mouthpiece for the reactionary interests in this country. His broom is a press release which he, or those he speaks for, sends regularly to the Weekly Press of Canada. With it he seeks to brush back the tide of social and economic changes which the war has unleashed. The latest effusion from his pen is headed: "Britain feels loss of Churchill." In this release, which he hopes will be published in the papers to which he sends it, he tries to show that Great Britain made a terrible mistake in voting for a Labor Government. He says:—

"There seems to be a growing feeling among people who voted for the Labor Government that they have made a serious mistake. They are realizing what the loss of statesmen like Churchill, Eden and Lord Woolton means in the decline of national and international leadership. Churchill was a tower of strength and inspiration to the British people throughout the war, and the mistake that they made was in assuming that they could now forget all about the war and its international consequences and return at once to internal politics.
They were misled into believing that the nationalization of The Bank of England and of various industries would at once usher in a new era of social security. Churchill did not promise them this, but he did promise practicable reforms and a rebuilding of world trade, and he told them that they must work and sweat as they had done in war if they were to achieve those ends."

The millions of voters who voted for the Labor Government are all wrong; the tide of ballot papers which inundated the Old Order in Great Britain, really was not a tide at all—it was, according to this Canadian oracle, just a little eddy which he can brush back with his little broom.

No, Mr. Milligan ! The Old Country, which showed during the black days of the war, the stuff of which it is made and the keenness of its judgment, can be trusted. The tide of social and economic reform is sweeping Great Britain, and little brooms in the hands of Canadian Canutes, will not stop it.

ENFORCING THE LAW

Attorney General Blackwell has announced that beginning this week, his department will enforce the law against gambling and lotteries.
He is to be congratulated on the stand he has taken, which as our readers well know, has been advocated by this paper, regularly. The law against gambling and lotteries never taken off the statute-books, but during the war it was not enforced. The Department winked at the breaches of the law — because of the necessity of raising funds for the war. While the national emergency may have provided the excuse for such elasticity, yet, in the long run, the failure to apply the law breeds disrespect for all law, and when a government decides which law it is going to enforce and which one it is not going to enforce, the government assumes a power it does not possess. The Department has given warning from now on

INTERNATIONAL SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON, JANUARY 6TH, 1946

GOD'S CONCERN FOR THE OPPRESSED

Lesson Text: Exodus 1: 8-14; 2:23-25

The theme for the Sunday school lessons for the first quarter of this year is "A Nation in the Making." This is an appropriate theme for these times. Our whole world civilization is in a flux. A score of sovereign states lie in ruins. Not only have the buildings in them been destroyed, but the very structure of the social, political and economic organization lies in ruins. It must all be rebuilt. We are beginning now the process of reconstruction. The future well-being of the race will depend in no small measure on the way we build and the quality of the foundation on which the edifice is erected. For this reason there is a timeliness about the quarter's study, which centres around the building of the Hebrew people into a nation.

When under the guidance of Joseph, the Hebrew people moved into Egypt, they were given a section of land by the Pharo, in which they could live, and work. In time Joseph died; the early generation passed. A new pharo came on the throne. The situation changed. The new pharo was afraid of the growing power of the Hebrew people and decided to suppress them. He acted like the modern dictators. He appointed task masters to see that the last ounce of work was squeezed out of the Hebrews, who soon became a downtrodden, suppressed and slave race.

The human spirit, however, does not rest easily under compulsion. Sooner or later it struggles to free itself, and when that struggle takes place there is always difficulty and danger. The people of Korea, for thirty years have been under the heel of Japan. Now they have been freed. An Allied Commission has been appointed to guide the provisional Korean Government until in five years it will be in a position to manage the affairs of state independently. But the Koreans are rioting; they want full independence now. The Hebrew people needed forty years' preparation for self-government. Any group must be trained to govern. Self-government, in our modern world, is not a simple thing.

In the account of the Hebrew people we are told that God listened to their pleas and took account of their groans. God was not unaware of the sufferings through which they were passing. This is one of the most difficult lessons, both to teach and to learn. It is easy to believe that God is blessing us, when we are well and prosperous. It is quite a difficult test of character to believe that when sickness comes, when there is a death in the family, and when poverty or unemployment, become our lot.

It is perfectly true, however, that life is not always a bed of roses for any of us. We all have our ups and downs. God is in the "downs" as well as in the "ups." What an arrogant, selfish, self-satisfied people we would be if life were all peaches and cream. We have our meed of sufferings — have — and one of the graces of achievement of Christian character is to recognize that, and to recognize as well, that God is in the shade as well as in the sunshine.

A recent commentator puts it this way: "Terrible as the oppression to the Israelites in Egypt, it never less stirred them out of their comfortable rest, and made them to risk the bold dash for freedom. Is not that the explanation, in similar times in our own day? Someone said of a great preacher of our day: "What he needs is a heart. If that could happen he would be greater than he is." Life's trials and sorrows are necessary. A good thing to find out how the world's service is and how near our Geshesis may become grievous toil. It all serves to touch on the weak heart, which clings more closely to earth, and to give it the upward reach to God. Any man may count himself blessed if he profits by his sorrows, if they give him the pilgrim's spirit and make him yearn for his Canaan, and forget his Goshen.

CHRISTMAS STORY — 1945 —

BY DOROTHY DUMBRILLE

NOW, when the wars were over, behold there came certain wise men of all nations to meet together, saying:

"We seek, freedom from want, and freedom from fear over all the earth. We must give through our wise judgment these things that man may live in safety and comfort forevermore."

And they set out along a certain road, trying at the end to decide their problems by the help of mind, medicine and science.

And THEY MET by the way a woman, who had lived long and suffered much, but she was very beautiful. And she held in her hand a Book.

"Sirs, whither go ye?"

And they answered: "We are not yet sure of our direction or destination. We are the wise men of the many, who seek the solution of the problems of men."

And SHE SAID sadly, "Behold, all these years have I tried to tell men the way, but they have come by the wrong road, and will not hearken. In this Book I have all the information for which ye seek."

And they marvelled, saying, "Can this woman then know more than the wise men of all nations?"

And she answered, "Sirs, I have lived through many lifetimes of many men."

AND SHE BADE them follow her and led them by another road, and as they walked one of the wise men said unto her: "Our children are being taught wonderful things and are learning that their problems are simple and trusting and weak and have brought them into many wars. They need new ways and new laws which have led them into drunkenness and loose living. Does your wonderful Book then give the solution to this problem?"

And she said gently, "Poor children; their minds have outgrown their souls. We must bring them back, for the happiness they seek is not true happiness."

AND ANOTHER Wise Man said, "We have the secret in our hands wherewith all mankind and his world may be destroyed. Will the wonderful Book show us how to control this great power that we ourselves may not perish by it?"

And she answered him, "All discoveries of nature are the gift of God and must be used to His glory and not to the destruction of His works."

AND SHE LED THEM to a village, between gentle hills and they passed shepherds on the hillside, watching their flocks. But everything fell and it was night and they stopped before a humble cattle shed where a dim lantern shone from a stall and a manger but the manger was empty.

And the wise men were very angry and said among themselves: "Are we then fools to be led along that hard and rocky road when we might have found our own way and found at the answer to our questions?"

AND THE WOM "Unless ye come her ger, and start out f where the Babe of was born, ye will i piness, for this is and we are come Seek ye first the and His righteou of Attorney-General Blackwell has taken action ter, that the matter is ended. The Dominion Cabinet has before it a suggestion from Mr. Saint Laurent, that attorneys-general should be given discretionary powers with respect to the prosecution of alleged violators of the Criminal Code, as it applies to gambling. If this should pass and the criminal code be amended in terms of the suggestion, then Quebec, which has little or no science on these matters, may very well become the 'Irish Sweepstakes' centre for all North America. This will give Canada a rather enviable reputation and is to be avoided at all sts. It is to be hoped that those who have influence at Ottawa, will use their best efforts see that this does not happen.

in war for the continuing benefit of the Canadian people.

"Strength of the Red Cross," said Mr. Urquhart, "lies in its members. Because practically every sixth person, man, woman and child, was a member during the war and stood solidly united within the organization, it was possible for Red Cross to develop its great war undertakings which brought help, comfort, and, in many cases, life itself to our fighting men all over the world. What Red Cross did in war, it can do in peace—providing its membership continues strong and vigorous."

Outpost Hospitals Service will take $600,000 of this. There are 44 Red Cross Outpost and Nursing Stations in operation, a service which brings medical aid and assistance to the farthermost frontier districts of Canada. At these, during the year, some 8,000 patients are treated, 2,083 children are born, 5,288 operations performed 500 clinics held and 18,000 children examined.

One million dollars will be spent for the new Civilian Blood Transfusion Service, designed to provide free blood, serum and plasma for every children examined.

New hospital buildings, including outposts and hospitals for crippled Children will need $900,000.

For work with crippled children and other hospital assistance to needy cases, $430,000 will be spent.

Other services, which include Junior Red Cross, Nutrition, First Aid, Swimming Instructions and Disaster Relief, will need $722,771. Additional expenses and contingencies are estimated at $561,194.

"Wherever there is a need for these and other Red Cross services it is our aim and purpose to provide them — anywhere in Canada — but they can only be provided if Canadian citizens, by their continued membership, give the support necessary for Red Cross to achieve as great a peace as it was privileged to do in war," said Mr. Urquhart.

"Production is vital to the individual and the nation. "Wartime costs must be reversed in peacetime," he declared, "or you increase your indebtedness. In doing this you create inflation. It is necessary to reduce costs to reduce selling prices. More goods are produced and consumed on a lower selling price."

"Export business is essential to Canada's security and progress, and it will take a great effort on our part to maintain a volume of export essential to "a moderate degree of stability and prosperity.

"Our present financial position necessitates a rigid economy," he said. Anyone incapable of self - support should receive adequate assistance, but "in recent years there has been a demand on Government for social service that goes far beyond this condition. That we have been doing and are doing is really subsidizing idleness."

"There always have been periods of unavoidable unemployment," he continued. "They will be recurrent. The only way to mitigate them is through Government, industry and labor working for a common purpose for a greater economy and expansion of trade. This work is not being done. On the contrary, production is being retarded, in some cases entirely suspended, depriving hundreds of thousands of people of work, while our domestic markets are practically depleted of merchandise and industry is sustaining very material losses from the lack of equipment and replacements. These are conditions that Government, industry and labor cannot afford to ignore."

"All wars," he concluded, are destructive." Industrial wars are no exception. As time passes the destruction grows greater. The time has arrived when peace should displace war."

Analyzing the bank's financial statement, Mr. Robert Rea, General Manager, pointed out that the bank neared its 75th anniversary with total assets for the first time exceeded $300,000,000. Profits totalled $1,080,000, after Dominion taxes of $962,000. A balance of $23,000 was added to profit and loss, as against $105,100 the previous year. Deposits by the public totalled $263,854,000, an increase of $29,479,000, and Government deposits $10,867,000, down $2,617,000. Total quick assets were $221,076,000, or 80.18 per cent. of public liabilities as against 77.46 per cent. the previous year. Cash assets of 50,035,000 equalled 19.78 per cent. of liabilities. Investments totalled $163,677,000. Call and short loans in Canada were up $2,471,000, those elsewhere, at $8,408,000, showed little change. Current loans in Canada were $65,421,000. Grain loans were less, but other commercial loans showed a decided increase, total current loans in Canada remaining virtually unchanged.

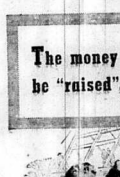
The money has to be "raised", too.

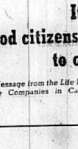


When there's a barn to be raised a man's neighbors . . . sometimes a whole community . . . often pitch in and help him do the heavy end of the work.

And as for the money needed for materials, that, too . . . although few people stop to think about it . . . often comes from co-operation, too.

Four million or more Canadian "neighbors" pool a part of their savings in Life Insurance. Their premiums add up to a huge sum, part of which is available for farm and town mortgages, so that when a farmer, for instance, wants to build, or enlarge, or renovate, he can raise the money readily.

The Life Insurance business is strictly a "neighborly" business . . . a great co-operative enterprise which aims at the protection of the people by the people.



A portion of every dollar invested by the Life Insurance companies helps to finance farmers and town dwellers who occasionally need mortgage loans to realize their ambitions and get ahead. The remainder is invested in government and municipal bonds and other securities under government regulations. Every man who does Life Insurance does more than safeguard the future of his loved ones . . . he also shares in Canada's progress.

It is good citizenship to own LIFE INSURANCE

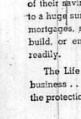
The money has to be "raised", too.

When there's a barn to be raised a man's neighbors . . . sometimes a whole community . . . often pitch in and help him do the heavy end of the work.

And as for the money needed for materials, that, too . . . although few people stop to think what it . . . often comes from co-operation, too.

Four million or more Canadian "neighbors" pool a part of their savings in Life Insurance. Their premiums add up to a huge sum, part of which is available for farm and town mortgages, so that when a farmer, or instance, wants to build, or enlarge, or renovate, he can raise the money readily.

The Life Insurance business is strictly a "neighborly" business . . . a great co-operative enterprise which aims at the protection of the people by the people.



A portion of every dollar invested by the Life Insurance companies helps to finance farmers and ten dwellers who occasionally need mortgage loans to realize their ambitions and get ahead. The remainder is invested in government and municipal bonds and other securities under government regulations. Every man who owns Life Insurance does more than safeguard the future of his loved ones . . . he also shares in Canada's progress.

It is good citizenship to own LIFE INSURANCE

Johnson, who achieved stardom for his work in "Two Girls and a Sailor," "Thirty Seconds Over Tokyo, and "Between Two Women," plays an Army flier on leave after service in the South Pacific. In Loving Memory

BRADSHAW— In loving memory of Hawley Bradshaw, who died January 4th, 1941.

Those whom we love go out of sight
But never out of mind.
They are cherished in the hearts
Of those they leave behind.
A loving thought, a secret tear
Keep the memory ever dear.
Christ will link the broken chain wishes for the New Year. bakers! Most of us look for- o 1546 with great hope, promise strong personal resolve. We for a new year of peace and erity; we have promise of a normal way of life, and are rmined to make up for the war, es and to remember those less unate than ourselves. We think the following recipes will be ful in starting out the new r:

uffins are made from a after ture than tea biscuits. Muffin h is not stiff enough to stand to it is baked in individual pans. You can also cook muf- glass baking cups.

important point in making is to not to stir them too much. he liquids into the dry ingre- just enough to moisten them. you mix muffins too much they ll be tough and coarse-grained and ve tunnels inside and peaks. nobs on the outside. Excessive stir- ing overdevelops the elastic quality f the gluten in flour.

With the standard recipe as a oundation you can make many dif- erent kinds of muffins, raisin or urrant, peach-apice and so on. When u have a bit of jelly or jam left, ake jam muffins.

As soon as the muffins are partly oked, put a teaspoon of jam or lly in the centre of each. Do not move pan from oven and work uickly.

STANDARD MUFFINS

o cups pastry flour, four tea- oons baking powder, half-tea- oon salt, 2 tablespoons sugar. ne cup milk, three tablespoons melted lard, one egg.

ix and sift dry ingredients. Beat g until light, add milk and melted t, and add to flour mixture all at nce. Stir only enough to dampen our. Drop by spoonfuls into greased muffin pans until two-thirds full. ake fifteen to twenty minutes in lectric oven 400 degrees.

Makes twelve muffins.

Oatmeal Muffins

One and one-half cups flour, two tablespoons sugar, four teaspoons aking powder, half-teaspoon of salt, one cup milk, one cup uncooked oatmeal, one egg, well beaten, two tablespoons of melted butter or shortening.

id oatmeal to milk. Mix and bake standard muffins.

three tablespoons butter, short- ing or lard, one-quarter cup of sugar, one egg, well beaten, one cup of molasses, grated rind of one orange, one cup milk, one cup cereal bran, one cup pastry flour, three teaspoons of baking powder, half-teaspoon salt.

Work butter with spoon until soft and creamy. Add sugar gradually, then beaten egg and molasses. Add orange rind, milk and then bran. Let mixture stand for 15 minutes. Sift and measure flour and add to it baking powder and salt. Sift again and add to bran mixture. Fill well greased muffin pans two-thirds full. Bake 25 minutes in moderately hot electric oven (400 deg.). Yield, 12 muffins.

SUGGESTED RECIPES

Fruit Bars

(Mrs. S. T. B. and Mrs. J. C.)

One cup flour, all-purpose, one teaspoon baking powder, one-half teaspoon salt, one cup light brown sugar, one-quarter cup of melted shortening, one tablespoon grated orange rind, two eggs, four cups cranberries, one cup nuts, one-quarter cups citron peel, cut fine.

Sift flour, measure, sift again with baking powder and salt; combine with sugar. Add melted shortening and orange rind to well-beaten eggs; combine with dry ingredients. Put cranberries through coarse grinder, add with peel to first mixture; mix well. Pour into shallow well-greased pan 11 by 7 inches, bake in electric oven (350 deg.) 30 to 40 minutes. Cut in bars while warm. Makes 24 bars.

Snowballs

(Mrs. C. T.)

One cup pastry flour or seven-eighths cup bread flour, pinch of salt, eight tablespoons butter, one tablespoon fine granulated sugar, one teaspoon vanilla, one cup of coarsely chopped nutmeats.

Measure sifted flour and add salt. Cream butter and blend in the sugar; mix in vanilla and the nutmeats. Sift in flour mixture half at a time and combine after each addition. Work in a little additional flour if necessary to make a dough which can be handled between the palms of the hands. Roll in balls about the size of a very small walnut—or if preferred, shape as fingers. Place on an ungreased cookie pan and bake in a slow oven, 300 degrees, about twenty to twenty-five minutes.

THE QUESTION BOX

Mrs. J. M. asks: What makes a lemon filling taste bitter?

Answer: Too much of the white membrane of the lemon may have been grated off or long cooking may have caused the bitterness. Add the rind after mixture is cooked.

Mrs. T. C. says: Dry some stewed pumpkin and squash to make pies during the spring. The vegetable may be spread on shallow pie plates and dried in a slow oven. Store in a small air-tight jar. To use, soak the quantity required overnight in a sealed milk and proceed as usual to make pie filling.

COOKING POULTRY

Whether the bird chosen to grace the Christmas table is a goose, turkey or chicken, it should be a very special one. Since it is to be the centre of attraction when it appears on the Christmas dinner table it must first be as imposing as possible, then cooked to a luscious golden brown. The meat should be tender, yet moist, when cut and the dressing rich and crumbly.

The home economists of the Consumer Section, Dominion Department of Agriculture say there are several points to keep in mind if the results are to be a credit to the cook.

When buying poultry it is easy to distinguish grades by the government grade tag. For roasting, poultry should be plump, well formed but not too fat. Allow three-quarters to one pound dressed weight per person to be served. Dressed weight is the weight of poultry as purchased before it is drawn and it includes the head and feet.

Careful preparation is worth while. Pin feathers should be carefully removed and all hairs singed so that the skin is smooth and clean. If poultry is fat it is well to wash with water in which a little baking soda has been dissolved, but it should then be rinsed and thoroughly dried inside and out. Poultry should never be allowed to soak in water as this causes loss of flavour.

The bread for stuffing is best if three days old. It will then crumble easily. To make even crumbs quickly, remove the crusts and cut each loaf in four pieces, place one piece in a towel and roll between the hands until well crumbled. Then proceed with the remaining portions.

If dressing for poultry is made the day before, time is saved at the last minute.

The stuffing will vary with the type of poultry. The delicate flavour of turkey should not be spoiled with a strongly seasoned stuffing. The more high's seasoned stuffing should be used with goose which has a strong flavour. Before stuffing sprinkle the inside of the bird with salt. Stuff loosely. If the cavity is packed too tightly there is no room allowed for expansion of the dressing and the result is a heavy mass — so allow approximately three-quarters cup of stuffing per pound of turkey—dressed weight.

The way in which a bird is stuffed and trussed makes a great difference in its appearance when served. Fill the neck with sufficient stuffing to give the bird a plump appearance. Fold the neck skin towards the back and fasten with a wing tip. Bring the wings "arms akimbo" fashion. Then place bird on back with legs toward you. Cross drumsticks having legs over bill, to hold stuffing in place. Take a piece of cord about one and a half yards long and place centre of it under the tail. Bring to ends over crossed drumsticks, cross cords and repeat, pulling tightly. Cross cords again and bring up firmly between the drumsticks and the body. Turn bird onto breast and bring cord around wings to centre back so that it holds the lower wing points close to the body. Tie cord securely at back, holding wings and neck in place.

And now, the all important matter of cooking. It must be done to a turn, the acme of perfection to grace the festive board. Place turkey or chicken breast down on a rack in an uncovered pan, and ADD NO WATER. Goose requires slightly different treatment. Rub the outer surface with salt, place breast side up on a rack in the roaster. Add one cup boiling water and cover tightly. Cook about one hour, then, drain off water and fat and continue cooking uncovered. Keep the temperature of the oven at moderately slow or even "s'ow", according to the weight of bird, to brown it evenly but not scorching. It should be cooked until it is tender and done to the bone, but not overcooked.

TURKEY

(Dressed Weight)

8 to 10 lbs. — 300 degrees F.
For 25 minutes per lb.

12 to 16 lbs. — 300 degrees F.
For 20 minutes per lb.

16 to 25 lbs — 300 degrees F.
for 18 to 20 minutes per lb.

DUCK

(Dressed Weight)

3 to 8 lbs. — 325 degrees F.
For 20 to 25 minutes per lb.

GOOSE

(Dressed Weight)

10 to 12 lbs. — 325 degrees F.
For 20 to 25 minutes per lb.

These are approximate times, as the size, shape and weight of the bird, as well as the personal preference are factors to be considered.

Further information on poultry is given in the bulletin, POULTRY GUIDE, which is obtainable free of charge from the Department of Agriculture, Ottawa.

WEDDING BELLS

BURDETT — MAUNDER

A quiet winter wedding was solemnized at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Maunder, Pearl Street, when the Rev. C. D. McLellan united in marriage Betty, elder daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William Maunder, Napanee, to Douglas E. Burdett, B. Sc., son of Mrs. and the late Mr. G. Burcett, of Stratford.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, Corpl. William Maunder looked charming in a street-length two-piece dress of beige wool, and wore a corsage of red roses. The bride was attended by her sister, Mis Mary Maunder, who wore a pale green wool dress, with black accessories and a corsage of red roses.

The groom was attended by LAC Stephen Lackuk, of Toronto. The groom is a graduat of Queen's University.

The guests were received by the bride's mother. Following the reception, the bride and groom left for Toronto and points west. Later the young coupl will re side in Deloro.

BATH W. A.

The Woman's Association meeting of the Bath United Church was held at the home of Mrs. Hamilton as "The Parsonage." The president, Mrs. A. Sams, opened the meeting with the singing of the Christmas hymn. Miss Mary Davy took charge of the devotional service. The Christmas story was read by Mrs. R. J. Galt. A paper, "The Meaning of Christmas," was read by Miss Davy. Mrs. Robinson sang. A verse was read by Mrs. Everett Galt. The singing of a Christmas hymn brought this part of the meeting to a close.

The secretary's and treasurer's reports were given. The money was taken from the travelling apron, the Cent-a-Day money for 1945 was added to the treasury, also the money from the sale of Christmas cards. After all expenses were met, the report showed a balance was on hand at the end of the year.

Rev. M. Robinson called for the election of officers for the coming year. It was moved, seconded and carried that the same officers remain another year. They were congratulated on the work carried on in the past year.

MOUNT PLEASANT PIONEER W.I.

On Thursday afternoon, December 13th, the Mount Pleasant Pioneer W. I. met at the home of Mrs. Garnet Dupre with the president in charge of the meeting, which opened with the ode, followed by the Institute creed. As the November meeting had been in the form of a pot luck supper, rather than a regular meeting, there was a considerable amount of correspondence to be read and business dealt with. It was decided that the Institute buy $2 worth of tickets on the doll blanket raffled by the Hospital Aid Group. It was also decided to donate the use of the hall to the Mount Pleasant School for their Christmas concert. Plans were made for a party to be held at the hall, with Mrs. Hudson as convener. The secretary, Mrs. C. Nugent, was instructed to send a gift to a service man who is still on duty overseas, and also to send Christmas cards to several shut-ins.

At the conclusion of the business part of the meeting, all joined in singing Christmas carols from the new Institute song books. Mrs. Stafford then gave the report of the convention held in Kingston in November. Appropriate Christmas readings were given by Mrs. Henderson and Mrs. Hart. Two Christmas contests were conducted by Mrs. Ross Oliver and Mrs. F. Henderson, the lucky winner being Mrs. Dupre.

At the conclusion of the meeting lunch was served and a vote of thanks was extended to the hostess for her kind hospitality.

COLD WEATHER PUDDINGS

Frosty winter days call for hot desserts. If the pudding has a rich spicy flavour, is economical and also easy to prepare, it always meets with the approval of busy homemakers. Steamed and baked puddings have all these advantages. Steamed puddings have sometimes been considered bothersome on account of the special utensils required, but modern methods of steaming in a double boiler or in a pan in the oven, overcome the difficulties.

The home economists of the Consumer Section, Dominion Department of Agriculture, Ottawa, suggest three puddings to round out cold weather meals, and they throw in a new pudding sauce for good measure.

CRANBERRY PUDDING

Two cups cranberries, one-quarter cup brown sugar, half-cup of molasses, half-cup boiling water, half-teaspoon salt, two teaspoons baking soda, one and one-half cups all-purpose flour.

Wash and halve cranberries. Add the sugar and molasses. Let stand for one hour. Add boiling water. Sift salt and baking soda with flour and add to other mixture. Beat well. Pour into greased custard cups. Set cups in a pan of hot water. Cover and bake in a moderate oven, 350 deg. F. for one hour. Serve with pudding sauce. Six servings.

CHOCOLATE BATTER PUDDING

One -quarter cup mild-flavoured fat, two-thirds cup brown sugar, one egg, one teaspoon vanilla, one cup plus two tablespoons of sifted all-purpose flour — OR — one and one-quarter cups sifted pastry flour, two teaspoons baking powder, one-quarter teaspoon salt, one-quarter cup cocoa, two-thirds cup of milk.

Cream fat well, add sugar and cream well together. Add well-beaten egg and vanilla. Mix and sift dry ingredients, add alternately with the milk and beat thoroughly. Bake in a deep square pan in moderate oven, 375 deg. F., for 40 to 45 minutes. Cut into squares and serve with jelly sauce. Eight servings.

JELLY SAUCE

Half-cup jelly (crabapple, red currant or plum) one cup boiling water, one and one-half tablespoons cornstarch, two tablespoons cold water, pinch of salt, one teaspoon lemon juice, one tablespoon butter (optional).

Melt jelly in boiling water. Stir over low heat until melted. Blend cornstarch and cold water to a smooth paste. Add gradually to jelly. Cook over low heat, stirring constantly until clear and thickened, about five minutes. Add salt and lemon juice and butter if desired. Yield: one and one-half cups sauce.

A REDISCOVERED ART

Modern cement-making is an industry, really an art, which was lost for ages but rediscovered in the middle of the 18th century by the famous Scottish engineer, Smeaton, who built the first Eddystone Lighthouse that withstood the stress of wind and sea.

The Egyptians, the Carthaginians and the Romans all knew about cement and used it. The Pyramids are a proof of this fact. When the glory of Rome faded, cement-making seems to have vanished utterly, and later builders were nonplussed when it came to duplicating the enduring structures of the ancient architects. But Smeaton, looking for some substitute for lime mortar which set hard under water, hit upon it by burning impure limestone mixed with clay. Portland cement first appeared in 1824. An English stone mason, Joseph Aspdin, made it. His cement was called Portland because it bore a fancied resemblance to building stone quarried on the Isle of Portland.

A new Canadian five-cent piece, made of nickel instead of steel, will be issued in 1946. The new coin will be 12-sided and similar in other respects to existing five-cent pieces. It will be issued and accepted in addition to the copper-colored nickels turned out in 1942 and the steel coins made in 1943.

It is estimated that the United States has lost fifty million acres of land by erosion, and another fifty million is land condition through the same cause.

A STATEMENT BY THE HON. C. D. HOWE...

In his official statement, Mr. Howe stresses that lifting of tire rationing does not mean that present stocks are such that all demands can be met immediately. "Production is picking up steadily, and if the tire-buying public will continue to co-operate during the first stages, by ordering tires only when really needed, I am confident that normal conditions will be rapidly restored," the minister said.

Remember . . . when you buy tires you are making a long-time investment in mileage, safety and depend-ability . . . make sure of the best . . .

GOODYEAR

ed for new tires is urgent, your Goodyear dealer may be able nder right away. If not, he will get tires for you as quickly as possible. See him today!

A Thank-You Letter to our Suppliers
Dear Friends:
It seemed to us that, as business resumes a more normal aspect, this would be a particularly happy time for us to make some public expression of appreciation to our suppliers for their splendid co-operation in the past difficult years.
You had many problems: Most of you tried to maintain some civilian production along with the production of war necessities and labour, while the perplexities and embarrassments of a fair distribution of limited supplies was an added concern. We think you did an outstanding job.
On behalf of our customers, our buyers and our entire Canada-wide organization, we wish you a good New Year with the hope that the same spirit of helpfulness will mark our relationship in the days ahead.
Sincerely,
President

DORLAND

Dorland, Dec. 29. — Christmas has come and gone once more, and, while quite a number of families had the pleasure of their absent ones once more, it proved a rather dismal day, heavy clouds from the Bessemer Mountains and Georgian, travelling conditions were so bad some gave up and stayed at home, others who went all day, were unable to return until the next day. Heavy ice forced the Glenora Ferry to cease operating on Friday, which also upset a number of proposed family parties.

The regular W. A. to United Church Sunday School enjoyed a lively party which included a Christmas tree, on Friday evening.

Rev. H. G. Steers delivered a special Christmas message on Sunday morning, taking as his text, "A Little Child Shall Lead Them". The choir assisted in the Christmas music.

Mr. and Mrs. James Gallagher received a pre-Christmas present of a baby girl.

Quite an excitement was created on Sunday afternoon when the top of a car was noticed just above the ice in Hay Bay, near the Finlay camp. It proved to belong to Mr. Donald Reynolds, and had settled in slowly giving him time to get out. It was not far from shore, and was recovered safely.

The storm on Christmas Day caused considerable inconvenience in this district, as all Hydro power went off between 3:00 and 4:00 o'clock in the afternoon and did not come on again until about 10:00 o'clock on Wednesday morning, except on the Hay Bay line, where it was only off between 6:00 and 9:00 o'clock on Tuesday evening. A number of people had only a meagre supply of coal oil and empty water tanks, and milking by hand in the dark rather spoiled the holiday feeling.

An interesting meeting of the Y. P. U. was held at the home of Mr. and Mrs. H. John on Friday evening, with Miss Margaret Remington in charge. Miss Robinson offered her home for the next meeting.

The trip net poles, which were frozen in the ice in Hay Bay, were removed on Friday.

thence to Glengarry, and the rest ere moved to the South, arriving in Philadelphia. After great hard- ship, disease and finally fire in Phi- ladelphia, that pathetic travelled across the treacherous ice off Lake St. Francis to join their kin at a point which came to be known as St. Raphaels, in honour of the day of arrival.

During the war of 1812, the cam- paigns were fought at considerable personal sacrifice to the members of the regiment who, for the most part, were farmers. In the spring of 1813, an order was issued dismissing the right half of at least one of the bat- talions for the purpose of going home to do the plowing and seeding for the remainder.

These battles of the war of 1812 read like a book of Canadian history in the records of the regiment, from the capture of Detroit early in the campaign to the Expulsion of Me- Arthur's Brigands on 22nd October, 1814. In between these were the battles of New York, Fort George, Chrysler's Farm, Chateauguay, Oswe- go, and the capture of Ogdensburg led by Major Red George Macdonell who led the regiment over the ice in a charge flanked by a Protestant padre on one side and a Roman Catholic padre on the other.

Until the rebellion of 1837 in Up- per Canada the Militia was allowed to fall apart, but in this crisis vol- unteers under permanent force of- ficers and NCO's were mobilized and saw service in Lower Canada — the 1st Battalion at St. Philippe and the 2nd at Napierville. A note in the Montreal Herald of 2 March 1838 reads:

One regiment of Glengarry High- landers, under command of Lt.-Col. Alexander Fraser, arrived in town yesterday from St. Philippe and created quite a sensation as they marched through the streets to the martial music of the soul stirring bagpipes. They mustered about 100 strong and were generally considered as fine and efficient a body of vol- unteers as could be produced in the province. In May the 2nd or Lancaster Regiment returned and also received high praise from the Montreal press. Again the Volunteer militia was allowed to lapse.

In 1862, largely as a result of the Trent Affair the previous year, two rifle companies were formed which were to be the nucleus of the 59th Stormont and Glengarry Battalion. From this point on, the history of the regiment is similar to many others' Lt.-Col. Darby Bergin, M.D., com- manded the regiment from 1868 to 1896 and it was he who was entrusted with the formation of a medical service for the militia at the time of the Northwest Rebellion with the rank of Surgeon General, thus practi- cally starting the RCAMC. He was a late a Member of Parliament. Lt.- Col. R. Smith took over in 1897 and later became Lt.-Col. the Hon. Mr. Justice Smith, of the Supreme Court of Canada.

The regiment, in 1910, passed to the command of Lt.-Col. A. G. F. Macdonald, after having furnished units which fought in the Rebellion and the Boer War. A similar fate be- fell the unit in the First Great War when, after mobilizing the 154th Battalion, it was broken up in Eng- land to supply reinforcements for the Canadian Corps.

In 1922 the Regiment was again reorganized and given its present name under Lt.-Col. W. H. Magwood, carrying out routine NPAM drilling each year until in 1939 the unit was called out to guard the St. Law- rence Canal. When this task was taken over by the Veterans' Guard the mobilized men for the most pa, went to other units, and the re- mainder returned to civilian life for a short time.

On 18th June, 1940, the SDG High- landers together with the Prince of Wales Rangers (Peterborough), the the Princess of Wales Own Regiment (Kingston) and the Brockville Rifles were ordered to mobilize as a com- posite battalion and to become a member of the 9th Highland Bri- gade, 3rd Canadian Infantry Division.

The Battalion was first command- ed by Lt.-Col. W. J. Franklin, of Ottawa, with as second in command Col. R.T.E. Hicks-Lyne, M.C., who reverted to the rank of Major. Other senior officers were Majors James Turnbull, A. R. McNabb, H. G. Ma- son, of Peterborough; Major E. Cockburn, of Kingston, and Major Don. Lewis, of Brockville.

Before sailing for England, 21st June, 1941, Lt.-Col. Franklin was forced to relinquish his command due to category and was replaced by Lt.-Col. Hicks-Lyne. Major Chas. Beattie, Brockville, replaced Major Turnbull and Major G. H. Christi- ansen replaced Major Lewis.

In common with most other Can- adian units their long period of wait- ing and training in England took them all over the country and a list of the places the battalion was sta- tioned and trained would read like a road map with the county of Sus- sex predominating. Landing at Avonmouth, Bristol, the Battalion moved to Aldershot for a few months before moving to Camberley near the end of the year, they spent until April between Middleton-on-Sea, the Selsey Peninsula, and Chichester. At Grays Wood, East Hoathley, RSM Bill Piercy, who had been with the unit since mobilization, left and was replaced by R. S. M. Fred Lockhart, later to win the M.M. In September of 1942 the unit went to Redhasp in Scotland for the second of its com- bined operation tours, returning to Bonnyrmouth for some more on the South coast. From the Bartin Stacey Camp north of Winchester, the unit moved to Portsmouth to await brief- ing for the D-Day assault.

On D-Day Lt.-Col. Christiansen was in command, with Major A. M. Ham- ilton his second in command; Capt. S. P. Lafontaine, Adjt.; Capt. W. A. Curtis, Q.M.; H.Capt. T. Brain, Padre; and as company commanders Major F. A. Fisher, Major N. M. Gemmell, Major A. D. MacDonald, Major F. W. Lander, Capt. D. A. Scott.

JUST ABSURD

Going his round during the blackout, the corporal of the guard was horrified—but not struck dumb!—to find sentry pacing methodically against a garden wall.

"Hi, you!" he roared. "Why are you marching up and down?"

"Sorry, corp!" replied the sentry. "The absurdity of it all suddenly overcame me."

DREW PRESENTS COUNTER PROPOSALS ON TAX ISSUES

Proposes Setting Up National Adjustment Fund for Provinces

Ontario's proposals to the Dominion -Provincial Conference emphasize the need for close and continuing administrative association between the governments. They insist that the combined efficiency of the Federal System in Canada can be best assured if the provinces have real fiscal autonomy. The Ontario proposals therefore submit that the Dominion Government share with the provinces the fields of personal income and corporation tax in strict accordance with the undertaking contained in the tax agreements of March, 1942, which transferred the power to the Dominion Government for the war period. The Ontario Government also contends that the Dominion Government should entirely vacate the following tax fields: succession duties; gasoline; amusement; race - track, pari - mutuels; security transfers; and electricity. They agree with the Dominion proposals that local priority be recognized in taxation on mining and logging operations. It is pointed out that Ontario's proposals add no expense to the taxpayer but, on the contrary, place taxation under closer public supervision. In the fields of dual taxation, the Ontario proposals recommend that uniform tax laws across Canada, with single tax forms issued by the Dominion Government and central collection of income taxes and corporation taxes.

Important amongst the Ontario proposals is the setting up of a National Adjustment Fund, created by contributions from all the provinces out of their own taxes. This fund would be made up of a contribution of ten per cent of the provincial corporation taxes, personal income taxes, and succession duties. The fund in the early stages would amount to $20,000,000 and would increase proportionately as time went on. This fund would be paid out each year to those provinces requiring assistance to bring up their standards to a basis agreed upon by the Dominion - Provincial Co-ordinating Committee which would represent all the governments. After a full examination and report by the Dominion - Provincial Economic Board, this proposal carries out one of the main ideas of the Royal Commission Report on Dominion - Provincial Relations in 1940, and the amount suggested is larger than was recommended at that time.

Another very important proposal is the adjustment of succession duty payments to permit all provinces to share the advantage of uniform legislation. There is also proposals for the equalization of corporation taxes, which are directed toward an elimination of the critisms, of the advantages possessed by the larger provinces through the centralization of head offices of large companies in those provinces.

Ontario urges the permanent establishment of a Dominion-Provincial Economic Board and a Dominion-Provincial Co-ordinating Committee. Basing its proposals largely on the effectiveness of close functional cooperation between the governments, its proposals tie in with the existence of these two Boards. The Co-ordinating Committee would be made up of the Prime Ministers of the ten governments, or their appointees, and the Economic Board would be made up of economic experts of ministerial or other level, at the wish of the governments, from time to time.

The Provincial Government approves of the general principle of timing public investments; of the health services, and of the other broad proposals. It is pointed out, however, that there are many subjects to be discussed and that these still call for continuing consultation and co-operation which can best be provided by the inter-governmental bodies named. In the field of public welfare the Provincial Government recommends the payment of old age pensions to all over 70 without a means test, instead of all over 70 without a means test as recommended by the Dominion Government.

The Ontario proposals urge immediate examination of the whole problem of public health services.

It is also immpressed upon the Dominion Government in the Ontario proposals that the economic strength of the whole nation and the ability of all governments to carry out their duties depend very largely upon our export business, and it is urged that there be the most complete co-operation by all governments and all individuals in meetings the demands of this vitally important part of our national economy.

MAYOR GEO. CHALK OUTLINES PROGRAMME AT COUNCIL INAUGURAL

1945 Council Holds Final Session Preceding Inaugural

The inaugural meeting of the 1946 Council for the Town of Napanee was held at 11:00 a.m. on Monday, January 7th. Dr. D. R. Hall, who had been Mayor for six years, presided at the last session of the 1945 Council and on vacating the chair he introduced the new Mayor and expressed his best wishes for success for the new Council.

Rev. Noble Hatton, minister of Trinity United Church, was present and, in a short address, referred to the duty of the Members of the Council to serve the whole community and to forget sectional or partisan interests. He spoke of the difficulties which will face the 1946 Council as the result of the unsettled conditions following the war, and the part the Council has in helping to promote stability and rehabilitation.

The Mayor, George S. Chalk, outlined the work of the Council in his inaugural address, which follows:

Gentlemen of the Council:

You have been severally installed as members of the Council for 1946 and I wish to congratulate you all upon your election, and I believe that we have a strong and vigorous personnel with several new faces, new to municipal life, which should give new energy and view-point to the various municipal problems with which we may be faced during the coming year.

The question of extending sewers from Bridge Street to the Napanee Collegiate Institute, on the Belleville Road, and sewer services covering the adjacent area, including Thomas St. to the westerly limits of the Town, should early consideration and an Engineer should be brought in at an early date to plan this extension, so that the work could be carried out during the present year. Steps should be taken to ascertain if some Dominion and Provincial assistance can be secured to carry out this project as a post-war project.

The Town Hall has been used during the past year for dances and other gatherings more than ever before. The heating plant is not satisfactory and it has been found almost impossible to heat the auditorium during the winter months. The stairway and that part of the hall leading to the basement is undoubtedly a serious fire hazard and it has been found necessary during the past year to exclude the public from this part of the hall when large gatherings are taking place. The wear and tear on the Town Hall, through its constant use and the additional caretaking, would appear to warrant an increase in the rental charged for the hall, and I would recommend that the Town Property Committee take these matters into consideration and report to Council by the first of February.

The rules of procedure to be followed at Council meetings are set out in the by-law which is placed upon your several desks, from which you will note that the order of business is taken up in regular form and general provision is made in this by-law for the conduct of proceedings.

There is one important matter left over from last year, namely, replacing the swing bridge. In the Fall of 1944 the matter of replacing this bridge was discussed with the Department of Public Highways of this Province of Ontario, and the County Council, and at that time an agreement was reached that the County should take over the bridge, the Department of Public Highways to assume 75 Per Cent. of the costs, and the balance to be divided equally between the County and the Town, and the County actually prepared and gave two readings to the by-law taking over the bridge and it was sent to the Department of Highways for approval, but by reason of some difficulty in the by-law, the matter could not be approved in the form in which the by-law was made, with the consequence that the matter went over into the next year. I will cause to be placed before you the correspondence and all other matters pertaining to our negotiations in respect to this bridge, so that you will have a correct picture of the whole situation. The matter of replacing this bridge is and has been urgent, and I wish to express a hope and expectation that a satisfactory arrangement will be made with the County very early this year.

It has been the practice of the municipality for several years, to prepare their estimates of Revenue and Expenditure for the calendar year, incorporating in the expenditures the requisitions from the County of Lennox and Addington for our share of the County expenditures, and the requisitions from the Public and High School and Vocational School estimates. The by-law will be prepared and the tax-rate for the year will be levied. This must be done early for the reason that our tax payment by-law provides for taxes being paid in four instalments, the first instalment to be paid in April. As it takes some time to prepare the tax bills, it is very important that the by-law striking the rate shall be passed during the month of February.

I would like to point out also, that the Town expenditures are mostly fixed and uncontrollable, that is to say, the amounts payable to the County and to the School Board, and the payment of principal and interest upon debentures, the fire and liability insurance, the salaries of all the several officers and employees, and the remaining expenditures allocated to the several standing committees, remain pretty well fixed, the appropriation to the Streets Committee for roads and for fire protection being the largest of the appropriations for standing committees. May I point out that once the estimates are struck no committee should overexpend its appropriation except in an actual emergency and only then on approval of the Council. The treasurer reports to the Council, at the end of each month, the exact amount having been expended by the several committees. also setting out what the appropriation for the year is, and I would suggest that the members of the Council follow these reports carefully so that they may know at all times exactly where they stand.

I would recommend that duplicate order books be secured and furnished to all employees who purchase supplies which are charged to the Town. These order slips would show what supplies are purchased, the cost of same and for what purpose such supplies are used. When a purchase is made, one copy would be handed to the party from whom the goods were purchased and when an account is rendered to the Town these order slips should be attached to the account so that the Council will be informed at all times as to such expenditures.

For several years our secondary roads have been neglected and steps should be taken during the coming year to correct this situation. Each standing committee has a chairman and the Chairman should, in all matters of importance, call his committee together and report to the Council with recommendations, but in the meantime, in order that the estimates may be prepared, I would ask that the several Chairmen of the Committees confer with the Treasurer for the purpose of fixing the amount to be set aside for each committee, these amounts to be in

SWING BRIDGE PROBLEM AGAIN CONSIDERED BY NAPANEE COUNCIL

Special Session to be Held Friday Night

At the first regular meeting of the 1946 Council of the Town of Napanee, held on Monday evening, January 7th, it was decided to hold a special meeting of the Council on Friday evening, January 11th, to consider the question of the Swing Bridge over the Napanee River on Dundas Street. A motion was moved by Councillors Vine and Deputy-Reeve Holmes, that the Town accept the County's proposal that the bridge be built on a payment basis of: Province 75 Per Cent., the County, 10 Per Cent; the Town, 15 Per Cent. and that the Town zone the district east of the bridge and assume all damage responsibility. In view of the fact that there are several new members in the 1946 Council who might not be familiar with all the details in connection with the negotiations for the building of the bridge, an amendment to Messrs. Vine's and Holmes' motion was passed that a special meeting of the Council be held when all the correspondence regarding the bridge could be considered.

A letter was read from Geo. C. Wright, Kingston, confirming his telephone message the evening of the last meeting of the 1945 Council when he declined to make another survey of the swing bridge. In his letter he stated that no temporary repairs would, in his opinion, make the bridge safe for traffic. Another letter was also read from Gore & Storey, Consulting Engineers, Toronto, in which they stated they were unable to take any new work at the present time and could not therefore come to Napanee to make an examination of the bridge.

Two additional committees were added to the Standing Committee of the Council — namely a Youth Committee and a Special Wood Committee. Councillor Webster and Councillor Carney sponsored the formation of the Youth Committee, which is to deal with matters pertaining to the social and recreation of the youth of Napanee. The committee is to be headed by Councillor Webster and will have as its other members, Councillors Rogers and Moore and Deputy-Reeve Holmes. The Special Wood Committee is composed of Deputy-Reeve Holmes and Reeve Robson.

The formation of a Council Rehabilitation Committee was left over until the next meeting of the Council.

Mr. and Mrs. Bert Raymond appeared before the Council to ask that some action be taken to prevent dog kennels being operated in the town of Napanee. They complained in particular of the keeping of dogs by Mr. W. Fulton, who resides in the north half of the house they occupy at the corner of Bridge and Robert Streets. Mr. and Mrs. Raymond were advised by the Council that they could take legal action themselves if they considered a nuisance was being created, and that the Council had not authority to take action.

NOT BORN YESTERDAY

Right Honorable Herbert Morrison, second in command of the Labor Government, has been visiting this country. A certain type of newspaper has tried to make capital out of that visit by linking him up with the C.C.F.. In spite of the fact that Mr. Morrison, right on the start announced that his visits had no political significance, the reporters continued to pursue their tactics until finally, the distinguished visitor had to take them to task for it.

At a Press interview in Montreal, Monday, some reporter asked Mr. Morrison's opinion on the political future of the C. C. F., and Mr. Morrison replied: "You shouldn't do that sort of thing you know. It's only making mischief, and I wasn't born yesterday."

He said he had already stated that his visit to Canada was not made with the intention of seeing more of one political party than another or of influencing Canadian politics in any way. He deplored the writing of stories or "leading articles" stating or hinting anything to the contrary.

No one had accused him of putting in a plug for the Liberals or the Progressive Conservatives from the mere fact that he had had long talks with members of these parties.

"Only today," he said, "I had a long talk with Mr. John Bracken. Why don't you write a leading article about that?"

This was a well deserved rebuke to the man who asked the question. But it is unfortunate that a visitor to our country should be provoked into making such a report. Visitors at least deserve to be treated courteously, even by newspaper reporters, and not put in the embarrassing position of having to ask the Press for a fair deal.

s in every other Autumn, there umors and prognostications. It was going to be a tough ,hard winter — the squirrels were hiding nuts, the bees were storing honey, the leaves were turning red, or yellow, or something. It was going to be a hard winter! It is strange how soon we forget the prophesies of those who peer into the future. It seems as though it is part of human nature to want to know what is going to happen before it happens, and people have actually been known to pay a tea cup reader or crystal gazer, or card manipulator, for such information as could be gleaned from these devices. We apparently all like to be fooled a bit, and it is a sort of innocent pastime, and provides some people with a bit of pin money.

But, to get back to the weather! It is pretty hard on the prophets these days. Although, perhaps, it is a bit too soon to holler. There are stories floating around about bees being seen, butterflies fluttering, trees being tapped, rivers breaking up, and all the rest. Well, we were in Buffalo a while ago and ran into six feet of snow, so perhaps it might be well not to bank, too much, on the "signs of Spring." We still have a lot of January left and then there is February and March and perhaps April and May. Didn't we have the furnace on until June, last year? Anyway, we are not going to join the prophets; we will just enjoy each day as it comes—particularly the warm ones.

UPSETTING THE APPLE CART

Ontario can always be depended on to upset the apple cart, when Dominion-Provincial relations are concerned. When the Liberal Government was in power, the then Premier Hepburn wrecked the whole Dominion-Provincial negotiations. It was to be expected of Mr. Hepburn. His actions were erratic and unpredictable. It was hoped that, with a change of government in Ontario, co-operation between the Dominion and the Provinces would be more readily achieved. For Ontario is the wealthiest and most economically powerful Province in the Dominion, and the other Provinces naturally look to her for leadership. However, the attitude of the Ontario Government, to-day, is little different from what it was in Mr. Hepburn's time. This is a rather distressing reflection on the situation. For the post-war problems are upon us. We need a settled policy at once, if this country is to go forward to its task and its opportunity.

It will be remembered that at the first of the present Dominion-Provincial meetings, the Dominion Government made several specific propositions, the chief of which were that the Dominion Government should retain for itself the sole right to collect personal income taxes, corporation taxes, and succession duties. In consideration to the Provinces for relinquishing all claims to these taxes, the Dominion Government would make substantial grants to the Provinces. To the onlooker and the man who has to pay the taxes, that seemed like a sensible proposal.

Premier Drew's proposal now is to restore the double system of taxation. The Provinces and the Dominion, it is suggested, should share personal income and corporation tax fields. The Dominion Government should then withdraw from succession duties, gasoline, amusement, race track, security transfers, and electricity fields of taxation.

The suggestion is also made that the Province should contribute Ten Per Cent. of the collected taxes to a fund, which would be used to help those Provinces which are unable to maintain a sufficiently high level of social services.

There are a lot of things besides this in the Drew suggestions. The main argument, we judge, for pressing the adoption of these suggestions is that the right of Provancial taxation should be firmly established. As a principle, that may be the thing to do. But, as taxpayers, we are not particularly concerned as to whether we pay to two parties or to one, except that the probability is that if we have to pay to two, the tax bill is likely to go up. More serious, however, is the danger that this proposition will be unacceptable to other provinces and to the Dominion.

If that turns out to be the situation, we will have another period of uncertainty and it donothingness.

the Germans and are treated as such. They get much better rations than the German civilian population. Whereas the automatic official reaction towards any unknown German has been suspicion the automatic official reaction towards an unknown D.P. has been sympathy. The friendly feeling towards the Displaced Persons is passing.

These wards of the Allies are becoming increasingly a problem to those who are charged with maintaining order. The number of cases of looting of raids on stores of formation of civilians is increasing. At first, officials were apt to regard this phenomenon with resignation, as the inevitable swinging back of the pendulum: the Germans had mistreated and abused these people, and it was natural that in their bitterness, they should retaliate against individual Germans now that they were able.

But if the disorderly acts of the displaced persons were motivated by the taking of revenge once the awful repression which had been exercised over them was lifted, they should have decreased as the memory of the past receded. On the contrary, they are becoming bolder. The depredations are more common and their violence more serious.

The situation poses a delicate problem for Allied administrators. They can hardly permit this lawlessness to go unchecked. Yet if they use stern measures against the persons whom they, world readers as DP victims of Naziism, they will find themselves under attack from the dirigent humanitarians. As a result, they close their eyes to what is going on or take only mild and ineffective measures.

But their disgust at the conduct of the D.P.'s results in disillusionment with the Allies whose representatives they consider the disorderly D.P.'s to be. Officers and enlisted men find themselves sympathizing with the Germans who are victims of the D.P.'s and despising the Allied nationals who are so misconducting themselves. From the particular they arrive at the general and find they like the Germans better than the French or Belgians or Poles or other nations represented among the D. P.'s. It is a tendency which has also been provoked by a variety of other reasons and has already been noticed, often with alarm, by thoughtful observers of the opinions of the occupation forces.

It is highly unjust to hold the Allies responsible for the sins of the D.P.'s and give sympathy to the enemy because of it, for the truth of the present situation is not generally understood even by many of the administrative officers planted with it. is that it is not pro-Allies but pro-Nazis who are making the trouble.

There were two categories of foreign laborers in Germany. There were the real victims, who were forced by various kinds of coercion to work in German war factories, and there were the recruits, who went of their own free will either out of enthusiasm for the Nazi cause or because they thought they saw an advantage to themselves in taking jobs in Germany, and refused to let patriotic considerations deter them from pursuing their own selfish advantage to the benefit of the enemy.

Most of the forced laborers have gone home. Their one wish was to get out of Germany and return to their native towns and villages as quickly as they could. Thousands of them did not wait for the slow official organization of transportation to their home countries, but plodded back over the roads often at the price of considerable hardship.

But the willing volunteers, the ones whose neighbors knew that they had served the enemy of their own free will, have not return to the punishment they knew they would face at home. As those who can return and want to return have left Germany, the D.P.'s have been reduced to a group in which a very large proportion, perhaps a majority, are those who cannot return or dare not return for fear of the reception which would await them. These are the troublemakers with whom the Allied administrators have had to deal. Their misdeeds should be charged, not to the countries from which they came, but to the country to whose fortunes they voluntarily attached their own—Germany.

The source of this report is an officer recently returned from Germany, whose position and experience and background had fitted him better than the average foreign official to comprehend the situation. His recommendation is a screening of the remaining D.P.'s whose records can easily be established by referring to their places of origin and the adoption thereafter of different standards of treatment for those who are victims of the Nazis and those who were their accomplices.

REVELATIONS AT NUERNBERG TRIALS

BY WAVERLEY ROOT

If the testimony which Erwin Lahousen of the German intelligence service gave at the Nuernberg trial on the role played by his superior, Admiral Wilhelm Canaris is to be taken at its face value, it throws an interesting light on a still unsolved mystery — how did General Henri Honore Giraud escape from the German prison camp of Koenigstein?

My own opinion, expressed in "The Secret History of the War" is that the most likely explanation is that Giraud was allowed to escape by the Germans in order to insure the assassination of Frances of their ideological friends instead of the de Gaullists. This has seemed all the more likely because the end of the war, which has caused so many underground exploits to be revealed, has not brought out any account of Giraud's escape. Its nature does not seem to have been of a kind for which anyone wants to claim credit.

If Giraud was allowed to escape by the Germans, that would not mean that German leaders as a whole had decided upon this ruse. More probably a single group determined upon it and carried it out on its own initiative. It might have been the Nazis, or the Reichswehr, or the industrialists, or, perhaps, Admiral Canaris' intelligence service.

The fact that one group of Germans may have engineered an escape which other Germans would regard with disapproval would account for such passages as the apparent German attempt of Vichy France to return Giraud — and the failure to get him back in spite of the strangulation of Vichy with cloth to honor Canaris with an appearance of courtesy. If Canaris had been right, he would have been likely to have attributed to him the saving of rather than the attempt to murder, and the two be selected. His statement, therefore, causes these questions to

GOD'S DELIVERANCE OF THE OPPRESSED

Lesson Text: Exodus 6: 6-8; 12: 17-22

The children of Israel during their stay in Egypt, which lasted probably a couple of hundred years, had become a subject people. They were indeed worse than even that, they were a slave race. They were under the task master. They had to work with a slave driver standing over them, ready at any moment to pounce on them, beat them up and drive them with the whip. Naturally they chafed under the treatment and longed for freedom. And yet their spirits had been broken; they had developed a slave mentality. They had lost their initiative. But God raised up leaders, men, particularly Moses, who had great gifts, had a deep spirit of devotion to God, and loyalty to his own kind, and had been wonderfully trained, had a Godly mother had been educated in the Egyptian Court, had spent several years out on the prairies, watching sheep, meditating, planning, dreaming. Then came the call of his own calling, he challenged the power of the Lord, and won.

Moses finally received permission for the people to leave Israel. We might deduce from this that he now would be easy. Not so! The people themselves were as great a problem to Moses as was the Lord. They were not ready for any great adventure. It may have seemed a bit of a picnic at first, but Moses found as many not ready to pay the price of freedom. People are like that. We have no political slavery in this country, but, who, remembering some of the conditions under which men once worked, would deny that there has been scmashing pretty close to economic slavery. And those who have been the victims of the system have often been the hardest to break themselves to throw off the yoke. All too often they have been content to let things rule while those who would help them cut of a rut have been branded as agitators and exploiters. It is always some satisfaction when these taunts are hurled at men and women who burn with a passion to help their fellow man. But Moses, the prophets, and even Christ himself, were denounced by their contemporaries.

A price has to be paid for freedom, whether it be political, social or economic, and people always suffers. It is because they do suffer, others enjoy the fruit of their sacrifice. The children of Israel found that out soon enough. The record shows clearly that the unwillingness at the outset for the Israelites to pay the price of freedom was anticipated. The Bible says that God led them by a round about way "lest peradventure the people repent when they see war and return to Egypt". And the subsequent history of their journeying shows the purpose of God was successful. For they got across the Red Sea. How they got across, the peculiar manner of the dividing of the waters is really not determinable. In some way or other God got them safely across the sea, and set them on their way. This was a blessing in more ways than one, for it placed the era at their back and made a return all but impossible. Not that they did not want to get back. Of course they did. As the history of their migration is traced one of the most noticeable characteristics of the people in the early days of the movement, was their continued demand to be taken back to Egypt.

Fortunately for the Hebrew people and for the future of the race, they had a good leader. He had to take stern measures with the people at times. But he organized them, hired them with his own imagination. He made them conscious of God. He hardened both their spiritual and moral muscles until they were able to face whatever adversaries came in their way. After a long time they submitted to the leadership of Moses and co-operated with him. That is the only way in which the will of God for His people will be accomplished. God operates through select chosen personalities, but there must be a divine spirit of co-operation with inspired leaders if His Kingdom is to come and His will be done on earth.

How Marine Crops Materially Affect The Fishing Catch

Fisherman's luck may sometimes have something to do with determining the size of his catch. But certain water plant crops count for very much more. If the crops are poor the fish stocks won't survive. And that is so is that some of these underwater plant growths, or plankton, are of the greatest importance as food for little fishes and the small fishes, in turn, are the chief food for bigger ones.

Directly or indirectly, fish depend upon the plants in the sea for their food. Food supply conditions, then, are largely responsible for the marked differences that are to be found in fisheries within comparatively short distances and vary from factors which are quite similar to those which determine the crops on land. According to Dr. E. H. Huntaman, one of the scientists associated with the federal Fisheries Research Board, land crops depend upon soil fertility and climate, but in the sea, fertility and climate are associated with water, which is not as stationary as soil nor as freely movable as the air moving the soil. Consequently the differences in the fisheries are, as a whole, not so localized as the differences in lands crops and yet are much more localized than the climatic differences on land.

Many people are familiar with such marine plants as the seaweeds that grow along shore on shallow water bottom. But it is perhaps not so well realized that there are microscopic also include minute, microscopic organisms that are present in enormous numbers at certain seasons of the year in the upper layers of the water and which are of the greatest importance as food for the youngest fish fry and for the smaller animals, such as "shrimp" and "red feed," that in their turn form the chief food of so many fishes.

These plants, Dr. Huntaman explains, grow only in the upper layers of the water, as they require light, and the sun's rays are unable to penetrate very far into the water. They are liable to grow only during the half of the year, roughly from April to September, when the sun is highest in the heavens and remains up for the longest periods each day. They require not only light but also various organic salts, of which some are in such small quantities in the sea-water as to be exhausted rather quickly. When any one of these necessary salts becomes exhausted the plants can no longer grow and the water becomes barren.

The important fisheries of the ocean are situated in those regions where there is a good supply of this food for the growth of the plants. In the Atlantic Ocean tropical and Arctic waters are comparatively barren while in temperate and boreal latitudes extensive fisheries are located. The tropic and Arctic waters are comparatively stagnant, but in between there is tropic water gliding from and Arctic water going south with vertical movements and mixing, to create in some localities on a tremendous scale.

The Tropic and Arctic waters, although comparatively barren for plant growth as they arrive in temperature latitudes, contain quantities of otherwise useless animals just due when there is much change in temperature, then decomposes and re-fertilizes the waters for plant growth.

The chief mixing region is off the tip of the Grand Bank, where the "Gulf Stream" and Labrador Current commingle very freely, causing wholesale destruction among their inhabitants. The greater part of this mixed and re-fertilized water, together with great quantities of water, drifts across to the coasts of northern Europe, where the progressive cooling that takes place causes the surface water made barren by plant growth, to become heavier, sink, and be replaced steadily by richer water from below.

PIPISTRELLE OR NOCTULE

How many different sorts of bats can you recognize? asked Brian Vesey-Fitzgerald in a recent B.B.C. radio talk. When you see a bat, do you say "There's a Pipistrelle?" or "There's a Noctule?" Likely not! You say "There's a bat"—if you say anything at all. But you are in good company. Very few field naturalists can tell the difference between bats on the wing. And yet there are twelve different sorts of bats in the British Isles and most of them are common. Some are more than that: they differ widely from each other in their habits, in the way they fly, in their calls; even in many cases in their size.

The Noctule is England's biggest bat, a powerful flier with a fast and sometimes as much as fifteen inches. It is a woodland bat and quite common wherever there are woods. For a bat the Noctule flies at times a Noctule? Likely not! You fight and not unlike that of a swift, and, indeed, when hawking of an evening the bat can hold it own easily with the bird. Noctules fly high and sometimes very high so that the human eye has lost sight of the sky, but on cold nights they come down as low as ten feet from the ground. While they are flying they squeal all the time. The Pipistrelle is our smallest bat. A good one could be made out of it for it being our smallest mammal. It is very common everywhere. The long-eared Bat you cannot mistake. Its ears are as long as its body. It is very common and sometimes you will find huge numbers together. I counted over 300 at one roost once — that was in the New Forest. It is a nice bat—makes a friendly pet and can be trained to answer calls. I used to carry one around in my pocket and, let it out for exercise in my study or my office. It once took itself for a little exercise round a London restaurant. Caused quite a stir that did—not only among the ladies.

The young of all our bats — just one per mother, per year—are born in the summer round about, Midsummer Day. They are quite helpless at birth and are carried round by mother. Then they get too heavy and are left hanging in the day-head downwards. That is the comfortable way for a bat.

A young magazine editor of New York took a trip to California and dropped upon Hollywood.

He was invited to a party, and decided to put off his usual reserve and diffidence and enter fully into the spirit of the occasion. He devoted his attention throughout the evening to a young actress.

"I will be wild," he determined. "I will be rowdy. I will behave with all the abandon for which Hollywood is famous."

He did his best, but suddenly, as he was playing the role to the limit of his capacity, the young woman broke down and wept.

The editor asked the cause of her distress, and, with tears in her eyes, she looked up and said: "I've been here almost a year now and you're the first fellow that's behaved to me like a gentleman."

Travelling is still hazardous, although the mild weather has removed some of the ice, and grades and curves have been sanded, but the sand soon wears off. The W.M.S. meeting for this month was cancelled. Unless there is an improvement by Monday, it is doubtful if all the voters venture out. The contest is between Messrs. J. Roy Johnston and Jonathan Allen for the Reeveship, as only the required number of Councillors and School Trustees qualified.

Colds and flu are quite prevalent, no doubt due to the changeable weather conditions. While the mild weather may be unhealthy, it is easy on both fuel and fodder.

SCHOOL CHRISTMAS PARTY AT S. S. NO. 17, ERNESTTOWN

A delightful afternoon tea and Christmas Party took place at 'The Old Brick School' S.S. No. 17, Ernestown, under the careful training of the teacher, Mrs. Arthur Wright. The school was beautifully decorated; windows, blackboards, and a gaily decked Christmas tree adding to the festive picture. A short but well planned programm was presented by the school, with Mrs. Fred Scouten, newly elected president of the Home and School Forum, capably acting as the chairman.

The following are the items on the programme: A Welcome, Lela Abbott; Carols by the School; Thorne Rosa, a skit, with Dorothy Lemmon, Helen Hawley, Gale Peters and three boys; Those Pants, reading by Glen O'Neil; Letter to St. Nick, Russell Silver, Murray Hannah, Glen O'Neil; Santa Claus Acrostic, ten Pupils; a Piano Solo by Alleanne Scouten; a Reading, A Candle in my Window, Marilyn Craig; Piano solo, Barbara Craig. Three numbers by the Rhythm Band—the whole school taking part under the excellent training given by the teacher of music, Miss Dorothy Scott of Napanee. This was a delightful feature of the program, and the pupils were truly rhythm conscious, and all gave a splendid performance. A wee girl, Mary Alice Scouten, of pre-school age, gave a little impromptu solo with the aid of Miss Scott "Santa Claus is Coming to Town," which was well done indeed by one so small. Billie Carter, of Napanee, a visitor, assisted in the Band.

Gifts and well - filled Christmas stockings were given the pupils, and an exchange of gifts between the children was a feature and was a most important part to the children.

At the close of the program, Mrs. Wright and Lela served afternoon tea to the guests.

corporated in the general estimates for the purpose of striking the tax rate.

We have been very fortunate in Napanee to have several bodies of citizens who have taken a very active and efficient service in regard to social welfare and some have been particularly active during the war years in raising money for war service and other patriotic purposes. I wish to refer particularly to the Service Clubs, namely: the Rotary Club and the Lions Club, and to The Red Cross, The Imperial Order Daughters of the Empire and The Victorian Order of Nurses Committee. They have all done a magnificent work and I am sure that our citizens are all proud of the great contribution that they have made in their respective endeavors.

I have asked the Clerk to prepare a memorandum showing the status of the Public Utilities Commission and the Board of Education, showing the manner in which they function in respect to those parts of our municipal government which have been, by statute, assigned to them.

In other years we have had an Industrial Committee which has done work towards securing industries, and I recommend that a special Industrial Committee be appointed for the purpose of keeping in mind some further industrial expansion in the Town, and thereby helping to give employment to our young people instead of forcing them to seek employment elsewhere.

Last year's Council had in view some public meeting at which all the members engaged in war services, from Napanee, and their families would be invited to be present and when some suitable recognition of their services would be made. The matter was designedly left over for the reason that many had not yet returned from overseas, but it is hoped in the course of a couple of months they will have all returned and this matter should be referred to a Special Committee which should bring in a report with recommendations.

I am sure that we are all prepared to work in harmony and in co-operation so that the affairs of the municipality may be efficiently conducted.

Yours truly,
GEORGE S. CHALK.
January 4th, 1946 Mayor.

WEDDING BELLS

BEAUBIEN - NOVOTNY

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Novotny, of Chappaqua, N.Y., announce the marriage of their daughter, Dorla, to Lt.A. William Beaubien, son of Mrs. Lt.A. Beaubien and the late Mr. Beaubien, of Napanee, Ontario. The wedding took place on December 22nd, in the Church of St. Mary the Virgin, Chappaqua, New York. The Reverend Howard Perkins officiated. The bride, who was given in marriage by her father, wore a gown of white brocaded satin and carried a flower bouquet of white carnations and baby's breath. Her finger tip veil was held in place by a seed-pearl juliet cap.

Lieutenant Barbara Novotny of the United States Army Nurse Corps, was her sister's only attendant. She wore a gown of aqua brocaded satin with juliet cap to match, and carried pink carnations.

Mr. Richard Beaubien of Napanee was his brother's best man. Captain Edmund Novotny of the United States Army Air Force and Mr. Malcolm Shutex of Chappaqua, were the ushers.

Mrs. R. W. Vanalstine Died in St. Catharines

Word was received by friends in Napanee, of the death on Monday, January 7th, at St. Catharines, of Mrs. R. W. Vanalstine, who had been in ill-health for the past several months.

Mrs. Vanalstine, a former resident of Napanee, was Mabel Vine, daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. James Vine. For many years she had resided in St. Catharines.

She is survived by her husband and one daughter, Mrs. Les. Sayers, St. Catharines, and by two sisters, Mrs. F. Donaldson of Peterborough, and Mrs. Arthur Clark, of Napanee, and one brother, Mr. W. S. Vine, of Napanee. The late Mrs. Perry Huffman was another sister.

TRACKING FREAK ENDS IN RESCUE

Two aborigines recently tracked a lost British sailor over more than sixty miles of rugged Australian bushlands and brought him back to civilization alive.

This feat of tracking is regarded as one of the greatest in police history. BRITISH SCIENCE AIDS RECONSTRUCTION

The gearing of British science to the machine of industrial and economic reconstruction has since the first days of peace been rightly regarded by the Government, Department of Scientific and Industrial Research, and the general public as an issue of first importance. On December 6th, Sir John Anderson, who is chairman of the advisory committee on atomic energy, gave a good report of the progress made and of the prospects ahead. In a speech to the Manchester Joint Research Council in which he outlined the part scientific and industrial co-operation has played and will continue to play in the United Kingdom, he defined the outlook for the application of science in industry during the reconstruction period as "extremely favorable."

The importance of this pronouncement is best realized by reference to the immense benefits gained in the United Kingdom by scientific and industrial collaboration during the war. It was this close co-operation which resulted in the production of inventions and developments largely instrumental in the winning of the war; for example, radio location, mulberry piers, the "pen-tin bomb," high octane fuel, and not the least the atomic bomb, in the production of which British research played a leading part.

Today, the United Kingdom intends to achieve similar and even greater results in the application of science to peacetime industry. Here, she has entered the race with the considerable asset that many of her wartime advances are applicable to non-military purposes.

Sir John Anderson has listed some of them: Research in the textile industry has resulted in the production of cotton fabrics in which the fibres are so treated that, on contact with water, they immediately swell and render the cloth waterproof, while at the same time allowing for the passage of air. Again, in the steel and non-ferrous metal industries new processes have been developed and new materials produced for the first time, including many kinds of alloy steel and great quantities of cagnesium from sea water. "In television," said Sir John, "we undoubtedly led the world before the war and we are probably still ahead. Before the war the United Kingdom gained all the speed records in the air, on the water and on land, with British pilots and British machines made in British workshops. We now hold all those records again. All aeroplanes are fitted with perspex—a transparent non-splintering plastic produced in this country, and during the war our chemical industry produced also polythene—the finest known insulator.

"An insecticide, gammexene, probably more efficient than DDT, a range of selective weed-killers, lightweight fire extinguishers and many products in the growing tips of plants — which may well mean a revolution in both agriculture and water and agricultural methods— a synacidproof, giving unions stronger than those obtained by riveting or spot welding, are other achievements of our progressive and virile chemical industry. In the manufacture of scientific instruments there is the same story of technical skill and successfully applied research. The illustrations which I could multiply many times over in respect of a wide range of activities show the high technical efficiency of our industries and their readiness to appreciate and develop the new ideas put in our research laboratories.

When the war ended the United Kingdom Government and industry immediately turned to the task of expanding scientific research and still further intensifying scientific and industrial collaboration. In August the Federation of British Industries announced the formation of a new research committee to establish a close peacetime partnership between individual industries and research centres. This was followed in September by the Government's plans for the reorganization of the scientific civil service on to a wide ranging greater incentive and improved facilities. Recently, the Government announced its ten years plan for the full utilization of the country's scientific manpower and resources.

These three measures have been accompanied by a number of other important developments undertaken by different United Kingdom industries. The steel industry, for example, has set up a new research association with headquarters at Sheffield, and spends a year, while the textile industry has announced a two fold increase in the capacity of cotton research.

There are three main factors in control in this large scale expansion of scientific research now under way in Britain; personnel, finance and organization. As far as financial aid is concerned, says Sir John, we do not have any difficulty in finding which all that is required can be secured. More scientists are needed but the Government and industry are determined to overcome this shortage. Here the contribution of British industry, for example, has been significant. Of the 2,000 research fellowships, Imperial Chemical Industries who have given eighty fellowships at universities for research in physics and chemistry, and Courtaulds who have given one hundred and fifty-seven thousand pounds to Cambridge University for the Department of Chemical Engineering, together with a yearly grant of two thousand five hundred pounds for scholarships),

MT. PLEASANT PIONEER W. I.

The regular meeting of the Mount Pleasant Pioneer Women's Institute was held on Thursday afternoon, January 3rd, at the home of Mrs. T. Venn, with the president, Mrs. G. Dupre in charge. The meeting opened with the ode followed by the Lord's Prayer. Many interesting ideas were given in response to the roll call which was Little Things that Make Life Beautiful. Individual gifts were brought by the members to this meeting, to be packed in a box and sent to a friend who is at present spending some time in hospital. A committee was appointed to procure a suitable memorial for the son of a former member who lost his life while on active service overseas, Mrs. T. Murphy and Mrs. R. Oliver were requested to interview the teachers of the two public schools concerning the subject of hot lunches for the pupils. As the need is still so great in Europe, it was decided to carry on with making quilts and articles of clothing, and plans were made for a sewing bee to be held at the home of Mrs. F. Henderson on the following Thursday.

Mrs. Henderson was convener of the programme, the topic of which was Publicity, and in her opening remarks she stressed the great benefits derived by scrool children, from including a hot dish in their noon lunch, especially during the winter months. Mrs. Stafford read a paper on School Lunches and Mrs. R. Oliver gave a reading entitled The New Year Reaps What the Old Year Sowed. Mrs. Henderson then read an article from the Institute paper, Home and Country, after which she conducted an interesting and educative quiz on the Women's Institutes in Ontario—questions being based on information to be found in Home and Country.

A vote of thanks was extended to the hostess and the meeting was brought to a close by singing the National Anthem.

FOREST MILLS W. A.

The December meeting of the Woman's Association of The United Church was held in the evening at the home of the president, Mrs. Fred McFarlane, with a splendid attendance. Mrs. Robert Cook conducted the devotional exercises. Christmas carols were sung and prayer was led by Rev. W. E. Lewis. The scripture lesson was read by Mrs. Ivan McFarlane. The president presided for the business period. During the roll call an exchange of gifts was made among the members. Mrs. Ivan McFarlane and Miss Helen Armstrong were named as auditors and Misses June Benn and Marion Cook to type the programmes for the coming year.

Rev. W. E. Lewis took charge for the election of officers. A motion was made by Mrs. Fred Armstrong and carried unanimously, that all officers be reinstated for the year 1946.

Mrs. W. J. Pringle was convener for the social programme and consisted of a reading by Mrs. Elburn Cook; a vocal solo by Margaret Sandford, a recitation by Katharine Cook and a vocal solo by Eva Benn.

At the close of the meeting, lunch was served by the hostess and her assistants.

SATIRE ON FROZEN NORTH MAKES GAY MUSICAL

Alaska's rip - snorting days following the Klondike gold rush have formed the basis for many screen offerings, most of which have stressed the drama of that colorful period, and almost all have treated the subject seriously.

But in International's "Belle of the Yukon," the glamor of the Gold Rush is hilariously kidded. Two romances tangle with crookdom to constitute a plot replete with gay satire.

Randolph Scott and Gypsy Rose Lee head of all - star cast of this Technicolor musical extravaganza. Scott as a debonair crook and Miss Lee as a dance-hall entertainer who takes "tier Girls" to the rip-roaring Yukon town of Malemute, where she finds more excitement than she bargained for. Dinah Shore as a torch-singing daughter of the North and Bob Burns as a hick gambler add to the hilarity. Charles Winninger and other favorites are in the cast of the feature offering which RKO Radio releases.

The officers of the past year were re-elected. A Christmas charade worship service closed an interesting meeting. The hostess served tea and a social hour was enjoyed.

By HYE ROSSIN

"Beast With Five Fingers," now before the cameras, is said to be the eeriest murder mystery ever tackled. It's about a crawling hand that kills. Clark Gable's new deal with MGM reportedly calls for $7,000 per week with a percentage on picture profits. . . Ida Lupino studying Italian phrases for her current film, "Escape Me Never," and can now say "Vigilacchi mascalzoni!" In English it means "Scoundrel"! . . Incidentally, Reginald Denny returns to the screen to appear with Ida. He has been too busy making model planes for the USA government to bother with acting. . . Loretta Young has been signed to star with David Niven in "The Perfect Marriage". . . Jerry Wald will produce Joan Crawford's next starrer, "The Secret." He brought her back to stardom with "Mildred Pierce." She will also star with John Garfield in "Humoresque," a remake.

The real and legal name of the actor who stood in for Charles Boyer during production of "Confidential Agent," is—Fig Newton!

Recent prowler at the home of Eleanor Parker left the seat of his pants with the star's sheep-dog . . . Norma Shearer doesn't deny that she is planning a screen comeback. . . Julie Bishop is said to have the prettiest knees in Hollywood. You'll see them in "Cinderella Jones". . . Dorothy Lamour is expecting two babies this New Year's Eve, her own and young Mister 1946. . . A concession to credulity: The King of Siam, in the book, had 3200 wives. He'll have but 18, however, in the film version about him and Ann. . . Hollywood's housing shortage is bothering Bob Hutton by two feet, both of which protrude from the short wall bed in his emergency apartment. . . Sydney Greenstreet, bedded with congested lungs, is under care of Dr. Dudley Bumpus.

Dan Seymour, a veteran performer of stage and screen and prominently cast in "Confidential Agent," has never kissed a leading lady? He can't get close enough. He weighs 285 pounds and is a charter member of the American Order of Fat Men. . . .

Madeleine Carroll, who gave up her screen career to do war work when the United States became involved in the world conflict, isn't coming back to the screen. At least the screen's "most beautiful blonde," who served with the Red Cross in Italy, France and Germany, has turned down a bid from Preston Sturges with a statement that she has no immediate intentions of returning to Hollywood.

HEIRLOOMS BARTERED FOR FOOD

BY THOMAS R. HENRY

Vienna — I have just visited Karl Pilat, a Viennese product mart, which is by reputation the worst black market on the continent; I found gold watches and diamonds being traded for half a pound of sugar or a pound of butter.

I decided to make an experiment. I had a watch that cost $50 ten years ago. I walked through the crowd displaying it prominently. A Russian soldier asked me the price. I asked 30 paper 30,000 shillings. This is $3,000. The Russian hesitated. He said it was too much. I crossed off a cypher and while the Russian breathed in his pocket my arm was grabbed by an Austrian black market operator. He thrust in my hand 3,000 shillings — $300. I am now watchless. I was offered $20 a pack for cigarettes, $10 for a bar of chocolate. I refused due to my conscience. I demanded $100 for a pack of American and $75 for a pack of British cigarettes. The Russian said the price was exorbitant.

I am a poor salesman. I admitted the price was too high but refused to take less.

The watch deal was honest since it was my own property and not acquired through the Army. There is more money today than when I left the States six months ago.

It was all a joke to me but it is no joke to Baroness Eva Sacher Mosch-Erisso, editor of a Vienna fashion paper and my guide through Karl Platz. She is a charming young lady, pale and thin with hunger, trying to support aged parents. Her father was an Austrian general, her brother a German private unheard of for eight months.

She also traded a gold watch two weeks ago. She got three pounds of salt pork to keep her sick parents alive. She herself eats bread only. She offered me a diamond for six bars of chocolate. I didn't take the diamond ring.

This is a conservative picture of Europe's saddest city today. I have been here for two days. The pathos of Vienna is overwhelming. I have seen Germans starving. I have witnessed Russian soldiers starving. I have also seen Buchenwald, Dachau, Nordhausen, Dunderstadt. They left me without pity. But Vienna is different.

The Germans plead innocence. They accuse the Nazis and the SS [illegible] which they were always opposed. Vienna, whose only fault was not fighting Hitler, is starving about it. The baroness is an example. She risked life night after night taking food to starving people. She was put in jail as an "enemy of the state." She told me "we have no complaint. We became part of Germany. Germany started the war causing tragedy the world over. It is only fair that we suffer. I hope America and Britain help the Greeks and the Dutch before us."

I think the pallid baroness is the bravest and fairest young woman I have ever known.

As editor of a fashion journal she gets 150 shillings a month. This is $15 at United States Army exchange rates. There are no fashions in Austria now as she writes advice to mothers. Her pay is precisely that of Gen. Theodore Koerner, an old Austrian army general, now the mayor of Vienna. It is the same as that of Dr. Renner, Chancellor of the Republic under the government recognized by the Russians. It is also the same as a Vienna street sweeper.

Nobody in Austria today gets more than 150 shillings, no matter what their actual salary. The Baroness Erriso and the street sweeper can each buy six pounds of bread for a mark. This slope hunger. They all get the balance of their salaries some day. This applies to all government employees and workers in private industry. More money is useless to them unless they get very much more.

Thus if the Baroness got 500 shillings a week she could buy no more food. If she got 5,000 shillings a week she could buy [illegible] Of most in Karl Platz. I got $48 [illegible] was a good [illegible] could have bot three po[illegible] pork in[illegible] stead. FOOD SUPPLY SLIGHTLY BETTER

While there are still shortages of certain food items, the general food picture is somewhat brighter than it was at this time last year, according to a recent Wartime Prices and Trade Board article in the Central Ontario region.

Beef and sausage are probably the meat items most readily obtained at the present time. All cuts of beef are available, as are all kinds of sausages. There are fair quantities of smoked and cooked meats, except perhaps cooked hams, and there is a limited amount of bacon on sale from time to time.

Surplus lamb, killed in the fall, are beginning to be used up and lamb will not be as plentiful as it was a month ago. Anyone wanting a chicken can get one whereas turkeys are becoming difficult to buy.

Housewives can purchase various types of fish, although there is not as much fresh fish as in former years.

Eggs are changing from pullet to large and prices will likely continue lower until Easter.

There is enough butter to supply rationing requirements but other fats and oils, due to world shortages, are still difficult to obtain. Corn syrup and honey can occasionally be bought but they are not by any means plentiful.

Aside from Brazils, there are more nuts on sale than there were last year and the price is lower than it was then.

In the field of vegetables, Canada has been able to import from the United States sufficient potatoes to take care of current needs and tomatoes have been coming in from Mexico and especially from the Bahamas. There is plenty of white Canadian cabbage and there are imported vegetables such as California cauliflower, Texas broccoli, brussels sprouts, and some imported green beans. Because this last group is all imported, the prices tend to be fairly high. There is a certain amount of spinach but it is beginning to rise in price. Root vegetables, such as carrots, turnips and parsnips are readily available.

Few apples can be found in country areas but some boxed British Columbia Delicious apples are being sold by the dozen in city regions. Ontario apples can sometimes be obtained.

Breakfast cereals may be readily purchased in all stores.

Despite current rumors to the contrary, there is enough coffee in Canada to supply our needs for ten to twelve months and there is no prospect of this commodity being rationed. There are also ample stocks of tea and cocoa on hand.

THE MIXING BOWL

by Anne Allan, HYDRO HOME ECONOMIST

Did you have a good breakfast? It's not too late to make a resolution that will help you to keep other resolutions. Because a good breakfast wakes up appetites, provides nourishment and energy for the morning's work and lifts the spirits, too. A good breakfast looks good, tastes good and is hearty enough to stick to the ribs until noon. Every normal person requires a nourishing breakfast.

An active, growing child needs to break his fast in the morning with foods that keep him healthy by refuelling his physical and nervous systems. People doing heavy work in the factory, on the farm or around the house need a substantial breakfast for the same reasons. Some office workers and others who lead sedentary work may need only fruit, whole wheat toast with jam and a hot beverage. Elderly people often find their vitality low in the morning and therefore require food to pick them up.

What is the right kind of breakfast and how is it planned? The general breakfast pattern can be the same, day after day, if given enough variety to add interest and appeal. Fruit of some sort makes a good starter, because fruit is refreshing and appetizing and also because it supplies the Vitamin C everyone needs every day. Citrus fruits or tomato juice are especially high in Vitamin C content. You might vary these with raw apples and applesauce, stewed prunes (without sugar) or grape juice.

For energy giving food at breakfast the breads and cereals go on the table. And the more whole-grain used, the better for the family. Prepared cereals save time but in cold weather a cooked cereal is recommended. Try whole wheat cooked in milk, cornmeal porridge served with maple syrup or good oatmeal gruel and warm milk. Some prefer cold milk or cream. It's a question of taste and pocketbook. Plenty of milk on the morning cereal takes care of part of the daily quota (one pint per day). It is wise to teach children to enjoy cereal without sugar.

Along with cereals, there is a wide variety of breads that are delightful for breakfast. Muffins, biscuits, hot crisp toast from brown, white or cracked wheat bread, pancakes, coffee rolls, etc., all depending on how much time you have to get breakfast. To save time in the morning, partly mix a batter the night before and store it in the refrigerator. Some homemakers have scones and tea biscuits cut and in the pan the night before. Then pan spends the night in the refrigerator and then is popped into a preheated oven.

A substantial breakfast should include a body-building food especially for manual workers — an egg, poached, cooked in the shell or scrambled; bacon, broiled slowly; creamed meat or fish on toast. Ever make a kidney stew on Saturday and reheat it Sunday morning—or make waffles with pieces of bacon in ready to cook in a few minutes?

Last of all, there is the breakfast drink to consider. Hot tea, coffee and cocoa are standards but since a few new cereal beverages and chocolate powders are available, they make a timely. The idea is to serve something warm, cheering and good to taste. Milk is the best drink for children.

So the general pattern for a good breakfast runs fruit, cereal and bread to eggs (or bacon, fish or meat) and finally to that hot cup of coffee.

COOKING CEREALS

Cooked cereals shou'd be well flavored, free from lumps, not too stiff, not too thin and served piping hot. For correct cooking, use measured proportions according to the instructions. We cook cereal: (1) to improve the flavour. (2) to improve digestibility and to soften the cellulose, thus improving the texture.

Methods of cooking cereal: (1) over direct heat. (2) in a double boiler and (3) a combination of methods.

How to prevent lumping: (1) Fine ceres's such as farina or cornmeal should be mixed with enough cold water to make a soft mush; then added to boiling, salted water and stirred constantly. The amount of water used should be deducted from total liquid needed. (2) Flaked or coarse cereals such as rolled oats, cracked wheat and grits, may be sprinkled slowly into rapidly boiling, salted water, so boiling will not stop. Scrape the bottom of the pan with a spoon frequently. (3) When reheating cold, cooked cereal, use a double boiler and do not stir the cereal until it is heated.

Cooking Time for Cereals:

Fine cereals for six servings: one cup cereal to one-half cup cereal; two cups water, and three-quarters teaspoon salt. Time twenty minutes.

Coarse Cereals for six servings: Half-cup cereal, two cups water, and one-half to one teaspoon salt. Time 30 to 35 minutes.

Commercial packaged cereals may be warmed in the oven or steamed for variety. The addition of wheat germ adds considerable vitamin value.

PRICE CONTROL AND RATIONING INFORMATION

Please send your questions mentioning the name of this newspaper, to Milton MacPhail, Information Branch, Wartime Prices and Trade Board, Field Representative, 490 Sussex St., Ottawa, Ontario.

Typical questions consumers have asked the Wartime Prices and Trade Board this week are answered by the Consumer Br. Committee.

Q. I received a Christmas gift which is not the correct size. The store where it was purchased will not refund the money and they are unable to give me the correct size. Are they allowed to do this?

A. In reply to the numerous enquiries received about exchanging gifts we repeat once again: there are no WPTB regulations governing exchanges. Each individual store has its own policy regarding the making of exchanges and refunding money. Most shops are glad to make reasonable exchanges as they are anxious to satisfy all customers. Perhaps they would allow you a credit slip and you would then be able to buy some other item when they have further supplies in.

Q. Is there a ceiling price on furniture? I paid $17.50 for a chair a week ago and since then have seen the same chair priced at $14.95 in another store.

A. Yes, there certainly is a ceiling price on furniture. Furniture dealers must not charge more for the same type of furniture than was charged by them in 1941. Prices for such articles have always varied slightly from store to store and, of course, the same thing applies today. $2.55 does seem quite a difference in price on one article and as you have given us the name and address of the store where you made this purchase, we will check prices there.

Q. I telephoned a bakery to make arrangements to have a birthday cake made. When I had completed arrangements regarding the name, etc. to be iced on the cake they told me I would have to bring in a pound of sugar from my own rations. Are they allowed to do this?

A. There is no Board regulation prohibiting bakers from requesting the customer to bring in extra sugar if they want an iced cake. Sugar is rationed for bakers and very often their quota is not sufficient to allow for special icing such as you wanted on this birthday cake.

Q. Our home is in the North Country and we are seven miles from the nearest town. My wife is ill and I work in the bush and cannot get to town very often. It is impossible for us to buy fresh milk and I would like to know if there is any way we can get a supply of canned milk.

A. Yes. Go to the Local Ration Board in your town and they will give them all details. From the information contained in your letter we are quite sure you will be able to obtain coupons for the purchase of a supply of canned milk, as there is no fresh milk available in your district.

Please send your questions or your request for the pamph'et "Consumers' News" or the Blue Book (the book in which you keep track of your ceiling prices) mentioning the name of this paper, to the above address.

SAFEGUARDING THE NEXT GENERATION

London. — An important step has been taken by the United Kingdom Ministry of Health. It has announced that its wartime milk and vitamin schemes are to become a permanent peacetime feature. This is one of the most important decisions ever taken by a Government in regard to the health of its mothers and children, for it means that the vitamins so essential to expectant and nursing mothers and children under five will be guaranteed and the nation will benefit accordingly.

MILLION POUND PENICILLIN FACTORY NEARS COMPLETION

London.—The million pound penicillin factory being built at Speke, North England, is approaching completion. It will be the largest in the world for the production of the drug. The London Daily Telegraph states that the factory will be in use early in the New Year and will give employment to about three hundred people. A second large factory for the same purpose is being erected in County Durham, also in the North of England. These and other penicillin plants are expected by the United Kingdom Ministry of Supply to "meet all foreseen requirements."

Reasons Behind The Combined Sugar And Preserves Ration Plan

The new sugar and preserves ration policy announced by Wartime Prices and Trade Board, January 1, which combined sugar and preserves under one coupon, was introduced for a variety of reasons, WPTB officials declared recently. Here are some of the advantages of the plan:

1 It is a step towards easing other rationing regulations. When assurance of a rationing system is established that will be fair to all, it will be easier to free individual items when they all come under the same coupon.

2 The present ration book can be used up without the expense of printing another one.

3 Coupon banking cost is reduced.

Retailers, for various reasons, prefer the single coupon system.

The leader took for her topic "The Days of the Year", as wasted time can never be regained. A quartette, by four ladies, closed this part of the meeting.

The roll call was answered by the payment of dues.

TWO POISONOUS RELIGIONS

BY JAMES THRASHER

Hirohito has made his last ceremonial trip in the shrine of his ancestors. General MacArthur has ruled out all such journeys by public officials, along with state support of a Shinto as instruction in schools; government maintenance of its shrines, and all other activities smacking of religious nationalism or compulsory adherence.

Shinto, the primitive religion of Japan, flourished without a serious rival until the Seventh Century, when Buddhism became firmly established. But as the centuries rolled on, the Buddhist priesthood threw its weight around more and more in state affairs. At times its soldier-monks ran the country. After a series of ups and downs Buddhism ceased to be a temporal force in 1868, when the so-called Restoration brought in Shinto as the state religion.

About that time the new German empire under Bismark's leadership, was starting to get Hindenburg-Prussian and racial grandeur such as state Shinto taught. At first the German doctrine had no religious connection. But it picked it up as it went along.

Under Nazism, this doctrine assumed Shinto quite remarkably in its mythological "scriptures," its belief in racial superiority and divine mission, and its complete disavowal of the milder virtues which characterize most of the world's religions.

Now the military authorities in Japan and Germany are engaged in the tremendous task of trying to purge these war-breeding beliefs from the minds of our recent enemies. How well they succeed may have a considerable effect upon the future tranquility of the world.

In both Germany and Japan these ultra-nationalistic and militaristic creeds were superimposed on a nominal freedom of religious choice. Therefore it progressed that freedom seems to have been honored more in the breach than in the observance. Now the question is how badly tainted are those minds which once had a real freedom of religion divorced from state?

State Shinto was a calculated governmental development of a personal religion which a multitude of Japs apparently profess and which has not been banned. To them the whole structure of Shinto, however altered and perfected it may have become with the passing of time, still must be the vehicle of an instinctive, traditional reverence and worship.

Nazism, on the other hand, was the final flowering of the doctrine whose appeal was largely mental and which had to be sold by a warped philosophy. Yes Nazism, by closing young German minds to all outside influence, developed thousands of fanatical followers whose faith today seems unshaken in spite of nazism's defeat and the death or disgrace of its principal philosophers.

Which nation will be the first to recover from its mental poisoning? The answer may not be forthcoming in the lifetime of most of us. But the antidote will have to be administered steadily, patiently and wisely for a long time, beginning now.

VICTORIA W. I.

The Christmas meeting of Victoria Women's Institute was held at the home of Mrs. Harry Edgar, with nearly all members and some visitors present. Roll call was answered by an exchange of gifts. Mrs. Fred McFarlane had charge of the meeting and the first number was a song by Marilyn Wood, followed by a reading by Mrs. Frank McFarlane, a solo by Mrs. Sanford, music by Helen and Florence McFarlane, after which all joined in singing Christmas carols. Mrs. D. Weese demonstrated a Christmas table centre. A reading by Mrs. Merle Denison, music by Florence and Helen McFarlane and a reading by Mrs. Graham, followed by a contest, brought this part of the meeting to a close.

Mrs. Graham moved a vote of thanks to the hostess and to all who helped in the programme.

A bazaar was held and Mrs. Ernest Kerr acted as the auctioneer. The hostess and her committee served delicious refreshments.

Helps Check Colds Quickly

You can often check a cold quickly if you follow these directions.

Just as soon as you feel the cold coming on and experience headache, pains in the back or limbs, soreness through the body, take a Paradol tablet, a good drink of hot lemonade or ginger tea and go to bed.

The Paradol affords almost immediate relief from these pains and aches and helps you to get off to sleep. The dose may be repeated, if necessary, according to the directions. If there is soreness of the throat, gargle with two Paradol tablets dissolved in water. Just try Paradol the next time you have a cold and we believe that you will be well pleased. Paradol does not disappoint.

Prosperity Through Freedom

BY EDWIN MULLER

The Swiss have none of the things that are supposed to be essential to prosperity. Their country is small and overcrowded. They haven't enough arable land to feed half the population. They have no coal or oil, little iron or other ores — almost no raw materials of any kind. They have no access to the sea.

Yet the Swiss have maintained a degree of prosperity as high as, if not higher than, any in the world. In our prosperous year of 1928 — the last for which comparative figures are available — the United States had a per capita wealth of $2,098. Switzerland had $3,216. In Switzerland poverty was rare.

During the depression years Switzerland suffered with the rest of the world, but unemployment, in proportion to population, was less than one fourth of ours. There was no widespread destitution. And today, Switzerland is a bright oasis in the economic desert of Europe.

With this relative prosperity, the Swiss have kept something even more important—individual freedom. Perhaps they are prosperous because they are free.

There is a theory, widely held today, that individualism is not compatible with national well-being, that we must barter our freedom for prosperity, that there must be increasing government control and central planning of industry. But the Swiss have not abandoned free, competitive economy. Except for the war emergency they never have had centralized government direction of the economic life of the nation.

For the Swiss way of life rests solidly on one concept: the resource, fitness and initiative of the individual—every man solving his own problems, responsible for himself, striving constantly to make his own living and free to choose how to make it. More than that, there is cooperation as well as competition. Each Swiss recognizes that his own prosperity is bound up with that of his neighbor.

Take for an example a dairy farmer of the high A'ps. His farm is perched at the head of a narrow valley, against a background of snowy precipices—seven or eight acres of stony soil, some of it so steep that if he weren't sure-footed he might fall out of his farm and break his neck.

A central planning board won't do doubt decide that such a farm was "submarginal," an inefficient part of the national economy. The farmer would be moved out, put to work on some big collectivist farm in the lowlands. But this family, left to do its planning for itself, stays here and figure out its own living on its own land, and does pretty well.

There are pigs, cows and chickens. Baskets of loam are carried to a sheltered spot to make a productive vegetable garden. The farm is nearly independent of an outside food supply. The cash crop is milk. Milk means hay. So the stones are removed from the meadows, and the land is manured and fertilized with painstaking thoroughness. An ingenious irrigation system is constructed by the farmer himself. A small brook, boiling down from the high snows, is diverted by a trough made of hollowed-out logs and carried in a network of ditches out over the sloping meadows. As a result the farmer has a stand of hay as thick and luxuriant as if it had grown on a rich river bottom.

In winter this farmer and his family go to work in the factory in the village or operate an independent manufacturing unit. The whole family makes watch parts, wooden utensils, cigars; the women do handembroidery, straw plaiting. They receive the materials each week from a factory in the lower valley, send back the completed product. They have a lathe powered by the stream that irrigates the fields. To this work they bring the same intensive skills that they devote to their farming. The quality of the work being high, the pay is good.

The Swiss like an activity that keeps the family together. Yet the family is not an isolated unit for it co-operates in many ways with the other families of the valley. During the summer herds are pooled and driven by the cowherds employed jointly by all the farmers to the high grass slopes, right under the cliffs, the common property of all. The village cheese factory belongs to the Co-operative, in which each farmer has a joint share, and control in proportion to the amount of milk he delivers — a share in the management and a share in the profits.

Participation in these co-operative activities is voluntary. A farmer does not have to pool his herd with the others for the grazing. He doesn't have to bring his milk to the cheese factory. He can, and often does, deliver it to the tourist hotel down the valley.

By a combination of working for himself and co-operating with others the farmer gets by, has a little more in his savings account at the end of each year. It's a hard but satisfying life. At the end of the days he sits at the head of the long table under the light shaded by a colored handkerchief. Mother and the girls on one side, the boys on the other. Between them the big bowl of soup, the ham, the cheese, the big brown loaf. What they have they have made themselves.

What is true of the farmer is true of other Swiss workers. They make a good living — in spite of their country's poverty in resources — through hard work and individual resourcefulness.

They work longer hours and with fewer holidays than we are used to. And they work with skill perhaps better than the neighbors make at home, that the latter are willing to buy them back. That is the basis of all the Swiss industries: watches and clocks, precision instruments, hydro electric machinery, chemicals, textiles.

The Swiss must keep ahead of their neighbors in ingenuity. They must constantly invent new things and new processes better than the old. The United States grants annually 330 new patents per million of population. Switzerland grants 630 per million. Every manufacturer keeps up an unending search for new inventions. And this ingenuity isn't confined to the laboratories of a few big corporations. It abounds among small businesses and individuals.

There's big business in Switzerland especially in the heavy industries. But generally the industrial units are small. Only 30 per cent of Swiss workers work for companies employing 100 or more. The great majority of businesses have less than twenty employees each. The typical unit, especially in the largest industry, watches and clocks, has ten to fifteen employees and the owner is usually the manager.

In Switzerland there's no great gulf between employer and employe. When you walk around a Swiss city you can't tell which is the workingmen's quarter. Usually there isn't any. An employer and some of the men who work for him often live in the same block, go to work on the same street car.

Marx and other socialists have said that in a capitalist system the rich grow richer and the poor poorer. But the spread between the rewards of managers and workers is much greater in Communist Russia than in capitalist Switzerland. There are not many large incomes in Switzerland, and Swiss economy does not produce great concentrations of wealth. On the other hand the average worker makes good money, an expert watchmaker may earn $10 to $20 a day, and skill brings similar rewards in other industries. And the worker is likely to keep on to his money. In 1937, 75 per cent of Swiss men, women and children had savings accounts.

Switzerland is no industrial Utopia. It has its strikes and lockouts, but rarely its strikes and violence. But the record is better than in most great industrial nations.

The labor unions are strong. So are the associations of manufacturers. Neither dominates the other, for the machinery for negotiation is well organized. In each industry the union and the association negotiate a contract covering wages, hours, working conditions and a hard and fast provision for the arbitration of disputes.

Within each company there is provision for close and continuing contact between employer and employe. There is often a joint committee on which they are represented 50-50. It meets weekly to hear complaints and to consider any matters of mutual interest. In these meetings the employer is likely to discuss not only operating matters but also his financial policies, his troubles and his hopes.

Government touches the workingmen most closely in its social-security legislation. In this the Swiss are guided by three principles. First, such legislation should not undermine individual self-reliance. Second, security should be attained voluntarily by each recipient. Third: legislation should take account of local conditions.

The Swiss theory is that the state should look out only for those who can't be expected to look out for themselves: children, the old, the sick and disabled. The Swiss have always shied away from legislation that attempts to guarantee social security from the cradle to the grave." Old-age pensions, unemployment insurance, sick benefits (with the exception of industrial accident insurance) are generally based on voluntary funds set up by each industry, in which employer, employee and the government contribute. If a man doesn't want security, he doesn't have to have it or pay for it.

They localize their social legislation as far as possible. Each canton feels that it can meet its own problems better than can leave them on to the federal government. But when industries overlap cantonal lines, legislation affecting them must as a rule be by the central government.

The Swiss believe in private, competitive industry. They are against private monopoly. The government owns or controls it. The country is too small for more than one railway; government owns it. The same with communications. Public utilities are nearly all owned or controlled by local governments.

But government does not attempt the central planning of private industry. The theory is that the market is the one who makes the rules of the game, not the quarterback who calls the plays. It makes the rules of fair competition. It says, "You must." And not too much of "You must not."

Since about 90 per cent of Switzerland's principal manufactured goods must be exported, the Swiss watch the world of stable currencies a world of free trade in which individuals everywhere are free to buy and sell to each other. Of course, they do not know what kind of world they face in the future. But the Swiss are not a people who "walk reluctantly backward into the future," their eyes fixed only on the past. Their whole temperament and training is to go constantly forward. They want progress. But progress to them is not moving away from individual freedom and self-reliance. They do not see liberty and material well-being as two alternatives. They see freedom and well-being as indivisible, the one following upon the other.

WITH THE CANADIANS IN GERMANY

Between 20,000 and 25,000 Canadian troops spent Christmas in Germany. They are the Canadian Army Occupation Force. It is the purpose of this article to set forth what they are doing, why and where they are doing it, under what conditions and for how long.

When the Allies decided Britain, Russia, France and United States would divide Germany into four sections for military occupation, Canada was asked to provide one sixteenth of the occupation forces. Canada was allotted a piece of Northwest Germany, roughly eighty miles square. It runs along the North Sea from Emden to Wilhelmshaven and inland to Bremen and Oldenburg.

Canada is committed to provide this force at least until March 31st, 1946. But occupation may well go much longer. As yet no Belgian or Dutch troops are used for this purpose. Possibly Canadians will be relieved of this duty by troops of these countries before Allied occupation of Germany is discontinued. The Canadian troops hope so—but speculation is dangerous.

The Canadian troops, under Major General "Chris" Vokes, are in that piece of Germany to see that the will of Field Marshal Montgomery is enforced. Their main problem is to ensure continued good order.

Canadian troops are the only occupation troops in this area. They live in barracks, most of them in the city of Oldenburg. In day and night shifts they mount guard over power plants, bridges, important industries and offices, food distribution points, stations, hospitals. They are always armed.

Canadian troops do not act as police. They do not patrol streets with rifles over their shoulders. German police do these jobs. But if the local police fail in their duty, or if trouble is anticipated, a unit of Canadian troops rushes to the scene in strength. They do not go out alone.

One of the most delicate problems is the care of the vast and tragic number of displaced persons. If these people feel their suffering too much they may make trouble. And whether they make trouble with German authorities or with Canadian troops it is all one parcel of grief to the Occupation Force. Displaced persons, lack of housing, food shortage, epidemics — there is no lack of danger in such a combination.

Another big task is proper distribution of food and fuel. Communications are still badly disrupted. Canadian troops don't actually transport these things but they see that they arrive where the need is greatest. It is their task, too, to see to the clearance of blocked transport lines, delayed deliveries, traffic confusion.

Main trouble with the life of an occupation soldier is that it is dull. He is fed well, twice the calories of the civilian population he is caring for. But his food is not exciting. He is given education and sports programs to occupy his spare time. Concerts and other forms of entertainments air laid on fairly regulary. Leave is arranged to England, Paris, Brussels, Amsterdam. But—his job is dull.

Still, reports that American troops are getting out of hand— notably in France — do not seem to have paralleled situations with Canadian troops. Authorities I talked to here this week — some just back — say there has been "no trouble."

Discipline is good, they say. There has been fraternization to some extent—for the biological urge is fundamental. But by and large Canadian troops in Germany have cared for themselves and their duties in fine fashion.

Army leave centres in continental cities and in England make it possible for the Canadian soldier to get along on his regular pay. Otherwise European prices are fantastic. However, the soldier with a chocolate bar or a cigarette is said to be in a position to state his wishes and sit back and wait.

Troops for this Occupation Force were chosen first of all by their own officers. Army Commandos and paratroopers were sent out asking overseas troops if they wanted to go to the Pacific, (b) remain in Germany (c) get out of the Army. Not quite one-third of the required 25,000 volunteered to remain in Germany.

The force was then built up by officers and men with low point scores, and by officers and men with particular training or skill especially suited them to occupation work. Cooks, for example, are scarce. So, many cooks with high point scores that would otherwise have brought them home were asked to remain with the Occupation Force. Likewise with trained officers, clerks, personnel speaking German. But there is a gradual repacking of all personnel that want to come home, as soon as substitutes can be found for them, here in England.

In Germany, it is said, you do not hear the term "Zombie" or the letters N.R.M.A. They are not identifiable as such in any way. They were not selected as such. Because many N.R.M.A. men had low point scores, however, a good proportion of the Occupation Force is made up of them.

No attempt was made to compose the Occupation Force of complete units, nor to have it represent regions or provinces on a relative scale. There were just two considerations in making up this force: (1) low pointers, (2) indispensables.

Actually there are not quite 25,000 in the Force right now. But as the repatriation of the Canadian Army in England proceeds there will be troops transferred from the repat machine—men who have been running the repatriation job—to bring the Occupation Force to its establishment. They will be mostly low pointers.

This Occupation Force in Germany is quite distinct from the general pool of Canadian troops overseas awaiting transport home. Most of the latter are in England, some still in Holland. By the 15th of January the pool in Holland will be moved out. By the end of January only 60,000 Canadian troops will be overseas; 25,000 in the German Occupation Force and 35,000 awaiting ships in England.

It is wise to avoid speculation on how long our troops will remain in Germany. But for the anxious and curious there are some thoughts. The Canadian Government once stated that no soldier would be kept in Germany on the Occupation Force more than two years. On the other hand the expiry date of the present commitment is March 31. Army officials have three plans in their desk: (a) what to do if the force is moved out March 31; (b) what to do if it is to stay a year; (c) what to do if it is to stay longer than a year.

The decision is not yet made. It is not a matter of Army policy but of Government policy. Indeed, it is international policy. In the meantime, Canadians are spending some time in Germany. Maybe this story will remind us to give them at least of good cheer and good luck.

SYNTHETIC VS. NATURAL RUBBER

Wartime research had brought forth synthetic rubber of various types which have noteworthy advantages over natural rubber. Butyl, for example, is superior as an airretaining material. Butaprene-N and neoprene, which resist oil and gasoline, will be utilized on the basis of that quality. Butaprene-N also is resistant to low temperatures. GR-S of which most tires are made to-day compares favorably with natural rubber in giving long mileage in passenger car tires.

Of course, quality and production costs will determine the relative positions of synthetic and natural rubber. In satisfying the huge backlog of demand for tires, during which we will use rubber of both types, the synthetic rubber industry will have opportunity further to improve its products and reduce cost of production.

We have had GR-S rubber in large amounts for only two and a half years, so it is not unreasonable to expect the discovery of new and better compounding ingredients that will further enhance its value, and the development of improved qualities in the synthetic rubber itself.

Recent technical surveys of the German synthetic rubber industry have disclosed that we surpassed German technology in the manufacture and use of synthetic rubber. Some of the compounding ingredients used by the Germans, however, may have merit, and these are now under extensive tests.

The competition between natural and synthetic rubber is, however, economically healthy and desirable, regardless of the outcome. The consumer is assured of receiving the best produce at the lowest possible cost.

Economic and industrial conditions of the future will dictate what should be done with synthetic rubber plants that ultimately may become unessential for current needs. However, we should never permit our synthetic rubber industry to decline to the point where it cannot meet requirements in a national emergency.

Some key plants should be maintained constantly on a stand-by basis to prevent such a possibility. Other plant units could be made available for conversion to other production, such as the copolymerizing of plastic raw materials.

America invested heavily in the synthetic rubber industry during the war, and it paid dividends in speed to victory. It will continue to pay dividends in the years of peace ahead.

SUN HELPS SWEDISH INDUSTRY

Almost a fifth of Sweden is above the Arctic Circle. Climate is tempered by the warm Atlantic current twisting into the Skagerrak. The polar ice cap slipped off the southern tip of the peninsula thousands of years ago, left hundreds of footprints as lakes, seamed the land with rivers. Mountains rise ruggedly in the north. Winter blankets the land with cold and darkness. Summer comes with a rush.

Biggest sight is the midnight sun viewed from one of the northern peaks. The sun is a worker as well as a wonder. It thaws the northern snows, melts glacial ice, creates streams that provide the "white coal" for industrial power developments. Before the war about two-thirds of the country's 11,000 miles of railway had been electrified. Electricity is taming the wilderness, lugging it from the iron-packed hills in the north, taking the drudgery out of farm and household chores.

47TH L.A.A. BATTERY OVERSEAS MEMBERS HOLD REUNION

To be Annual Event

A pleasant get-together of the returned men of the 47th L. A. A. Battery, Canadian Artillery, was held in the Superior Tea Room, last Wednesday evening. The 47th L.A.A. Battery was formerly known as the 3/47th Field Battery and was mobilized in July 1940, composed of three troops, Napanee, Colborg and Belleville, each mobilizing one troop.

The banquet was well attended and was presided over by Major C. D. Sills, Officer-Commanding the 47th Field Battery (R.P.), here, who saw service in both World Wars and who was the first O.C. of the Napanee Troop of the old 3/47th. Guests were present from Cobourg, Major Manning, Lieut. George Mitchell and B.Q.M.S. Jack Ewart.

In a Crossman sang two vocal solos which were greatly enjoyed and the accompanist was Mrs. W. V. Drury. Sing-songs were led by J. S. Black.

Impromptu addresses were given by the three guests from Cobourg, also by J. H. Stewart, J. S. Black, Lynn Crossman and Earl Loucks.

Present plans call for reunions of the members at periodic intervals, and the two officers selected were Lieut. Black as secretary and Ray Loucks treasurer.

Maj. Manning told the servicemen present that he was right behind the idea of sticking together for comradeship and for the good of the community as a whole, which meant the Dominion of Canada, he said. He stated that there are many service men out of work and many who will not be able to find work that they want to do. "It is necessary for us to keep together for strength," he advised.

Jack Ewart, who is Town Clerk and Treasurer, of Cobourg, said that it was planned to hold a reunion of the battery veterans in Cobourg, in the spring. Tentative plans made at the meeting indicated that there was a possibility that a reunion of the members would also be held in the fall in Napanee.

The Battery went overseas in September 1941 under the command of Major Gilbert Howitt (now Lieut.-Colonel), and served in both Italy and Northwestern Europe.

A social time was spent in the Officers' Mess at the Armouries, following the banquet.

At present he is with the electrical staff of The Mersey Paper Company.

Flight-Sergeant Wigglesworth was awarded the B.E.M. for his valuable work in the R.C.A.F. and on behalf of his friends of Napanee and district, we wish to pay him tribute, and extend to him our best wishes for the future.

RED CROSS NEWS

The monthly business meeting of the Napanee Red Cross Society was held the first Saturday in the New Year, the president, Miss Herrington was in the chair, and there was a good attendance.

It was decided to hold the annual meeting on the evening of January 28th. This is an open meeting and everyone is invited to attend.

Following the business meeting, Miss Elizabeth Madden who has served overseas as a Nursing Sister, gave an interesting talk on her experiences both in England and on the Continent. This was enjoyed so much, that it is the hope of those who attended, Miss Madden may be induced to speak on the same subject again. Mrs. W. H. Duffett moved a vote of thanks to the speaker, which was heartily endorsed by all present.

The monthly tea, which followed, was convened by Mrs. Percy Asselstine and Mrs. Mac Herrington, with Mrs. Ralph Hann, pouring.

Mrs. Burns, convener of wool, reports a large quota of knitted garments, and requests that anyone interested in taking wool for this purpose, please contact her.

ANONYMOUS DONOR MAKES CHRISTMAS HAPPIER FOR NAPANEE NEEDY

The above picture was taken on the Market Square in Napanee, on Monday, December 24th, 1945, just prior to the distribution of Christmas gifts, made possible by the anonymous donation of $100.00 to Chief T. S. Moore.

The money was spent on provisions, including beef, potatoes, fruit, nuts, Christmas cake, and other food for fourteen needy families of the town, other than those given help by The Salvation Army Christmas Cheer Fund.

In addition to the Christmas dinners, toys were donated by F. A. Correll of The Canadian Department Stores, and the Rotary Club provided clothing for children.

In the picture may be seen: Chief Moore, A. E. Holmes, President of The Rotary Club, F. A. Correll, Donald Moore, son of Chief Moore; Stewart Moore, another son of Chief Moore, who acted as Santa Claus and who distributed the gifts.

Ministerial Association Monthly Meeting

Napanee and District Ministerial Association met at 10:30 a.m., at The Salvation Army Citadel in Napanee, on Tuesday, January 8th, 1946. Those present were the Rev. H. A. Bunt, president, and Lieut. Jones, Captain Murrell, and the Revs. A. W. Lougheed, W. Fletcher, H. C. Secker, J. A. Haw, N. Hatton, D. McLellan, J. Robinson, W. H. Clarke, W. R. Merrick, J. F. Dingman, W. H. Baugh, H. B. Herrington, K. J. Crawford.

The secretary was instructed to send a letter of appreciation and thanks to Mr. Jim of The Grande Theatre, for his presentation of a special showing for the ministers, of the "Tree Library."

It was agreed that the next meeting be held in Trinity Church, Napanee, and that the speaker be the Rev. H. A. Bunt, of Deseronto.

The Rev. Noble Hatton, B.A., of Trinity Church, Napanee, in a very timely paper on Evangelism For Our Time. His paper was suggested by a book by Professor E. G. Homrighausen, Th.D., D.D., of Princeton Theological Seminary, "Choose Ye This Day". Mr. Hatton said that evangelism is the duty of the Church and that everywhere today calls interest in preaching. Some say that the Church is failing; that it does not have a real contact with life, that its members are living on a devitalized faith. There is a great need for commitment on the part of Christians, for when there is no high sense of responsibility, public morals lapse. The question to be asked is, "Have we lost the dynamic faith of the gospels? Has Jesus become a teacher rather than a Saviour? Is our ideal a decent man, rather than a converted man?"

The Bible pictures men and women who are under a "holy mist." In the Christianity of the New Testament there is a dethroning of man, and a putting of Christ in control. This is, for the Christian, faith. It has in it repentance and sorrow; but far more also, a moral recreation. Sorrow and repentance avail, divine reaction, and in the measure of man's obedience to this divine fellowship is found the real. We must seek to escape what they really want and yet what they fear. But still, Jesus remains, not God. Man has a multitude of "egos" in conflict, and God uses evangelism to combine these egos. Through Christ, we all have the call of Christ to "Follow Me". We must evangelize that is confront humanity with Jesus; for Christianity is not a religion, it is a God-centred revelation.

Different members expressed their appreciation to Mr. Hatton for his paper, and a unanimous vote of thanks was given by Mr. McLellan and seconded by Mr. Merrick.

The meeting was closed by Mr. Secker pronouncing the benediction.

"It Pays To Advertise"

A subscriber, after reading The Beaver advertisement in last week's issue, headed "It Pays To Advertise", brought in the following poem:

IT PAYS

When the dimpled baby's hungry, what does the baby do?
It doesn't fix serenely and merely sweetly coo;
The hungry baby bellows with all its little might Till someone gives it something to curb its appetite;
The infant with the bottle which stills its fretful cries
A lesson plainly teaches— it pays to advertise.

The lamb lost on the hillside when darkness closes round Stands not in silence trembling and waiting to be found;
Its plaintive bleating echoes across the vales and fields
Until the shepherd hears it, and, hearing, kindly heeds.
And when its fears are ended, as on he wends his way
He bleats that it pays to advertise.

The lamb is safe and gentle maiden who loves the bashful boy Assumes in his presence a manner that is coy;
She blushes and she trembles till he perceives at last,
And clasps her closely to him and gladly holds her fast.
And as he bends to kiss her and she serenely sighs
This fact is demonstrated: It pays to advertise.

Magistrate's Court

Magistrate Garvin, in the Napanee Police Court, last Thursday, heard evidence in two small cases and because of the conflicting nature of the evidence dismissed both charges. Daniel M. Kirk, of Tamworth, was charged with assault of Elliott Wagar, and Elliott Wagar, of Tamworth, was charged with assaulting Daniel M. Kirk, occasioning actual bodily harm.

The alleged assaults were said to have been committed at Tamworth on November 7, Kirk's and Wagar's in company with some other men were in the beverage room of the Queen's Hotel at Tamworth and in an argument over the amount of board Kirk was willing to pay Wagar Wagar alleged that Kirk struck him in the face and broke his glasses. Wagar claimed that Kirk refused to pay for the glasses, alleging that he had not been responsible for the damage done them. Kirk stated that he left the beverage room and went to a car outside and that Wagar followed him and beat him up, causing bodily damage which made it necessary for him to later go to Toronto, where an operation was performed to remove a clot of blood from his head.

No witnesses were produced by Kirk who substantiated all of his evidence and the Magistrate decided to dismiss the charges against both men.

Donald Dalnard paid a $5.00 fine and $2.00 costs after pleading guilty to careless driving.

Donald Nugent also paid $5.00 fine and $2.00 for careless driving.

Asked in school to name the ages, young Tommy replied:
"The Ice Age, The Stone Age, The Dark Age, and the Short Age."

Shopkeeper (angrily): What's the idea of throwing those shoes away?
New Assistant: They're no good. I've tried them on six customers and they don't fit anyone.

HAROLD BRANDON ELECTED WARDEN FOR YEAR 1946

Mr. Harold Brandon, Reeve of Ernestown Township, was elected Warden of the County of Lennox and Addington at the first meeting of the 1946 County Council, held on Tuesday afternoon of this week.

Mr. Brandon was elected Reeve of Ernestown for 1945, and was re-elected Reeve by acclamation for 1946. He has been Deputy-Reeve of the Township for several years, and had previously been a member of the Township Council for several years.

COUNCIL PASSES NEW RESOLUTION SWING BRIDGE

At a special meeting of the Napanee Town Council held on Friday evening, January 11th, for the purpose of tabling all correspondence and taking action in connection with the swing bridge in Napanee, a motion was moved by Councillor Ross and Deputy-Reeve Holmes, that the Napanee Council accept the County's proposition which stipulated that the bridge be taken over by the County on a payment basis of 75 per cent. principal, 15 per cent. town and 10 per cent. county, and that the town introduce a "by-law zoning the section east of the bridge and assume all property damage.

An amendment to Councillor Viney and Deputy-Reeve Holmes' motion, was moved by Councillor Ramsay and Councillor Webster and unanimously passed by the Council that the Town accept the County's proposition that the County take over the swing bridge as part of the County Road System on the basis of dividing the costs on a 75 per cent. province, 10 per cent. county and 15 per cent. town with a reservation that should there be any costs or expenses in the Dominion Government requires the bridge to be transformed with a swing span, that these costs be shared equally by the town and the county.

The first motion was passed, Mr. Cranse, the town clerk, reviewed previous action in connection with the matter. He said that in 1944 the County Council passed a by-law arranging to take over the bridge on a 75 per cent. province, 12½ per cent. county and 12½ per cent. town basis. When the by-law was sent to the Department in Toronto, there was found to be a slight technical error in its wording and it was sent back to the County Council for alteration.

The matter came up again at the January 1945 session of the County Council and was laid over until the March session, when it was again passed at the June session. In September, at a special meeting of the County Council, a resolution was passed to the effect that the County Council wait on the Minister of Public Highways to ask that the Province of Ontario take over Highway No. 41 to Coles Point, including the bridge at the Ferry, from the County. The Town Council also sent a delegation with the County delegation to wait on the Minister who was told by the Minister that the Department could not consider taking over the part of the road mentioned.

Since that time the County made another proposition that it would take over the bridge on a cost basis of 75 per cent. province, 10 per cent. county and 15 per cent. town, provided the town would zone the district east of the bridge and assume all damage costs.

LARGE ATTENDANCE AT ANNUAL MEETING FISH & GAME ASS'N

Association Membership Greatly Increased in Past Year

About 125 members and visitors were present at the annual dinner meeting of the Lennox and Addington Fish and Game Protection Association, held at the Superior Hotel, Napanee, last Tuesday and heard the various reports of committees in charge of conservation and protection of the fish and game in this county.

President P. K. Ketcheson was in the chair and, following a venison dinner, welcomed the gathering and spoke briefly on the objects of the association.

Secretary-Treasurer Frank Correll gave the minutes of the last regular meeting and also the financial statement for the past year.

In the absence of Mr. Carman Dale the President read a report of the Conservation Committee and the work that body had accomplished in the past year in respect to the restocking of the various lakes and rivers in the district, with trout, bass 'lunge and pickerel fingerlings. Mr. Ketcheson also spoke of the great need for further work of this kind in the coming season.

Mr. D. Roblin was then called upon to report on the Hunting Committee and reported that the number of hunters taking part in the annual deer hunt had greatly increased and the number of deer shot was in fair proportion.

REFORESTATION

Mr. M. Holden, of Deseronto, was then introduced by the chairman and in his address, enlightened his audience on the value and importance of reforestation in the county. He gave facts and figures of the work accomplished in other counties and pointed out the benefits of the planting of trees, not only in the matter of fish and game conservation, but also of the tremendous amount of money brought into the county by tourists whose main purpose in coming to Canada was to fish and hunt. He also spoke of the prevention of soil erosion by tree planting and the holding back of surplus water in areas which normally went dry in early summer months. In a recent survey, he said that in this county, hundreds of acres of unsused lands were being wasted and could be converted into valuable timber land in the next quarter century, and concluded his address with an appeal to those present to do everything possible to see this work carried out.

PRIZES PRESENTED

Mr. F. A. Correll then read the names of the winners of the Fishing Competition held by the Association and the following anglers were presented prizes for their catches:—

Brook Trout, 14½ inches long, weighing 1 lb. 6 oz., caught in Pennella's Creek, by Jack Dale.

Pickerel, 7½ lbs., caught in Bay of Quinte, by Harry Seymour.

Northern Pike, 9 lbs. 32½ inches long, 13½inch girth, caught by Bert Weiss, Hay Bay.

GAME FISH RESOLUTION

The Secretary then presented resolution pertaining to the taking of pickerel from the Bay of Quinte area by commercial fishermen, and the Association went on record as approving a closed season from April 1st to May 15th, of each year. The resolution was also approved by Trenton, Belleville and Kingston Associations.

PRESIDENT'S REPORT

In giving the President's Report of the work of the Association during the past year, Mr. Ketcheson spoke highly of the co-operation he had received from the directors and the members of the Association during his term of office.

Among the highlights of the work accomplished last year, were the Bird House Contest and the valuable education derived from this form of work; the appearance of pheasants in the county in respect to fish and game, and the benefits resulting from the egg fodder, procured by the Association, for which requests were received from Alberta on the west and the State of Carolina in the U.S and the 98 per cent. increase in membership over the previous year.

In concluding his report the President announced that the Council of the Township of North Fredericksburgh had passed a resolution that a half-mill be added on the general assessment, and applied to the work of reforestation in the township. He also added that similar resolutions were before the Council of many of the municipalities in the county.

OFFICERS ELECTED

The Nominations Committee, in presenting their slate of officers for the coming season, advised the Association that they believed a greater number of directors should be on the Board and the following list was presented for election:—

President—P. K. Ketcheson.

Vice-President— Wallace Roy, R. A. Spoke of Bath and Carman Dale.

Directors — C. Dale, H. Skitch, H. Vine, R. Hunter, G. Howitt, Ed. Morley, E. J. Bowerman, Ray Card, R. Walsh, Frank Ham, Edgar Drew, D. Roblin, M. Holden, W. Silks.

At the conclusion of the meeting a picture in technicolor, entitled "A Day On The Western Marshes of Ducks Unlimited," was shown. The film gave the audience a true picture of game birds in the duck family and elements which largely affect their lives and the methods used to conserve and protect them, as well as feed in the western part of the Dominion and in the United States.

Holstein Breeders Hold Annual Meeting

About 25 of the breeders of the County were out for the annual meeting in the Agricultural Board Room on Thursday.

The District Fieldman, Roy Organton, gave an informal talk on the year's proceedings, reviewing Black and White Days and Championship Shows. He was able to show results in figures from the adoption of the new bull registration policy.

A lively discussion followed the subject of proposed R.O.P. policy changes.

The Club President urged all who could to attend the annual meeting in Toronto in February. He also endorsed Mr. Organton's suggestion to breeders to join R.O.P. with an eye to future markets for our cattle in Europe, South America, and the U.S.A.

It was decided to hold a Field Day and Banquet in the early part of June, families this summer, and to have the annual banquet next fall.

The new board of directors of the Club are to act for the year 1946.

ROTARIANS HOLD 'LADIES' NIGHT'

Over 100 Rotarians, their wives and guests, attended the annual "Ladies' Night" at the Superior Banquet Hall on Tuesday evening of this week.

The President of the Club, "Tony" Holmes, presided for the programme, which followed a delicious chicken dinner. Vocal solos were contributed by Bert Weiss and Earl Morrison and piano selections were played by Mrs. B. M. Black and W. R. Eppes. Alex. MacGregor led in community singing.

Major Ketcheson showed three sound films in beautiful technicolor, one of the beauty spots of Canada from Kingston to the sea, an interesting interview with Paul Harris, founder of Rotary, in his garden and home in Chicago, and one of wild life in Western Canada, showing the methods being used to propagate and protect game birds.

A welcome was extended to the ladies and guests by Mayor D. R. Hall, and G. J. Tustin, M.P., thanked all who contributed to the programme.

THE NEW FLAG

Apparently, some time or other, Canada is to have a new flag. One that will be distinctly Canadian. We have never heard much clamor for such an inovation, but probably the clamor has gone on without the noise reaching the Weekly Press, ar at least the section of it which we happen to see. But, perhaps, the Government has sound detectors that are able to pick up the whispers that escape the ordinary ear. If there are any such sound detectors, we have a suspicion that they are all directed to a certain section of Canada.

Speaking of flags, however, we have a sinking feeling in the pit of the stomach every time we look up at the one on top of the Post Office. There are occasions when the rags and tatters into which the flag has been torn, is a mark of pride and honor, a symbol of strife, of sacrifice, and sufferings.. There are other times when the rags and tatters can hardly be regarded as a credit to those responsible for its prutection and care. We do not know whether there is any regulation about flags, but we were under the opinion that they should be raised in the morning and taken down in the evening. At any rate, if they are to be flown all night, every night and in all weathers, on a public place, someone should be appointed by the proper authorities, to see that a new one is secured every so often, in order that the National Symbol should, at least, leave the impression that it is not altogether neglected.

WHY NOT?

During the war we had National Days of Prayer, sponsored by the Government. We believe they fulfilled a purpose in the national struggle. And when the war was over we had services of thankgiving — all well and good But is it all to end at that? Here we are faced today with the greatest opportunity for world peace, with which the world has ever been faced. Fifty nations are meeting in the Central Hall, in London, to lay the basis of a world organization to ensure peace. If ever there was a time when men and nations needed Divine Guidance, it is at this very moment. We know how difficult human relations are, even within a family, and a community, and how much more difficult they are in a nation. When large numbers of people are involved, there are bickerings, suspicions, and distrust. We see that in our own country.

Here, in London, the situation is even more difficult. Here representatives of fifty-one nations are meeting. They speak many languages, they have differing ideologies, and philosophies; they are adherents of conflicting religious beliefs. Naturally, there will be misunderstanding and suspicion to be overcome before anything like a concerted and unified programme of world peace is worked out.

Under those circumstances, with the fate of the world lying in the balance, and the future of the race at stake, it was surely reasonable to expect that the Government would have called for a National Day Of Prayer. It may be argued that the first week in the year was the Annual Week of Prayer. True — but that is quite a different matter from a special occasion sponsored and declared by the Government. Apparently, now that the war is won, the Government is not particularly interested in these matters. Under the circumstances, the individual and the various churches will, no doubt, continue to pray that the first historic meeting of the U.N.O. will be fruitful of great good, and lasting peace.

CONTROLS AGAIN

Herbert Morrison, government leader in the British House of Commons, who has been visiting Canada and The United States, had something to say about controls, which we hope will be heard in places of high authority in this country. He said in Washington: "That Britain will retain her tight war-time economic controls long enough to avoid inflation and to plan for the time when we can spread employment, production and purchasing power."

He said, further: "That the British people had no intention of repeating the silly business of scrapping controls as was done after the last war—a mistake, he said, which led to a short artificial boom, and then to an economic smash."

That was a brave thing to say in The United States, where controls have been largely taken off. The fallacy of this precipitate policy is not far to see. There is an increase in the cost of commodities, with a corresponding demand for increase in wages. Because the increase in wages is not met — an increase which in some instances reached as high as thirty per cent—there are nation-wide strikes. If the wage increases are granted, then the cost of living goes up proportionately and more increases will be asked for. Thus the inflationary spiral begins. The inevitable result, as Mr. Morrison pointed out, is a great post-war boom—a period of uncontrolled prosperity—and then another economic crash, with millions in the bread line. That is exactly what will happen! We saw it happen following the First World War. We had hoped the nations would have learned their lesson—apparently, Great Britain has learned hers.

In this country, the pressure on the Government to take off the controls, is heavy indeed. This pressure will be accentuated because of our proximity to The United States. Nevertheless, it will be a serious mistake, one fraught with tragic effects on the whole population, should they be removed. They should be kept exactly where they are, until this inflationary time has passed. Only in that way, will it be possible to prevent a major economic catastrophe in this country.

WATCH OUT

When The Evening Telegram of Toronto agrees with the Dominion Government, it is time to watch out. That is what has happened during the past week, when "The Tely" writes with enthusiastic endorsation of the Dominion Government's attitude towards the Canadian Japanese. "The Tely" is of the opinion that the Government has done a wise thing in arranging for the deportation of thousands of our fellow Canadian citizens.

In spite of this companionate marriage, the public will not be misled. There is a rising tide of resentment against the Government's action. In a great protest meeting in Toronto, last week, presided over by the Editor of "Saturday Night," and addressed by, among others, Senator Roebuck, strong resolutions of protest were passed, and money was contributed to finance an appeal to the Courts to test the validity of the regulations which have been passed.

The crux of the matter lies with those Japanese, Canadians by naturalization or birth, who signed a paper presented to them by the request of the Government's R.C.M.P., asking that they be returned to Japan after the war. Now, most of them want to change their application. They argue that the whole matter was misunderstood by them, or inadequately presented. From one Japanese camp comes this statement: — In the petition signed on behalf of all the Japanese in Lemon Crek — "The factor which really tipped the scales making us sign, was this: On the day before we must make our decision, the Mounted Policeman in charge of the whole matter here, called the Japanese Committee to his office where, in the course of his interview, he assured the members of the Committee that it would be quite easy for them to change their minds after the war, if they did sign, now. The Committee announcd this assurance at the general meeting of the residents of the community. This was responsible for many not taking the matter seriously and so, signing their names rather light-heartedly while in their hearts having no intention of going to Japan to live."

There may have been no actual force in making these Japanese ask to be sent to Japan, but all the evidence goes to show there was great pressure. The decent and right attitude for the Government now to take, is to give all those who signed to return, an opportunity to change their minds, or let the case of each be settled in a civil court. It would be a terrible mistake for the Canadian Government to deport holus bolus 10,000 of her own citizens for no crime, whatever.

INTERNATIONAL SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON, JANUARY 20TH, 1946

"LAW ESSENTIAL TO LIBERTY"

Lesson Text: Exodus 20; 1-17

It would manifestly be impossible to treat of these commandments in one study. Indeed the title to the lesson, "Law Essential to Liberty" indicates that it was not intended that they should be so treated. It is more the general view of the necessity of law if liberty is to be preserved, that concerns us at this time.

What a lesson that is for today! Probably not in a thousand years of history has there been such a complete breakdown of law and order in large sections of the world. On every hand the reaction following a war is being felt. Homes are broken, juvenile delinquency is rampant, the prisons are overloaded with scores of crime that make one's blood run cold, liquor flows freely. Now that the days of war are released, there is an cry to unrestrained comfort.

Early in the history of the Hebrew people they were taught by God that liberty is obtained by a moral code, and in obedience to these laws there hope for true liberty, belief in one God, purity of speech, reverence for the Sabbath, care for the workers, honor to age and experience, these along with definite prohibitions against murder, are the code. The prohibitions were against murder, adultery, theft, covetousness, and lying.

It has been hard, if not impossible, to improve on these. They are the foundation on which the British Empire was built. They are the basis of our whole social and spiritual order.

It is hard for us to learn the lesson that it is only by obedience to these that true liberty can be found. I am perfect free to play the piano, but never having learned the laws of piano playing, it would be difficult for me to express any freedom through them. The really free person is the one who has spent long hours a slave to the piano who can rightly express his theme with the keys.

That is true of all life. We must learn the rules of the game, play the game according to the rules or we shall be defeated before we begin. The basis of the universe is orderly. The sun rises and sets at regular times, the seasons come and go, seed time and harvest. The tides are not ahead of expectation but on schedule.

So, too, in the moral order. There is a moral law in the universe. Disobey that law and we suffer, and pay the penalty. There is no lesson that needs to be dinned into the ears of the modern generation more than that. We were, until the war an undisciplined people. During the war we had to discipline ourselves. In peace we must similarly discipline ourselves or we are done.

DEFENSIVE IDEAS MAY NEED TRANSFORMING

BY J. L. GARVIN

In The London Daily Telegraph and Morning Post

Of the Empire's dimensions the area of the mother-island is much less than one per cent. The population and power nourished by that speck in terrestrial space and the greatness of nearly every kind it has put forth through ascending centuries is one of the seven wonders of history.

But if the world-round system under the King's sovereignty were not disintegrated by internal or external pressures, or lost by unwisdom at home, the whole importance of Britain by itself would shrivel and its prosperity fade.

We have examined here the tasks and undertakings of the Socialist regime in the domestic purview. Turn now from that aspect to the vaster and still more critical responsibility of Mr. Attlee's administration for the maintenance, development and defence of the British Empire as a whole.

What is the Empire today as it has emerged intact from the crisis of all time?

It is still the most extensive and astonishing aggregate of contrasting human societies that the world has known. If it had been actually created without planning, its possibility never could have achieved. There is no more than the future of the United States could have been divined when the Pilgrim Fathers anlied. It still covers about a quarter of the planet, and includes a full quarter of the world's computed population.

In defiance of logic its extraordinary entity provides the peaceable solution of many questions that otherwise would be menaces. In higher and lower stages of human existence it promotes as many forms of social and political progress such as the beneficiaries by themselves never could have achieved. There is no habitable substitute for it. Its disruption and dissolution would be the certain signal for another world-war and for a hundred subsidiary wars.

But, in effect, there are "Two Empires" — some would say, three. A radical distinction runs through the British Commonwealth system. The larger part of its extent is a Commonwealth but not an Empire in the sense of the centralised and dominating rule. India remains an intermediate proposition owing to the profound difference between her sects. The rest of the territories under the King, forming perhaps a third of the whole are a true Empire but not a Commonwealth.

Thus, the realities of the Britannic system are the opposite of what, for instance, a large part of American opinion is led to suppose.

No mare under the thumb of Downing Street than is the United States itself, the Dominions are sovereign nations co-ordinate with Britain as with each other. They work with the Mother Country by free partnership and by nothing else.

Through world wars and through all the strains and vicissitudes of the years between, the principle of co-operation without compulsion have been an unmatched pattern in the world's political history, and they are at present an example to mankind. In the second convulsion Canada, Australia, New Zealand and South Africa equalled their fighting epic in the first, and far surpassed their former economic effort. Financial aid was given generous and her air training scheme, a master-stroke.

In the post-war epoch for other reasons, there is the same urgent necessity for the members of the McOmnewealth to stick together and to keep in the same close consultation in war.

The weight of Mr. Attlee's administration, as of many a British government, is doubled when it is known to speak with the sure concurrence of the Dominions. Conversely, in view of the formidable predominance of the Greater Powers on the world's new organization for peace the Dominions for their part realise as never yet that they cannot exert the influence to which they desire except through the joint counsels of the Commonwealth.

Armies, navies, air forces, will change their shape. National service will have to be continued in Britain on an efficient footing parallel with the continued might of American power. We have restored military strength of France. This of all governments is confronted by the problem of it created on Election Day — the unexampled task of transforming Imperial defence in the Dominions and India.

The Prime Minister and the Cabinet have done well in deciding to set up near Diddot a station and plant where experiment and research will deal with the beneficent, no less than with the maleficent, powers of the new force. The former use may well be both supreme and saving. "Out of the eater came forth meat." Whether from this point of view the Government's proposed instalation is on a sufficient scale is for the Opposition to criticise.

Some thoroughly practical experts are confident that in two or three years the force of the future will begin to be tamed to the peaceable service of man. The whole question of atomic energy with its creative and destructive alternatives, requires to be handled with tremendous common sense, and, if possible, with abnormal coolness.

Three conclusions are outstanding for the island and the Empire.

First. if there is to be another and a greater industrial revolution, Britain, for her crowded, hospitable, is be a pioneer where it would be fatal to lag.

Second, wherever the economic use of atomic power develops, bomb-making capacity must simultaneously increase.

Third, in this immeasurable business the Empire must be one—not by formal bonds but by far closer consultation in peace-time than has existed before. For instance, the island has brains but lacks local material, while Canada, near Great Bear Lake, has the largest known deposits of uranium ore, except possibly those of Katanga in the Belgian Congo.

One additional and over-riding conclusion does not peculiarly affect the Britannic system, but involves all civilization. Un paralleled destruction from suggestion is emerging and will multiply. The inducements of co-operative peace can be made proportionate.

The solution of man's riddle of destiny lies not at all in a vain attempt to control specific instruments of war, but in the abolition of the spirit and practice of war itself. That is the "To be or not to be" of our age.

TECHNOLOGICAL STUDIES

One of the main facts brought home to Britain by the war was that her future industrial position would depend largely on the supply forthcoming of first rate technologists. The Coalition Government, realizing this and the consequent necessity for the improvement of higher technical education, appointed a strong committee to consider the entire subject. Ist chairman was Lord Eustace Percy, former Minister of Education, and its report has been published.

First emphasis is laid on the need for a larger output of qualified men from universities and technical colleges. But the second is also stressed for increasing numbers of scientists and technologists, also to administer and organise and apply the results of research to industrial developments.

At present there is an unquestioned deficiency of men of this type. The Committee therefore recommends that the best products of the secondary schools should be encouraged to enter industry. As a corollary to this, the Committee urges the closest co-operation between industry on the one hand, and the universities the chane of universities and technological colleges on the other.

Another step recommended is the setting up of advisory regional councils in Britain to co-ordinate technological studies. These councils would associate themselves with a national campaign to enhance the prestige of the technical professions. In this connection schools would be given information relating to openings and prospects.

At the same time, industry is recommended to take steps to enable employees to take full-time courses at universities and technological colleges and make them easy for promising boys to return to a full-time educational course, however young they may have left the industry. The universities are urged to reorganize the qualifications gained at technological colleges and the teachers are urged to keep their technique up-to-date by occasional substantial periods in industry.

Britain during the war, produced each year about ten thousand engineers hundred men qualified for senior engineering posts, of whom about 35 per cent were university graduates and 65 percent qualified at technological colleges. The committee estimated that this figure of 10,000 must be maintained for the next ten years, and that half these should be graduates of universities.

Vocational Guidance Plans In United Kingdom

Proposals that will make a valuable contribution to the stability of employment in post-war Britain are contained in a report published recently of the Committee appointed by the Coalition Government in January, 1945, under the chairmanship of Sir Godfrey Ince, Secretary of the Ministry of Labour, to consider the establishment of a Juvenile Employment Service.

The machinery to help boys and girls leaving school to find suitable employment has existed in the United Kingdom since the first decade of this century, but hitherto the responsibility has been divided between the Ministeries of Labor and Education and the Scottish Education Department, who are assisted by local advisory committees composed of educationists, employers, work-people, and welfare workers, in addition to the divided control, an inherent weakness has been that the application of existing machinery has been entirely voluntary. Thos administering it have not had a full knowledge either of all the vacancies, or all the juvenile labor available.

The Ince Committee's report states that the chief function of the Juvenile Employment Service is to ensure every boy and girl to play the best possible part as a worker and thus develop his potentialities as a citizen to the utmost extent. First recommendation is therefore that vocational guidance should be given before leaving school to every pupil and that every school should be required to register every school leaver with a service which would be empowered to require his attendance for a personal interview.

To enable the Juvenile Employment Officer to give adequate guidance the Committee proposes that schools should keep a record of every child, covering his physical and intellectual abilities, educational attainment, special aptitudes and interests, qualities of disposition and any special home circumstances. Parallel with this would be a thorough system of local industries and trades and general information on the trends of employment, the development is already being done by the Ministry of Labor which, it is suggested, should prepare a series of suitable pamphlets on careers.

Regarding the technique of vocational guidance the Committee suggests two stages—a school talk by a qualified Juvenile Employment officer addressed to all leavers to which parents should be invited, and later, an individual interview where the school leaver would meet the guidance officer — normally in the presence of his parent and teacher.

The second function of the service is the placing in employment. The Committee states its three main purposes :— to fit the individual into the right job, to direct him from jobs harmful to his health or character or leading to no suitable career, and to ensure, that the supply of juvenile labor is distributed according to national needs. The Committee considered various suggestions for the effective control of engagements but recommended that juveniles should be left free to choose jobs though it is hoped that the proposed system of universal vocational guidance will lead to the wide use of the service for placing.

Regarding blind alley occupations, the report recognizes that a number of placings of this type are inevitable, but suggests collaboration with employers in encouraging the attendance at day continuation classes and other means whereby the juvenile can fit himself for better posts later. Similarly, it would be the duty of the service to keep in touch with juveniles and replace them in more suitable employment when necessary. In general, the service should aim at maintaining supervision throughout adolescence so that the young worker can feel he has, in the Juvenile Employment officer, a friend to whom he can bring his difficulties and worries. The committee recommends the expansion of the already widespread system of "open evenings" at Juvenile Employment offices when young workers are invited to discuss their problems, and suggests close co-operation with employers, trade unions, youth service, youth clubs and the home.

To deal with the special position of boys and girls with marked aptitudes for a vocation for which training is not available near home, the report suggests financial assistance by training grants.

To ensure efficient administration the report suggests that in a new departure in Government machinery, namely the establishment of a central executive to be staffed by officers of the Ministries of Labor and Education, the department. The executive would be part of the Ministry of Labor and the Minister of Labor would be the parliamentary responsibility.

The central executive would be assisted by a staff of specially selected inspectors to disseminate ideas and information and undertake research. Recognizing the importance of aid from the representatives of the education, industry and welfare services, the committee finally recommends that the existing advisory councils for England Wales and Scotland should be replaced by the National Advisory Council for Great Britain with separate advisory committees for Scotland and Wales, while the local Juvenile Employment Committees should be retained as an essential part of the Service.

Artificial Isles And The Pacific War

The war against the Japanese was fought on tropical islands in Pittsburgh as well as the Pacific.

Hundreds of tiny tropical islands—moss, rotting vegetation, bacteria, steaming jungle heat and all—were created in glass by Peter Peter Gray, biologist at the University of Pittsburgh.

With Dr. Gray's tiny replicas of the unusual conditions of Pacific islands at their fingertips, Westinghouse Electric Corporation scientists were able to develop electrical equipment that would function in a tropical climate.

Radar, radio equipment, switchboards, transformers and other apparatus that went to the Pacific war theatre were made to stand up under assaults by fungi and bacteria, extremes of temperature and humidity, all simulated in the artificial islands.

In explaining how the islands were developed Dr. Gray said that room temperature was maintained at 70 degrees Fahrenheit. The bottom of each jar was covered with moss and the air saturated with water to give a humidity functuating between 60 and 80 per cent.

Then, small chunks of bread were placed atop the moss and air skirtight lid was affixed to the jar. The mold that soon formed on the bread was infected with other types of organic growth and the "gardens" were allowed to germinate.

After fungi, bacteria, mites and other organisms common to that hot, humid atmosphere reached a robust stage, Dr. Gray placed samples of equipment in the jar. Daily examinations followed, and detailed records of the damage occurring to each sample of material were kept.

Since the hostile climates are represented at their exaggerated worst in the "jungle hothouses," a month on one of Dr. Grey's artificial islands is estimated to equal six months to a year in the Panama Canal Zone.

Results of the tests have been invaluable in the future design of, determining which materials and protective coverings would stand off the ravages of the exotics. Scientists found that varnishes of the phenol-formaldehyde group possessed great resistance to attack by fungi and bacteria.

USEFULNESS OF THE FORESTS OF CANADA

In Canada there are over 120 distinct species of trees. Only 23 of these are soft trees or softwoods, but they comprise three-quarters of the standing timber and supply nearly eighty per cent. Of the wood used for all purposes. Of the deciduous-leaved or hardwood species, only about a dozen are compared with twice that number of conifers.

The tamarack is one of the larch tree family—the only native family of conifers which drops its leaves in the fall. The name is derived from Labrador to the Rocky Mountains and north to the mouth of the Mackenzie River, where it is found at the northern limit of tree growth. Tamarack is among the heaviest and strongest of the softwoods of eastern Canada. It is quite durable and for that reason is used for railway ties posts and telegraph poles. The wood is valuable for construction purposes, pumps, tanks and vehicle supplies.

The wood of the poplar tree is soft, tough, clear, light in weight and color, tasteless and odorless. Several of these qualities it has been widely used for pile construction and for boxes, baskets and crates. It is also used extensively in the manufacture of excelsior. Most sleds, whose runners and handles are made chiefly from hard

Miss Madden reported $480 in the treasury, $340 of which had been raised during 1945. For the past few years, the members of this organization have been divided into three groups. Henceforth, there will be only two groups, the leaders of which are Mrs. Wilfred Gannon and Mrs. Mounce.

Mrs. Kleinsteuber opened the devotional period with a hymn, Mrs. Harold King read the scripture lesson. This was followed by a prayer for the New Year by Miss Fluke. A delightful piano solo was played by Mrs. Ralph Wightman. The theme prayer, repeated in Unison, closed the meeting.

A cup of tea and cookies served by Mrs. Remington, brought a pleasant evening to a close.

PERSIA HEADLINE CRISIS FOR BRITAIN

BY ALEXANDER CLIFFORD
In The Transatlantic Daily Mail

The writer of this article, former Daily Mail war correspondent, sums up here the situation in Persia. He knows the background. He was in Persia only four months ago.

London. — The first real test of the post-war world is just about on the boil.

The sovereignty and territorial integrity of Persia — a far-off and supremely important land have been solemnly guaranteed in a formal treaty by the Big Three.

Now, beyond any reasonable doubt, Russia has violated that treaty. What are we going to do about it?

There are two aspects of the matter which must be of vital interest to Britain.

First there is the effect of it on the world we live in as a whole.

Secondly, there is the effect on us as citizens of the British Empire.

Persia is the traditional sparring ground of Britain and Russia. There of all places in the world, our respective interests come nearest to meeting — and are farthest.

If Russian influence moves only a little farther south it could collide directly with British interests.

Our Empire air route passes along the southern fringe of Persia. Our oil interests in the south, round Abwaz and Khorramshah are vital to us.

We cannot, as an Empire, be indifferent to what happens in Persia.

Here is a potted history of how the present situation arose:

Britain and Russian armies moved almost bloodlessly in Persia in 1941 to put an end to German intrigues there and to establish an Allied supply line to Russia.

The Soviet troops took over the northern part of the country and the British the South. It was specifically not a military occupation.

America joined later in a technical capacity. Finally, all three countries signed a treaty guaranteeing Persia's sovereignty and integrity.

Here is a quotation from it:

"The armed forces are to maintain no military occupation and will disturb as little as possible the administration and security forces of Persia, the economic life of the country, the normal movements of population, and the application of Persian laws and regulations."

Nothing could be more clear.

Some weeks ago a rebellion broke out in the northern province of Azerbaijan, one of the most populous and fertile regions of Persia.

It described itself as a home-rule movement. The Persian Government sent up troops to quell it.

The Red Army stopped the troops and refused to let them into the Soviet-held zone. The Persian Government protested and pleaded.

It referred to the part of the treaty quoted above. The Russians remained firm.

Moscow alleged that the Persian Government already had enough troops in the area concerned to deal with the situation. Events have shown that this was not the fact — the rebels have now won.

They have now occupied the provincial capital of Tabriz and set up a government. That is the fait accompli with which we, as signatories of the treaty, are today faced.

Now there is nothing new or sudden about this situation. It has been brewing for months.

But it brewed up in semi-secrecy because the treaty established a tripartite censorship in Persia, and the Russians interpreted that as an almost complete ban on news leaving the country.

What correspondents were not allowed to tell was that up in the north, a noisy, rough, energetic party called the Tudeh ("The Masses") was practically in control of the country; that many Persian officials did not dare to exercise their functions; that violently anti-British papers were springing up; that Persian troops going to quell a Kurdish rebellion at Mahabad were stopped and not allowed to proceed; that during the oil crisis of November 1944 the Persian Government had not been permitted to send telegrams to its envoys abroad.

When the Persian Government lost faith in the Governor of Azerbaijan, and with great difficulty managed to sack him, the Russians refused to accept the first three successors that were sent.

And when the fourth was finally accepted he immediately took the peculiar step of calling to the Persian Premier urging him to resign.

So trouble in Azerbaijan was no surprise in Teheran. When I was there four months ago almost everyone I met was prophesying precisely what has in fact, happened.

What is Russia getting at?

The Russian argument is this: "Persia is a feudal and reactionary country.

"The peasants and workers are starving, exploited and oppressed. There are virtually no social services.

"We cannot leave the country in this condition. We cannot deal with a Government of plutocrats and capitalists which must inevitably be hostile to ourselves."

A lot of that is true. The Persian answer is: "We have only been four years free from the old despotic Shah, and we have had foreign troops on our soil all that time.

"We have been able to import nothing, and we have been barely able to use our own communications. We have governed ourselves for 2,000 years.

"Leave us alone and we will show what we can do in the way of reform."

The point is Russia has guaranteed Persia's sovereignty, but she has permitted a rebellion to succeed on Persian soil.

In Teheran the more cautious elements believe that Russia simply wants a long-term foothold on Persian soil between herself and the interests of any other great Power.

In November 1944 Russia asked for five years' prospecting rights for oil over most of Northern Persia, and the Persian Government refused.

Russia does not need the oil. It would like a bid for a vast sphere of influence.

Moderates believe that Russia is after the establishment of a Left-Wing Government in Teheran which would be friendly and obedient to Moscow.

Alarmist observers think that Russia is really expanding outwards. They believe that she is aiming at reaching the Indian Ocean.

They forecast that Britain's oil interests and air interests are in growing danger.

The Moscow Conference must produce some sort of development in this Persian situation.

THE MIXING BOWL

BY Anne Allan
HYDRO HOME ECONOMIST

Hello, Homemakers!

Did Santa Claus leave everyone a pressure cooker? No doubt many have been experimenting with yours. We have been busy making tests so that we may answer the innumerable inquiries which are flooding in. One fact that has been established is that, irrespective of your cooking skill, this method requires special knowledge and forethought. Be sure to paste the cooking time table (that comes with your cooker) on cardboard, and hang it in your kitchen.

Pressure cookers, irrespective of price, operate on the same principle, namely, fast cooking under pressure. Although there are two or three kinds on the market now, differing primarily in the way the steam is released, other types are being manufactured. These saucepans are modern, easy to clean and durable.

The operation of a pressure cooker is streamlined to assist the busy homemaker in preparing nutritious meals quickly. It requires only a few minutes to cook a delectable supper dish for the whole family or two or three vegetables may be cooked in the saucepan without the mixing of flavours or colours.

The saving of fuel is considerable. Cooking a pot roast or less tender meat is accomplished with speed as it cuts the time per pound in half. The use of electricity as a fuel assists in processing since the heat should not fluctuate. Because inexpensive meats are cooked so deliciously, a tremendous saving in food costs results.

TAKE A TIP

1. Care should be taken not to fill the cooker too full or with oversized portions that will close the vent pipe when the cooker cover is sealed.
2. When the desired pressure is reached — which is indicated by a pointer on a gauge or by a slight hissing sound and movement of the weight — the heat should be lowered immediately.
3. Foods with short cooking times will be over - cooked unless the temperature is rapidly reduced. Some cookers may be placed in a small amount of cold water to release steam.
4. Because some foods, as less-tender meats, soups and the like can use longer cooking times, instant pressure reduction is not necessary. A better result is obtained if such foods as dried beans or whole onions are allowed to drop gradually by cooling normally, as a sudden temperature change may cause splitting of the skins.
5. A few minutes too long in the pressure pan can cook vegetables into an unrecognizable mass.
6. The short cooking time also preserves food values by shortening the time of exposure to heat. Vitamins B-1 and C are not destroyed in pressure-cooked foods to the same extent as they are in longer cooking.

BEEF STEW WITH NOODLES

Two pounds beef brisket, six onions, one cup celery, one cup wide noodles, salt and pepper.

Cut beef into serving pieces, dredge with flour and brown in a greased frying pan. Put in the pressure saucepan and add a cup of water. Adjust lid of cooker and when pressure is fifteen pounds time the cooking 15 minutes. Release pressure according to directions. Add onions, celery, noodles and salt. Again wait for the pressure to indicate 15 lbs. and time the cooking period for ten minutes.

BAKED BEANS

One pound navy beans, one teaspoon salt, two tablespoons molasses, six tablespoons of brown sugar, one quarter pound pork, four cups of water.

Wash beans. Soak beans for two hours in enough water to cover. Put all ingredients into pressure saucepan and cook. When pressure gauge is fifteen pounds, cook forty minutes.

BOSTON BROWN BREAD

One cup cornmeal, one cup white flour, one teaspoon salt, one teaspoon soda, two teaspoons baking powder, one cup whole wheat flour, one-third cup brown sugar, half-cup molasses, two cups buttermilk, one and one-half cups raisins.

Sift together cornmeal, white flour, salt, soda and baking powder; add whole wheat flour without sifting; add sugar, molasses, buttermilk and raisins and beat thoroughly. Pour into four tin cans, filling each one-half full. Place in pressure saucepan and adjust lid. When pressure is indicated at fifteen pounds turn electric element to low and process forty-five minutes.

FIG BREAD PUDDING

Two cups dry breadcrumbs, one cup milk, two-thirds cup sugar, three tablespoons melted butter, one cup cut figs, two eggs (beaten), salt, half-cup chopped nuts.

Add breadcrumbs to hot milk and set aside to cool. When cool, add all other ingredients and pour into a greased pan. Process in pressure cooker after indicator records fifteen pounds for twenty-five minutes.

Mrs. J. K. asks: What pressure do you use for green pea soup and how much time is required for cooking.

Answer: If the dried peas are quick cooking, it is not necessary to soak them; the pressure should be 15 lbs. and the cooking period about 60 minutes, for six servings. Dried peas, which have been soaked, cook in 35 minutes.

Mrs. S. T. suggests: that applesauce, stewed tomatoes, and spinach should not be cooked in a pressure saucepan.

Mrs. A. D. says: A pressure cooker can be used with inset pans for soft foods such as Easton bread or steam puddings.

FARMERS - Attention

An old established Montreal fruit importer wishes to contact a number of successful farmers in Eastern Ontario who will grow a half acre or acre of Raspberries for shipping to them on consignment. The whole crop or that part not required for your local demand is wanted.

Plants of the best commercial variety will be supplied for spring planting 1946, by Canada's largest nursery grower of certified, plant-cut stock at commercial rate. Term payment, if desired.

Yields of 8,000 pints and more per acre under good cultural conditions. While impossible to guarantee market prices, the abnormally small acreage in Ontario would indicate relatively strong prices for some years, thus insuring a very high ratio of profit.

If interested in this high grade, long term sideline, reply to Box 457, Campbellford, Ont., on or before January 21st. A raspberry specialist representing the interested parties will shortly call at your home and explain in detail the cost of planting, care and cultivation, picking, marketing and shipping.

Because of very short plant supply, replies will be considered according to merit and date of receive. 2bp

In Loving Memory

DAVIS — In loving memory of Leslie Davis, who passed away suddenly on January 16th, 1945.

The rolling stream of life goes on
And still the empty chair
Reminds me of the face and smile
Of one who one sat there.
But the midnight stars are shining
Upon his lonely grave —
Beneath it sleeps the one we love,
The one we could not save.
And when evening shades are falling
And we sit here alone,
To the heart there comes a longing
If he only could come home.

Sadly missed by
3ap WIFE and FAMILY.

FRINK — In loving memory of Arthur (Lou) Frink, who passed away January 18th, 1943.

Sadly missed by

FRINK — In loving memory of Arthur (Lou) Frink, who passed away January 18th, 1943.

There's a face that is haunting as ever,
There's a voice which brought us good cheer;
There's a smile we'll forever remember,
When in silence we dry every tear.

Lovingly remembered by MOTHER and DAD,
3ap and Sister, MYRA.

WEESE — In loving memory of a dear husband and father, David A. Weese, who passed away January 19th, 1943.

To-night the stars are gleaming
On a lonely, silent grave
Where sleepy, in dreamless slumber
One we loved, but could not save.
No one knows the silent heartaches
Only those who have lost can tell
Of the grief we bear, in silence,
Of the one we loved so well.

Sadly missed and lovingly remembered by

Mr., Mrs. W. D. Pennell Married Fifty Years

Mr. and Mrs. W. D. Pennell East St., Napanee, quietly celebrated their golden wedding anniversary on Monday of this week, January 14. No special celebration was held due to the fact that neither Mr. or Mrs. Pennell have been feeling too well of late, but during the day a number of their friends called to extend congratulations. They also received numerous cards, letters, and telegrams, as well as several beautiful bouquets of flowers.

Mr. and Mrs. Pennell were married in Napanee on January 14, 1896, by Rev. J. W. Peck, minister of St. Andrew's Presbyterian Church. Mrs. Pennell, who was formerly Elizabeth Logan, was born in Hungerford Township, County of Hastings, but had lived in Napanee since she was a small child. Mr. Pennell was born in Richmond Township, but lived in Napanee from the time he was nine years old. After their marriage Mr. and Mrs. Pennell resided on a farm in Richmond for six years, after which they moved to Gananoque where they remained for 17 years. They returned to Napanee 26 years ago, and until recently Mr. Pennell had been actively engaged in his trade of carpentering.

Mr. and Mrs. Pennell are members of Trinity Church. Mr. Pennell is a member of the Official Board, and as long as her health permitted, Mrs. Pennell was active in the women's organizations of the church.

Their friends join in wishing them many more years of happy married life.

Returning to Odessa the bride donned her travelling dress of lime green with brown accessories. Amid showers of rice and confetti the happy couple left for Montreal, Que., and points east. On their return they will reside on their farm near Yarker.

FRANCO - ANGLO FRIENDSHIP

London. — The British Ministry of Education has prepared extensive plans to assist the youth of France and Britain closer to each other. The new Minister of Education, Miss Ellen Wilkinson, favors several schemes. The first is to encourage boys and girls in both countries to link up by exchange of correspondence and to get to know each others' interests and hobbies.

Another scheme provides for the pairing-off of schools with the same background and interests, for example, a school in a British seaport would be linked with one in a French seaport having ships with mining area and so on. Plans for this encouragement of friendship with France are to be forwarded to the French Ministry of Education as soon as possible. Miss Ellen Wilkinson considers that the friendship encouraged between the school - children of both countries may well continue after the pupils have left school. Both schemes include the interchange of holiday visits and of teachers in both countries.

KING'S WELCOME TO DELEGATES AT U. N. O. CONFERENCE

London, Jan. 9 — (A.P.) — The text of King George's address to the United Nations banquet follows:

I am very glad to extend a hearty welcome to the delegates of fifty countries to the General Assembly of the United Nations.

It gives me particular pleasure that the first meeting of this great Assembly should be held in London.

Our ancient capital, though almost every home in it bears the scars of war, remains a worthy setting for the momentous tasks with which you are entrusted. In the long course of our history, no more important meeting has ever taken place within its ancient walls.

You will carry on your deliberations so fateful for the future of humanity, within sight of our Parliament of Westminster. There the people of these islands, century after century, have sent to the high offices, whose duty it has been to preserve their liberties, and to secure the observance of the rule of law.

By God's grace we have been able for a long period to enjoy both freedom and order; but it is clear that neither can be preserved without the other. And now you have come here from the four quarters of the earth to seek these ends for all countries and all peoples.

The year 1945 brought the end to the sternest, most widespread and most dangerous conflict of all ages; it brought final victory over the enemies of the liberties of mankind. But that victory was won at a grievously heavy price; it has left, in its aftermath, a no repeat no less heavy responsibility of the victors, now joined together in this organization of the United Nations. It is, in fact, in your hands to make or mar the happiness of millions of your fellowmen, and of millions yet unborn.

It is for you to lay the foundations of a new world, where such a conflict as that which lately brought our world to the verge of annihilation can never be repeated, where men and women can find opportunity to realize to the full the good that lies in each one of them. It is a noble work, and you have, in the Charter of the United Nations, a noble instrument.

In your discussion in the General Assembly, of course, the major problems that confront the world will claim your attention, but the establishment of the economic and social council, with far reaching powers and duties dealing with other issues of no repeat no less importance. Upon the successful working of these bodies the success of your work for security, while through the trustee ship system of peace-loving nations can stimulate the extension of self-Government to peoples at present dependent.

As for the Charter itself, it reaffirms our faith in the equal rights of men and women and of nations, great and small, and the acquisition of vital principle that ou renemies tried in vain to overthrow.

But the rights of both of nations and individuals cannot exist and stand secure unless nations and individuals alike are prepared to serve the end of society. Such rights can only be fully enjoyed when they are recognized as a common interest in which we all share.

Moreover, to every right belongs a corresponding duty. This principle is rightly emphasized in the obligations assumed under the Charter, the application of which, offered to mankind will not be won without effort and sacrifice.

Clearly, the outstanding feature of membership of the United Nations is service — not a self defense of mere national interest. Service to the whole community of nations. Here is the friendship which alone much must inspire all its actions and enable the approach to every difficulty in a spirit of mutual confidence and of co-operation, understanding and good will.

It is of good augury that this spirit has been shown in the discussions of the executive committee set up preparatory conference which the war has brought to so many millions of our fellow men; to increase and to make secure the material and social welfare of all peoples; and to safeguard the rights of those who, as yet are unable to look after themselves.

But all these tasks cannot be accomplished at once, and they will be accomplished at all unless we exercise comprehension, patience and tolerance one with another. It is these qualities may be granted to us. For tonight we stand—and stand together—on the threshold of immense possibilities.

Within the next few weeks you may determine whether the lifting of the darkness that brought us strength and hope in the war that is past is to be followed by a true dawn, or whether the clouds are to descend once more upon a world that craves for light. If, at this first gathering of the first Assembly of the United Nations you can succeed in kindling that light, history will record that no band of men and women ever did a nobler duty.

I pray that God's blessing may rest upon your labors.

A NEW EFFORT TO OUTLAW WAR

BY DeWITT MACKENZIE

Paris. — No conclave in history has meant so much to world peace as does the meeting of the United Nations Organization assembly in London—a circumstance that is quite apparent to anyone standing here on the edge of a Europe which is struggling to avert chaos.

This moves one to the thought that it might have a salutary effect if the members of the assembly could come here to Versailles and spend a few moments in contemplation of the mess made by the League of Nations which was created here a quarter of a century ago.

The date of the signing of the peace treaty which brought the organization into being, was a great day for humanity—or so it seemed. After the signatures of the conquerors and the vanquished had been affixed to the treaty in the mirrored palace, the crowd of spectators which jammed the palace gardens sent up a mighty cry for the "big three"—President Wilson and Clemenceau and Prime Minister Lloyd George. The statesmen came to one of the balconies and acknowledged the acclaim of the people. But the throng insisted that the big three come down.

The three who had dominated the framing of the peace descended to the gardens, and arm-in-arm walked across the grounds while the wildly cheering mass reached out eager hands in an effort to touch the great personalities. Frantic secret-service men strove in vain to keep the milling crowd away, fearing some untoward incident.

That demonstration symbolized the gratitude of the world for what then was believed to be the specific for peace. We thought we had outlawed war, but we hadn't come within gunshot of it.

There were various reasons for the failure of the League but in essence it was due to the fact that a lot of member nations were not prepared to go all-out to ensure peace. They were like the man who makes a confession of religion but at the same time has mental reservations regarding get sins which he is not prepared to abandon. Selfish interests were dove oped in the league.

Now we are beginning a new effort to outlaw war, and the situation is far more dangerous than it was at the end of the last conflict. Both Europe and Asia are in that unhappy state of disorganization where anything could happen.

The whole world is looking to the United Nations Organization. Dispatches from London make it clear that the atomic bomb is leading the minds. All nations want the atomic bomb controlled, but I venture that probably they fear the distrust and suspicions which have been created by the existence of the bomb more than they do the terrible explosive itself.

Distressed countries are looking to the new UNO to dispel suspicions and iron out difficulties which have been retarding the rehabilitation of Europe and Asia.

The peace organization must swing into concerted action quickly and firmly if Europe is to be saved from further calamity. Hungry, cold and ragged Continent will tell you that.

NORSE LABOR PROBLEM

In a declaration before the Norwegian Parliament outlining his Government's policy, Prime Minister Einar Gerhardsen has stated that the Labor party's labor programme together with the common over-all platform announced by Norway's four major parties in June of this year, will form the basis for labor during the coming months.

Reconstruction, the most pressing of the problems confronting the new Labor Government, will be carried out under a combined economic plan. In addition to the normal state budgets, an over-all national budget is to be set up showing the size of the national income, the distribution and employment, and the results of the nation's labor. A revision of the tax structure is also called for, according to present plans, the severe housing shortage in Norway is to be relieved through the construction of 100,000 new homes, and shipbuilding, textile, and wood products industries will be fitted under a Government programme to guarantee full utilization and expansion.

Merchant, fishing, and whaling fleets are to be rehabilitated as soon as possible with special attention to wages and working conditions of the seamen.

All possible efforts will be made to rehabilitate and modernize tourist facilities, with the Government proposing that liquor licenses be issued to mountain resprts and tourist hotels.

In the field of state control, the proposal advising a state import monopoly on live stock, feed, sugar, and medicines will be further investigated as will the nationalizing of all coastab transport. The Government will also suggest that all social insurance activities be combined under a single department. Civil air travel will be regarded as a national enterprise with the State as a participating member.

Provision will also be made for a grant of Kr. 100,000 ($20,000) to be distributed as scholarships or interest-free loans for the education of children whose parents died in the war.

Husband, getting out of bed after a thunderstorm the previous night: "Did you hear the storm last night, Mary? Thunder and lightning it was an' all."

"Well, why didn't you waken me?" asked Mary. "You know I can't sleep when it thunders."

SOUTHERN ALBERTA FLOURISHING

Southern Alberta has entered a promising postwar era and the City of Lethbridge is enjoying its strongest financial position in years.

According to the year end edition of The Lethbridge Herald, of which Senator W. A. Buchanan is President and Managing Director, the report of J. T. Mahaffy, City Manager indicates that the municipality's debt has been reduced to the amazingly low figure of $629,242 and that the per capita debt now stands at $39.33. Taxes from utilities have been exceptionaly high and tax payments for the year 1943 were 96.5 percent of the levy.

Building permits taken out in Lethbridge during 1945 reached the record figure of $1,603,000 and at present a large construction programme mostly that consisting of homes, is being carried on in the southern section of the city. Construction is also proceeding apace on the soldier-settlement half-acre homes on the eastern edge of the municipality.

The prosperity Lethbridge has enjoyed during the year just ended, is also reflected in customs and excise, tax collections and Post Office receipts. In the mercantile district new buildings have sprung up, one of the largest being a $75,000 bakery.

A review of the situation in Southern Alberta indicates that new wealth production is up about five percent over that of 1944 with a great backlog of buying power awaiting return of consumer goods to shelves.

"New wealth production" for 1945 is given as $79,400,000 as "against $72,850,000 for 1944.

There was a slightly larger grain crop on Gold Alberta farms, much better in the western of foothills areas, but a slim crop in the southeastern areas. There were considerably higher cattle sales but hog sales were down nearly 50 percent. Coarse grains in southern Alberta yielded well. The sugar beet crop of 367,000 tons was the largest in history.

Coal production showed practically no change but discovery of a new oil field at Conrad, 60 miles southeast of Lethbridge and increases in other South Alberta fields, increased returns from that source. Use of natural gas during the year was high.

Recent announcement that a start is to be made this year in the construction of the $15,000,000 Southeastern Irrigation project, including the $3,500,000 St. Mary dam to irrigate 345,000 acres in areas east and south of Lethbridge, is considered a good augury for a continuation of high production in Southern Alberta farms.

Editorially in its year end edition, The Lethbridge Herald justifiably says:

"There is confidence in the future. We have assigned ourselves the task of developing a better agriculture . . . we have tested our productive capacity and we have found it high enough to prove a fine standard of living for both rural and urban people. We are planning to build for the future on that knowledge. Here in Lethbridge there is a new confidence."

SPEED AND 'BLACKOUT'

Washington. — A man weighing 150 pounds with 1,000 feet of heavy as molten iron is no pigment of the imagination.

That is precisely what an airplane pilot becomes when he makes a turn at 300 miles an hour in a radius of 1,000 feet. It is disclosed by Dr. Bryan H. C. Matthews, head of the RAF Physiological Laboratory, in an article printed in the annual report of the Smithsonian Institution.

The strange change of weight is the real explanation for the "blackout" in unconsciousness often suffered by pilots. The heart, which pumps blood to the brain, does not become lighter in the same proportion as the large centrifugal force tends to force the airplane and pilot away from the centre of the circle. The magnitude of this force increases with the square of the speed and decreases as the radius increases. To avoid stoppage of the acceleration acting on the pilot is expressed in terms of g. The force of gravity normally acting on the body which causes a fall to the ground is designated as 1g. In a turn producing 4g, or four times the force of gravity, if the pilot's seat is so placed that his head is at the level of his body, the heart would register fourtimes his normal weight and the pilot and all parts of his body become extremely heavy. This is seen in the sagging of the soft part of the face which occurs in a tight turn.

A turn at 300 miles per hour and 1,000 feet radius produces 6g and a pilot in effect weighs about half a ton and his blood virtually becomes as heavy as molten iron. The blood is normally pumped to the pilot's head by his heart, but as its virtual weight increases, the heart has difficulty in maintaining the blood supply to the head. The brain cells then can only function for a few seconds without their normal blood supply and loss of vision in bleaking—and is due to failure of the circulation in the retina of the eye. If the acceleration is still greater the whole blood supply of the brain fails and the pilot becomes unconscious.

"Blacking-out is a warning that the blood pressure in the cerebral arteries is getting low. While this happens in the head the effect of blood tends to gravitate to the legs, and the phenomenon can be regarded as the head losing blood to the feet. .

The granary keeper had got the day off ,but the farmer's wife offered to carry out the sale of a bushel of wheat which a customer required. Removing the lid of the bin she took up a peck measure, and having filled and emptied it twice into the customer's sack, she started to tie the string round the neck of it.

"Hey, ma'am," said the customer, "four pecks make a bushel — not two."

"Oh, I beg your pardon, sir," she answered, "but, you see, I never measured grain before I was married. I was a school teacher."

Dear Sirs:

This year I have used your "Miracle" Chick Starter and I want to tell you how the results I have had.

I received 420 chicks. They are New Hampshire Reds. I have only lost five, two of which were killed because they were crippled, and the other died from natural causes.

The chicks are strong and healthy, well feathered and growing fast.

They like the feed tremendously and clean it all up.

I am more than pleased with the results.

Yours truly, M. P.

NATIONS SEEK TO ABOLISH FORCE

BY LOUIS F. KEEMLE
B.U.P. Correspondent

The world has embarked on its greatest experiment.

The real purpose of the first meeting of the United Nations Assembly can be stated without any danger of over - simplification. Despite the myriad problems involved — to outlaw war and substitute reason for force among nations.

It may be argued that a similar experiment was tried once before, in 1920, with the League of Nations. But there are vast differences, chief among them being that the two most powerful nations, the United States and Russia, are founding members of the new organization, which was not so in 1920.

Furthermore, the UNO has the benefit of past experience and mistakes to help it avoid pitfalls. Finally, at the ghastly threat of the atomic bomb will spur its efforts and at the same time act as a brake on rash action.

Prosaic but vital problems of organization will dominate the first working days of the assembly, after the opening high-sounding speeches have been disposed of. Other immediate but soluble issues will be to the forefront, such as the Middle and Far East, the Balkans, the European peace treaties, the care of homeless Jews and other displaced persons, the feeding of the world's hungry millions, the prevention of disease epidemics, and the establishment of a balanced world economy.

Back of all the discussions, however, will lie the thought of atomic energy, even when unspoken. It may be less a shadow over the conference than a guiding beacon to keep the delegates on a straight course.

For, whether they admit it or not, the representatives of the 51 nations will be groping in fear and hope toward the eventual vision more than one hundred years ago of the poet Tennyson who foresaw the day when "the war drums throb no longer and the battle flags are furled in the parliament of man, the federation of the world."

The approach to this still far-off goal will be very gradual, and no world-shaking decisions can reasonably be expected from this preliminary meeting. The approach to the atomic energy question is likely to be confined to setting up an international commission to study means of control, within the limits of the security commission, which also is to be established.

On the latter body, only six nations other than the Big Five, as permanent members, will always have control by right of veto, since none of them can be outvoted. That is, even if all six non-permanent members and four of the Big Five agree, the dissenting member of the Big Five can block action.

While that method of procedure was threshed out and agreed upon at San Francisco, the rights of the smaller powers is likely to be a top issue at the current meeting. The 46 are almost certain to try to feel out their weight, and find out how much actual voice they will have in the ultimate decisions of the world body. If they are not reasonably satisfied, the organization will be off to a poor start.

FRANCE STEERS FOR MAJOR ROLE

BY LOUIS F. KEEMLE
British United Press Correspondent

Although her feelings have been ruffled, France has indicated willingness to follow the lead of the Big Three in the tentative peace program drafted at the Moscow meeting.

The objections raised by the French Cabinet are mild, and appear designed mainly at preserving national dignity and restoring the country as a major force in world affairs. France felt hurt by being omitted both from the Potsdam Conference and the Christmas meeting of the Big Three in Moscow, which did what the five-power conference in London failed to do.

Since China already has approved the Moscow decisions, a rift among the Big Five has been made less probable, which is all to the good. France is on the upsurge again after one of the blackest periods in her history. If President Charles de Gaulle succeeds in his programme, France is almost certain to become the leading nation of Western Continental Europe, as well as an important factor in the Middle East and the Orient.

Any effort to treat France as a poor cousin entitled only to scraps from the table of the Big Three therefore would be sure to lead to difficulties. Until the United Nations Organization has been fully established, a working agreement outside its structure is evidently necessary among the major powers.

The French Cabinet opposed no major obstacles to the Moscow decisions but merely asked to be reassured on certain points. One concerned the future functions of the Big Five Council of Ministers, and whether it would continue to play second fiddle to the Big Three.

France fully approved the proposal for a UNO Council to control atomic energy and accepted the Far East council on Japan, although fuller information on the latter was requested.

Regarding the peace treaties in Europe, France accepted "in principle" the plan for a peace conference of the 21 nations which were military active in defeating the Axis, but asked for further details. France particularly wanted to know whether the conference would have full power, or be mainly consultative. The Moscow communique indicated that veto power over a final settlement would rest with the Big Three except in the case of Italy, where France will have an equal voice.

France also would like to have the peace conference held in Paris as a concession to French prestige.

This French insistence on a renewed place in the sun is an integral part of de Gaulle's policy. Success will immensely strengthen his position and help him carry out his internal political and economic reforms.

De Gaulle has great popular support, but is handicapped by the three-way political division in the new assembly of the Fourth Republic in which the Communists have the largest voice, with the Socialists second.

Recent governmental crises, which led de Gaulle to threaten his resignation, point to the danger of a return to the old parliamentary system of overthrowing French governments at the whim of blocs in the Chamber of Deputies. France's humiliating defeat by Germany has been attributed by some contemporary historians in large part to the instability of its governmental system.

The new constitution to be drafted by the current assembly may change that, if de Gaulle can continue firmly in the saddle. Meanwhile, his three-year recovery plan for French industry and agriculture will have a better chance of success if his foreign policy restores French self-respect and confidence.

Sub Pens Pose Problem

The city of Bergen, Norway, has inherited a colossus of steel and concrete from the Germans. Navy, one of the world's most modern U-boat bunkers. Here there is room to hide 22 subs under ceiling 13 feet thick, with three built-in dry docks, and machine shops capable of handling almost any job. The installation is possibly one of the world's best and is super-modern in every respect but one. No one seems to know what to do with it.

Despite its one-time value, the structure can hardly be regarded as an aid to peace-time harbor beautification. The huge concrete block covers 5 acres and is 100 feet in the air — contains well over 300,000 cubic yards of cement and structural steel and kept 1700 laborers occupied day and night for many months. Most Bergenseers are awaiting the day when this unsightly monument to the Nazi wolf packs will be torn down and replaced by a structure better suited to the times. The well-equipped work shops will possibly become the property of the Norwegian Navy, while the bunkers themselves may be removed.

The Free Press Of France

BY DeWITT MACKENZIE

Paris — One of the cardinal policies of the de Gaulle Government is absolute freedom of the Press, not only for publication in France but for election of news in this country to be printed abroad.

There has been no censorship of any kind since V-J Day. You can write anything you wish, always assuming, of course, that you keep within the laws of libel and similar statutes.

There are days when the world at large is engaging in a good deal of double talk — saying one thing and meaning another — but there is plenty of evidence to indicate that the French Government means business when it talks of freedom of the Press. Despite the shortage of newsprint, which has to be imported, any legitimate newspaper can get started.

So far as is known the government hasn't refused a single license application, point to the danger of a return to the old parliamentary system of overthrowing French governments at the whim of blocs in the Chamber of Deputies. France's humiliating defeat by Germany has been attributed by some contemporary historians in large part to the instability of its governmental system.

The new constitution to be drafted by the current assembly may change that, if de Gaulle can continue firmly in the saddle. Meanwhile, his three-year recovery plan for French industry and agriculture will have a better chance of success if his foreign policy restores French self-respect and confidence.

To prevent abuses of freedom of the Press, the government is preparing a new Press law — something France never had before. This will make it obligatory to disclose to the public the names of all those who are backing a newspaper, so that the complexion of the paper may be quite clear. The law, as projected, would likewise prevent the subsidizing of a newspaper by a foreign government.

Heavy punishment will be provided for accepting bribes to publish news, or for any similar skull-duggery. Conviction for these offences will carry penalties running up to twelve years in prison.

The inspiration for this drive for freedom of the Press isn't hard to find. It begins with the Frenchman's inborn desire for freedom. But his innate desire and mighty reinforcement during the German occupation.

For five long years under the fierce repression of the German rule there was no freedom of speech or publication. The country was told what the Hitlerites thought it ought to know.

Thus, as never before, did the enemy paradoxically impress on France the truth that the more free's legitimate news is allowed to circulate the less chance there is for propaganda.

France was ripe for freedom of the Press after the fierce German censorship. And today we see her consolidating that freedom which she came so close to losing forever.

BLITZED LONDON DOCKS TO RISE AGAIN

London is getting ready to resume its old place as Britain's No. 1 port, after giving way during the war to the west coast gateways of Liverpool, Glasgow and Bristol.

These were natural alternatives for the great flow of goods across the Atlantic while London's vast docklands were a target for the Luftwaffe. In fact, when great fires burned in 1940, some foreign observers said: "The Port of London is finished. It will never rise again."

But they were wrong. the blitz destroyed one third of dockland's total storage space of 2,000,000 tons, tore up miles of railway lines and wrecked many of the largest cranes, but there now are abundant signs that the port is getting back into its old stride.

Every day the docks grow livelier. A first replacement batch of 50 British-built cranes is on order and 90 mobile cranes already are at work. An increasing number of barges used on D-Day are being returned by the authorities. In operation at Royal Victoria dock are five blocks of prefabricated ware houses, each 500 feet long, planned and partly built during the war at a cost of £1,000,000. A further 2,000,000-cubic-foot refrigerating station has been built in Royal Albert dock.

During the war 106,000,000 tons of shipping passed through London a creditable figure under the circumstances but a big drop from pre-war standards. In 1938 alone the figure was 62,000,000 — 19,000,000 coastwise and 43,000,000 foreign. About 42,000,000 tons of merchandise was handled and the value of the port's foreign trade was £606,000,000 ($2,727,000,000).

Shortage of warehousing space and manpower are most serious handicaps to a return to normal conditions. No major rebuilding scheme is in progress but to meet immediate needs, portable steel-shedding has been developed. In the allocation of workers and material, public utility organizations such as the Port of London Authority, have only No. 3 priority.

Nearly two years ago a survey of the docks was made by Sir Douglas Ritchie, R.E., general manager. Now a reconstruction committee is working to make London not only the greatest but the most modern British port.

"It is a gigantic task," a committee spokesman said. "The Surrey commercial docks were so badly blitzed that an entirely new structure will be required, and miles of destroyed homes in the area will have to be rebuilt.

"But we are fortunate in that 65 miles of railway have been kept in constant repair."

A. G. Thompson of the R.I.A. shipping control, who had the task of finding accommodation for Canadian grain ships during the war, said London should be able to handle its pre-war traffic in a few months.

AERIAL SAFETY DEVICES

United Kingdom scientists have invented two novel devices which will raise the safety and comfort standards of Britain's civil air liners to new high levels. The first of these inventions — which will be applied to high altitude flying — is a heated "sandwich", which overcomes the menace of ice and mist formation on the windscreen at great heights.

The second invention is an ingenious robot valve which automatically regulates the cabin air pressure in correct proportion, without attention from the pilot. Both these devices have been incorporated in Britain's stratosphere single-seater plane, the Westland-Welkin.

The Royal Bank of Canada Annual Meeting

Morris W. Wilson, President, sees no quick and easy solution to reconversion problems. Believes greatest half century in Canada's history just ahead. Dominion fortunately placed to help foster world co-operation. Questions whether Canada making most of trade opportunities in South America.

James Muir, General Manager, reports assets exceeding $2,009,000,000 at new high level for Canadian banking. Bank fully equipped and ready to assist reconversion. Seeks wider field of service in loans to firms and individuals.

Solid confidence in Canada's immediate future and the important part she can play in the promotion of international understanding and well-being were voiced by Morris W. Wilson, President of The Royal Bank of Canada at the Bank's Annual Meeting.

Referring to reconstruction problems, Mr. Wilson said: "The first important task in our post-war reconstruction is the conversion of industry to production of the basic needs of a civilized community, with the minimum of dislocation, unemployment, and friction. For two or three years, since we passed the peak of our war effort, we have been giving thought to the reconstruction period. Now, we are in it. The problem is no longer speculative, but is gradually being met in a practical manner, more or less satisfactorily. If one or more sections of the mast-erpiece we desire to produce are not filled in at once, let us not worry too much, but look at the whole picture and its good prospects. Many of our people, not realizing the nature of the real problems in reconversion and reconstruction, want a quick answer to all questions, and an immediate completion of all plans. There cannot be such an easy way; changes in nature, people, and life are continuous, not abrupt."

READY TO MOVE FORWARD

Solid ground for optimism was to be found, said Mr. Wilson, in Canada's tremendous record of accomplishment since the turn of the century. "Have our people confidence in themselves?" asked Mr. Wilson. "If they would pause and reflect upon the historic advance of their country, they would find few reasons for depression and many reasons to justify hope of success. The record of what was accomplished is marvellous, the advancement of every year being built upon that of preceding years. Some interruption occurred, but now we are ready again to move forward. A comparison between our material circumstances in 1900 and in 1945 is well worth looking at.

"Here are some figures which should be considered alongside the fact that our population has increased just 125 per cent. in the 45 years under review. The number of acres occupied for farm purposes increased 173 per cent.; the value of farm property, in dollars of the same purchasing power jumped to 251 per cent. of what it was in 1900; the value of agricultural products exported rose 300 per cent., and the number of bushels of wheat we produced grew by 685 per cent. The increase in our production of minerals was: copper 2,079 per cent.; gold, 114; lead, 377; nickel 3,781; silver, 204; asbestos, 1,115. Our output of wood pulp increased 1,852 per cent. Our railways expanded their track mileage 133 per cent., the number of passengers 214 per cent., and tons of freight 302 per cent. The tonnage of sea-borne shipping cleared at Canadian ports rose by 288 per cent. Telephone instruments in use increased by 2,585 per cent. Electric incandescent lamps so numerous to-day as to be impracticable to count, numbered only 815,000 in 1900. Radios, automobiles and aeroplanes were not even predicted in the 1900 statistical books. The registrations of radios are not by any means a complete record of instruments in use, but total 1½ million. Automobiles number 1¼ million.

"And now, what should we do to make sure the progress of the past half century is continued and expanded in the next 50 years? I have no doubt that we have made mistakes and will continue to make mistakes in preparation for and conduct of our economic plans, but if we look ahead carefully, make our plans as prudent individuals, corporations and as a nation, and carry them out energetically, I am very sure the greatest half century in Canada's history lies just ahead.

"When we review the past 45 years and reflect on these things which have been accomplished, surely we find it evident that Canada and its people, with a record like that, do not need to be fearful of the future just because they cannot pull out of a pigeon-hole the complete answer to every question posed."

Mr. Wilson, however, warned that Canadians could not rest on past achievements. Future progress depended also on a frank appraisal of weaknesses and demanded imaginative leadership. Particularly, he stressed the danger of proposals to make of Canada a self - sufficient nation — a policy which if pursued could be disastrous to employment and national wealth.

One of the greatest needs of the immediate future, he said, was the healthy development of foreign markets.

TRADE OPPORTUNITIES

"While all countries in the world require goods Canada produces, it seems well to look particularly at a continent where many well-versed persons think Canada is not making the most of her opportunity—South America. The total value of imports to the South American Republics in 1940 was one billion, 13½ million dollars. This indicates the extent of the market in general, and it is particularly interesting to take note of the fact that so many commodities required by these countries are products of Canada, including iron and steel, chemicals, paper, wood and manufactures of wood, vehicles, paints, wheat and other foodstuffs, mining machinery, industrial machinery, electrical apparatus, and many minerals. There is still a wide field which Canada may cultivate.

"If we admit that prosperity in Canada is not just local, then the next step is to consider how we can help ourselves by measures designed to raise the purchasing power of other countries so that they can buy our goods.

"The International Monetary Fund and the International Bank of Reconstruction set up under the Bretton Woods agreements are evidence of a good spirit. I believe we have done well so far in making these arrangements; they present an outward and visible sign that nations are conscious of the world outside themselves."

"Our geographical position makes us the link connecting the two great industrialized countries, Great Britain and The United States; our membership in the commonwealth of free peoples gives us a world position much higher than would be warranted if we stood alone; our great industrial technical skill helps us meet the requirements of any market; our rich store of natural resources assures supplies of raw materials indefinitely; and our historical capacity for tolerance wins for us respectful attention in the councils of nations.

"Yet, some people persist in saying: 'Times are going to be hard.' This is no occasion for thoughts of failure.

"I refuse to believe that after so long-continued slow but sure progress mankind will allow itself to be annihilated by atomic bombs, or to be enfeebled by long drawn out decay or paralyzed by disputes which ruin international trade and co-operation. This country should have no doubt of itself or of the contribution it can make to the world. All we need is faith in Canada and confidence in our own enterprise and energy to make the second half of this century greater and more abundant than the first, which was, in a material sense, as I have shown, great indeed."

GENERAL MANAGER'S ADDRESS

In presenting the financial statement, James Muir, General Manager, reported assets of $2,007,548,978, the highest in the history of the bank. He remarked, however, "that size is not the gauge of the bank's ambitions— but rather that, always mindful of its responsibilities to its depositors, it should fill the role of providing all classes of the public with a high order of prompt, efficient and helpful service."

Mr. Muir stressed the part being played by the Royal Bank in helping clients solve their reconversion problems through loans, an increased number of which "are being made for Capital Expenditure purposes and on more extended terms than used to be customary. Naturally, we endeavor to appraise these risks with care. This policy is not only of benefit to customers in assisting with the expansion and improvement of their operations, but in addition, is an important factor in the over-all picture of employment and rehabilitation. Many loans of this character have been made at branches across Canada. Other lending activities might be mentioned. For example, during the year the needs of the personal or casual borrower have been met to the extent that in round figures, 127,000 individual loans of $500 and under have been made. In March of last year the Farm Improvement Loans Act came into force. Figures released by the Government disclose that up to the end of last October, all Chartered Banks had made a total of 3,000 loans under the Act for the aggregate sum of $2,911,224. It is satisfactory to learn that our share of this total was the largest—namely, 1,240 in number and $998,570 in amount. We might say that the immediately foregoing figures were largely exceeded, both as to number and amount, in the loans we made during the same period for exactly similar purposes in the ordinary course of business outside the provisions of the Act.

"The details I have given you illustrate the policy and aim of the bank to render banking service and assistance not to any narrow section, either in a business or a geographical sense, but to all classes of clients in the different communities served by our branches. We try to render this service and assistance in a spirit of friendly co-operation, and our doors are open to all who need a banking service."

PROUD STAFF RECORD

Referring to the bank's staff which now numbers over 10,000, inclusive of those still in the armed forces, the General Manager said: "Total enlistments during the war were 2,221, of which 2,171 were from Canada. Many obtained high rank, and a generous share of honours and decorations for valour were won. It is my sad duty to place on record that 193 of these splendid young men gave their lives in the great struggle, and I know you will wish me to extend to their families and friends, on your behalf and on behalf of their colleagues, expressions of our deepest sympathy.

"Seven hundred and ninety-eight of the men formerly in the Armed Services have already returned to the bank, and they are being afforded every opportunity to re-acclimatize themselves quickly. Upon reporting to us, each is interviewed by a senior officer familiar with his previous record and service, and everything is done to make him feel at home. Our set policy is to treat these returning men with fairness and understanding, and to see to it that in no case are they worse off financially than if they had never been away. Their response and attitude are most gratifying and only make us all the more proud of them. Their years of service in the forces are allowed to count as years of service in the bank for pension purposes, and if their service-pay was less than their salary at time of enlistment, they were not required to contribute to the Pension Fund. The bank's Group Insurance plan— plus war risk in this case — was maintained for them, the entire premium being paid by the bank. In addition to these security measures carried on for the staff, hospital and surgical benefits insurance is maintained —a substantial portion of the cost being borne by the bank. Recently a retiring plan was inaugurated whereby women employees and men not members of the Pension Fund are assured of an annual income when the time comes for them to give up their duties. Generally speaking, women employees will retire at 55 years of age. The plan is non-contributory on the part of these employees.

Special reference was made by Mr. Muir to the part played by the bank's branches in foreign lands in promoting trade and understanding. He stated that the Bank's first foreign branch had been opened nearly half a century ago and that to-day branches abroad numbered 61. "We are the only Canadian bank covering such a large field, he said, "and during the years we have in this way directly contributed to Canada's steadily increasing international trade and cultural relations."

INQUEST VERDICT ACCIDENTAL DEATH IN WOODCOCK FATALITY

No Blame Attached to Car Driver

At the inquest into the death of Nelson Woodcock, who was killed instantly on the evening of January 10th, when struck by a car driven by Reginald Noakes of Napanee, a verdict of death by accidental causes with no blame attached to anyone, was brought in by the coroner's jury.

The inquest was held Friday afternoon at the Court House. The five-man jury consisting of B. M. Black, foreman; W. V. Webster, Carman Dale, Frank Mills and E. B. Welsh, in their report, stated that they believed, from the evidence, that Nelson Woodcock was killed at about 6:15 p.m., on the evening of January 10th, at the corner of Dundas and Robert streets, and that he died instantaneously as a result of being struck by a car driven by Reginald Noakes, and that the death was the result of an accident and the driver was absolved of all blame.

Dr. T. M. Galbraith, coroner, conducted the inquest and the questioning of the several witnesses was conducted by K. S. Ham, County Crown Attorney.

DR. D. R. HALL

Dr. D. R. Hall, who examined the deceased, stated that he had compound fractures of the right foreleg, complete fractures of the second, third and fourth ribs, anterior, front, right; extensive lacerations of the scalp and a large fracture of the skull and that death had been instantaneous.

HARRY SKITCH

Harry Skitch identified several photographs as those taken by him at the scene of the accident.

WM. H. WOODCOCK

William H. Woodcock, son of the deceased, in his testimony stated that he was with his father at the time of the accident, as was also Clarence McFarland. They had proceeded up Robert Street on the west side and, at the time, it was getting dark and the street lights were on. Before proceeding across Dundas Street, the witness stated that he had spoken to his father about traffic and, on looking noticed no traffic moving from the west or east on Dundas Street. Just previous to the arrest, he said his father was ahead and when about the middle of the road, noticed a car coming at the intersection of Robert and Dundas Streets. The lights of the car were on and the witness said that he yelled to his father and made a grab for him, but missed him. He said that his father had not seen the car. Asked about his father's general condition, he stated that his hearing, eyesight and health, good.

CLARENCE McFARLAND

Clarence McFarland stated that the three men had crossed Dundas Street from the east side of Robert Street. This statement was later refuted by William Woodcock, when recalled to the stand, and by Arthur Loucks, an occupant of the car and by Reginald Noakes, the driver. Woodcock said that they were crossing Dundas Street from the west side of Robert Street.

ARTHUR LOUCKS

Arthur Loucks, a passenger in the car, testified that he didn't see anything on the road until the car struck an object. He stated that he didn't see any other persons on the road. At the time of the accident, the car was at the west side of Robert Street and that Woodcock was hit after he was more than half-way across Dundas Street. He estimated the speed of the car at about 25 miles an hour.

REGINALD NOAKES

Reginald Noakes testified that he had seen nothing on the road, except a "blur" in front of the car, and then felt the impact. He said that he could not distinguish the blur, and did not see anything else on the road. The speed of the car, he estimated at 25 miles an hour. The impact occurred at the west side of Robert side.

CHIEF MOORE

Chief of Police, T. S. Moore, who investigated the accident, testified that the road surface was damp at the time, and was bare. He also said that the surface was good for braking. He stated that the head of Woodcock's body was nine feet, four inches from the north curb, and the skid marks of the car started a little west of the west side of Robert St. and extended for a distance of 63 feet 6 inches. The lighting at the corner was good, he said.

The following day tests were made of the brakes of the car, with the road surface under a similar condition, as the previous evening and the Chief estimated from the tests that the car was going at about 35 miles an hour at the time of the accident.

MOTOR FATALITY STATISTICS COMPARED

Provincial Constable Morden was called to the stand by Dr. Galbraith and was asked questions regarding statistics of fatal motor car accidents in Napanee and Lennox and Addington, compared to the cities of Toronto and Buffalo.

Toronto, with a population of 900,000 had a total of 99 fatal accidents in one year, and Buffalo, with a similar population, had 45 fatalities in one year. Lennox and Addington with a population of less than 20,000 had, in the last three years, a total of 14 fatal traffic accidents, or more than four fatalities in one year.

Lennox and Addington, in one year had one fatality for every 4,000 to 5,000 populations. In Toronto one to every 9,000, and Buffalo's one to every 20,000.

The conclusion was that the traffic hazard in Lennox and Addington is twice what it is in Toronto, or four times what it is in Buffalo.

FRUIT WAREHOUSE DESTROYED BY FIRE

A spectacular fire which completely destroyed the fruit warehouse and large stock of fruit and vegetables, belonging to James Amodeo, and situated at the foot of West Street, broke out about seven-fifteen Sunday evening and blazed for several hours.

The Napanee firemen, in the biting cold, waged a losing battle against the flames, which made quick headway in the frame building, and very little of the contents were salvaged.

The warehouse had recently been opened by Mr. Amodeo, who operates a wholesale fruit and vegetable business. The building was formerly used by Frank Markle as a paint shop.

The loss of the building was partially covered by insurance, but of the contents were not covered.

The loss was estimated at more than $7,0.0.

Cheddar cheese produced in the County of Lennox and Addington in 1945, totalled 6,020,012 pounds, compared with 5,465,854 pounds in 1944. Creamery butter produced in the county in 1945 totalled 235,784 pounds, compared with 211,512 pounds in 1944.

The production of both creamery butter and cheddar cheese in Ontario showed a gain in the year 1945 over the quantity produced in the preceding year. The increase for creamery butter was 3.4 per cent, over the 1944 output amounting to 77,328,500 pounds as compared with 74,802,700 pounds in 1944. Cheddar cheese showed a rise of 4.2 per cent, with 110,110,500 pounds manufactured in 1945 against 105,665,400 pounds in the previous year.

Take Notice "Andy Clark"

The mild days in recent weeks apparently fooled the animal and vegetable kingdom into thinking that Spring had arrived. But the cold weather of the past week end likely caused them to change their minds.

Mr. John Botting, C.P.R. foreman at Shannonville, reported that he killed a black snake about fifteen inches long near the Bay at the C.P.R. pumphouse on Saturday, January 5th.

On Monday, January 14th, P. M. McLaughlin picked a spray of pussy willow which he brought into The Beaver Office and left for anyone to see.

PELTIER, LAUZON APPEAL DISMISSED

The appeal of Beverly Peltier and Ulysse Lauzon, against sentences totalling 82 years in penitentiary, for armed robbery, including the holding up of three banks of which, the Royal Bank at Bath was one, was dismissed on Monday by the Ontario Court of Appeal.

PRIVY COUNCIL UPHOLDS VALIDITY TEMPERANCE ACT

Affects Local Option Votes

Ontario's appeal to the Privy Council against the validity of the long-contested Canada Temperance Act of 1878 was denied, Monday, in London. The act was ruled to be valid in Ontario, as well as in Alberta, Saskatchewan and New Brunswick, which backed Ontario in taking the case to the highest court in the land. Notice of the decision was received by the Attorney-General's Department at Queen's Park from its London agents, Blake and Redden, Victoria Street.

The Ontario Government, in launching the appeal last November, sought a final decision which would make the Ontario Liquor Control Act binding on all parts of the Province except in those areas which declared for local option by a three-fifths vote.

In view of the decision of the law lords, announced by Lord Simon, denying Ontario's appeal, the Canada Temperance Act remains in force in four Provincial areas—Perth, Peel, Huron and Manitoulin. The Ontario Government's hope was that liquor laws could be made uniform throughout the Province. Ontario was supported in its appeal by the Moderation League and was opposed by the Ontario Temperance Federation which supported the Federal Government's defense of the act.

BOARD MEETING CALLED

Immediate result of the decision was the calling of a meeting of the Ontario Liquor Authority Control Board in Toronto, on Tuesday, to decide what liquor policy is to be followed in the four areas, and whether some 37 hotel and club licenses there are illegal and will have to be cancelled.

Judge W. T. Robb, chairman of the board said it might be necessary to cancel the licenses at once in the three counties. No licenses had been issued in the District of Manitoulin. There are 11 beverage room licenses in Huron, four club licenses in Peel and 20 beverage rooms and two club licenses in Perth County.

Col. T. L. Kennedy, Acting Premier and Minister of Agriculture, who represents Peel, said the adverse decision was not entirely unexpected and seemed to take the matter out of the hands of the Province. Like Huron, Peel once voted dry and could vote again, it was felt.

NATIONAL UNITY SUBJECT OF ADDRESS BY LIONS GOVERNOR

Makes Official Visit to Napanee Club

The meeting of the Napanee Lions Club, held on Monday evening, was honored by the visit of the District Governor, Lion J. Ernest Gaboury, K.C., of Hull, Quebec, who delivered a most interesting address on the subject of "National Unity."

President W. F. Barrett presided. During the evening a presentation was made to the members who had served in His Majesty's Forces, of a chevron, in red, white and blue, which is affixed to the Lion's lapel pin. The presentations were made by Rec. C. D. McLellan. Three new members were welcomed into the club, C. E. Jeffries, J. R. Miller and Dr. J. Wilkinson. Two pleasing solos were rendered by Earl Morrison.

Russell Hunter, District - Deputy Governor, very fittingly introduced the Governor.

LION GABOURY'S ADDRESS

At the outset, the Governor mentioned the fact that the Napanee Club had fifteen members who had been in the services, which was a very fine record. He also congratulated the Club regarding the Gibbard Park project and the skating rink, and stated it was a fine gesture to promote sport and provide entertainment for the youth of the district at a supervised skating rink. Anything a club can do to help the children is a worthy project, he said.

Taking as his subject "National Unity," Mr. Gaboury asked: "Will it be possible for this troubled world to organize itself in order to march again towards the realization of better concepts of life?" The Second World War, he said, has left traces and results of very definite consequence. In spite of all the difficulties the world if it wishes to survive must keep working for the noble ideal of a lasting peace. Such work is not done only on the international scene, sincere efforts must be made in each country to solve its internal problems, so that it may be ready to participate in the establishment of better relations between individuals and nations.

In Canada we have many national problems confronting us and some of them are very closely associated with our welfare. Their solution is indispensable to our success, prosperity and renown.

If this country wishes to be equal to its tasks and if it desires to acquire real influence in the rest of the world, it must know of these great issues. It must realize their importance and the immediate necessity of stabilizing its internal situation. Otherwise, all efforts to obtain real prestige and to create in Canada a state of great prosperity will be useless and vain.

The most urgent problem is National Unity. Although we have made great strides in this respect, we are still far from the goal. National unity is still to be attained.

Among the fifty-two guests were the Misses Joan and Margaret Loyst, granddaughters of Mrs. John E. Loyst of Napanee.

Following a reception at Jutsum's Hall, Mr. and Mrs. Loyst left for a short honeymoon at Bournemouth. The bride travelled in a navy and beige costume.

unanimous in deploring its complete non-existence.

It is of absolute necessity for all those who wish to contribute in a useful manner to the general progress and to the expansion of our people to know the exact measure of our duties and responsibilities as citizens of Canada. There has been a constant and progressive evolution in that respect and the duties and responsibilities of all Canadians have changed with the march of time and history. With their growth and development, the ideals of nations are constantly transformed and such transformations bring about necessary changes in national opinion and also important modifications.

The speaker then turned back and analyzed the situation since the beginning of the country. Since that time our duties and responsibilities have changed steadily to acquire new sense and significance, now that our country has attained complete national sovereignty and independence. The rebellion of 1837 constitutes a starting point in the slow establishment of our constitutional liberties. In 1881 our country promulgated its first really important law, which can be clearly distinguished from those enacted by the Imperial Parliament — it was the Naturalization Act. The Statute of Westminster was the greatest step made by the Imperial Parliament towards granting a complete independence to all the nations of that group to which Canada belongs. Since that time our country has made continued and constant progress towards total emancipation.

In conclusion, Lion Gaboury said: "Let us hope that Canadian ideals are now firm in our minds and souls. Let us hope that on this new basis the time of our unfortunate quarrels will definitely end, and that they will be forever forgotten. On the altar of the painful past, Canada must offer with new power and greatness, to pursue its great and everlasting destinies."

The speaker was thanked on behalf of the Club by Lion Ryerson Humphrys.

NAMED FOR "IKE": Mount Eisenhower is the new name given this peak in the Canadian Rockies, between Banff and Lake Louise in Alberta, to honor General of the Army, Dwight D. Eisenhower, formerly supreme commander of the Allied Armies in Europe and now chief of staff of the United States Army. The announcement changing the name from Castle Mountain was made by Prime Minister Mackenzie King at a Canadian Club luncheon in Ottawa where the famous American soldier was guest speaker. Resemblance to a giant medieval keep gave the first name to the eight-mile long mountain which towers 9,380 feet above sea level. Formations easily identified as turrets, basions and battlements rise over 4,000 feet from the valley floor. Back in the eighties there was a short-lived mining camp at the base of the mountain while during the First Great War a large internment camp was there.

DEPORTATION — A BLOT

Senator Cairine Wilson, speaking the other day against the Government's plan for the Japanese, said that should the Government persist in its present purpose, it would be "a sorry blot on Canada's escutcheon." Since the close of the war, much saner attitude towards our Japanese Canadians has been taken by large sections of the community. During the war, when racial passions were inflamed, judgment was often times thrown to the winds. In the calmer atmosphere of peacetime, many of our decisions and actions need to be reviewed and revised.

We have it on the word of the Prime Minister that no act of sabotage, or of a criminal character was done during war by any Japanese of Canadian birth or citizenship. They have been quiet, law-abiding citizens. Now, it is proposed to deport them, to send them back to Japan. Those who are to be deported are those who, during the war, signed a paper asking for such deportation. These papers were presented to the Japanese by the R.C.M.P. and while there was no physical pressure brought to bear on them, yet there was a great deal of pressure of another sort. The very fact that they were approached with the forms by a member of the Mounted Police is, in itself, a certain pressure.

It is now suggested that these people be given an opportunity to reverse their request. These are our people—they are Canadian citizens, and now the Government plans to deport a section of our citizenship, solely on the basis of race.

It is difficult to see why a distinction is made between the Japanese and citizens of other nations with which were at war. If it is right and legal to deport Japanese — why not Germans? We are not suggesting that any group should be deported.. But if deportation is to take place, then there should be some general principle governing the procedure. The business of picking out the Japanese, who are our own citizens, and sending them to Japan against their will, is certainly, as Senator Wilson, says: "a blot on Canada's escutcheon."

At the present time, an effort is being made to test the validity of the Order in Council by which the Japanese-Canadians were ordered to be deported. The case is before the Supreme Court of Canada. Apart, altogether, from what the Court may decide, the decent, just, and fair thing for Canada to do is to see that the Japanese - Canadians are treated no better and no worse than Canadians of other racial backgrounds.

DE GAULLE RESIGNS

At the time of writing, it is not clear whether General Charles De Gaulle, Provisional President of France, intends to step down and out, or whether he intends to reconsider his resignation which he tendered on Sunday. There can be no doubt but that de Gaulle was the French wartime hero. He seemed to embody the real spirit of France. He fought hard against even the Allies of France for proper and adequate recognition of his nation's rights.. He was the one man, in the days following the liberation, to head the French Government.

Like all other countries, particularly European countries, there is a sharp internal conflict between the Right and the Left. In France the swing has been towards the Left, towards the Communist position. For that reason, de Gaulle has found it difficult to steer the Ship of State in the stormy waters. If he resigns, a Communist will, in all likelihood, be called to the position of leadership. We may not like this. We may not like to see the ascendancy of the Communists. But we must be prepared to face facts in these European countries.

It is not to be supposed, either, that North America can stand outside world movements. This is one world. The best way to avoid extremes in this country, is to remove the causes of discontent and dissatisfaction.. For depth on it, this is not only "one world" but in time it will be a people's world. The quicker that is recognized, and policies, both business and economic formulated in the light of that recognition, the more rapid will be our march to a real Democracy.

THE STRIKE SITUATION

At the present time it is estimated that over a million and a half workers in The United States, are out on strike. That is more than the average total employable people in Canada. We are apt to become impatient with these strikers. Just at the time when the nation is ready to go into an all high production, the process is halted by this struggle for wage adjustments.

We who are living in these days are incapable of judging accurately as to the trend in events. The struggle is more than a struggle on the part of the worker for more money. It is a demand that the producer have a larger share in the proceeds of his industry. We are in the midst of a great movement and cannot be objective spectators. But in the days ahead it will become more clear that Management and Labor will be much closer together than now seems probable.

It ought not to be assumed that workers take their strikes lightly. They do not strike for the fun of it. A strike means suffering, sacrifice, and often hunger. We who live in a small town, can hardly realize what a strike means in a "steel town." Take for example a place like Lackawana, N.Y., a large town built around the Bethlehem Steel Plant. The plant employs, at peak, probably ten thousand workers. It stretches for over two miles along Lake Erie, near Buffalo. There is practically no other plant in the city. The shops, stores, churches, theatres, and all the other institutions and enterprises of a modern city, depend on the Bethlehem. Now, all the men are out on strike, the furnaces are down, the rolling mills are silent. Now, a quiet orderly procession of pickets march up and down in front of that whole two-mile stretch of factories. In the meantime the whole town suffers. Even church plays, concerts and entertainments are cancelled because of the lack of funds on the part of the community.

This situation can be duplicated in every area where there is a steel mill. Naturally, men with families to keep, children to feed and clothe and educate, do not easily and carelessly vote for a strike. It is unfortunate that no way has yet been found as a last resort to settle a dispute, but by the strike.

It is to be hoped, as a result of all the strife and struggle now going on, a better relationship between Labor and Management will be established, and that a better distribution of the proceeds of industry will emerge.

A CRACK IN THE DEFENSE

The decision handed down by the Privy Council is the first break in the powerful defenses behind which the liquor interests have enclosed themselves sinc ethe Liquor Control Act came into force in this Province. The Privy Council upholds the decision formerly given by the Supreme Court of Canada, which decision the Province of Ontario sought to have reversed. The Canada Temperance Act is now declared by the highest court in the realm, to be a valid act. By this act, any municipality on petition, from a number of qualified voters, many hold a referendum. Should a majority vote against the sale of liquor in that area, then sale would become illegal. It would be incumbent upon the Attorney-General, to enforce the law.

There are four municipalities in Ontario, besides a few in Quebec and in Manitoba, where a vote was taken under The Canada Temperance Act, and where the vote gave a sufficient majority to make the sale of liquor, illegal. In Ontario the municipalities are Peel, Perth and Huron Counties, and Manitoulin Island. In spite of this, however, licenses have been issued in all but Manitoulin, and liquor has been sold. Now, these 37 licences will have to be cancelled, and the sale of liquor in those areas, declared illegal.

This is the first break in the liquor selling defenses. But it bids fair to become quite a gap in the near future. Those who watch the trends in our social life, cannot but be aware of a rising tide of public opinion against the evils of the liquor traffic. Judges, magistrates and laf enforcement officers, in increasing numbers, are laying the blame for the present unparalleled outbreak of crime at the doors of the tavern and the beverage rooms. Churches are again becoming vocal. In Toronto, churches are combining to oppose new outlets for the sale of liquor. At one of the largest churches in the city, last Sunday, there was a long line-up as practically the whole congregation sought to sign a petition against increasing the number of hotel licences in their area.

The increased automobile traffic, too, has increased the number of accidents, due to the drinking drivers. There is a very definite opinion in the ranks of those who have to deal with the victims of such accidents, that a very large per cent. of them is due to the use of alcoholic beverages.

Now that the Privy Council, by its decision, has paved the way for the taking of votes in areas which do not want liquor to be sold, we may look forward to a number of appeals from municipalities throughout the Province.

We are grateful that this issue, which has been long pending, is now settled. We are sure that the present Attorney-General will see to it that steps are taken in accord with that decision.

WHEN THE STATE BECOMES WORKERS' BOSS

BY GARRY ALLIGHAN
In The Transatlantic Daily Mail

London. — Instead of looking at "Utopia-ridden Parliament," Britain's M.P.'s, in recess, are now savoring the antiseptic sensations caused by leaving Parliament from the view point of their own local world.

From contact with their constituents, they are discovering that constituents are in a very critical and questing mood.

It is all very easy, in the cloying atmosphere of the Chamber, to vote for the Bill that nationalized the railways, for the nationalization of coal or some other industry.

It is not so easy for the legislator, spending these weeks until the House reassembles, among the ordinary folk in his constituency to answer the direct questions they are asking.

The question which faces every M. P. wherever he goes is: "What will be the position of our trade union when our industry is nationalized?"

That poser cannot be charmed away by asking the questioner: "How do the trade unions manage in Russia?"

Nationalization is being effected in Britain by the British, not the Russian way—by easy and gradual instalments.

When Russia was sovietized all industries were socialized simultaneously. Trade unions became an integral part of the new system.

In Britain there are many industries not earmarked for nationalization, so there are two categories of trade unions.

Those serving workers in non-nationalized industries will carry on as before. But those related to the State-owned industries will, of necessity, acquire a different function.

"Shall we be free to strike if the new boss — the Government — refuses to concede our wage demands?" is the question legislators visiting coal-mining constituencies are being asked.

In theory—yes. But, logically speaking, such strikes would be anti-social because, whether they succeeded in their object or failed, the State (i.e. the people) would have to pay.

Trade union leaders have yet to define policy on workers' rights in nationalized industries, but Herbert Tracey, the British Trade Union Congress public relations chief, has already given a plain indication.

The function of the trade unions in socialized industry, he declares, is to promote the higher incentives of loyalty, solidarity, and self - discipline".

Only experience of socialized industry can decide whether the conciliators will be content with their unions performing that function in return for the weekly dues deducted from the pay packet.

Some of the miner M.P.'s admit their men will insist on a higher wage standard, improved working conditions, and a 40-hour week.

If the "boss" — whether he is the Mining Association of Mineowners or the State — refuses those demands the men will expect their union to get them even if the strike weapon has to be employed.

That would complicate matters because the National Mineworkers' Union will be part of the "boss" when the industry is socialized.

Dockers are asking M.P.'s now visiting waterside constituencies: "When the docks are nationalized will the Government allow troops to break a strike?"

The general reply is: "Yes, if that were necessary, because a strike of workers in a State-owned industry would be sabotage of the Government and a hostile act against the people."

Dockers are not entirely relishing that reply.

They are telling their M.P.'s that bad working conditions would still be bad, and low wages still low, even if the wharfinger firm and became the Government.

And the poor M.P., who has spent most of his political life denouncing the use of troops as strike-breakers is not finding it easy to explain that, when the docks become State owned, dockers and soldiers will both be State workers and, therefore, the use of troops would merely be the employment of alternative labour.

"Will our trade unions combine their chief task . . . of fighting for wages and better conditions against the boss?" is the question being posed to almost every M.P. by his constituents.

Yes, in the case of the non-nationalized industries," is the usual reply.

But the answer is not so reading forthcoming in respect to the industries coming under State ownership.

Some M.P.'s are puzzled, but believe that in time the problem will solve itself.

RADAR AND THE BIRDS

How birds in flight can be detected by radiolocation is told in a fascinating article in Nature.

The body of a large bird such as a grey goose is quite capable of reflecting radio waves, and a flock of geese was at one time followed by radar for 57 miles over a period of 90 minutes; this showed that the birds flew at 35 miles per hour, a speed much slower than was previously believed. Even starlings can be a nuisance to radiolocators.

CANADA WALK

Lincoln's Inn Fields, in London, Eng., which were laid out by Inigo Jones, the great architect and designer, in 1614, were thronged with Canadians during the war, for Number 21 was the headquarters of the Canadian Air Force.

To commemorate this association, the paved side of the Fields where Number 20 stands, has been officially called "Canada Walk".

INTERNATIONAL SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON, JANUARY 27TH, 1946

"RELIGION IN A NATION'S LIFE"
Lesson Text: Exodus 28: 1: 4-8, 29-29

During the war we were repeatedly told that we were fighting for the Christian way of life. Indeed, on June 18th, 1940, when the situation became ominous, Mr. Churchill declared: "The battle of Britain is about to begin. Upon this battle depends the survival of Christian civilization." Mr. Churchill was right. In spite of the fact that all the people in the Allied countries were not active church members, yet our civilization is Christian in the sense that its laws are based on Christian principles, justice, righteousness and fairness are at the heart of things. This did not simply happen. It is the result, not only of long years of the experiment and history, but more, it is the natural outcome of Christian belief and faith. The atmosphere of Christian because a body of Christian opinion developed from the religious faith and belief of millions of people. The danger to our Christian civilization now that the enemy is defeated lies in a tendency on the part of large numbers of people to cut themselves off from the church which is the means whereby that religious outlook on life is generated.

Early in the history of the Hebrew people provision was made for orderly, organized worship. Ministers specially chosen were trained for the sacred office. A church was arranged for. The directions were given for the taking of an offering with which to build a suitable place of worship. A glance over those directions in today's lesson, conveys the impression that the building was to be well built and beautifully furnished. Why not? The House of God should be the most beautiful building possible. The service, too, should be dignified and orderly. Though it is absolutely necessary to guard against, thinking that a beautiful service is the whole purpose of worship. The Hebrews, later, made that mistake, and the prophets denounced them for it in no mild manner.

FOREST MILLS W. A.

The first meeting of the New Year was held at the home of Mrs. D. M. Sandford, with the president, Mrs. Fred McFarlane, presiding. The devotional was in charge of Mrs. Ernest Scott and opened in the usual manner. The scripture lesson, Psalm 121, was read by Freda Scott and prayer was offered by Rev. W. E. Lewis. The devotional poem was read by Mrs. D. M. Sandford. The roll call, A A New Year's Resolution, was responded to by 14 members and 9 visitors. The reports were read and approved. There was a discussion on redecorating the church. An article signed by Mrs. O. H. Brooks was auctioned by Rev. W. E. Lewis and a tidy sum was realized. A surprise parcel donated by the president, proved very amusing and also netted a sum to the treasury.

During the social portion of the programme, an address was given by Rev. W. E. Lewis, a piano solo by Mrs. Lewis Fox. Interesting readings in keeping with New Year were given by Mesdames A. C. Davison, D. M. Sandford, Ivan McFarlane, Lewis Fox. A contest arranged by Mrs. A. C. Davison was won by Mrs. Ivan McFarlane.

A pleasant afternoon was brought to a close by the serving of refreshments by the hostess.

Cat-astrophe

An Englishman on a visit to a foreign country dropped into a restaurant for a meal, but as he did not understand a word of the language, he ordered what he thought he want ed by pointing to various items on the menu card. One dish pleased him very much, and he took it to be some very tastily prepared duck. When the waiter came along, the Englishman pointed to this plate and raising his brows, asked: "Quack, taken of, was, puss, puss!"

"Oh, no sir!" repied the waiter in English. "What you have just partaken of was puss, puss!"

Too Late

After leaving his church the minister stopped to shake hands with a young woman who was a new member of his congregation. In the course of conversation, the minister remarked how pleased he always was to welcome new members to the church.

The young woman blushed prettily. "It's very kind of you to say so."

"Not at all," replied the minister. "Just let me have your name and address, and I will be able to call and see you."

"Oh!" stammered the girl. "I'm afraid you're too late. I've got a boy friend already."

FAMOUS DIARIES AND THE MEN WHO KEPT THEM

New diaries of every shape and kind, will find a place in hundreds of thousands of pockets these days.

Diaries and journals are no new thing. Julius Caesar was careful to preserve records of his wars, and all down the years men and women have recorded their experiences at home and abroad. Most diaries are intensely personal accounts, and thousands must have perished without ever seeing the light of day. Some of those that have come to our notice are of tremendous interest and of great historic value.

There come to mind at once the diaries of two famous Englishmen, Pepys and Evelyn. Both lived in the seventeenth century, and both kept careful records of what happened in their own homes and in the country generally. It is curious that these two men should have met, neither suspecting that the other kept a diary, and both ignorant of the fact that one day their diaries were to become famous.

It was long after Pepys and Evelyn had passed on that their volumes were read by others; and it was long after John Wesley had written the last entry in his wonderful journal that the secret written was translated. Once the key was found, his journal was like a doorway into eighteenth-century England — the England in which a plain man rode 250,000 miles and preached with great power.

The journals of explorers and travellers are among some of the most thrilling books ever written. The sufferings of Burke and Wills, two of Australia's noblest explorers, are revealed in the journal that was found lying by the dead body of Wills, the page open at his last entry. Charles Waterton's wanderings in South America, Livingstone's amazing record of adventure and discoveries in Africa, Darwin's journal kept with wonderful accuracy during the voyage of the "Beagle", all these are famous. Few men have kept a journal more faithfully than the great navigator, Capt. Cook and it stirs us to think that in his last days the father of the Yorkshire seaman whose name was ringing round the world was able to follow his son's daily record of discoveries in Southern seas.

The Polar explorers have left us priceless journals, some of them written at the cost of life itself. Who can read Nansen's record of his adventures in the Farthest North without being stirred? Or Shackleton's voyage in the "Quest" without marvelling at the courage and endurance of men like these. For all time Captain Scott's diary, written near the South Pole till he could write no longer, must be something to inspire us.

At this time some of us will be thinking of writing a word or two in our diaries every day; but few of us will keep a diary so regularly and over such a long period as the old doctor of Tullesholt D'Arcy in Essex. He died in 1933, and for thirty years and days he kept a diary. It has since been published, or rather part of it, for his daily record filled eighty big volumes, beating Pepys many times over.

A village doctor, for sixty-seven years, John Henry Salter was up every morning at five, beginning each day with two hours at his diary. He missed nothing. Everything he did, the experience he had, the people he met, were all put down in a diary which must remain one of the most remarkable ever written.

The Old-Fashioned Lamplighter

It is interesting to note that there are only forty lamplighters left in the city of London. This winter is the first since 1838 in which they are doing their old-time job of going round every evening at dusk and lighting, separately, each of the ten per cent of London's street gas lamps that still have to be operated by hand —the rest are lit by mechanized clock control.

In days gone by the lamplighter was thought to be rather a romantic figure; he was popular with boys and girls, who would sometimes go with him on his rounds, listening to his stories and watching with interest as he turned on each lamp and made a small circle of soft light on the cobbled street. This the lamplighter did in the days before gas-lighting by placing his ladder against the lamp-post, climbing up to light the old-lamp inside it. That is why a few old-fashioned lamp-posts are seen to have a bar sticking out beneath the lamp, declares the Children's Newspaper.

Later, the lamplighter discarded his ladder and carried a short pole with which he switched on the jet of a lamp burning an "incandescent mantle."

The forty lamplighters of London may soon give up their archaic work, but they are not afraid of being unemployed as they will have plenty of work to do in keeping the street lamps clean and in working order.

MONTY'S "NUMBER 10 THING"

The secret has just been revealed of a wonderful new radio transmitting device which throughout the campaign in France and Germany enabled Field-Marshal Montgomery to speak directly— and secretly—to Mr. Churchill, in London. "Monty" installed the wireless set his "Number 10 thing."

Though portable wireless transmitters were a great help to our men in the war, their use was restricted because the enemy could often, by tuning into the wireless messages, overhear everything that was being said. The wireless set used by Field-Marshal Montgomery, however, was proof against enemy eavesdroppers.

The reason for this was that the new wireless transmitter operated on centimetre waves. The beam was a very narrow one and the enemy knew nothing of such a device being used.

No Blind Alley Jobs

An outstanding feature of the Grange Shed cotton mill in Bradford, England, is the training school where young recruits are received when they "enter the mill." There is a special room for them, with brightly colored lights and skilled instructors. Juveniles work here for about three months—all the time being paid the standard rates of wages for young people.

Until they are ready-one, trainees attend evening classes, the fees being paid by their employers. It is the proud boast of the firm that there are no blind alley jobs at Grange Shed. Parents are encouraged to visit the mill to see their children's training and all that is being done for them. This welfare effort is not peculiar to this one firm, it is only one of many in the United Kingdom cotton industry, today.

Canada has its own dykes. The marshlands forming the shore of the Bay of Fundy in Nova Scotia and New Brunswick, have been protected by dykes. The Maritime Dykeland Rehabilitation Committee, formed in 1942, is taking action in their repair.

He leaves to mourn his loss besides a loving wife, six children, Mrs. Harold Partridge (Margaret), of South Mountain; George and Walter, of Tamworth; Mary, Than. and Fraser, at home. Also two brothers, Albert, of Tamworth, and George, of Johnston City, N.Y.

Large Loss of Life In Fires

The last part of December, particularly the few days before Christmas, saw an almost unparalleled outbreak of household fires involving serious loss of life. Seventeen Canadians died in home fires the first week-end in December, seven persons in a farm house near Napanee, Ont., from an overheated stove and pipes; a mother and four children in their home near Sudbury when a stove fire was being started with coal oil, and a mother and four children died at St. Pierre, Man., when an overturned coal oil lamp ignited a can of gasoline in their home. A coupe of days later, a mother and baby were burned to death near London, Ont., when the mother was starting the kitchen fire with coal oil. Near Tilbury, Ontario, while their parents were attending Christmas midnight mass, three young children sleeping in their beds were burned to death from a fire which apparently started from a kitchen stove. One Toronto newspaper, in the issue of December 24th, devoted one column to reports of seven fires, in two of which occupants barely escaped with their lives. Another Toronto newspaper of December 26th reports six fires, while a Toronto newspaper on December 26 gives nearly two columns to ten fires, in one of which a father was badly burned rescuing his 6-months old baby and another where a dog's barking wakened seven occupants of a burning building.

The prevalence of fires from heating systems is a grave warning to householders in particular to check their furnaces, stoves and pipes. Difficulties in getting competent repair men and in obtaining proper repair parts and pipes of adequate gauge, have resulted in many heating systems being in a very hazardous condition. The terrible tragedies from trying to start fires with coal oil are another drastic waring against this suicidal practice.

He who loses sight of spiritual things, loses sight of real values.

Peacetime Programme Imperial Order Daughters of Empire

Mrs. Ryland H. New, National President of The Imperial Order Daughters of the Empire, announces the Post War Service Programme of the I. O. D. E. which will function from this date, January 18th, 1946, and that during this period of transition from war to peace the normal peacetime programme of the Order will still be maintained.

The name of the Imperial Order Daughters of the Empire is well known in Britain and by the Polish people, a bond of sympathy having been created during the years of war which should be a substantial factor in the peace to come.

The I. O. D. E. Post War Service Programme will provide:—

British and European Civilian Relief, including direct Polish Relief.

Work for Seamen: (a) adoption of ships; (b) Seamen's comforts.

Hospitality; (a) for convalescent Service men and women; (b) continued work in hostels, canteens, clubs of Service Centres, as long as the need exists.

Europe is in ruins, Britain hard-pressed and suffering from greater privations than at any time during the war. Canada and the rest of the North American continent is the only source from which help can come to the desperate people of Europe. General Eisenhower said that if America did not help Europe now these people will wonder why they have helped to overthrow the German Government.

The situation of most people in Europe is beyond our imagining. Thousands are now dying of cold and hunger. Their clothing and bedding are rags and their homes but ruins around them. It is estimated that even with the help now on its way and which can reach them soon, millions may die of cold and starvation. The women of Britain have been sending what they could and are knitting and sewing to help save Europe. In the face of these conditions we who have plenty cannot go home to normal living but must help share the burden in the Battle for Peace.

Industries in Europe have been wiped out, millions of innocent victims left in the wake of the war roam the country with no place to call "home," or are living in Concentration Camps with the future a grim uncertainty. The thought that the people of the British Empire are working for them will give new faith in what they fought for and hope that the right sort of order will come out of the chaos.

The peace following the war of 1914-18 failed. Let us do our part to see that the peace now in the make Moved by Messrs. Bryden and Wagar, that the key, presented by ex-Warden Drew, be suitably engraved with the various names. — Carried.

A by-law appropriating $115,000 for expenditure on the good roads system in 1946 for maintenance and repairs, was given its several readings and finally passed.

Moved by Messrs. Ham and Breault that the Warden and Clerk sign the application for road subsidy, 1945 amounting to $57,500.

Council adjourned at the call of the Warden.

OBITUARIES

C. T. ROBINSON

Word was received this week, in Napanee, of the death of Ceylon T. Robinson, at the home of his son, C. J. Robinson, Detroit, Mich., on January 12th. He was in his 96th year and had been in quite good health and active up until about six weeks ago, when he was taken ill with pneumonia.

Mr. Robinson farmed at Selby about fifty-five years ago and after leaving Selby, moved with his family near Kingston, and farmed at the location known as Pt. Pleasant, and also operated a dairy in the city. Upon his retirement in 1920, he and his son and family moved to Detroit to reside.

He was twice married. His first wife, Harriet McEwen, died in 1882 and his second wife, Ida Sills, died in 1895. In addition to his son, Oliver, he is survived by a daughter, Miss Minnie Watts, Portsmouth, two grandchildren, Alex. Robinson, Detroit, and Mrs. H. Silver, Portsmouth, also one brother, Holden Robinson, at Sandhurst. Two brothers, Geo. of Kingston, Maxwell of Bath; two sisters, Mrs. Mary Young, and Mrs. S. Benjamin, Sandhurst, predeceased him.

For 65 years he was a member of Bath Lodge No. 119, A.F.& A.M. The funeral services were held on Wednesday at Jas. Reid's Funeral Home in Kingston, service being conducted by Rev. Canon Wilmer Walker, Bath, and under Masonic auspices.

The remains were placed in the family lot for interment in the Spring to Cataraqui cemetery.

The high esteem in which he was held and remembered was shown in the many beautiful floral tributes.

Sugar Coupon Value Still The Same

Since the WPTB announced recently the combination of the sugar and preserves coupons, many a Canadian housewife is wondering just how this new order will affect the values of her coupons.

There has been no reduction in rations under the new plan and rations are at the same level as in the last eight months of 1945.

For example, on January 17, sugar coupons 68 and 69 became valid. The housewife may use these valid coupons for sugar or preserves, as she wishes, or part sugar and part preserves may be bought on the coupon, as desired.

IMPORTED LEMON JUICE CEILINGS REVISED

The average consumer price for imported lemon juice will be between 14 and 15 cents for a tin of six fluid ounces, following a revision in the price ceiling to bring it in line with other citrus fruit juices and with prevailing prices for fresh lemons, the Wartime Prices and Trade Board has announced.

In Loving Memory

REYNOLDS — In loving memory of our dear mother and grandmother, Pearl Reynolds, who passed away on January 24th, 1944.

Two years have passed since that sad day,
When one we loved was called away,
God took her home, it was His will,
Within our hearts she liveth still.

Lovingly remembered and sadly missed by

GEORGE, DOROTHY,
4ap MORLEY, RONNIE and JACK.

SHETLER — In loving memory of Grant Spearing Shetler, dearly loved son of Ethel Spearing, accidentally killed on the 26th January, 1945 at Eastview in his 14th year.

In the bloom of his life, God called him.
In the pride of his boyhood days;
Those that knew him, loved him—
All spoke of him with praise.
Smiling and happy, always content;
Loved and respected wherever he went;
Thoughtful of others, ever kind;
A beautiful memory he left behind.
Sadly missed by his mother,
4ap ETHEL SPEARING.

ANNUAL MEETING GRACE CHURCH CONGREGATION

The annual meeting of the congregation of Grace United Church was held in the Sunday School room on Wednesday night, and despite the cold weather, there was a fairly large attendance, fully 125 being present. The initial part of the meeting took the form of a potluck supper held at 7:00 o'clock, and after the bountiful supper had been enjoyed, there was community singing, which was led by G. F. Smith with Mrs. B. M. Black as accompanist. Rev. C. D. McLellan took charge of the meeting and opened with a short devotional period after which the reports of the various organizations were presented.

Mr. McLellan gave the report of the Session and said that during the past year there was a membership of 767 with baptisms 37, weddings 17 and funerals 38.

The following then gave their reports: Treasurer, by W. G. Smith; Missionary and Maintenance, by Harold Thompson; Building Fund, P. B. Elliott; Sacramental Offerings, Rev. C. D. McLellan, and Envelope Steward, G. E. Gibbard.

It may be stated that the Church had a wonderful year as was shown in the various reports. The report of the Sunday School was given by Bruce McAdam, treasurer, and the Primary Department report was read by Mrs. G. F. Smith.

Miss Roxy Hawley gave an interesting report of the Canadian Girls in Training and the two boys groups, which are under the direction of W. A. Ramsay and P. Freeman, comprise the Tuxis and Trail Rangers. Mrs. W. F. Barrett presented the report of the Woman's Association and showed that this organization had raised a large amount of money during the year, and that a substantial amohnt had been paid towards the new organ. The report of the Women's Missionary Society was read by Mrs. Clarence Denison and Mrs. Percy Vine. The balance of the reports were presented by Miss Lois Campbell for the Girls' Club; Miss Joan Santer for the Young People's Union; the Young Worshippers' League by Rev. C. D. McLellan, and the War Services Committee by G. F. Smith. The latter acted as secretary of the meeting.

OFFICERS ELECTED

The following officers were elected.

Recording Steward— W. F. Barrett.

Treasurer— W. G. Smith.

Missionary and Maintenance—Harold Thompson.

Envelope Steward—G. E. Gibbard.

The various other committees were appointed and remain practically the same as last year.

A hearty vote of appreciation was tendered to Rev. C. D. and Mrs. McLellan and family for their excellent work during the past year, which was moved by Bert Seymour and was received with much applause.

A vote of thanks was also given to W. G. Smith for his great assistance during the past year in the several activities of the church.

Appreciation of the splendid services of the choir under the leadership of Mrs. W. V. Bruce was voiced by Mr. McLellan and others.

One of the best meetings held in some years was brought to a close with the benediction by Rev. C. D. McLellan.

MAKING THE RIVERS work for you!

● A river near your home, or hundreds of miles away, is working for you. In its eager rush to the sea its waters drive huge hydro-electric generators. The power so produced can be yours to command, but only to the extent that you provide for it through ADEQUATE WIRING.

Electricity—the low-cost servant—floods a multitude of homes with cheerful light. Meals are cooked and food is preserved, rugs are cleaned and laundry is washed and ironed, radios entertain and educate, furnaces are operated and water is heated in modern homes everywhere. For those who welcome Electricity with adequate wiring, it enters to take on numerous tasks and bring uncounted comforts —and who can predict the limits of what it may do for you tomorrow!

Your Hydro brings this magic within your reach. How well it can serve you depends on how well your home is wired. Adequate wiring can be provided at an average cost of 3% of the value of the building. When building, buying or remodelling, it is genuine economy to wire for the needs of tomorrow. Your local Hydro will be glad to provide you with information.

PRICE CONTROL AND RATIONING INFORMATION

Readers may address the questions, mentioning this newspaper, to Information Branch, Room 22, WPTB, 400 Sussex Street, Ottawa, Ontario.

Q. When do the butter coupons change in value?

A. The coupons do not change in value . . . the butter ration was reduced from seven to six ounces per week per person commencing this month; but the reduction is effected by postponing a coupon every fourth week instead of every eighth week, as was the practice before.

Q. A grocer would not sell me a box of soap of which he had a fair supply. I had ordered a jar of jam and a tin of asparagus. He said I had not bought enough. Has he the right to do this?

A. To prevent shoppers going from store to store, picking up a bit of scarce goods here and a bit of scarce goods there, most merchants try to distribute their goods among their regular customers. This system on the whole works out well. There is no WPTB regulation which forces any storekeeper to sell what he has displayed in his shop.

Q. Is there still a ceiling price on sugar? Last week I paid 9c per lb. and have never paid more than 8c during the war.

A. There certainly is a price ceiling on sugar . . . the highest price that may be charged for sugar is the highest price that was charged by each store in 1941. Some stores had charged as much as that at that time, and, of course, may charge the same price now. As your letter contained a list of very high prices at the store where this sugar was purchased, we will have their prices checked at once.

Q. I rented a room in my home to a girl some years ago. Now her husband has returned from overseas and is living in her room. Am I entitled to charge extra rent for him and the wear and tear caused by an extra person?

A. If you think that the husband's presence in your home is causing you extra cost each month you may apply to the Rental Administration for an increased rental. You will be required to fill out the necessary forms, and on completion an appraiser will inspect your property and advise what rental may be charged.

Q. Why are there so many luxuries items in the stores such as satin pyjamas, lace nighties, etc., and yet we are told children's underwear, men's shirts and socks?

A. The question which is frequently asked and we are glad to answer it. You certainly can imagine turning a thick lace nightie into children's underwear or a shimmering satin tea - gown into children's dressing gowns. The fabrics which go into luxury merchandise just aren't suitable for staples like men's shirts and socks, children's underwear, etc. The labour tie up in making luxury items is only a pin prick on the labour front.

Q. I read in the paper that starting January 1st the ration coupons for sugar and preserves were combined. Will this change the value of the coupon?

A. The P coupon holds its 1945 value for preserves and sugar until January 31st, when it expires.

It's The Callories That Count

What our ancestors called "vittles"—usually spelt victuals—was to them a subject of vast importance, though they had no scientific knowledge of the comparative values of the vittles many of them consumed in such large quantities.

Experts have proved that beer, despite advertising, has hardly any food value. Meat beer contains only ten calories per ounce, and no vitamins at all, according to an interesting book, "Manual of Nutrition," issued by the Ministry of Food. The Manual has been compiled by Dr. Magnus Pyke, who tells us many important facts about our diet.

Calories are the measurement of that quality in food which provides us with the energy for our daily tasks. How many calories we require depends on the nature of our activities. If a man were to lie still in bed for 24 hours he would require 1,700 calories in that time. Sitting up and keeping still, he would need an extra 15 calories every hour. When we walk upstairs we consume energy at the rate of 1,000 calories per hour. A clerk needs 2,300 calories a day, but a woodcutter should have 5,100. Children need more than adults, for they use up more energy — running while others walk, or dancing and playing instead of sitting still.

Among the foods that are low in calorific value are onions and tomatoes, though these have other virtues. Cakes and buns provide plenty of calories but are deficient in other qualities which give a food its full nutritional value.

ALMANACS — THEIR ORIGIN AND HISTORY

The calendar is of great antiquity; it came originally from the Arabs, and their name for it still persists ALMAN/AC—the diary. As a race, they were given to the study of astronomy and astrology, and never engaged in any business without consulting the stars. Roman contact with the Arabs brought the custom to Europe, and to this day almanacs in many countries carry astrological detail. We still have our assorted prophetic publications.

Calendar is the Roman equivalent for the Arabic Almanac, the Calends being the first days of the Roman months. In ancient Rome it was the custom to call together the citizens on the first day of each month, and inform them of the time of the New Moon, and the festival and sacred days. In later times, the feast, or calendar, was posted publicly.

The Danish invaders of Britain also brought their calendar with them. This was the Runic or Rog almanac, and contained the order of the feasts, characters bearing the days of the week, seasonal symbols, and the golden number.

Early calendars were sometimes engraved on wooden leaves, bound together like a book, and sometimes on the seabeards of swords, daggers, and walking staves. The characters were either Runic or Gothic letters. After the introduction of printing the almanac was not confined to one year, but calculated for several years, one of the first of these being issued at Nantes, in 1460.

With the Reformation the custom of placing an almanac in the Bible began, especially in Family Bibles, and when a tax came in of a shilling a year for each annual almanac, or ten shillings for perpetual ones, those in Bibles and Prayer Books were exempt.

The Oxford Almanack adorned with quaint hieroglyphics, and containing a history of the University, was compiled by Nicholas Wheeler, canon of Christchurch, in 1672. It so injured the sale of the Stationers Company's publications, who held a monopoly license from James I for calendar production, that the company offered the University an annual fee to stop the publication.

Tannes Almanack appeared in 1656 and another one even more famous in its day, was issued by Francis Moore in 1698. Moore's had an astounding sale of over half a million copies. Compiled by Andrew, a schoolmaster, its predictions achieved wide fame and were believed implicitly by vast numbers of the people.

In 1775 a bookseller named Carnan broke the Stationer's monopoly, but then continued to stifle competition for another fifty years, buying up rival publications and suppressing them. The issue of the British Almanac by the Society of Useful Knowledge, in 1828, finally ended the Company's monopoly.

THE USEFUL COCONUT

The Coconut Palm, which in prewar days provided us with coconuts for chies and flavoring for sweets, puddings and cakes, has a big variety of uses in the tropical lands and islands of which it is a native.

There the nut provides food and drink and produces an oil which is used among other things for ointment. The shell is often cured (and polished) into cups, goblets, and ladles.

The dried leaves are used for thatch and are plaited for mats, screens and baskets. The midribs of the leaves make paddles for the natives.

The wood of the lower part of the trunk is very hard and takes a beautiful polish, while the fibrous tissue of the younger stems makes cord.

IT CERTAINLY PAYS TO ADVERTISE!

is a remark heard many times in the past year from satisfied advertisers who have used

THE NAPANEE BEAVER

In countless instances a thirty-five cent advertisement has resulted in the quick sale of some surplus article or in securing information leading to the purchase of a wanted commodity.

THE NAPANEE BEAVER Circulation is now well over 3000 and its Subscription List has the added advantage of being all paid in advance. The Paper goes into every part of the County and with its widespread news coverage, its excellent editorials and other features, it is in an unequalled position to serve its readers and advertisers.

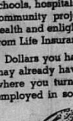
A SCHOOL is itself a problem in mathematics. When a new settlement grows up or an old one expands, someone has to do some figuring. The money has to be found for that little new school-house or that added wing to a high school crowded to the corridors.

The municipal bonds which finance the building of schools, hospitals, water-works, hydro plants, and other community projects which contribute to our national health and enlightenment, are financed to a large extent from Life Insurance funds.

Dollars you have paid in as Life Insurance premiums may already have returned to your community. Everywhere you turn this great co-operative fund is being employed in socially useful enterprises.



Of every dollar invested out of Life Insurance funds, a substantial portion goes into the solid, progressive development of Canadian communities. Other investments include government bonds public and industrial securities, farm and home mortgages, etc. This money, representing the thrift of the nation, creates a never-ending cycle of jobs far and wide, as well as safeguarding the future security of four million policyholders and their families.

ROBLIN

Roblin, Jan. 21.—The Roblin community has been particularly saddened during the past week, as three well known and highly respected citizens have passed away within the week.

On Friday evening, January 11th, Mrs. Daniel Richmond, formerly Catherine Webb, passed away, after a brief illness of two days. Although Mrs. Richmond had been in poor health for some time, her death came as a shock to her friends as up until Thursday morning she had been doing her household duties. Mrs. Richmond will be greatly missed, as she had always taken a very active part in all kinds of church and community work. She will be especially missed in the W. A., of which she had been a member in the organization here, and she had helped with the devotional program at its last meeting in December. Her funeral, which was largely attended, was held in the United Church on Sunday afternoon, conducted by her pastor, Rev. W. Lewis.

On Monday, Mrs. Anna Kimmett passed away at the home of her son, Mr. Arthur Kimmett, Melrose. Her remains were brought to Roblin to the home of her son, Charles H. Kimmett, where she had spent the greater part of her life. She was in her 82nd year, but until a few weeks ago she was able to work at her favorite pastime, that of making fancy quilts. As she was possessed of a very kindly and cheerful disposition, she had a host of friends, both in this vicinity and at Melrose. Her funeral, which was held in Roblin United Church on Wednesday afternoon, was conducted by her pastor, Rev. Mr. Lougheed, assisted by Rev. Mr. Lewis. Her remains were placed in the vault at Napanee to await interment in Roblin cemetery in the spring.

The third aged resident of Roblin to die within one week, Elizabeth Anne McKeown wife of the late Jas. McCutcheon, passed away on Wednesday. Deceased was 96 years of age and had been confined to her bed for the past six years as a result of a fall, which fractured her hip. She was always cheerful, and enjoyed having her friends and neighbors call upon her. Surviving are two step-children, Melville McCutcheon, with whom she made her home, and Mrs. Stuart Shetler, of Napanee. Her husband predeceased her by eleven years. Her funeral was held in Roblin United Church on Friday afternoon, conducted by Rev. W. E. Lewis.

What might have been a tragedy happened on Grieve's Hill, south of the village, on Highway No. 41, on Saturday, when a car driven by Miss Carrie Bush, of Sharp's Corners, was being towed along the highway when in some unforseen manner the car went out of control and crashed through the guard rail, plunging some 20 feet down a steep embankment. Fortunately neither Miss Bush nor her young nephew, who was with her, were seriously injured, but the car was badly wrecked.

MR. AND MRS. FRED WEESE MARRIED FIFTY YEARS

Mr. and Mrs. Fred Weese celebrated their Golden Wedding Anniversary quietly on January 19th, at their home in Selby, with two of their four children and three of their six grandchildren present. Those present were D. W. Weese, Mrs. Weese and Ralph, of Selby North, Mrs. C.F. Allen, Mr. Allen, Glenn and Robert, of Odessa. The other children, Mrs. Vigress, of Toronto, and Mrs. Kellar of Oshawa, and their families, were unable to be present.

Mrs. Weese, formerly Miss Jennie Sexsmith, and Mr. Weese, were married at the home of the bride's uncle, Mr. C. P. Sexsmith, Selby West, by the Rev. R. Atkinson, of Selby, and the attendants were Miss Ida Sexsmith, now Mrs. Stewart Weese, Miss Hattie Weese and Mr. Frank Weese, of whom Mrs. Stewart Weese is the only one living at the present time. Unfortunately, Mrs. Stewart Weese was unable to attend the golden wedding because of illness.

The dinner was brought and served by Mrs. Allen and Mrs. D. W. Weese and the evening was spent with music and visiting.

Numerous cards, letters and telephone calls of congratulation were received during the day and evening and Mr. and Mrs. Weese were presented with a generous sum of money by their immediate family.

DORLAND

Dorland, Jan. 19. — The continued zero weather of this week must have been rather disastrous to the butterflies, blooming paidies, etc., which Clark reported in his broadcast last Sunday morning, but the bright sun is welcome after so many cloudy days.

Crossing at Glenora is still considered unsafe.

The recent snow falls have not made good sleighing, but may help out on drawing wood.

Despite the bitter cold on Wednesday, members of the Woman's Association gathered at the home of Mrs. Sanford Simmons for their regular meeting. Plans were made for the supper to be served in connection with the congregational meeting that has been announced for Thursday evening.

Flu still hangs around, but seems to be a different type from the earlier cases.

IMMENSE OUTLAY FOR SERVICE MEN PROPOSED BY GOV'T

Nearly $600,000,000 Needed in 1946

Ottawa. — Aid to Canada's war veterans in fitting themselves into the pattern of the civilian life will cost the Federal Government upwards of $600,000,000 in 1946—more than the average pre-war Dominion Government budget.

The cost of rehabilitation next year was estimated at $596,000,000 by Hon. Ian Alistair Mackenzie, Veterans Minister, in a comprehensive review of work accomplished in 1945 and planned for next year by his department.

Gratuities will form $266,500,000 of the huge program, designed to guarantee the welfare of service personnel under one of the most generous post-war resettlement schemes ever devised by any nation.

VARIOUS PROJECTS

Other expenditures include re-establishment credits of some $60,000,000; pensions, hospital allowances and war veterans' allowances estimated at approximately $68,000,000 and $85,600,000 to finance the Veterans' Land Act, including $72,000,000 for the purchase of land and improvements for veterans.

During 1945 the department began to swing into full-scale operation and Mr. Mackenzie gave the following highlights:

1. A total of 20,862 veterans are attending Canadian universities or qualifying for admission to them.
2. A total of 16,457 veterans are taking vocational training.
3. In the last twelve months, $12,000,000 had been paid out to 71,593 veterans in re-establishment credits, with approximately $10,000,000 of the amount being used for home purposes.
4. During 1946 it is hoped 15,500 veterans will be settled under the Veterans' Land Act. A total of 13,930 were qualified under the act during 1945.
5. Annual liability of pensions to veterans of the Second World War totals $21,000,000, while that for veterans of the First Great War is $37,000,000.
6. An estimated $23,000,000 will be spent this year to provide additional hospital treatment facilities. An additional 503 beds will be added to the Military Hospital in Montreal.

The minister said that during 1945 the most popular feature of the rehabilitation plan was the "all the enthusiastic response of veterans to opportunities for higher education."

In December, 20,862 veterans were attending universities or qualifying for admission after 18 months there. $1,579,602 had been paid in maintenance allowances.

"Veterans are a home loving people" it was shown by figures for re-establishment credits and the $12,677,809 that had been well spent, Mr. Mackenzie said.

9,000 BOUGHT HOMES

More than 9,000 veterans had used credits of $4,910,922 for the purchase or construction of homes and "in the vast majority of cases" the money went for down payments only, making "safe" the assumption that Canadian veterans have committed themselves to approximately $30,000,000 during 1945.

Another 7,682 veterans had been granted $1,161,703 for repair and modernization of homes they already owned and 36,272 others spent $4,693,783 for furniture.

Also under re-establishment credits, 17,512 veterans were granted $2,864,115 to aid in the purchase of businesses, tools of a trade or toward working capital of a business or profession already owned. Premiums on Dominion of Canada insurance accounted for $71,581 and special equipment for vocational or educational training took $19,590.

Some 13,950 veterans qualified from among 23,328 applicants for settlement under the Veterans' Land Act. Of these 7,221 planned to take small holdings, 5,941 requisite full time farms, 177 embark on commercial fishing and 15 settle on provincial lands.

Grants to veterans awaiting returns from business or farming amounted to $377,990 monthly and at the end of the year 10,716 were receiving out-of-work benefits.

Many of the 25,000 veterans who suffered serious disabilities still were in hospital and each case would be considered individually in helping them find economic security.

At year's end, pensions being paid the Second Great War veterans and their dependents, totalled $21,000,000 annually, compared with current pension liability of $37,000,000 yearly resulting from the First Great War.

CAR THIEVES ARRESTED IN NAPANEE

The storm on Friday evening last and a bad sense of direction, soon ended a joy ride in a stolen car and landed Harold S. Murphy, Kingston, and Mostyn Eugene Tembrell, R.C.O.C. Kingston, in gaol. The two men were picked up at the Clover Leaf Circle on the outskirts of Kingston, by Robert McQuaker, bookkeeper at the Modern Motors, Napanee, who had been in the city on business. When the car was near Westbrook the two hitchhikers forced Mr. McQuaker to step the car and pushed him out in the snow on the side of the road, after which they sped away toward Napanee.

Mr. McQuaker informed the Kingston City Police, who immediately got in touch with Chief of Police T. S. Moore in Napanee, who was ready to intercept the car thieves. Apparently, when the men arrived in Napanee they lost their direction in the blinding snow storm and by some means, in looking for a way out of the town landed near the Napanee Iron Works, where Chief Moore found the car in a snow bank and apprehended the men. The Kingston police were notified and the prisoners were turned over to them and taken to the County Gaol in Kingston, where they await a hearing.

RED CROSS WORK GREATLY REVIEWED AT ANNUAL

Splendid Service Given Rendered in Six Years by Napanee Branch

The Sixth Annual Meeting of the Napanee Branch of The Red Cross Society, was held in the rooms Monday evening, January 28th, at eight o'clock. The president, Miss Lenore Herrington, was in the chair. The attendance was somewhat smaller than usual, owing to so much illness in the town, but the meeting was a splendid one and the yearly reports showed how very successful the past year, and also the preceding years, have been.

The minutes were given by the Recording Secretary, Mrs. C. E. Jamieson. Her reports are always very interesting as the Secretary has the happy faculty of making the most ordinary facts outstanding.

In her address, the President, Miss Herrington, thanked all those who had worked so faithfully through the six years of war. Some of the members had worked in Red Cross throughout the First Great War, and do certainly deserve recognition for their efforts. Special mention was made of the work of the Blood Donor Clinic, which has been one of the most successful efforts of the Society.

The meeting recommended the following names for special recognition in the form of service badges: Mrs. R. S. Ham, Mrs. T. D. Sneath, Mrs. Wilson Burns, and Mr. R. F. Hunter for his work in the Blood Donor Clinic. These names will be forwarded to Headquarters for endorsement.

In the absence of the Treasurer, Mrs. Herbert Daly, the Assistant-Treasurer, Mrs. S. Phippen, presented the report for the past two years. The County of Lennox and Addington donated $11,277.98; the Campaign Committee raised $6,703.22, and other amounts from contributions, teas, etc. brought the total through the year to $23,121.60. Of this amount $20,000 was sent to the Ontario Division for Red Cross Work, the balance was kept locally or added to the amount on hand at the beginning of the year, which left a total of $4,058.45 on hand at the end of the year.

The donations contributed by Units and by organizations in the County, are as follows —

REVERSE

During the Sunday morning sermon a baby began to cry at the top of its voice, and his mother carried it toward the door.

"Stop I" said the minister. "Your baby is not disturbing me."

The mother turned toward the pulpit and addressed the preacher: "Oh, he ain't, ain't he? Well, you're disturbin' him!"

SPEAKER SOLICITS SUPPORT FOR AMPUTATION CASES

At the regular luncheon meeting of the Napanee Rotary Club, held on Tuesday, this week, Rotary and Rotarian visitors present, including W. F. Barrett, President of the Lions Club, the Lions Club Board of Directors, and K. S. Ham, representing the Canadian Legion.

Three new members, Arthur Basch, Walter Hodgston and James Stewart, were welcomed into the Club.

The speaker was Walter Allore, of Belleville, who was introduced by S. D. Goodridge, and gave an address on health training and recreation for war amputation cases. He solicited the interest and support of the club and the public in a project of the Belleville and District Hotelkeepers' Association, to raise $2,000 in this area for work among amputation cases.

He was thanked for his address by F. A. Correll.

IT MIGHT HAVE BEEN WORSE

January was an unlucky month, this year, for Mrs. George Bush, of Sharps Corners and her family, but probably they feel that even though they have been involved in three serious accidents — it might have been worse — for no one was killed.

One day about two weeks ago, Mrs. Bush was on her way from her home to Selby and en route stopped with her car and slipped on the ice and fell against the running board, striking the back of her head a heavy blow which severed an artery. Dr. Mounce of Newburgh was called and within ten minutes was at the scene of the accident. His quick response undoubtedly saved Mrs. Bush's life, as she would have bled to death in less time than it had been closed without delay.

A little over a week ago Mrs. Bush's daughter, Carrie, had occasion to use the car and found that the battery had run down. A neighbor, Delmer Seale, offered to tow the car to Roblin and Miss Bush and her young nephew, Ted, from Toronto, got in the car to drive it while it was being towed. When they reached Roblin Hill, south of Roblin, on No. 41 Highway, the towed car must have started to run on its own power for it had gained speed and before it could be stopped left the road and rolled down a 30 ft. embankment. The tumble down the hill resulted in the top of the car being smashed down to the level of the seat top and other serious damage was done to the car. But Miss Bush was not seriously hurt, even though she had to be pulled out of the car through the door where the windshield had been. Her young nephew, when he was found lying on the floor of the car, also complained with his arm and one none the worse for the experience.

Young Ted, only a few days before, while driving with the rural mail courier, Milton Thompson, had a similar experience to the one just described. The mail car went over the hill and down the embankment near Adam Scott's, not far from Roblin, but neither the driver of young Ted was hurt.

DOMINION PREMIERS CONSIDER PROBLEMS AT OTTAWA

Taxing Rights Being Discussed

Ottawa, — Provincial delegations for the meeting of the co-ordinating committee of the Dominion - Provincial Conference, got under way on Monday afternoon in the Dominion capital.

This session of the conference is of major importance. Either there will be agreement to the extent that technical committees will be set up and some of the major problems referred to these committees or, the conference delegates "will go home" to the provincial that the session will last a week.

There is still no evidence that the proposals of the Ontario Government made public by Premier George Drew, have found much favor either with the Dominion Government or the other provinces. Quebec, however, has remained silent. It has taken no public stand and there is still a great deal of speculation as to the attitude of that province.

The proposals made by the Dominion Government will be modified to some extent and these changes were presented to the conference on Monday. This conference is like its predecessors, in camera. Statements, however, can be expected from time to time. The various changes are likely to be acceptable to the most of the provinces and six or seven provincial delegations will no doubt press for complete agreement now.

IMPORTANCE UNDERLINED

That the Dominion Government is taking the whole question of Dominion provincial relations to the whole nation, is seen in the lengthy discussions which took place this week in cabinet. At least two sessions of the cabinet were devoted almost exclusively to discussion of these matters. Hon. Louis St. Laurent, Minister of Justice, flew home from the UNO conference in Britain to be present at the meeting Monday.

Indications at the moment are that no complete agreement can be reached at this stage. However, there is an ever increasing feeling and determination that the conference will not be permitted to develop into a stalemate.

COMPROMISE NECESSARY

There must therefore be a major retreat either on the part of the province of Ontario, whose proposals diametrically oppose those of the Dominion, or the Federal authorities must give in. It is most unlikely to be the latter.

One of the suggestions of the province of Ontario will undoubtedly be accepted. That is that there will be a continuing Dominion - Provincial set-up. There will be both policy and technical committees. These committees will be advisory.

The whole thing boils down to this: Either the provinces are going to sit down and make a deal on the basis of the Dominion proposals, with modifications as they are necessary, or the whole deal is off.

In spite of the fact that the Drew proposals are directly counter to those of the Dominion Government, nevertheless he has said time and time again that the conference must not fail. It is not considered likely that the banner province of Canada would stand alone, against the other eight provinces and the Dominion. That is a hopeful sign.

REMINDED

After his first lesson in saluting the young recruit went in search of some practice.

Seeing two officers in conversation, he went by and gave a perfect (to his mind) salute. No reply. Turning, he went back, and saluted again. Still no movement from the officers.

When this happened the third time he stopped a few paces from the talkers, gave a shrill whistle and shouted:

"Oi! What about it!"

GOOD REPORTS ANNUAL MEETING TRINITY CHURCH

Reports given by officers of all departments and organizations in connection with Church at the annual meeting of the congregation held on Friday evening, January 25th, revealed that the church had had one of the most successful and active years in its history. Every organization in the church was capably managed by its officers and a great deal of social as well as religious intercourse was carried out, which made a large contribution to the life of the town as well as to the church as a whole. Financially, the church was shown to be in a splendid condition and many improvements on the church property and the parsonage were made during the year. The business meeting, when the reports were given was held following a supper which was arranged by the social committee of the W. A. and which was attended by a large number of the congregation.

Rev. Noble Hatton presided and in the course of the evening expressed his appreciation and that of Mrs. Hatton, at the fine spirit existing in the church and the cooperation and efforts of the members.

Mr. E. J. Corkill, Clerk of the Session, after reviewing the services of the church during 1945, reported a total membership of 440, a net gain of twenty members over 1944. The Recording Steward, Mr. W. G. Cowle, had had seven meetings of the Official Board had been held during 1945, with an average attendance of sixteen members. The congregation accepted the nominating committee's recommendation that the present Board be re-elected and that one-third of the members be elected for one year, a third for two years and a third for three years. The names of Clarence Millman, Meachin, Ernest Spaull and W. T. Thomas were added to the committee of stewards and Rev. W. H. Truscott was elected Steward.

T. H. Herrington, the chairman of the property committee reported that $1,690 had been subscribed in 1945 by the members of the church for church property renovations. About $1,000 of this amount was spent on the parsonage and the balance on the church. Mr. Herrington also stated that the property committee of the board, together with the property committee of the Ladies Association had made a survey of the church and recommended that the church auditorium be redecorated and the entrances be repaired, the organ be overhauled, and that the Sunday school hall be redecorated and renovated. Discussion on the committee's recommendations was then taken and on motion being passed that the work be proceeded with, after an estimate on the cost had been secured and passed on by the official board.

Following the report of the church treasurer, Mr. B. Wilson, who had held the position of treasurer for nineteen years and who has signified his intention of relinquishing his position, a tribute to Mr. Wilson's outstanding service to the church was made by C. L. Graham, and a motion of appreciation was endorsed by the meeting.

The Recording Steward, Mr. Cowle, expressed the appreciation of the congregation of the splendid services rendered by Rev. Noble Hatton, and his motion of confidence was endorsed by a standing vote of the meeting.

Reports of the various departments of the church were given by the following:—

Ladies Band—Miss Winona McConnell.

CHANGES

A few years ago before strikes got really serious, a lot of people sat down in a factory and refused to move until certain demands they made on management, were met. What a howl went up ! Property rights were being violated; hadn't a company a right to its own property ? etc. etc. We all know the arguments. Now, all that seems strange and far away. To-day, if the landlord wants to evict a tenant for good and sufficient reasons, in all probability the Sheriff will be met by a lot of the tenant's friends who refuse to let the Sheriff enter. Then, there's the man who owns a house and for some reason or other, wants it for himself or a friend. But let him try and get the tenant out !

Now, in Vancouver, comes the pay-off ! A lot of Veterans walk into a large hotel, temporarily vacant, and take possession — walk right in, mind you, just like that! Is there an uproar against property rights. Not that we have noticed. On the contrary, musicians come to entertain the Veterans; food appears from nowhere, bedding, mattresses and blankets just arrive — and there they are, all quiet-like and serene, comfortable and warm.

That's a long way from the sit-down strike and nobody seems to be making any fuss about property rights. What's the matter, does nobody own anything, any more ?

NOT A FAIR COMPARISON

In the Toronto Daily Star of Monday, January 28th, there was published an interview by Alexandrine Gibb with Hon. Russell T. Kelley, Ontario's new Minister of Health. The new minister has offered a prize of five hundred dollars for a new song which will become national. He makes it perfectly clear that he is not after a new national anthem. The present "God Save the King" he says is our National Anthem. He wants a song that will represent and express a united Canadian sentiment. So far, so good. But in the interview, the new Minister of Health says: "my interest in a hymn or song for all Canada, came to life while I was travelling out West. On the train were several children, and they sang songs on the trip. There wasn't one of them could sing "O Canada" or "The Maple Leaf Forever," but everyone of them knew the words and could carry the tune of "God Bless America."

Now, of course, that is all perfectly true, but it is not all the truth. We wonder if the new Minister of Health ever heard an American audience struggling with "The Star Spangled Banner." We have heard them lots of times, with the same dire results that follow the Canadian attempt to sing "O Canada." The National Anthem, as Hon. Russell T. Kelley rightly says is "God Save the King." In the States the National Anthem is "The Star Spangled Banner." A fair comparison would have been to compare the familiarity of the two peoples with their national anthem.

Nevertheless, we hope the efforts of the new minister and the incentive offered in hope of getting $500, now made $600 by the gift of another $100, will result in unearthing a really good Canadian song, a singable song, a remenberable song, and a sensible one.

TAXING LIQUOR

Not in many years has there been so much interest in the liquor situation. A number of circumstances have conspired to focus public attention on the sale of alcoholic beverages. The first of these has been the unprecedented wave of crime and lawlessness that has swept over our country since the cessation of hostilities. Judges on the bench, and magistrates of undoubted integrity and judgment, have gone out of their way in recent months to comment on this, and have pointed out that much of this outbreak of crime is a direct result of the sale of intoxicating liquor.

Then, too, the recent decision of the Privy Council, which upheld the validity of The Canada Temperance Act, has posed a problem for both the Provincial and Federal law enforcement departments. This situation has aroused speculation as to the way in which the problem is to be solved.

In addition to the wave of crime, and the Privy Council decision, there is the recent statement of the Attorney-General of the Province, Hon. Leslie Blackwell. Mr. Blackwell, in addressing the Hotelkeepers Association, denounced temperance people as hypocrites, and as a small pressure group. This statement has brought a storm of protest from all across the Province. Dr. Peter Bryce, the beloved pastor of Metropolitan United Church, in Toronto, former Moderator of The United Church of Canada, has written at length, condemning Mr. Blackwell for his rash statements. Dr. Bryce has spent thirty years working in the crowded areas of Toronto. He says he has always supported the officers of the law, but cannot support Mr. Blackwell, when he declares all temperance people hypocrites. He then goes on to show that the greatest hypocrites in Canada are the liquor interests.

Dr. Mutchmore, the head of The Department of Evangelism and Social Service of The United Church of Canada, has put forth a suggestion that is worth considering. He proposes that the best way to deal with the subject is to increase taxation. While the taxes are supposed to be heavy at the present time, yet in Great Britain the tax on beer is four times what it is in this country; and in Saskatchewan where the tax has been increased, the amount of liquor sold has decreased while revenue from this source has gone up over $1,225,000. In Ontario, the tax on a glass of beer is less than on a glass of Coca Cola. The profit of the liquor interests has gone up during the war years, by leaps and bounds.

Taxation is not the complete answer to the liquor problem. But it is one answer. Profits must be removed. National ownership of the liquor business, and a greatly increased tax will go a long way to curb the interests and remove this tragic menace to society.

THE STRIKE SITUATION

The internal war on the Labor Front in the United States, is showing signs of improvement. The meat packers have gone back to work after the Government seized the plants—Chrysler and Ford have come to agreements with the respective Labor Unions. The steel strike is the major area still unsettled. Now that the automobile facfories have come to a working agreement, it may not be long before the steel industry gets into line. After that there would be only lesser groups to be dealt with.

It is to be hoped that once the settlements have been reached, there will be no attempt on the part of management to raise prices. President Truman has said that an increase in wages could be made in certain of the industries without increasing the price of the commodity to the final consumer. If this is so, it will be the part of wisdom to maintain present prices. Otherwise, there will be an inflationary movement that will be hard to correct. Indeed, that movement in the States is on its way, and will take all the power the Government has to correct it. As wages go up the price of living goes up. It is already announced that the price of butter in The United States will, in all likelihood, be raised to seventy cents a pound, in May. The amount of money a man earns is not the important thing. The really important thing is the amount of goods he can buy with his dollar. If wages go up and if prices follow the wage-earner is little better off.

In Canada we have cause for gratitude that the Government has pursued a rather conservative policy with respect to controls. We may escape some of the worst anxieties of the inflationary movement, if that policy is continued until there is a more generous flow of consumer goods. Let the Government keep the controls until all danger has passed.

INTERNATIONAL SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON, FEBRUARY 3RD, 1946

THE WORTH OF RELIGIOUS ANNIVERSARIES

Lesson Text: Leviticus 26: 7-8; 23: 4-6, 15, 16, 34, 37, 38, 39-44.

Every nation has its holy days. The Hebrews had a great many. The main ones mentioned in today's lesson were: The Passover, to celebrate the escape of the Hebrews from bondage just prior to leaving Egypt; Unleavened Bread, celebrating the Barley Harvest; Wave Offering or part of the ceremony of the Feast of unleavened bread; New Moon or Offering, this is Pentecost; Blowing of Trumpets to welcome the Opening of the Civil Year; Day of Atonement, the most important of all; the details are to be found in Chapter 16; Feast of Tabernacle, the Autumn Festival so called because the people moved into the vineyards and lived in tents or booths.

We have our church anniversaries, mainly of course Christmas, Thanksgiving and Easter. The importance of these cannot be overestimated. In a sense the way in which they are celebrated is the measure of our faith. Take Christmas, now largely commercialized; and yet it is even in spite of commercialization essentially a religious festival. Take away the carols the story of the birth of Christ, the cradle and the Wise men and it would lose its significance. It means more than presents, turkey and pudding.

Then Thanksgiving too is a great religious festival. It comes at harvest time, but it presents everybody an opportunity to count his blessings and express gratitude to God for them.

Of course there is Easter, the great

THE BATTLE OF THE SCHELDE ESTUARY

By I. Norman Smith, Ottawa Journal

General Eisenhower told the Ottawa Canadian Club that the Canadian Army's great accomplishment, its "greatest climax" was the hazardous mission of clearing the Schelde Estuary, key to the great port of Antwerp.

"We had to work that port," said General Eisenhower; "final victory came directly to depend upon its early usefulness." The former Supreme Allied Commander said that General Field Marshal Montgomery turned the job over to General Crerar and the Canadians he knew the task would be "brilliantly and expeditiously executed."

The operation plan was used, but when the time came he was ill in England and General Simonds in command of the Canadian Army. Lieut.-General C. F. Foulkes, now Chief of the General Staff, was in Command of the 2nd Canadian Corps and in charge of the operation.

Probably too little is known in Canada about the Schelde battle. It came at a time of big news, and memory is short. Saturday morning, General Foulkes, with the aid of great air bridges, told me the story from beginning to end.

With thanks to him and to Ross Munro, author of the operation in his book "Gauntlet to Overlord," here is a summary of the Canadian Army's "greatest climax."

After the successful invasion of France the Americans raced to Paris and inland, the British moved inland and northward into Belgium, the Canadians had the job of shoring up the coast, towards Holland, clearing the sure ports as Boulogne, Calais, Ostend, Dunkirk.

By mid-September things were going hard with the Allies in each sector, due largely to difficulties of getting ammunition, oil and other materiel. The recaptured ports had been badly damaged. The Allied drive had lost its momentum.

On September 20th, Eisenhower and Montgomery decided to give priority to clearing the Schelde Estuary, a gouged out irregularly shaped body of water, with islands, leading from the North Sea, into the large Belgian port of Antwerp.

The land bordering the Schelde, and the Islands in Dutch. It is the lowest and flattest land in the world and most of which is reclaimed from the sea by dikes. Fields are drained by pumps for cultivation. Into this soggy terrain, networked by canals, likes and pmart-like roads which the Boche could fortify to their liking, the Canadians had to pass.

"It was the toughest fighting I've ever seen," said General Foulkes. "Tougher than Falaise and Falaise" I asked.

"They were tough but in a conventional way. The lines were drawn in something of the historic battle proportions. But in the Schelde men were fighting half the time in water up to their waists, much of the time with shoulders and heads where they could neither eat nor stand up. And the weather was cold and wet."

It will not try to set forth the plan and schedule of battle. The fact is it took on the aspect of a game of shinny, or a schoolyard snowball fight. There was no clear-cut line. In one place the Canadians were in front and in another behind. In one place they would be on islands and in another would be attacked. Here our attacking forces would be afoot and there sneaking in on landing craft. Commandos fell in with tanks and mountain - trained troops slogged through swamps and bogs .

The Canadian 2nd and 3rd Divisions did the job, assisted later by the 52nd Lowland Division (British) and, of course, by the air force, the navy and special Commando and technical troops. The Canadian 4th Division was removed from the operation because it was an armored outfit and quite unsuited to such a show.

The main attack went in October 6th, led by flame-throwers. Troops of the 3rd Division got a slight foothold over the Leopold Canal, just south of the Swastika on our map For three days they hung on by their fingernails, surviving 10 counter-attacks . October 16th the 9th Brigade of the 3rd Division tried a looping right hook in behind the enemy from Terneuzen across the inlet of water, the Leopold Canal.

The next few days saw a weird set of manoeuvres and counter-manoeuvres, motorboats dashing around laying smoke screens, troops crossing in amphibious tanks. There were right hooks and left hooks, feints and straight blows to the nose. There were narrow causeways to be forced, high and exposed roadways to be gained, soggy and slithery fields to be waded through. Hoofdplaat fell on October 11 and Breskens, west of it, October 22. Surprise threw the enemy off his feet and from then on to the clean-up on November 6th the job was hard but the result sure.

The watery stuff was largely the lot of the 3rd Division, but when while the 2nd Division was cleaning up the position around the north of Antwerp itself, an inland port already taken by the Allies but quite useless until the long approach to the sea was cleared of Huns.

The Germans were taken by surprise by Canadian nerve and cheek, but they had no mind to give it. The Hun high command ordered the Schelde held at all costs. Ross Munro saw a German order telling troops of the great danger to Germany if the Allies should get to the port of Antwerp. Officers were asked to sign pledges not to lead their men to death.

The fighting became fierce, the opposition determined. Montgomery decided to concentrate further and on October 26th the British 52nd Division made the first big water jump from Terneuzen on the mainland to the island of South Beveland, across the Schelde. They were rapidly joined by Canadian 2nd Division troops who moved west long the isthmus. November 1st, 3rd Division men and Commandos sailed into Flushing, a strongly fortified town on Walcheren Island. That was the beginning of the end. By November 7th, the whole Schelde area was cleared of Germans and the sweeping of mines from the Schelde was vigorously under way. The first ships moved in on November 16th. So sudden had been the capture of Antwerp some weeks earlier that the Germans had been unable to wreck it. From there on it handled an average of 25,000 tons a day, despite the V2 bombs.

Between October 6th and November 6th there were 40,000 enemy prisoners taken. Canadian casualties, killed and wounded, totalled 6,000. That is the Schelde operation, Eisenhower's "greatest climax."

But thei story is greater than the difference in figures.

The story is in the challenging conditions our troops fought under, against odds of manpower and weather and circumstances.

The story is that Eisenhower and Montgomery had said that without the immediate use of Antwerp the Allied cause would suffer a severe blow. Eisenhower in his official report spoke of its needed services as "a blood transfusion" for the Allied Forces.

The story is that Canadians fought with such initiative and enterprise that the British War Office asked them to prepare a manual on "polder" warfare for the guidance of others. "Polder" is the term used for the below-sea-level fields.

The story is in the variety of fighting done by it that one operation, bombing of dikes by the Air Force that loosed floods on Walcheren island; flooding of fields and roads by Germans over which the Allies had to attack; street fighting in towns, crossing the fjords and defence guns pointing out to sea; powboats, jeeps, corvettes, rubber boats, fishing smacks, rope bridges over canals.

The Schelde was the war's version of the backyard battles Canadians conduct in childhood. Wild, unpredictable, tough, a touch of humor and fantasy, ups and robbers. Indians on the warpath. For example, the 8th Reconnaissance Regiment of the 2nd Division was along the roads and dikes across South Beveland when—then sighted North Beveland Island. They climbed into a Dutch barge and invaded it forthwith. That was an early the-record operation quite without the blessing of Army Headquarters. When asker what it was all about, the Colonel replied: "I'm waging a private war on North Beveland."

It was even the kind of war where infantry sank naval ships. The Lake Superior and Lake Columbia Regiments sighted four German merchant craft hiding in a small harbour; so they landed and, with friends among the Dutch and some tank guns and sank the lot!

The 22 miles of docks that sprawl along the Schelde in the Antwerp area, and the three and one-half miles of quays in the outer area — these were desperately needed by an Allied Army that had far out-run its supply bases. General Eisenhower probably had in mind the value of the victory when he paid his tribute. He no doubt also had in mind the valor of the victory.

Yet after seeing Eisenhower, one imagines he also remembers the Canadians at the Schelde for their youthfulness, their mischievous sense of a scrap, the elan of the Canadian soldier even when he's under what must probably be fatal fire.

General Foulkes told me one story of this spirit, the same story recounted by Ross Munro, and perhaps gave it to the General. It was the first days of the attack when the Reginas were hanging on to the German edge of a canal by their toes and teeth under terrific fire. A quote from Ross Munro what is, I think, a fitting end to this story of the Canadian Army's Schelde climax:

"It was so hot on the Reginas' sector that the men could not leave their slit-trenches to eat. Their rations were heated up on the south side and ferried over to a dug-out. From that covered position, dug-out they were thrown like grenades to slit-trenches dotting the dike. One isolated rifleman, exasperated by the

Homeward-Bound On "Queen Elizabeth"

Winston Churchill, Britain's wartime Prime Minister, took the opportunity to address more than 12,000 homecoming Canadian servicemen who were his shipmates aboard the "Queen Elizabeth" which docked a week ago.

Following is the text of Mr. Churchill's address over the liner's public address system, to the troops:

My friends and fellow ship-mates on the "Queen Elizabeth":

For most of you it is homeward-bound. It has been a good voyage in a great ship, with a fine Captain—or indeed Commodore. We have not got there yet, but I am quite sure he will find the way all right. At any rate, he has been over the track before and, as I can testify myself, having been several times with him, in those days there used to be U-boats and things like that. They all seem to have dropped off now and we don't have to worry about them at all. Something seems to have happened, and indeed has happened. The seas are clear, the old flag flies and those who have done the work, or some of it—because the British did their—turn home again. Their task accomplished and their duty done.

What a strange, fearful, yet glittering chapter this war has been. What changes it has wrought throughout the world and in the fortunes of so many families. What an interruption in all the plans each of us had made. What a surrender of the liberties we prized. What a casting away of comfort and safety. What a price in peril. What a glory shines and the brave and true. For the good cause has not been overthrown. Tyrants have been hurled from their place of power and those who sought to enslave the future of mankind have paid, or will pay, the final penalty.

You Canadians, many of whom served in the 5th Canadian Division, no doubt have your minds filled with the victorious war scenes of Italy and the Rhine. But we Englishmen always think of the days of 1940, when the Canadian Army Corps stood almost alone in Kent and Sussex and when the Germans had 25 divisions ready to leap across the Channel and wipe Great Britain out of life and history. I think about those days, too, sometimes, and now fire it was to see everywhere, at home and throughout the Empire, moved by the same impulse, so simple, so splendid, "one ayer or die." Victory in arms or in any walk of life, is only the opportunity of doing better on a larger scale and at a higher level.

Do not be anxious about the future. Be vigilant, be strong, be clear-sighted, but do not be worried. Our future is in our hands. Our lives are what we choose to make them. The great British Commonwealth and Empire, emerging from the fire once again glorious and free, will form a structure and an organization within which there will be room for all with a fair chance for all.

Yesterday it was on the bridge, watching the mountainous waves, and this ship—which is no pup — striking through them and mounting their anger. I asked myself, why is it the ship beats the waves, when they are so powerful and the ship is one? The reason is that the ship has a purpose and the waves have none. They just surround, impotent, pointless, and ineffective. The ship with the purpose takes us where we want to go. So it is in private life, purpose, both in our national and imperial policy, and in our own private lives. Thus the future will be fruitful for each and for all, and the reward of the warrior will not be unworthy of the deeds they have done.

Looking the picture of health and declaring he felt "very well indeed" the former Prime Minister submitted to a half hour press conference on the pier but gold-naturedly refused to get into any controversial discussions.

He told questioners:

1 He had no intention of leaving the political scene because there was too much in it that interested him at the moment.

2 He had no plans for giving up leadership of the Conservative party but that matter was in the hands of his followers who, he trusted, would eventually see their way clear to make other arrangements.

3 He had no writing plans, but was "open to offers" and would not jot down "one or two things" in the way of memoirs.

4 Chances for success of the United Nations Organization was "anybody's guess" but as to its need — "what else have we to hope for?"

5 On the fate of Hitler: "I'll say he's dead."

6 The turning point of the war was Pearl Harbor—"after that the defeat of the Axis was certain."

7 Canada, the United States and Britain should confer on the policy of cock-pilling atom bombs and the secret should be shared only when arrangements were completed for proper international control.

8 On the new Labor Government — he never criticizes the politics of his country when abroad but never ceases to criticize them at home.

FLAGS OF CANADA

In view of the recent Ottawa debate, it is interesting to note what flags are authorized to be flown by Canadians. Since 1930 the Governor-General has had his own personal flag, with the Royal crest on a blue field. The Union Jack is designated as the official flag to be flown on land in Canada, and each of the Lieutenant-Governors flies it with the badge of his Province superimposed. The Red Ensign with the Canadian coat-of-arms in the fly, has been used by Canadian registered merchant vessels since 1892, and in 1924 its display was authorized from "all buildings owned or occupied by the Canadian Government and situated without Canada."

In the recent Speech from the Throne, however it was stated that the Red Ensign might be displayed wherever place or occasion makes it desirable to fly a distinctive Canadian flag. It is flown over the Parliament Buildings in Ottawa, and Canada House in London. This flag is also flown on appropriate occasions by formations and units of the Canadian Army Overseas and along with the R.A.F., and on which it incorporates a red maple leaf—at R.C.A.F. and R.C.A.F. establishments and are serving in conjunction with personnel of Allied Forces.

The Canadian Army Overseas was also provided during the war with a supplementary flag for the purpose of distinguishing Headquarters, embodying the Union Jack, three maple leaves and three fleur-de-lis. Ensigns of the Canadian Navy fly the Red Ensign bearing the naval ration coat-of-arms, as well as the White Ensign. The Naval Board of Canada has its own flag, with the Admiralty anchor in gold.

TAMWORTH

The Company transacts business over a wide spread area as is evidenced by the distribution of its New Business, 40% of which was written in the Home Field, Canada, and New Foundland; 27% in the United States and 33% in fields abroad.

Business in Force now amounts to over $853 million held under 328,000 policies. Assets under administration for the fulfilment of these contracts aggregate $395 million.

During the year, over 17½ million was paid to beneficiaries and policyholders in death claims, matured endowments, annuity payments and other policy benefits.

TRAINING ON JOB TO DOUBLE VETERAN'S EARNING POWER

A good example of the effective application of the training-on-the-job scheme is that of a veteran we shall call Sergeant Brown.

He had enlisted in July, 1940. Because of his wife's illness and death, he was discharged on compassionate grounds in May, 1943, at the age of 37. A six-year old son is his dependent. Brown's service was 58 months in all, in Canada and Labrador.

The Department of Veterans Affairs approved Brown's request for training-on-the-job in meat-cutting. Before enlisting, he had been employed as a meat cutter for two years at a $24 weekly wage.

He had completed Grade 8 in the public schools of Newfoundland, but gave the impression of having more schooling. He had just started working for a butcher after discharge and desired to learn the business thoroughly. His employer was prepared to train him on the job.

The counsellor recommended the training for a period of 52 weeks, and Canadian Vocational Training was able to make the following satisfactory arrangement with the employer:

	Weekly wage by employer	Refund by DVA
1st 25 weeks ...	$22.00	$5
2nd 13 weeks ...	$27.99	$...
3rd 13 weeks ...	$30.00	.....

Initial rate of pay on completion of training, $35 to $40 per week.

Brown had had the advantage of two years' experience in the meat cutting trade. Aided by CVT, in a year's time he will have gained a 50 per cent wage increase over his pre-war salary.

VAST SUPPLIES OF MEAT SENT FROM CANADA

Ottawa. Mountains of meat — 3,319,220,000 pounds of bacon, hams, beef, mutton, lamb, sausages and canned products — went from an abundant Canada to a hungry British and a starving Europe in the six years ended December 31, 1945.

Government figures showed that the cash value of these record-breaking meat exports reached a high at $725,000,000. The bulk of the shipments went to Britain until the liberation of Continent areas opened the way for shipments to the ill-nourished peoples of Europe.

In 1945, Canada's meat exports reached a value of $172,786,000.

They were made up of 440,650,000 pounds of bacon and ham, 60,000,000 pounds of boneless beef, 151,200,000 pounds of bone-in beef, 10,132,020 pounds of mutton and lamb, 10,200,000 pounds of edible offals, 627,200 bundles of hog casings, 8,700,000 pounds of canned pork and 113,000,000 pounds of other canned meats.

These shipments were the product of 2,827,000 hogs, 450,000 cattle and 222,000 sheep and lambs.

For 1946, Canada already has committed herself to ship overseas every pound available above domestic requirements. Her commitment to Britain alone for shipment out of a minimum of 450,000,000 pounds of bacon and 60,000,000 pounds of beef.

To meet these overseas requirements, the Dominion will continue, at least through 1946 at least, the current individual meat ration of approximately one and one-third pounds of boneless meat a week. That ration was re-introduced last September when it became apparent Canada could not meet overseas demands without some restriction of domestic consumption.

During the six years from 1940 to 1945 Canada sent to Britain 3,135,500,000 pounds of bacon and ham, 72,000,000 pounds of boneless beef, 165,900,000 pounds of bone-in-beef, 10,132,000 pounds of mutton and lamb, 60,900,000 pounds of offals, 3,688,000 pounds of hog casings and 56,700,000 pounds of canned pork.

To U.N.R.R.A., military relief and liberated areas, the Dominion supplied 113,400,000 pounds of canned meat products such as meat lunch, meat paste, meat spread and blood sausage.

These six-year shipments were the product of 27,240,000 hogs, of which 14,000 were exported in form of canned pork, 708,000 head of cattle, of which 183,000 were in the form of canned meat, and 222,000 head of sheep and lambs.

SELBY UNITED CHURCH

On Wednesday evening, January 23rd, 1946, the annual congregational meeting of Selby United Church was held in the Sunday School room, and, as on former occasions, the members of the W. M. S. served a very appetizing pot luck supper.

The business session followed, with the pastor, Rev. W. R. Merrick, presiding. Preceding the giving of the reports the doxology was sung and prayer was offered by the pastor. Among the reports were presented, as follows:

The Y. P. U. report was presented by Miss Vivian Henderson, and its finances reported $50.00 to Missions and $100.00 for local funds.

Mr. Maurice McLeod gave the Sunday School report of 200 members and total receipts of over $400.00.

The W. M. S. report, given by the President; Mrs. J. Rose, revealed that the society had reached its allocation of $450.00.

The Mission Band report showed 20 members and contributions of $26.57. This information was presented by Marion Henderson.

Mr. Geo. Price, reporting for the Parsonage Board, indicated that after the expenses of 1945, a balance remained of $153.00.

The Church Trustee Board's statement was presented by Mr. A. McLeod. Expenses $241.00, balance $238.00.

This was followed by the Church Stewards' report, showing receipts from all sources $2,338.00, and, after meeting all financial obligations, an encouraging balance was on hand to begin the new year.

Mr. W. A. Frisken presented the Missionary report of $530.00.

Mrs. Merle Denison reported for the Bible Society; receipts of $36.00.

The report of the local Red Cross Unit for the six years of its work was given by Mrs. Henderson, President. Sewing, 2,259 articles; Knitting, 1,184 articles; Quilts made, 223.

The pastor then thanked all the organizations for their loyal services that had made possible such outstanding success in every branch of the work.

He then gave his own report of 11 marriages, 18 baptisms, 14 funerals. Members received on the charge, by profession of faith, 30. Membership of Selby Church, 175, and 168 families under pastoral oversight.

For the deceased member a period of silence was observed.

Interspersed with the above reports were the following entertaining numbers: Piano solo by Marion Henderson; solo by Shirley Frisken, for the Mission Band, and a very entertaining reading by Mrs. Merle Denison.

The reports being completed, a motion of thanks was extended to the pianist and choir for their splendid contribution to the services.

A unanimous expression of thanks was tendered to the Rev. and Mrs. Merrick for their faithful services to the congregation and church, during the year.

The meeting was brought to a close with the National Anthem and with prayer by the pastor.

ERNESTTOWN W. I.

The January meeting of the Ernestown Women's Institute took place at the home of the president, Mrs. George Parliament, who conducted the meeting. Answers to the roll call "A Grain and its Cultivation, stressed the need of a good seed bed and one member stated that oats sown in the fall wheat, protected it from frost.

A report of the Central Cheese-makers' Convention at Belleville, was read from the Farmers' Advocate. It was a shock to learn that a carload of Canadian Cheese was refused admittance to the U. S. A. in 1942, because according to their Pure Food Laws it was not considered fit for human consumption. The Convention found that the patron is not alone to blame for the excessive extraneous matter in cheese. C. E. Lackner, Director of Dairying, said: "The cheese industry in Ontario is so far behind other countries in regard to plants and equipment that we will either have to catch up to the rest of the world or drop out of the race." Mr. Lackner also stated that the time had come for one standard of quality by which all milk for manufacturing purposes would be measured. At present, lower qualities of milk than that demanded for cheese can be used by other plants and the cheese factory is at a disadvantage.

The Institute members agreed this report should be given wide publicity among those interested in the cheese industry.

Mrs. Everitt Thompson gave the report on the Resolutions Convention, the key-note of which was "Women must Equip Themselves to meet the problems of a Post-war World and help in its Reconstruction". Mrs. Harold Kilgannon gave some Hints on Poultry Raising. A Vegetable Love Letter contest, conducted by Mrs. Ross Hazard, caused some merriment, the prize being won by Miss Norma Miller.

Refreshments brought a very successful meeting to a close.

NEWS OF THE COSMIC RAY

Soviet scientists claim that development of the Cosmic Ray will rival atomic energy in importance. Soviet scientists are reported to be on the verge of important discoveries in the field of cosmic ray research, intensive investigation having produced results of far reaching significance.

The Soviet Union is spending millions of rubles on these investigations, and a number of research stations have been established, the largest of them on Mount Alagos in America. Sub-stratosphere balloons make regular ascents to collect data.

Particularly important work along this line is being carried out in the Pamirs, the lofty plateau region linking the western Himalayas and the Tian-Shan Mountains.

"This man is annoying me, constable."

"But he isn't even looking at you!"

"That's what annoying me."

While a play was in progress a lady turned in her seat and said to the man behind: "I hope my hat is not annoying you!"

"It is, madam," was the reply, "for my wife wants one just like it."

OBITUARIES

The remains were laid to rest in the family plot in Bunker Hill cemetery.

MRS. ARCHIBALD McQUAIG

Mrs. McQuaig, who before her marriage was Elizabeth Ramsay, a daughter of William and Jean Ramsay, was born about eighty years ago on the Ramsay homestead, near Selby. Following her marriage she resided in the Selby district until twenty-two years ago, when with her daughter, Miss Eliza McQuaig, she moved to Napanee. While living near Selby she was a member of the Selby Methodist Church, and since coming to Napanee was a member of Grace United Church.

She was predeceased by her husband, twenty-nine years and is survived by one daughter, Miss Eliza, and two sons, James A. McQuaig on the homestead, and Randall in Napanee. N. E. S. CONFERENCE HELD AT BROCKVILLE

Managers and Officials of Eastern Ontario in Session

Managers and senior officials of St. Lawrence area offices of the National Employment Services are holding an intensive conference this week in the Hotel Manitonna. The daily sessions opened Monday when C. S. Raper, regional staff training advisor, Toronto, took charge of the meetings.

E. G. Moden, manager, Brockville; W. W. Farrell and Miss K. A. Keenan, Kingston; Miss R. M. Hepple and W. E. Wilson, Cornwall; J. W. Wilson, Prescott; R. J. Bowey, Gananoque; W. R. Sexsmith, Napanee; H. H. Rose, Belleville; J. K. White, Trenton and A. W. Henderson, of Picton, are attending the conference.

Meetings are being held both morning and afternoon and Thursday night the representatives will hold a banquet in the hotel at which Mr. Raper will be the speaker. Mr. Raper is also president of the International Association of Public Employment Services.

The Brockville conference is one of ten being held throughout Ontario to take in all offices of the National Employment Services. The main object of the conference is to acquaint officials of the various branches officers with the complete employer-employee picture.

Mr. Raper is stressing the fact that during the war the service was to find workers for the war jobs but with the completion of hostilities the complete reversal of the work has occurred as now it is a case of finding jobs for the workers.

Mr. Raper pointed out that one of the main responsibilities of the National Employment Services was to act as a personnel department for industry and to "screen" potential employees and to place them in positions to which they are best fitted.

ONCE SPRING WORK OPENS, you'll be on the go! You'll want to spend as much time as you possibly can on the land. Here's one way to save yourself time then —Order your Chicks NOW!

If you have good brooding equipment, it's no more trouble to start your chicks early than it is to start them late; some people say that it is less trouble. You'll have more time to give them the good care that is so important with baby chicks; and you'll make more money out of them.

Early pullets begin laying just when egg prices begin climbing. They reach full production at big eggs just when big egg prices and premiums are highest. Early cockerels reach market when demand and prices are strongest. With the fall British egg contract already set at last fall's level, and the Dominion Department of Agriculture predicting good poultry meat prices for at least the first 6 months of 1946, this looks like an extra-good season to start extra-good chicks, extra-early!

DDT AVAILABLE IN NEW FORMS

By Ralph E. Cudmore

During the latter part of 1945 Canadian farmers received their first introduction to the much heralded DDT insecticides. The host of commercial preparations offered were all in the form of kerosene solutions and were specifically recommened for use as 'barn' sprays.

Taking advantage of advances in processing technique, DDT is promised for the 1946 season in new and more versatile preparations. The most useful of the improved DDT insecticides appears to be the 'wettable' powder produced containing 50 percent of DDT. These wettable powders are made ready for use simply by adding the recommended quantity of DDT powder to the appropriate amount of water. Apart from the ease of preparation, the wettable powders have manifold advantages, in that they may be used safely as dips or sprays for livestock, as well as being particularly suitable for application to horticultural and field crops.

In the 1946 season, with DDT insecticides receiving official approval for use on livestock and plants, it is causing concern in some quarters that these recommendations might be interpreted to include the use of the "old-type" kerosene solutions. It is important, therefore, that as much publicity as possible be given to the disclosure that, generally speaking, the oil solutions are unsafe for use on horticultural crops or livestock.

PRICE CONTROL AND RATIONING INFORMATION

A couple of days ago I phoned a grocer for an order of groceries to be delivered. When I asked for butter he said it was against government regulations to deliver butter. I thought this was odd seeing he delivered the rest of my order. Is there such a regulation prohibiting the delivery of butter?

No. There is no such regulation now in force. WPTB lifted restrictions on all deliveries a few months ago. Although a grocer may use his own discretion on such a matter.

I have been given three months to vacate my home from an ex-airforce man who has bought the house where we live. We occupy the upstairs flat and he and his family have moved into the downstairs part of the house. Do we have to accept this notice as legal? It was not handed to me.

We have carefully gone over all the details contained in your letter and if this notice was on the proper form provided by the Rentals Administration of the Board it would be considered legal. As your new landlord is a discharged member of the armed forces and requires this accommodation as an enlargement of his personal residence he is entitled to give you three months' notice to vacate. The notice however, must be on the form mentioned above.

Q. I had a repair job done on my car and believe I was overcharged. The account is enclosed and I would be glad if you would advise me.

A. We have received so many queries regarding repair charges on automobiles and trucks it is impossible to answer them all in this column. It is very difficult to say whether or not you were overcharged as the prices for parts vary greatly according to the make and model of the car being repaired. We have passed your letter along to our investigation office and you will hear from them direct.

SUGAR — STOPS THE SHOW

A recent statement by a Public Relations Counsel for South American interests has caused a mild stampede among housewives.

He said that "sugar rationing in Canada was unnecessary and absurd, an economic monstrosity as long as surplus stocks of sugar exist in South America." He also said, "there is no longer any adequate justification for sugar rationing in Canada."

Now, Mrs. Johnny Canuck wants the answer to that one.

Here it is . . . in a nutshell.

There is a small luxurius of sugar in two countries, Peru and Brazil, but South America grows only enough sugar for her own consumption and if any were brought in from either Peru or Brazil, the same would have to be sent back from the "sugar pool" of the Combined Food Board at Washington.

Great Britain, Canada and the United States of America by joint agreement and co-operation, work under a combined sugar pool and allocate to each country its fair share of all sugar supplies.

Another thing! If this sugar were allowed into Canada it would sell at almost three times the present price of approximately 8c per pound.

H. J. Hobbins, Deputy Sugar Administrator for the Prices Board, says: "the fact that sugar is selling in South America for nearly three times the price of Cuban sugar, surely proves that there isn't much of a surplus there in spite of statements to the contrary."

True, offers of sugar have been received from large private sugar plantation owners in two countries of South America, Peru and Brazil.

If these offers had been accepted, no extra sugar would be available for Canadian consumption as the same amount would have been deducted from our allocation from the Combined Food Board.

The Government has no complete knowledge of the exact quantities of sugar production in either Peru or Brazil but any surplus on hand there will be eagerly bought up by other countries of South America for their own consumption.

KEEP THEM

A man went to a mental specialist. "What seems to be the trouble?" asked the doctor.

The patient responded by vigorously brushing imaginary things off his arm explaining:

"See, I have dragons on my sleeve."

The specialist, backing away screamed: "Well, you don't have to brush them off on me!"

THE MIXING BOWL
By Anne Allan
HYDRO HOME ECONOMIST

Hello Homemakers!

Homemakers are on the alert these days. They are watching for ideas to save time, money and energy in their housekeeping. The letters we receive are indicative of this economy awareness in the minds of homemakers all over the province.

The requests for soup are timely. The directions for making soup are more important than the ingredients. Left-over vegetables go into a vegetable soup, but the flavour is improved by the addition of a grated raw vegetable— if only one onion. The bones from the stripped chicken or cooked rib roast make a small amount of good broth, but a meat cube dissolved in the liquor makes it more tasty. The cheap shank bone makes a delicious strong stock to which you may add pot barley or noodles and vegetables. A cream soup should be well cooked but care must be taken not to scorch it.

PHILADELPHIA PEPPERPOT

Four slices of bacon, one onion, two green peppers (optional), one and one-half quarts soup stock, three - quarters lb. honeycomb tripe, half-teaspoon salt, half-cup milk, half-teaspoon pepper, one bay leaf, one sprig thyme, one cup diced potatoes, two tablespoons butter, two tablespoons of flour.

Dice bacon and cook it in a heavy kettle until it is golden brown. Add the onion and green pepper finely chopped and cook gently for five minutes. Add the soup stock and the tripe which has been thoroughly washed and shredded. White stock made with veal or chicken is best for pepperpot, but stock from beef or a combination of meats may be used. Add seasonings, bring to the boiling point; add potatoes, and simmer for an hour. Blend the butter and flour and thicken the soup with it. Just before serving add milk.

MINESTROME SOUP

One and one-half cups dried peas or beans, eight slices or three and one-half cups diced carrots, two cups diced potatoes, half-cup diced celery stalks and leaves two tablespoons olive or salad oil, one-quarter small white cabbage shredded, half a minced onion, one clove garlic (minced), two teaspoons salt, four quarts of boiling water, grated cheese and chopped parsley.

Soak the peas in water to cover for three hours. Drain and rinse in cold water. Parboil peas for fifteen minutes. Add cold water and diced potatoes, carrots, onion and garlic. Cook fifteen minutes. Add celery, cabbage and salad oil. Continue simmering another fifteen minutes. Sprinkle cheese and parsley in, and serve when cheese softens.

ONION SOUP

Two cups sliced onions, half-cup water, three tablespoons fat, one tablespoon flour, one teaspoon of salt, dash of pepper and paprika, four cups soup stock or two meat cubes dissolved in four cups of hot water, thin toast, grated cheese.

Slice the onions thinly and simmer in the water till tender. Drain and save what water there is for the stock. Heat the fat in a saucepan; add the onions and saute till they are tender and golden brown. Add the flour and seasonings and then cook gently for three minutes. Add the soup stock or the dissolved meat cubes and let simmer for half an hour. Pour into an oven-proof bowl; add the toast and sprinkle it with the grated cheese and bake in a hot oven (400 degs.) till the cheese melts and runs. Serve hot.

SPLIT PEA SAVORY

Two cups green split peas, one medium onion, two and one-half tablespoons flour, six cups milk, salt and pepper.

Cook the peas and chopped onion in boiling salted water in a covered pan over low heat until tender, but not mushy. Use just enough water so that there will be very little liquid remaining when the peas are tender. (If the split peas are not quick cooking, soak overnight.) Mix the flour to a paste with a little of the milk and add the remaining milk gradually. Add to the peas and cook, stirring constantly until thickened. Season with salt and pepper.

Six servings.

THE QUESTION BOX

Mrs. J. T. asks: How can we use honey which has crystallized and become strong?

Answer: Place the pail of honey in hot water and let it soften slowly. It may be used as usual unless it has become rancid. Honey should be stored in a dark, dry place.

Miss N.B. asks: Why do cakes occasionally fall after taken from the oven?

Answer: If your recipe has been previously successful, check on the baking time. A chocolate cake requires fifty to fifty-five minutes.

Mrs. W. K. says: Your recipe for bread was most successful. It was the first time I had ever made bread. Would it be all right if I added whole wheat flour instead of using all white flour?

Answer: Yes, brown or whole wheat bread can be made by using half white and half fine whole wheat flour and the same quantities of all other ingredients. Coarse whole grains require more fat and one-half cup less flour.

CANADA'S 1945 BEET CROP 618,000 TONS

Slight Increase Over Last Year But One Quarter Less Than 1940—Comeback Expected This Year—Alberta Sets New Record

The four sugar-producing provinces of Canada report a total harvest in 1945 of 618,010 tons of sugar beets from a crop of 56,861 acres. The yield of this crop was 10.9 tons per acre which is equal to the average of the past five years. The 1945 crop represents an increase of nine per cent. over the 564,227 tons of the previous year. However, it is considerably below the 823,344 tons of 1940 which remains as Canada's record year.

The fact that any harvest can be registered at all is considered a commendable accomplishment on the part of both growers and processors in view of the war-time handships that confronted the industry. High wages are held this year's crop will be relieved of handicaps such as the price of refined sugar being pegged too low, the scarcity of growers and processors' casts, competition of heavily subsidized crops and the critical field-labor shortage. The Dominion Provincial Agricultural Conference has recommended a crop of 90,000 acres of sugar beets for 1946.

Ontario and Manitoba showed slight increases over 1944 while in this province, were harvested 362,000 tons of beets from 30,000 acres, an average of 11.9 tons per acre. The sugar content of the Alberta beets was 17.2 per cent. just slightly below the 17.65 average of the previous five years.

Manitoba's crop amounted to 9,509 acres and yielded 8.6 tons per acre for a total of 82,000 tons. This is the second lightest crop on their history although an increase over 1944. That year only 80,844 tons were harvested from approximately the same acreage.

Aided by a provincial subsidy, Ontario had a crop of 17,501 acres which produced 164,166 tons, or 9.3 tons per acre. This yield is greater than that of 1944, but less than the previous five years' average of 9.85 tons per acre. The sugar content in Ontario was 17.27 per cent. which equals the average since 1940. The Conference recommends 35,000 acres for Ontario this year.

A small crop of 1109 acres was harvested in Quebec which provided 9,844 tons of beets or 8.9 tons per acre. The sugar content of their crop was reported as 14.4 per cent.

STILL IN THE DARK

Smith was in his den with a few of his friends talking about his wife and her peculiarities.

"I have thought for some time," he said, "that my wife is utterly devoid of taste, but the other day she put on a new dress which was atrocious beyond words. I daren't, of course, say a word about it, and dared hardly look at it, but as she went out I went to the window to have another look at her dress.

At this juncture his wife entered suddenly.

"And the funniest part of the whole affair," continued Smith, without showing the least embarrassment, "was that they found the cat eleven days later on the top of the Eiffel Tower!"

And Mrs. Smith still does not understand what there was in that ridiculous statement to make them all laugh so uproariously.

$200 - MILLION PROGRAMME IS LAUNCHED BY HYDRO

Marking the start of Hydro's $200,000,000 programme of postwar expansion, work is now under way on three projects which, over the next four years, will make available half a million additional horsepower at a cost of $63,000,000 to help meet heavy and sustained demands for Hydro power in Southern Ontario and, at the same time, provide jobs for several thousand men.

The agreement reached between Ontario and Quebec on the development of power sites on the Ottawa river, paved the way for a start being made on the 400,000 - horsepower plant at Des Joachims which is 200 miles north-west of Ottawa. This development, which will incorporate all the scientific and technical advancements made during the war years, will cost approximately $80,000,000 and, it is expected, will be supplying power by 1949. Plans for the Des Joachims generating plant, which ranks as the first major postwar project of its kind in Canada, include the construction of a concrete dam, 2,500 feet long and 135 feet high, along with a control dam to regulate water flow.

The Hydro-Electric Power Commission of Ontario has also started work on a $4,000-horsepower development at Stewartville on the Madawaska river, about 40 miles from Ottawa and near Arnprior. This development will cost approximately $9,000,000, the Commission announces, and is likely to be placed in service by the fall of 1947.

Work is now well under way on the $7,000,000 extension of the De-Cew Falls plant to provide an additional 70,000 horsepower. Located near St. Catharines, this development was placed in service in October 1943, and the new 250-ton generating unit, now being installed, will be supplying power by the summer of 1947.

Another project which will get under way in the near future, is the construction of a new 43,000 horsepower development on the Aguasabon river in Northern Ontario. The primary object of this new plant, which will be tied in with the Thunder Bay System, is to supply power for the sulphate mill which Kimberly-Clark Corporation of Canada, Limited, will erect on a site approximately two miles north of the Aguasabon's outlet into Lake Superior and seven miles east of Schreiber.

The new plant, which will cost an estimated $8,500,000, will provide employment for approximately 400 men and will be completed in the spring of 1948 when the new mill will be ready to go into operation.

Equipped with the necessary knowledge which will enable them to develop into linemen, the first group of ex-service trainees, have now graduated from the Linemen's Training School established by The Hydro - Electric Power Commission of Ontario, last October.

These men have now reported back to their respective districts and another group has been brought into the school which is situated near Toronto, in Etobicoke Township.

A departure from the usual method of placing new men in line groups to pick up the fundamental principles of the work, the new school is designed to speed up training and provide a more thorough and systematic grounding in theory and practice. For ex-servicemen attracted to this kind of vocation it offers an unequalled opportunity, since no technical school in Canada, which they might attend under government rehabilitation arrangements, is in a position to provide this particular type of training.

WORKED OUT ON BROAD BASIS

Plans for the school and its programme of instruction were worked out on a broad basis by the Commission's engineers, amplified as to details by the departments of the Commission concerned. One of the first steps then taken was to provide competent instructors. A number of experienced line foremen and senior linemen employed by Hydro in different parts of the province were called in and given a course in the teaching and instruction methods which have been developed by the government through an organization known as Canadian Vocational Training. From this group the school staff was selected and trainees were selected with the co-operation of the Department of Veterans Affairs.

Present arrangements provide for classes of not more than 50 trainees, who will be boarded and lodged, at the school at the Commission's expense, in addition to receiving their regular pay. Courses are expected to last about three months, at the end of which time new classes will be formed.

The Commission is laying special stress on the school as an opportunity for ex-servicemen. In this connection it is expected to play a part in the rehabilitation of young men in useful and productive civilian employment. The men selected receive the training necessary to develop themselves, over the years, into linemen with the Commission, itself, and with the municipal utilities engaged in the extension and amplification of electrical services throughout the province.

200 EX-SERVICEMEN SELECTED

With this end in view, in the early autumn of this year, 200 ex-servicemen were selected and examined by the Commission and temporarily placed on line gangs as groundmen and helpers. This was deemed advisable in order to determine the inclination and aptitude of candidates for the work for which they offered themselves.

Lineman trainees at the school put in a forty-eight hour week. They work and study in small groups so that every man practically receives individual instruction. Training is designed to cover the fundamentals of line work. In the class-rooms, lectures and demonstrations are given so that the trainees may acquire the theoretical background for the practical work they engage in outside.

The knack of climbing poles and securing themselves in any position at any height demanded by their work is one of the first lessons taught trainees. Success at this job is essential for continuance of the course, as men subject to giddiness at heights of 25 or 40 feet above the ground would be obviously unsuited for line work. In the present class there have been no rejections on this account.

From pole-climbing the trainees pass on by progressive steps to the different phases of line construction. Safety-belts, climbing spurs and the necessary tools and other equipment are provided by the Commission. The training ground embraces an area of about six acres so that there is ample space for the groups engaged in different jobs to carry on at the same time.

Accommodations at Etobicoke consist of the school - house building, with its office, class-room and repositories for equipment, a large dining-hall and kitchen, and comfortable bunk-houses or dormitories. A recreation hall is under construction.

WILL DON JUAN RETURN TO SPAIN?

BY DeWITT MACKENZIE
A.P. Writer on World Tour

Madrid — This is a crucial moment in the turbulent history of Spain, for the signs are that the question of restoration of the monarchy is coming to a head.

The country is sharply divided politically, as the world learned from the bloody civil war of 1936-39. This division offers an ample explanation for the mystery which surrounds the reported negotiations between Don Juan pretender to the throne, and Generalissimo Franco. Extreme caution is necessary.

A fresh indication that the monarchists and Franco are manoeuvring into position for a decision lies in the official admission that Don Juan and his wife are to meet her parents for a visit on neutral Portuguese soil. This could be a family affair, but the consensus here is that Don Juan's father-in-law, Don Carlos, is to act as an intermediary between the pretender and the generalissimo.

The Spanish ambassador to Lisbon, Nicholas Franco (the generalissimo's brother, also confirmed Don Juan's visit at a Press conference in the Portuguese capital and was reported in Spain when newspapers carried the statement. This is the first time the subject has been mentioned in the Spanish press.

It is highly significant that the question of this visit should be dealt with officially at the moment when Britain, the United States and France are to meet at the request of France to discuss Allied relations with Spain. Talk of Don Juan's return to the throne might ease the position of the Franco government, which has not been happy in its association with Washington, London, and Paris.

The 33-year-old pretender several times during the Second Great War urged the restoration of the monarchy and the alliance of Spain with the Allies.

Foreign Minister Alberto Martin Artajo is reported unofficially to have been negotiating between Don Juan and Franco. Well-informed quarters in Madrid believe Don Juan takes the position that he already is king by right of succession. However, he said he would not return to Spain without a call. He advocates a constitutional monarchy with a free press.

It is interesting to note that Don Juan did come back to Spain during the civil war in 1536 and join Franco's forces. The pretender did this on the advice of his late father, ex-Alfonso, and without the Generalissimo's knowledge. When Franco discovered Don Juan's presence he sent him out of the country for the prince's own safety, and said he would call the royal heir when the right moment arrived.

Is this the right moment! Only the generalissimo knows that. It is reported he has feared that a restoration of the monarchy might produce a political upheaval, but whether he now feels that the "time is ripe for a change" remains to be seen.

One absolute requisite for the pretender's return would be that he had all the generals and the army with him, for that is the list of the Spanish pot. It seems obvious that the extreme left wing in Spain might seize on the moment when the government was changing hands to engineer a coup to re-establish the Republic. However, we may be sure that both generalissimo and the pretender have considered all aspects of the situation carefully.

VICTORIA W. I.

Mrs. Ivan McFarlane was hostess to the members of Victoria Women's Institute for the January meeting. The meeting opened with the Ode and Creed. The roll call was answered by A Use for Vinegar. The minutes of the last meeting were read and approved and other items of business were discussed. Several letters of thanks were read for boxes of fruit received at Christmas by the sick and shut-in of the community. Mrs. Graham, district director, reported on the meeting held in Napanee.

Mrs. Frank McFarlane took charge of the meeting and presented a well prepared programme on Home Economics; solo, with guitar accompaniment by Miss Vera Graham; reading by Mrs. Don Weese; paper by Mrs. Ivan McFarlane; reading by Miss Helen Armstrong; vocal duet with guitar accompaniment by Mrs. D. Weese and Ralph; current events were read by Mrs. McCracken. A travelling surprise box was passed around which caused some merriment. Some of the ladies exhibited some articles made from flour sacks, namely quilts, luncheon cloth and a doll. A humorous reading by Mrs. Frank McFarlane was followed with a contest conducted by Mrs. E. McQuaig, Mrs. A. Graham winning the prize.

A delicious lunch was served and the singing of the National Anthem brought an enjoyable meeting to a close.

TRINITY W. M. S.

The first meeting of the New Year for Trinity W. M. S. was held in the Primary School room on Tuesday, January 15th. The meeting opened with a hymn, followed by the Confession of Sin and Lord's Prayer, repeated in unison. The president, Mrs. Switzer, occupied the chair and welcomed those present. Mrs. D. B. Wilson read a lovely letter of appreciation and good wishes for the society from Miss Gandier.

Annual reports were given by officers and secretaries of committees all very fine reports, showing a year of splendid effort and progress. Mrs. George Tustin, convener of Finance Committee, presented the budget for 1946. Our allocation is $800 which our president feels confident we can achieve, with fresh courage, and each one working just a little harder than last year.

Miss Elizabeth Mewhort is missionary for special prayer this year. Our president drew attention to the fact that not a little of our success is due to the support and prayers of our associate members, who are deeply interested, and with us in spirit.

Mrs. Thomas read the scripture lesson. A chapter of the study book, prepared and given by Mrs. Truscott was very interesting. Mrs. A. Thompson read a message from Miss M. Smith, in a poem entitled "The House I Live In." The offering was presented by Mrs. E. J. Conkill and dedicated by the president. A hymn closed the meeting.

MOSCOW Y. P. U.

The Young People's Union for January met at the home of Wayne Jackson. A sing song was led by Rev. W. G. Fletcher and the members then went for a sleigh ride. After the ride lunch was served, by the hostess. The meeting was dismissed with prayer.

Jones: I reckon the boss is beginning to take an interest in me.
Smith: Oh, yes?
Jones: Yes. He asked me if I worked here.

Dear Sirs:

This year I have used your "Miracle" Chick Starter and I want to let you know the results I have had.

I received 420 chicks. They are New Hampshire Reds. I have only lost five, two of which were killed because they were crippled, and the others died from natural causes.

The chicks are strong and healthy, well feathered and growing fast.

They like the feed tremendously and clean it all up.

I am more than pleased with the results.

Yours truly.

A New Year's resolution made to be kept could beneficially be one for healthful eating. Too often the person living alone is content with a scrap. But around the weekly meat ration can be balanced attractive and appetite-teasing meals, and you'll be surprised at what little time and effort are actually required in their preparation.

To begin the week when a guest may be on hand for Sunday dinner, minute steaks are suggested. Riced potatoes and creamed celery would be good accompaniments. On Monday a token's worth of sausage, a jacket-boiled potato and cooked-to-perfection cabbage make tasteful eating. A broiled fish steak, baked potato and parsley-buttered baked carrots will give you a meatless oven meal for Tuesday. On Wednesday two shoulder lamb chops along with unrationed kidneys for added flavour and nutritional goodness, can form the basis of a luscious stew. Part of it can sit over a day in the ice box and make a tempting re-appearance on Thursday along with a tossed salad. Friday is an excellent day to get caught up with your dairy products consumption, and eggs florentine is a fine dish for this purpose. It is simply prepared by nesting soft coddled eggs in a bed of freshly cooked spinach and topping the whole with a cheese sauce. A quick trick for Saturday would be a beef-burger with tomato sauce and your favored vegetables. The week's ration spending leaves you with that comfortable feeling of having one token to the good.

REVIEW WORK VICTORIAN ORDER FOR PAST YEAR

New Officers for 1946 are Elected

The Annual Meeting of the Napanee Branch of The Victorian Order Of Nurses, was held on Monday afternoon, January 14th, at 3:00 p.m., in the Armouries, with the President, Mrs. Reddick, in the Chair. Captain Murrell opened the meeting with prayer.

The secretary, Mrs. S. Phippen, reported eleven meetings of the V. O. N. held in 1945. Money making events were as follows: A Marathon Bridge, Annual Membership Drive, a June Bridge and Tea, and the Annual Tag Day. These events were convened by Mrs. P. U. Laidley, convener of the Finance Committee.

The treasurer, Mrs. Bruce Medd, reported total receipts for the year, $2,513.59 with total disbursements of $1,742.65.

The report from the Auxiliary group was brought in by the president, Mrs. E. Gibbard. Money has been raised within the group and layettes made for the needs of the Nurse. They have kept the clinic room cleaned, and helped Dr. Duffett and Miss Morrison at the Diphtheria clinics.

V. O. NURSE'S REPORT

The Victorian Order Nurse, Miss Dodd, gave her report as follows:

In presenting the report of the Nursing Service for 1945, I may say that the year has been busy and successful. The work has been carried on under the existing four branches. (1) Bedside Nursing, (2) School Nursing, (3) Child Welfare Conferences, (4) Health Supervision. 247 cases were contacted during the year and 1441 visits made.

The visits made and patients contacted were practically the same as in 1944, with the exception of health instruction visits. These declined as there were 175 instruction visits in 1144 and 107 in 1945.

There were eleven confinements attended throughout the year. 282 hours were spent in the schools, where an average of 489 pupils were enrolled. The health program as outlined by the Provincial Department of Health, was carried out. The Well Baby Conference was conducted each Tuesday from 2 p.m. to 4 p.m. The attendance varied from five to twenty babies. Under the Local Board of Health the Annual Clinic for Diphtheria toxoid and whooping cough vaccine, was held. Thirty children were treated.

Nursing fees collected amounted to $383.39.

To all officers and members of the local branch of the Victorian Order Of Nurses, and to all organizations and citizens working for the betterment of the community, and this includes our local doctors, I thank you for your support in 1945.

I am looking forward to a successful year in 1946. Our Nursing Service is available to everyone, regardless of race, color, creed or financial status. The same type of nursing is given to all.

Respectfully submitted.

(Signed) VIVIAN DODD, V.O.N. Nurse.

PRESIDENT'S REPORT

I prefer to say this is the concluding chapter of the story of 1945.

You have heard from the secretary, treasurer, Convener of Finance, Auxiliary Group, The V.O.N. Nurse and now the President's remarks.

The Napanee Branch of Victorian Order Of Nurses has had twenty-two birthdays.

Victorian Order Of Nurses is a national public health organization with headquarters in Ottawa. The Order has a staff of 400 nurses in 100 cities and towns across Canada.

Two new branches organized this year, one in Collingwood and one in Port Arthur.

The Victorian Order Of Nurses work in hospitals without walls. Their hospitals are the homes of the rich and poor, wherever part time skilled nursing care is needed with the same service available to all. The fee is a fee, but may be adjusted to suit financial circumstances and care is never refused because of inability to pay.

Miss Dawson, Supervisor of Nurses, visits our branch twice during the year, in the Spring and again in the Fall. These visits are helpful. With the Board she discusses our problems and makes suggestions — where and how we can improve and make more effective the work of the organization. With the nurse she visits the school and advises where she thinks necessary.

The money making events were all financially successful, showing much thought had been given to details in their organization.

It was with real regret the Board accepted Miss Morrison's resignation.

Miss Dawson and Head Office, Ottawa, were so willing to meet the situation in sending such a capable nurse. Miss Dodd was their choice and as a Board, we were perfectly satisfied with their choice.

Our Order has many interested friends in Napanee. Our sincere thanks and appreciation to the Mayor and Members of the Council, the Chairman and Members of the School Board for their generous financial aid, and also their keen interest in the work the V. O. N. is aiming to do in our town.

The Board meetings have been well attended, also the open meetings at which we have had guest speakers, and splendid musical programs.

I sincerely hope I have not overlooked any interested person or group. If I have, please consider yourself among those who have been mentioned.

Respectfully submitted.

(Signed) BLANCHE REDDICK, President.

MRS. H. H. LANGFORD

The reports were followed by an interesting address by Mr. H. H. Langford, Inspector Public Schools, on the subject of "The Health Needs of Our School Children."

Numbering of homes and businesses in the Town Proper way last week. The work is under the direction of the Streets Committee.

Numbering of homes will prove a great convenience to those making deliveries, visitors, etc. In the past there has been considerable difficulty in directing persons to desired residences due to the lack of numbers.

This progressive step by the Town Council will meet the support of the public generally.

NEW INDUSTRY STARTS OPERATION IN NAPANEE

A new industry, The Toronto Packing Company, a branch of a Toronto firm of the same name, has been started up in Napanee and started operation, last week. The plant, which is housed in a new building just completed, on the site of the former Napanee Creamery, between Robert and West Streets, near the Napanee Iron Works, is a one-story cement building 120 by 60 feet. The local manager is Mr. Saul Collis, who for several years has been conducting a poultry buying business throughout the County and has been a resident of the town for some time.

The new business is of particular interest and value to farmers in the district, since it affords a ready outlet for poultry, with very little bother and expense to the producer. Trucks belonging to the company make regular calls throughout the County, buying poultry for cash, and bring the birds to the plant in Napanee, where they are killed and made ready for shipment.

The plant has a capacity of from 2500 to 3000 birds per day and will employ, when in full operation, from twenty to twenty-five men and women. The killing room, where the major part of the work of preparing the poultry for the market is completed, is equipped with a moving track on which the live birds are suspended by the feet. After being killed, they are immersed in a vat of boiling water from which they are carried to a revolving brush which removes the greater part of the feathers. Then they pass on to finishers who pick off any remaining feathers and pin feathers, until they are entirely clean. Later they are transferred to a shower room where they are washed and from there are taken to a cooling room, where they remain until they are graded and ready for packing, after which they are placed in a refrigerated storage room, until they are shipped.

The new plant, which is the first of its kind in the County, will be a great convenience to producers and should assure them of a cash market for their poultry.

Alice L. Harshaw I. O. D. E. Meeting

The regular business meeting of the Alice L. Harshaw Chapter of The I. O. D. E. was held on January 28th, in the Armouries, with the Regent, Mrs. Thos. Bowen, presiding.

Letters were read from the Provincial Chapter, re Post-war Work and a Memorial for World War II, with an objective of $400.00 to be raised by the Chapter, by June, 1947.

Following the treasurer's report, Mrs. Milton Martin and Lois Knapp took charge of nominations for the 1946 officers.

One new member joined the Chapter.

The meeting closed with the National Anthem.

SECOND CATASTROPHE IN COMMUNITY WITHIN THE PAST TEN WEEKS

For the second time in two months, fire nearly wiped out another family in the Napanee District, when early Tuesday morning of this week, February 5th, Reginald Brown, aged 48 years, his daughter, Margaret, aged 15; his grandchildren, Aleen Brown, aged 13 months, and Ivan Wagar, 4 years, were burned to death in their home on the Old Belleville Road, about four and a half miles from Napanee. Two other daughters of Mr. Brown, Jean and Betty, escaped with minor injuries.

Their home, a small two-storey frame dwelling, was completely destroyed by the fire, which was discovered about 4:00 a.m., by Betty Brown. Jean suffered only slight burns around her hair, and Betty was taken to the Hospital in Kingston, suffering from shock, minor burns and cuts on her left arm caused by broken glass, when she broke through a window to get out of the burning home.

According to the story of the survivors, Betty was wakened by the baby and discovered the fire. She called her father and the other members of the family and they all went downstairs and tried to get out of the back door, which they were unable to open. Betty and Jean left the others and after breaking a window on the north side of the house ran in their night clothes in the zero weather to a neighbour, whom they were unable to waken. They then ran to the home of Charles Hawley, with whom they returned to the burning house, which they were unable to enter because of the intense heat and the flames. The body of the father was found about eight feet from the back door, and the two older children were found, later, near the back door, but the remains of the baby had not been located early Tuesday, because the fire was still smouldering.

Coroner, Dr. T. M. Galbraith and Provincial Officer J. A. Morden were called to the scene of the fire, which investigation disclosed had, apparently, been caused by faulty stovepipes. The injured girls were attended by Dr. V. O. Hart. Napanee.

Mrs. Brown was not at home. Another daughter, mother of Ivan Wagar, is living in Toronto. Her first husband, father of the dead child, was killed Overseas, some time ago.

Reginald Brown was a son of Mr. and Mrs. Perry Brown, Hay Bay. The farm which he had been working is the property of Walter Hudson.

On December 2nd, last year, on the outskirts of Napanee, fire took the lives of seven members of the family of Edgar Fox.

Contrary to a report heard over the radio on Tuesday, the Napanee Fire Brigade was not notified of the fire and was not asked for assistance. Even though the Fire Brigade had been called, nothing could have been done to prevent the tragedy, as the fire, when discovered, had made too much headway to be put under control.

VETERANS ATTENTION!

Mrs. Wightman sang a solo during the service and led in group singing at the social hour which followed the church service. During the social hour there was a discussion on young people's work, and refreshments were served by Trinity Young People.

Eastern Star Bridge and Euchre

Under the auspices of Napanee Chapter No. 151, Order of the Eastern Star, a bridge and euchre party was held in the assembly room of Argyll Lodge No. 212, I.O.O.F. on Wednesday night, which, despite the cold and the condition of the walks, was fairly well attended. There were nine tables of euchre and three tables of bridge, and the winners were: Ladies' high prize in euchre, Mrs. Ida Huffman; Gentlemen's high prize in euchre, Mr. Keller; lone hand, Mrs. John Jaynes; ladies' high prize in bridge, Mrs. Everett Smith; gentlemen's high prize in bridge, T. S. Moore. Arthur McKnight was the recipient of the door prize.

The conveners of the party were Miss Edith Tasemer, Miss Eleanor Aylsworth and Mrs. Edith Santer, and the conveners of the lunch were Mrs. Percy Vine, Mrs. Helena Edgar and Mrs. W. E. Wilson.

Canon R. W. Spencer Retires From Camden East Parish

To mark the retirement from the active ministry of the Anglican Church after many years of service, a social evening in honor of Canon R. W. Spencer, Camden East, was held at St. Luke's Memorial Hall, on the evening of Monday, January 28.

During the evening, purses of money were presented to Canon Spencer by F. S. Hamilton, from St. Luke's congregation, Camden East, by Harry Sutton, from St. John's, Newburgh, and by O. Warnemde, from St. Anthony's Church, Yarker.

Canon Spencer, who has been in charge of the parish since 1908, has been a real leader among his parishioners and in the community where he has lived so long. He has been held in the highest regard by all who knew him and his friends extend to him best wishes for many years of health and happiness, in his retirement.

Canon Spencer expects to live in Toronto, with his son and family. He is being succeeded at the Camden East Parish by Rev. Mr. Oldham.

COMMITTEES OUTLINE 1946 PROGRAMMES AT COUNCIL MEETING

Several Deputations Ask for Grants for Organizations

The February session of the Napanee Town Council, held last Monday evening, appeared to be "gimme night", for no less than six requests for financial assistance for organizations in the town and district were made by letter and by delegations.

Mr. W. S. Herrington and Mr. M. R. Reid appeared before the Council to ask an increase in the grant from the town for the Napanee Public Library. After hearing the delegation, a motion was passed and referred to the Finance Committee, recommending that the grant to the Library be increased by $1,000.00, to a total of $2,000.00, for 1946.

Mr. Herrington mentioned the fact that if the system under which the Library is now operated were changed so that the Library became a Municipal Library, it would cost the town at least $3,750.00 per year. He also spoke of the difficulty of carrying on efficiently under the present system without an increased grant. Mr. Reid, in his address, stressed the educational value of the Library.

A request from the Victorian Order of Nurses for the usual grant, was referred to the Finance Committee, as was also a request from the Lennox Agricultural Society for a grant of $100.00. The Amputation Club made a request for the privilege of holding a Tag Day on Saturday, February 16th, which was referred to the Police Committee, with power to act.

P. H. Carter requested a grant for the Legion Band, which was referred to the Finance Committee.

A request from the Lennox and Addington Fish and Game Association that the free use of the Town Hall for the annual Bird House Contest on March 24th and 29th, was referred to the Finance Committee with power to act.

A request from Mr. H. L. Schermerhorn, County Engineer, for assistance from the Napanee Fire Brigade in case of fire at the County Jail on Bridge Hill, any expense incurred to be paid by the County, was granted.

COMMITTEE REPORTS

The report of the Police Chief for January was presented by H. W. Vine, and was as follows: Complaints received and investigated, 6; dogs killed, 4; dogs found and returned, 12; summons served, 40; arrests, 3.

The Fire, Water and Light Committee recommended the purchase of equipment for the Fire Department, totalling about $700.00, which was referred to the Finance Committee with power to act.

The Streets Committee presented a report, which recommended the resurfacing of Dundas St. west of Street, which had not been paved, at an estimated cost of $4,500.00. The total estimated cost for the year of expenditures by the Streets Committee was placed at $11,175.00. The report was accepted by the Council.

It was also recommended and accepted that the paved streets in the business district be washed once a week, and that a street cleaner be employed for the period necessary to clean the pavements in the business district, and that other pavements be cleaned by the men employed for street work.

This was followed by Councillors Ramsay and Moore, and carried, that an engineer be engaged to survey the sewer on North Street and 1 restaurant lateral, and that the Mayor act as chairman of Special Town Planning Committee.

Councillor Ramsay, Chairman of the Welfare Committee, reported that the Committee had approved relief in Napanee at a cost to the town of $38.88.

A motion was passed that no change be made in regard to the driver of the town truck, who has given satisfactory service for the past three years.

Councillor Ramsay, Chairman of Welfare, presented an estimate of expenditures for 1946, which totalled $5,500.00, an increase of $262.00 over 1945, which was referred to the Finance Committee.

The estimate of expenditure for 1946 presented by the Health and Sanitation Committee showed a total of $5,000.00. It had been recommended, its committee meetings that all sewer work in the town be undertaken under the supervision of the Streets Committee, and that the Streets Foreman be in charge of the work. Members of the committee were informed the present set up under two committees was according to Municipal Board regulation and no further action was taken.

Councillor Webster, Chairman of the Industrial Committee, reported that a survey of the town had been completed by the Department of Planning and Development of the Ontario Government, and that the report had been registered with the Provincial Board of Trade. He stated that it was proposed to contact both Federal and Provincial Governments to acquaint them with the town's desire to secure industries and outlining the facilities available. He reported that a Kingston industry had signified its desire to secure a factory with 5,000 feet of floor space in Napanee, and the committee was

WAGE AND PRICE CONTROLS EASED BY GOVERNMENT ORDER

Small Increases Now Possible

The Honourable Humphrey Mitchell, Minister of Labour, announced on July 31st, that a number of amendments to the Wartime Wages Control Order, 1943, will go into effect on February 15th. He said:—

"The present stabilization measures, by permitting an earlier and easier changeover from war to peacetime production, have protected the purchasing power of Canadian incomes whether they originate as wages and salaries, pensions, children's allowances, veterans' pensions and allowances, mothers' allowances, workmen's compensation payments, or wages. In effect the policy has been, and will continue to be, to protect the real value of all sources of income.

"Nevertheless, the War Labour Boards, composed equally of employee and employer representatives, have provided a means for review and revision of inconsistent wage rates within an industry, and notwithstanding limitations on wage rate revisions necessary to the stabilization policy, wage rates have, on the average, increased considerably more than the increase in the cost of living during the same period.

"The Cost of Living Bonuses payable under earlier Wage Orders and incorporated in existing wage rates will not be part of this general wage increase.

"The Government nevertheless recognizes the desirability of lifting all emergency economic controls as quickly as possible. Naturally it is not to be expected that the pressures that make for inflation, developed during five years of war, would be dissipated in a period of a few months, and, in fact, inflation pressures are still strong.

"However, the Government now believes that it is possible to make a number of amendments in the Wage Control Order as a first step towards the orderly return to the normal processes of collective bargaining and provincial jurisdiction over wage matters. The success of the stabilization programme has been due to the co-operation given by the Provinces and employees and employers under the Dominion regulations. The amendments give added flexibility in the adjustment of wage rates and working conditions, both of which are important. The amendments made are as follows:—

1. Effective June 30th, 1946, normal jurisdiction in the matter of minimum wage rates, hours of work and vacations with pay will be returned to the Provinces.

2. The present provision authorizing the War Labour Board to approve an increase in wage rates only where a gross inequality or injustice exists have been repealed, and the following substituted:

"A War Labour Board may:

"Authorize any direct or indirect increase a single wage rate or the rates of a range established by him under this Order or pursuant to a direction of the National or Regional Board for an occupational classification of like employees if and to the extent that the National (or Regional) Board finds that such rate or rates are low in comparison with the rate or rates generally prevailing for the same or comparable occupational classifications in the same locality, or, if there is no such occupational classification in that locality, then in the same or comparable occupational classifications in a locality which, in the opinion of the Board is comparable; or may authorize an employer to VARY a single rate or the rates of a range on such other basis and to such extent as in the opinion of the National (or Regional) Board is reasonable in the circumstances and consistent with the maintenance of existing prices of goods and services which the employer sells."

3. Freedom to bargain collectively is restored to employers and employees on questions of vacations with pay, off-shift differentials, hospital aid plans, annuities, pension plans and group insurance plans.

"Knowing as they do the ultimate benefit which both wage-earners and employers, and their respective organizations, will derive from their continued support of the economic stabilization policy, I am confident that during the important transition period of the next few months, they will lend their support to these new developments."

A HEALTHY SIGN

The United Nations Organization is now meeting in London. Delegates are there from all the nations who declared war on the Axis. They are to lay the foundation for an enduring peace. Following so soon upon the close of the greatest and most costly war in all history, we might be pardoned for expecting that the nations in The U. N. O. would move unanimously into a discussion of plans for making war impossible. However, the atmosphere of the meetings has not been any too peaceful, on occasion. There have been charges and counter-charges between Russia and Great Britain. There has been much plain talk. Vice Commissar for Foreign Affairs Vishinski charges Great Britain with imperilling peace in Greece; while Foreign Secretary Bevin had charged that Russia was interfering in Iran.

The hopeful feature of this was the outspoken and vigorous way in which each nation spoke to the other. Here is a new note in diplomacy. We have been accustomed to think of diplomats, as suave, polished gentlemen who said polite things in public and behind closed doors said something else, or, at least, said the same things in a different way. Well, those ideas are dissipated by the frank way in which both Bevin and Vishinski spoke to each other in the public meeting. Now, everybody knows what each thinks of the other, and that will undoubtedly make for a better understanding among all the members of the United Nations Organization. The result, so far, is that Russia has withdrawn her charges against Great Britain and the U. N. O. is getting on with the job.

Behind this outburst in London is the struggle for control of the Mediterranean. That control is essential to Britain's life line. Russia would like to have a controlling interest in that area, too, and finds her plans thwarted by the influence of Great Britain in Greece. It is a big issue that is at stake, and it is a healthy sign that it is being fought out in the open.

IT IS ALWAYS THE WAY

Two weeks ago, a W.P. report told of the undignified and almost vulgar efforts that were made by some American communities to secure the permanent quarters of The U. N. O. in their area.

the dispatch said:—

"Despite the decision to have Headquarters of The United Nations Organization in The United States, over-earnest and crude methods of salesmanship almost turned the tide in favor of Europe. Some of the cities which lost out owe their failure, not merely, as announced, to their location in isolationist territory or lily white centres of racial prejudice, but partly because the tactics used to "sell" these places were revolting. Every device of high-pressure, foot-in-the-front-door commerce was tried by some of the American delegations, one of them even, presenting a motion picture in which a brief flash of a great university was followed by extended legshows, with comments to the effect that visiting U. N. O. Statesmen would find in that city, every facility for "research". The end won out, partly because it presented its attractions with more restraint and dignity."

Now that the Committee has chosen a site in Connecticut, the community is up in arms. They contend they were never consulted in the matter. The trouble seems to be that the site decided upon is the home of quite a number of millionaires. Their estates are large and exclusive. Some of these might have to be sold, should the United World Organization be permanently established there. That would never do. An organization designed to keep the peace of the world in this atomic age, must not interfere with the personal pleasures of the favored few.

A BIT PREMATURE

The Dominion Government's surprise move in removing the controls on a certain number of commodities, seems to us, to be a bit premature. In making the announcement, the Prime Minister explained that the releases were experimental, and might have to be imposed again. He pointed out that it was the intention of the Government to remove all restrictions as soon as the national economy could stand it. He was reasonably certain that the commodities on which the controls were removed, were sufficient quantity to supply the consumers' needs. Therefore, there should be little danger from run-away prices.

The Canadian Government has made a good job of keeping down prices during a time of great scarcity. The world-wide praise for the way in which the tendency towards inflation has been kept under effective control. Naturally, we all look forward to the time when every war-time control will be removed. But there is a danger of removing too much, and to an extent undoing the good that has been done, and marring the excellent record of the Government.

Already increases in salary are being urged by the steelworkers. Should wages go up and if there is no control on commodities, the price of commodities will rise, and the spiral of inflation will have started to turn. The Government expects a moderate increase in prices. It will take a great deal of watching to keep them from soaring. We are grateful, however, for the assurance that the present move is in the nature of an experiment.

It is hoped the list of articles freed from controls will not be increased with undue haste. We are still in a period of reconversion, still in a state of scarcity of goods. That scarcity eases considerably — better let well enough alone!

ANNUAL MEETINGS

These are the days of annual meetings. Banks, Trust Companies, Corporations of one sort and another, are having their meetings, and giving to the Press their financial statements. These are not easy for the laymen to understand. Nevertheless, there is something refreshing in the way these organizations make use of the Press in order to let the public know the operations of the concern. Perhaps more helpful for the average reader, however, are the surveys of general managers or secretaries. Making their fingers on the pulse of the country, they know its health, can note symptoms, and give leadership and advice. The country owes a debt of gratitude to those who render this signal service.

Much less pretentious are the reports of church annual meetings. And yet, they reflect a continuous and continued effort on the part of large numbers of people who are chiefly concerned in making this world a decent place to live in. Behind the brief and easily understood report of each congregation, is a body of men and women, who in a quiet and unselfish manner, work week in and week out for the good of the community they serve. The public is sometimes led to think that the churches are not making a great impact on the life of the community. The very opposite is the case. For no institution in our land is so much voluntary effort given, and so much energy expended. Inconspicuously, and without much publicity, men and women in all walks of life give their time, talents and money to the work of the Church. The annual church reports are rather cold at best, but behind them is an army of consecrated men and women, and a vast amount of unselfish service to God and man.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

THE SCHOOL QUESTION IN NAPANEE

To The Editor of
The Napanee Beaver:

Sir — Once more the question of the erection of a new school for East Ward involves the site as well as the desirability of enlarging the school. There is no argument as to the necessity of improving the present East Ward School, if its use is to be continued. It could not be worse. It is reported that there are eight or nine stoves required for heating. What a dreadful fire risk! It is believed that a modern heating system could be installed for $10,000 and that another $5,000 spent on modernizing the interior would bring it "up-to-date" to date.

The question of the Dairy Avenue site is waged in respect of the increased distance for the great majority of those living west of the railway tracks. The probability that many of the more venturesome children from west of the railway tracks would cross the tracks in the neighborhood of the freight shed on account of the longer distance, and a third objection is the exposed condition with resulting difficulty in getting children, unchaperoned to enter.

But the main objection to the erection of an enlarged school at the site east of the railway tracks, in order to use the increased number of rooms it will be necessary to move the boundaries still further north of East Street and compel those pupils now going to West Ward to go to the Dairy Avenue school. This would definitely destroy any chance of building a modern school to serve the community as a whole.

If the present East Ward school is remodelled, the children of kindergarten age living east of the tracks could be accommodated there as well as the pupils of the junior forms.

It must be recognized that the erection of the schools in a town is not a matter to be submitted to any section of the town but to the town as a whole. A school erected in the East Ward is not paid for by the ratepayers of East Ward, but by the rate payers of the whole town. I think it is a mistake that the Trustees of Napanee are elected by Wards instead of by the general vote of the electors, the same as the councillors. It is a question as to whether the present system is legal).

If the Board of Education should ask the Town Council for money to build a school on the Dairy Avenue site, it would be for the Council to decide whether it would pass a by-law or submit the question to a vote of the ratepayers—that is property owners. It is hardly probable that such a by-law would pass.

But public opinion seems to be favourable towards an enlarged and modern central school. The present attendance at West Ward School is so great that the class rooms are overcrowded and under such conditions teachers are handicapped. In the next few years, as is generally known, the school populations will be considerably larger. Already some communities have proved this by taking a census of children under five years of age. It is absolutely necessary to prepare at once, not by building a school at the Dairy Avenue site, but by enlarging and modernizing the central school.

DOMINION BANK CELEBRATES 75TH ANNIVERSARY

Founded in 1871, four years after the Dominion of Canada itself was born, The Dominion Bank, on February 1st of this year, celebrated its seventy-fifth anniversary. Only two Canadian chartered banks originally chartered in Ontario are older than The Dominion Bank, and only one of these goes back to the days before Confederation.

When The Dominion Bank obtained its charter in June, 1869, Canada consisted of the four provinces of Ontario, Quebec, Nova Scotia and New Brunswick. Rupert's Land and the North-West Territories had not yet been transferred from the Hudson's Bay Company to Canada, and the disgruntled halfbreed population around Fort Garry, on the Red River, were marshalling under their leader Louis Riel to resist the annexation of their lands to the new Dominion of Canada until their demands had been met. In 1871, when The Dominion Bank actually opened its business, British Columbia entered Confederation. Thus, with Manitoba and the North-West, formally added in 1870, the new nationality made good the proud boast of its official armorial motto—A Mari Usque Ad Mare —From Sea to Sea". But not until 1873 did Prince Edward Island join the Dominion, and Newfoundland has not done so yet.

In the first seven years of Confederation, parliament issued charters for twenty-eight new banks, eight of them in Ontario. Five of the latter succeeded in securing the necessary subscribed capital, and began doing business today, only one of these besides The Dominion Bank, survives. The latter had had only two years to consolidate its position when the financial crisis of 1873 developed, followed by nearly seven years of deep depression. Bank after bank was forced to cut its capital or close its doors, or at least to draw heavily on its accumulated reserves. In 1878 Sir Francis Hincks estimated the shrinkage of the market value of bank shares in five years at $25,000,000. But The Dominion Bank remained unshaken. In 1876 the directors did report that "owing to the depressed condition of almost all branches of trade, greater caution than usual has been necessary and it is gratifying to conclude the year by adding a considerable sum to the rest." Three years later, the directors reported that nearly $300,000 had been invested in government securities.

With the revival of trade in 1880, The Dominion Bank shared in returning prosperity, and branches were opened in Belleville, Lindsay and in three sections of Toronto. Today, the bank has 122 branches located at various points in Canada from Saint John, N.B., to Victoria B.C.).

In 1877, the Bank, which up to this time had been occupying a store at 40 King Street East, decided to erect its own building on the south-west corner of King and Yonge Streets. This site had been, only fifty years earlier, "a meadow with a very offensive pool of water therein," which sold for £250. It was already becoming, in 1877, the business and financial centre of the city. The building was completed in 1879, and enlarged in 1884.

In 1882, the directors noted with pride that deposits had grown from one million dollars in 1872 to nine million in 1882. This marked the Bank's twenty-first birthday. For the year 1945, deposits totalled $274,000,000.

In the reaction which ffollowed the completion of the construction work on the Canadian Pacific Railway and the collapse of the Manitoba boom, many banks found the going difficult, and six of them went into liquidation. When the Bank Act came up for revision in 1890, certain changes were made. Throughout the financial and legislative upheavals, The Dominion Bank continued to pay substantial dividends and make an annual addition to rest account.

Up to 1897 The Dominion Bank had been entirely an Ontario institution. In that year it began to expand into other provinces, with a branch in Winnipeg in 1897, and a branch in Montreal in 1898, added to its seventeen Ontario branches. From then on, especially in the years from 1900 to 1913, the expansion in branch offices was rapid, reaching a total of 95 in 1913.

While the development of The Dominion Bank has never halted in its seventy-five years of existence, it is in the years since the turn of the century that its growth has been most marked. Since 1900, the paidup capital has increased almost fivefold, the reserve to the same extent, the number of branches almost sixfold; total deposits are seventeen times greater, total assets fifteen times greater, and liquid assets nearly thirty times greater.

BUREAUCRACY KILLS EFFICIENCY

Recently The London Daily Telegraph published an article by Mr. J. C. Johnstone protesting vigorously against the proposed nationalization of British telecommunications, which involves those of Canada. In a letter to The Daily Telegraph, reprinted below, The Earl of Selborne, Assist-Postmaster - General 1924-29, endorses Mr. Johnstone's stand and incidentally shows how the 'dead hand' of bureaucracy kills efficiency.

Sir:—Mr. J. C. Johnstone's article on the threatened nationalization of British telecommunications is most timely.

For many years the Post Office ran our telegraph service at an annual loss, which has involved millions of pounds loss to the taxpayer. Similarly the service the Post Office gave to the public was not nearly so good as the service private companies in America gave to their public. If the dead hand of officialdom is now going to seize our cable system, there will be, as Mr. Johnstone says, an end to British supremacy in cables.

For many years before the war Liverpool stockbrokers who wanted to get a telegram through quickly to London used to send it via New York! That fact alone shows the relative efficiency of our cable system under private enterprise compared with that of the Post Office.

As a result of temporary inside knowledge of the Post Office, I published all these facts and many others some 15 years ago. My revelations in regard to Post Office inefficiency resulted in a Government Commission of Inquiry, which did not challenge a single one of my statements. This Commission resulted in some very useful reforms of the Post Office being carried out, but it still suffers from the handicap of being a Government monopoly.

So far the Socialist Government have presented two great British industries on a plate to our American competitors by making the services that private enterprise has built up here into Government monopolies—the civil aviation industry and the cable industry.

I think the American Government might have been more grateful to them for these windfalls, and might on that account have given us easier terms for the new loan.

NEWS FROM SOUTH AFRICA

Cape Town — New measures to combat the current crime wave in South Africa have been announced by Justice Minister Lawrence.

Special courts, presided over by a judge sitting without jury, will be established soon, Mr. Lawrence told a gathering in Pretoria. These courts will have the power to impose heavier penalties and will be able to pass the death sentence for crimes of violence in which dangerous weapons have been used.

The minister announced a three-year plan to increase the strength of the police force to more than 10,000 men. New rates of pay for all ranks of the force involving an increased expenditure of about $1,440,000 a year on the basis of the present establishment, were also made public.

Overseas manufacturers who plan large industrial developments for 1946, will begin erection of buildings in Benoni, Transvaal, which will be the most extensive of their kind in South Africa. An American firm expecting to employ 3,000 men, will produce refrigerators, electric stoves, washing machines and radios.

Difficulty has been experienced by the town council in recent years in meeting the demand for sites as practically all the land has been taken up. It is believed that these difficulties can be overcome and that the town will soon have an industrial zone without equal on the Reef.

About 500 tons of dehydrated vegetables may be shipped as a free gift to the people of Britain as a supplement to the Food for Britain Fund, J. G. N. Strauss, Minister of Agriculture has announced. The vegetables include carrots, green beans, cabbage, turnips, beets, onions and cauliflower.

One thousand tons of soup mixture have also been offered in response to an inquiry from the British ministry of food as well as small amounts of other products which are required for urgent relief purposes in the Far East. Mr. Strauss said that the dehydration of vegetables does not affect the shortage of supplies in the Union as most of the dehydrated products are grown specially in addition to the normal production for the local market.

Rt. Hon. Gideon Brand Van Zyl, the Union's first South African-born governor general was sworn in at Government House in Pretoria recently in the presence of Prime Minister J. C. Smuts and a distinguished gathering.

INTERNATIONAL SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON, FEBRUARY 10TH, 1946

Lesson Text: Numbers 14: 11-24.

"THE DISCIPLES OF EXPERIENCE"

An unbiased student of life on this North American Continent, would be led to conclude that we have been an undisciplined people. The war imposes disciplines. It was one of the most remarkable results of the war that men and women submitted so whole-heartedly to restrictions and wartime regulations. To be sure there was a black market, but in general the people submitted admirably. Now that the wartime regulations are being relaxed, and the disciplines eased up, the old order is reasserting itself. There is looseness about the postwar conduct which is already giving the moral leaders deep concern, and causing law - enforcement officers much trouble.

When the children of Israel broke away from Egypt, they did not know how to make use of the freedom, newly won. For years they had been under an iron discipline. The Egyptians kept them down. Then when they became their own bosses, they ran wild for a time. They had to learn, through long years of training and experience, the necessity of self-discipline. Time and again God is pictured as discouraged with them. Here, in this lesson, He is saying, "How long will this people despise Me"? God is about ready to cast them off and to make a new start.

Moses is pictured as arguing with God. His argument is that God will lose "face" if He should destroy the people. The nations round about will say that God was unable to bring the Israelites into the Promised Land and therefore, destroyed them. It is a strange argument in which Moses appeals to God's pride. The important part of the appeal, however, is not so much this playing on God's pride, as his earnest plea that God should forgive the people and give them another chance.

True to His nature, God listened to the plea of Moses and forgave the people. But with His forgiveness was coupled the announcement that none of those alive, save Caleb, would be allowed to enter the Promised Land.

The Hebrews needed that time. They needed long, hard experience. They needed to be reminded that experience has its lights and its shadows. It is not all sunshine. A nation needs that, if it is to survive the shocks of international complications, depressions, periods of unemployment. Here, for example, is Korea. Korea has been under the Japanese heel for thirty or forty years. They have had no part in the management of national affairs. Now they have been freed. Naturally, in their hour of freedom, they want to run their own country. But they need discipline; they need training; they need to develop strong, efficient and capable leaders. That will not be done overnight. While there must be great sympathy with them in their aspirations, yet the United Nations would do them a disservice, even in the face of popular acclaim, were they to withdraw and leave Korea to face the pitfalls of a stranger and untrodden pathway, all alone. They need the discipline of experience.

That is true of all of us. It is certainly true of individuals as it is true of nations. Very early in life children need discipline — in spite of Brock Chisholm— They need to learn obedience. They need to learn that there are some things they like which are not good for them.

Those who are older have the same lesson to learn. They must learn moral and social disciplines. They must learn to curb their appetites, their emotions and their wills. The way to the Promised Land is a way of hardship and dangers. But those will be overcome as men and women learn to love and trust God.

NYLON STOCKINGS PRICES SET

Ottawa. — Women's nylon stockings will be sold as low, and in some cases lower than those in effect in 1941, the Prices Board announced last week in a statement outlining the various gradings and their corresponding prices.

Nylons, a wartime casualty, are expected to return to sale in most Canadian cities, shortly.

The Board said four quality grades have been established: special quality; first quality; second quality, described as substandards, irregulars, and seconds; and third quality.

These grades in turn will be classed according to gauge and the resulting prices on the basis of the quality and gauge used in their manufacture. Prices will be the same as all retail stores in Canada.

All stockings will be stamped with the word "nylon" and the gauge and if the stockings are not of the first or special quality the grade also will be stamped.

Maximum retail prices for nylon hosiery by qualities, follow:

Gauge	Special& 1sts	2nds	3rds
42	$1.75	$1.50	$1.00
45 and 48	$1.95	$1.75	$1.30
51 and 54	$2.25	$1.95	$1.60
57	$2.50	$2.25	$1.80

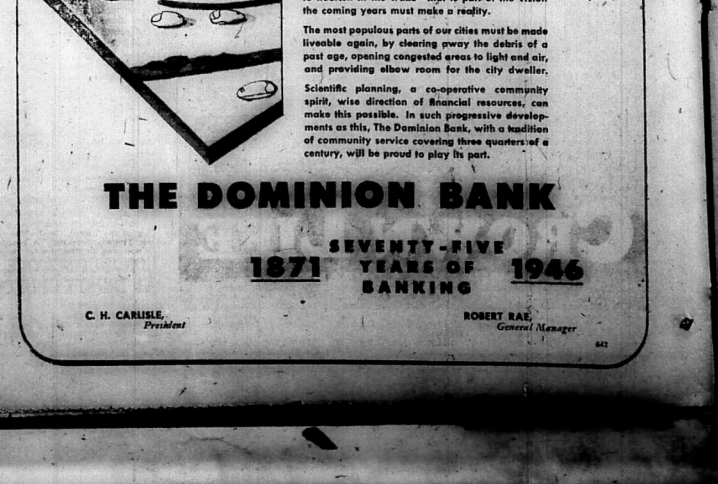
SEVENTY-FIVE YEARS OF BANKING
From the horse and buggy days to the industrialized and mechanized present, The Dominion Bank has fostered and promoted the developing Canadian economy and way of living. Strengthened by 75 years of experience and cumulative efficiency, The Dominion Bank plans for the future with confidence.



Spaces in which to LIVE

Cities replanned and beautified in their central areas to reverse the trend that has drawn the city worker to the suburbs, leaving slums and ugliness to flourish in his wake—that is part of the vision the coming years must make a reality.

The most populous parts of our cities must be made liveable again, by clearing away the debris of a past age, opening congested areas to light and air, and providing elbow room for the city dweller.

Scientific planning, a co-operative community spirit, wise direction of financial resources, can make this possible. In such progressive developments as this, The Dominion Bank, with a tradition of community service covering three quarters of a century, will be proud to play its part.

ROBLIN

Roblin, Feb. 4.—The United Church W. A. met at the home of Mrs. W. York on Tuesday, with eleven members and three visitors present. After the business and devotional periods, Mrs. Paul took charge of the program, which consisted of two minutes' silence in memory of the late Mrs. D. Richmond. Mrs. Paul also read Mrs. Richmond's favorite funeral hymn, then Mrs. Brooks sang "Crossing the Bar", accompanied by Mrs. B. Woods at the organ. The hymn "My Father is Rich in Houses and Lands", a favorite of the late Rev. Mr. Oliver, a former minister, was sung in his memory by the members. Mrs. Paul conducted an interesting contest, after which the meeting was closed with the hymn, "Blest Be the Tie", and prayer, led by Rev. Mr. Lewis. Mrs. York served refreshments.

Mrs. Lockhart has returned home after spending a few days in Toronto.

Mr. and Mrs. O'Connor have purchased the home of the late Mrs. D. Richmond.

Miss Lois Kimmett spent the week end the guest of Miss Jean Reid, at Lens.

The cast of the play was as follows:

Cyntnia Darling, the oldest Darling, Mrs. Harold Creighton.

Barbara Darling, the youngest Darling, Mrs. Ronald Gale.

Theresa Darling, the prettiest Darling, Miss Gwen. Hoyck.

Harold Darling, the Darling Boy, Grant Huyck.

Agatha Brisboe, the Darling's aunt, Mrs. Jim Stapley.

CAMDEN EAST

Camden East, Feb. 4. — A large number gathered in St. Luke's Memorial Hall on Monday evening, January 28th, for the annual social evening. After the presentation of treats and books to the Sunday School scholars, Rev. Canon Spencer was called to the front, and Mr. Ed. Hamilton and Mr. Harry Robinson presented him with a purse of money from the members of St. Luke's Church, and Mr. H. Terry Sutton presented a purse of money from St. Anthony's Church. Although taken entirely by surprise, Canon Spencer thanked his parishioners, and gave an account of church and Sunday School activities from 1908, the year he took over the charge. Because of ill-health Canon Spencer has resigned, and expects to make his home in Toronto with his only son, Reg., and family. His many friends in all walks of life are sorry to hear of his retirement, and the best wishes of all go with him in his new home, and we hope he will find it convenient to visit us often.

Laverne C. Histed spent a few days in Kingston, where he received his discharge, after serving four years as an Artillery Signaller in Canada and Continental Europe. Laverne was Camden East's youngest soldier to volunteer for Active Service.

DORLAND

Dorland, Jan. 26. — In spite of sub-zero weather last Saturday evening about 30 neighbors met at the home of Mr. and Mrs. A. C. Davis to say "good-by" to Mr. and Mrs. Stanley Kerr. During the evening Miss Mary John read an address, expressing the regret of the community that Mr. and Mrs. Kerr were leaving, and wishing them happiness and prosperity in their new home. A library table and serving tray were presented by Mr. Robert Davis and Mrs. Jean Davis, as tokens of appreciation of Mr. and Mrs. Kerr's help in the various departments of the United Church and cooperation in the general activities of the neighborhood. Although taken quite by surprise, Mr. and Mrs. Kerr expressed their appreciation of the remembrance, and of their enjoyment of their residence in the community. They moved to their new home north of Selby on Thursday.

Among those recently ill with flu are Mrs. Robert Cousins and Master Jackie Remington, but we were glad to learn that they are improving.

The annual congregational meeting of the United Church was held on Thursday evening. A bountiful supper was the first item on the program, and was enjoyed by about 60. Later, reports were received from all the different departments. All reported all obligations met and varying balances on hand. Plans for the coming year were discussed, and officers elected.

A few have ventured to cross the ice to Picton, but it is not considered very safe.

The frequent snowfalls and high winds of late are keeping the snowplows busy. The storm last night blocked the roads as much as at any time all winter.

Dorland, Feb. 2. — Can anyone tell us where that open winter with no snow, that we heard so much about last fall, is? Our experience is that there is more or less snowfall during each 24 hours, and, of late, the wind is working overtime, piling up drifts. Soon it will be difficult to say the snowplows pass for the banks along the sides of the road. The groundhog cannot see both see their shadows plainly today, so by another six weeks we will be well buried.

The annual meeting of the U. E. L. Butter and Cheese Company Ltd. was held in the Township Hall on Friday afternoon, with a large attendance of milk producers present. During the past season 48 shareholders and 90 non-shareholders furnished 6,419,486 lbs. of milk, and 553,465 lbs. of cheese were manufactured. After all expenses had been met, $119,802.84 were paid to the patrons. There were several changes made in the Executive. Mr. Johnathan Allen succeeds Mr. J. R. Johnston as President. Mr. Johnston has served in the office faithfully for several years. Mr. J. A. Chalmers, Vice-President for some time, is replaced by Mr. I. Brooks. The Directors are Messrs. H. Allison, S. Simmons, and G. Loyst. Mr. Frank Gallagher was returned as Salesman and Treasurer, as was Mr. J. F. Baker as Secretary. Mr. Wesley Remington is again maker. Town Council endeavoring to secure a suitable building.

Councillor Webster, Chairman of the Youth Committee, stated that plans were under way to hold a meeting for the purpose of organizing a Youth Advisory Committee, on which all churches, schools, the Board of Education, Service Clubs, Business, Societies and Lodges, the Home and School Association, Newspapers and Citizens will be represented. The Advisory Committee will, it is intended, supervise the work of a Youth Council. It is proposed to ask the Town Council for the use of the Town Hall for youth activities and the School Board for the use of the Collegiate for the same purpose.

The Banquet Commitee formed to arrange for a reception for service men and women, which is headed by Harold Webster, reported that plans were under way to hold a banquet in May, at which time it is proposed to present the returned men and women with rings. It is expected at least 450 will be in attendance at the banquet.

During the session of Council, Councillor Ramsay stated that at a recent joint meeting of the Health and Sanitation and the Streets Committee, when it was suggested the two committees be amalgamated, the members were told by the Treasurer, M. P. Graham and Councillor Kimmerly, that according to statute, such an amalgamation was not possible. When asked to show the Statute, they were told if they needed further proof they could get it in Toronto. Councillor Ramsay said the members of the committee were not treated politely and also added that Councillor Kimmerly and the Treasurer were not running the town.

Members of the Council present were Mayor Geo. S. Chalk, Reeve Robson, Deputy Reeve Holmes, Councillors Webster, Vine, Moore, Ramsay, and Rogers. Councillor Kimmerly was absent.

COMPLICATIONS ELIMINATED IN NEW INCOME TAX FORMS

Ottawa. — Some of the most comforting words since income tax was nothing but a dark twist in somebody's mind, fell upon Canadian ears, last week. They were:

"For practically 99 per cent of the taxpaying public new income tax forms dispense with substantially all calculations of tax."

Eliminated were "the heretofore rather complicated calculations."

Which that revenue minister, Hon. J. J. McCann announced that the forms for 1945 income were being distributed across Canada.

They were, he said, two in number. They would be available at district income tax offices and at post offices within the next few days.

The first form, generally speaking, is for those making less than $3,000 and the other for those making more than that. For the first category the exact tax is shown in a table. For the others the tax is stated on a minimum of a range of income with a stated percentage of the income above the minimum of the range to be added to the dollar statement contained in the table.

Mr. McCann's statement gave this encouragement:

"The forms at first glance appear highly detailed but the first impression should not be the lasting impression for if each taxpayer will proceed in an orderly manner and follow directions it is anticipated he will have no difficulty in coming to the correct determination of tax payable."

HEALTH TALK Given By H.H. Langford AT GRACE CHURCH

PREFERENCE FOR OVERSEAS MEN IN CIVIL SERVICE

A recent Order-in-Council has defined overseas preference for Civil Service appointments. The order states that the words "on active service overseas in the military forces" shall be held to include, in so far as veterans of the recent war are concerned:

1. Those members of the RCAF who have been required in the course of operational duties to fly outside the territorial waters of the Western Hemisphere, not, however, including either passengers or persons receiving a limited period of training.
2. Members of the Canadian Army who have served outside the Western Hemisphere.

It was further recommended that preference be extended to members of the RCN who have any service to their credit which is classed as "sea time," including service in ships of other than the naval forces of Canada.

GRACE CHURCH W. A.

The January meeting of the Woman's Association was held Thursday afternoon in the Sunday school room, with a splendid attendance. The president, Mrs. Wilfred Smith, presided.

The topic of the worship service was "Starting Afresh" and those assisting were Mrs. R. S. Wales, Mrs. W. F. Barrett; a vocal duet by Mrs. S. Booth and Mrs. F. B. Elliott. A most interesting talk on the "Beatitudes" was given by Mrs. J. A. Haw.

The letters from the sick and shutins were read by Mrs. F. Correll.

The treasurer, Mrs. H. Vine, gave her report, which was most gratifying. A committee was appointed consisting of Mrs. R. S. Wales, Mrs. S. Booth, Mrs. F. Correll, Mrs. W. Smith and Mrs. C. D. McLellan, to meet with a committee from the Official Board in connection with the conference which is to be held here in May.

Mrs. Correll spoke in reference to the play which is to be held in the near future and Mrs. Barrett spoke about the tea which will be held in March.

The programme consisted of a piano solo by Mrs. C. Bell and a paper on "Mental Hygiene" by Mrs. H. Langford.

The meeting closed with prayer by Mrs. A. Lewis and the executive served refreshments at the close.

ADDED ATTRACTION

A member of a firm which makes novelties rushed into his partner's office with a rough model of something he had just thought of. It was pretty complicated.

"Look," he said, "I've got an inkwell, calendar, small clock, paperweight, pencil-sharpener—see! At the back of the calendar—place for stamps. Nice, eh? And, look, this bronze dog is a fine decoration—and off comes his head for cigarettes."

The other partner studied the contraption for a long time.

"It's superb," he said at last, but he added, sadly, "It lacks something. I don't know what, but—ah! I've got it!" He pounded the table enthusiastically. "From somewhere should come music."

MR. MRS. ROBT. E. ASSELSTINE MARRIED FIFTY YEARS

Mr. and Mrs. Robert Ellison Asselstine celebrated their Golden Wedding Anniversary at their home in Yarker on New Year's Day. They were married fifty years ago at the home of Mrs. Asselstine's parents, the late Mr. and Mrs. David Young, Sillsville. In their retirement in 1938, they resided on a farm in the Moscow district.

In honor of the occasion, Mr. and Mrs. Asselstine entertained a number of relatives and friends at a turkey dinner, prepared by Mrs. Asselstine, assisted by her niece, Mrs. W. K. Huffman. The guests included their daughter, Mrs. Larry Moore, and Mr. Moore, Mrs. Nellie Moore, Mrs. Carrie Potter, sister of Mr. Asselstine, and Mr. and Mrs. Acel Potter, all of Kingston; Mr. and Mrs. D. W. Young and Mr. and Mrs. R. P. Young, of Sillsville, brothers and sisters-in-law of Mrs. Asselstine, Mr. and Mrs. W. K. Huffman, Mr. and Mrs. W. E. Evans and Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Bell, of Moscow.

Mrs. Bata Amey, Alberton, Montana, only sister of Mrs. Asselstine, intended being present but was unavoidably detained. She has since arrived.

Mr. and Mrs. Asselstine received numerous cards, letters and gifts from their many friends. A beautifully decorated wedding cake came as a surprise from their cousins, Mrs. L. M. Wartman and Mrs. Hattie Provost, Vancouver, and a bride's cake from their daughter, Mrs. Moore.

During the afternoon and evening a number of friends called to congratulate Mr. and Mrs. Asselstine, their names being recorded in a golden guest book, the gift of a friend, Mrs. Annie Hall, Ottawa.

NAPANEE W. C. T. U.

The January meeting of Napanee W.C.T.U. was held in Grace Church on Tuesday, February 29th, the president in the chair. A moment of silent prayer followed the singing of a hymn, and Mrs. Wartman led in prayer. The devotional period was taken by Mrs. Bowerman from Joshua I and Hebrews IV. She read also, extracts from a sermon on "Human Life," by Unknown Path of 1946. We should build a better tomorrow because of the blessings of yesterday.

Rev. Mr. McLellan then gave an address on Evangelism, which he said was a fundamental thing in connection with the temperance cause. He stressed the truth that evangelism must not be merely an occasional stirring up, but rather a change in life; not only a personal thing, but also a change in the social order. Evangelism dealt with sin and problems arising from sin in its many forms and must change, not only the individual but the whole environment of life. It is not enough to care for the victims of the Jericho road but must make the road safe. Powerful organizations engaged in the liquor traffic are the enemies of the people. Strong social pressure is exerted also on youth, and much courage is needed for resistance. The liquor trade makes large contributions to certain causes, expecting results in return. The profits of these large corporations are huge and the trade intends that they shall be still larger as their outlets increase and their subtle advertising makes its appeal. All these things, said the speaker, the public should know, and surely Christian people should realize their responsibility in helping to organize for more effective opposition to the sale of liquor.

Her pastor, Rev. Lougheed, of Shannonville, conducted the funeral service, assisted by Rev. Lewis of Roblin. The discourse was based on passages from Revelation. During the service the choir sang one of the deceased's favourite hymns "When the Roll is Called up Yonder," and Mr. W. Wartman san ga solo, "We'll say Good-night here but Good-morning up There." The flower-bearers were the grandsons, Arthur Whiteman, Nat Kimmett and Don Kimmett. The pall-bearers were Gordon Schamerhorn, Thos. Richmond and Fred McFarlane of Roblin, Murney Whiteman, Lorne Lazier and Jack Blatherwick, of Melrose.

WEDDING BELLS

EVANS - LYNCH

St. Anthony's Church, Centreville, was the scene of a pretty mid-winter wedding on Wednesday, January 23, when Rev. Father Ryan united in marriage Mary Patricia, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Vincent Lynch, Erinsville and William Charles Evans, son of Mr. and Mrs. James B. Evans, brothers of the groom served the nuptial mass and Dennis Nolan presided at the organ.

The youthful bride, given in marriage by her father, wore a floor-length gown of white mousseline de soie over taffeta. Her shoulder length veil of white net was gracefully draped from a halo of orange and white flower clusters, and she carried an arm bouquet of white carnations and roses, the groom's gift a gold bracelet.

The bride's attendant, Mrs. James Hinch, sister of the bride, was frocked in a floor-length gown of cerise silk crepe, matching off-the-face headdress and carried a bouquet of pink carnations.

Little Madeline Hinch, three-year-old niece of the bride, was a doll-like picture in long pink taffeta with matching taffeta cap and she carried a multi-coloured nosegay of dainty flowers.

James Evans, brother of the groom, performed the duties of best man. The groom's gift to the flower girl was a gold baby ring, to the bridesmaid a pearl rosary and to the best man a gold collar and tie set.

The wedding breakfast was served in the reception room of the superior Restaurant, Napanee, where twenty-five guests sat down at a long, prettily decorated table, centred with a three-storey wedding cake.

A reception was held at evening in Enterprise Community Hall, for the happy couple, where they received many useful gifts. During the evening the newlyweds were presented with a purse of money by Melbourne Brooks and Fletcher Clancy, on behalf of the Moscow community. A very fine address was read by Mr. Brooks, to which Mr. Evans responded suitably for himself and his bride.

For travelling, the bride chose a fine green, wool dress and hat to match, with a brown polo coat. Upon their return Mr. and Mrs. Evans will reside in Moscow.

The regular monthly business meeting was held in the Red Cross rooms on Saturday afternoon, February 2, with the president in the chair, and a good attendance.

It has been decided to hold these monthly business meetings on Thursdays from now on, and the first Thursday in each month will be the regular date in future.

Lieutenant Mills, a Nursing Sister in the United States Army, gave a very interesting talk on her experiences in Italy, where she spent two and a half years. Lieutenant Mills gave a brief outline of the procedure of medical treatment at the front, as followed by the United States Army, then proceeded with a vivid description of the various towns she visited and the living conditions of the Italian people. The Lieutenant was stationed in Naples during the eruption of Vesuvius and her story of this event was thoroughly enjoyed.

The tea was convened by Mrs. E. Sheppard and Mrs. W. H. Diffett, with Mrs. George Mills pouring.

THE MIXING BOWL

By Anne Allan
HYDRO HOME ECONOMIST

Hello Homemakers!

Organization of the work to be done is the best way to approach any job — even the family laundry. With a decided plan, your big job falls into several small jobs, no one of which seems overwhelming. You also save time by eliminating waste motion.

What Jobs need to be done before actual washing? All mending should be done beforehand, because tears and rips are likely to enlarge discouragingly during the washing process. All stains should be removed because soapy water sets many stains.

How should I sort clothes before washing? White clothes: (1) table linen; (2) sheets, pillow cases, lightly soiled towels; (3) cotton underwear, shirts, heavy soiled towels. — Coloured clothes: (1) light coloured; (2) dark-coloured; (3) colours that may run. Set aside fine fabrics for special handling and stained clothes for treatment.

What can be done about very hard water? Soft water requires less soap and makes clothes whiter than hard water. Washing soda and trisodium phosphate are good water softeners but should not be used in washing rayon or part wool and rayon fabrics. Some "brand" softeners may be used for all fabrics and colours but should be used according to directions. Too much softener may turn fabrics yellow.

Do clothes have to be soaked? Soaking loosens soil, and, therefore, is helpful in washing dirty clothes. A fifteen-minute soaking is ample and cool water is better than hot for this purpose.

How to keep white clothes white? Hot washing water, the right amount of soap, thorough rinsing and wringing are the answers to that question. Fill the machine two-thirds full of hot water. If you use a water softener, add the correct amount according to the manufacturer's directions. Measure soap, allowing enough to make a two-inch suds after machine has been operated for about two minutes. Do not use more soap than needed. Wash a few clothes at one time — for a good washing, clothes must move freely through the suds. Operate the machine from ten to fifteen minutes, depending on amount of soil in clothes — twenty minutes for stubborn dirt. Before adding another load to machine, be sure water is hot, soapy and not too dirty. Rinse clothes three times in soft or softened water, hot, then cool. Soap left in a fabric turns it yellow. If you wish to add bluing, add it sparingly, according to manufacturer's directions. Keep clothes in motion while bluing to prevent streaking. A plunger is useful to assist in forcing out soapy water.

How do I keep colours clear and bright? First make sure colours are tub-fast by soaking a small sample piece in warm water ten minutes. If colours run, handle the garment separately. Before washing soak it in salt and water or baking soda and water for a few minutes. The wash water should be only lukewarm and the cleaning should be done in a few minutes. Wring as dry as possible after rinsing and dry quickly.

Why are clothes starched? The purpose of starching is to restore the original finish to fabrics. As starch gives a smooth surface that repels dirt and stains, it is especially desirable for housedresses, aprons and children's clothes. Many women like to starch linens very lightly. Clothes should be starched after the last rinse. Only small quantities are impossible to list because the amount of starch a garment absorbs varies with the weave and weight of the material and the temperature of the water. You have to learn by experience. Remember that the hotter the starch the more will be absorbed. Use a warm, thin starch solution. Wring out as much as possible and let starched clothes dry thoroughly before sprinkling.

How to hang clothes? As the clothes are put through the last rinse, watch out for unnecessary folds to prevent wrinkles. Fold big flat pieces so they won't pull crosswise. Put the clothes into the basket in some order—sheets in one end, towels in the other, small articles flat on top. Shake out and smooth clothes to make ironing easier. In general, hang clothes by the heaviest, firmest portion. Fold sheets and tablecloths hem to hem and place on line so that hemmed edges hang over eight to twelve inches. Give clothes dried indoors ventilation with open windows or fan. Never hang wet clothes in a papered room; moisture may loosen the wallpaper.

Fold things carefully as you take them down. You have to iron out those additional wrinkles. Use a clean stiff brush or a bottle with a fine perforated cap to sprinkle the clothes. Cover with a heavy cloth. Iron in two or three hours' time.

— IT'S FEBRUARY —

the shortest and often the chilliest month of the year. But it brings us St. Valentine's Day and we may comfort ourselves and our guests with a Valentine party which calls for an evening of indoor games. Hearts set the theme, and red the color scheme. Refreshments served on tables gaily decorated with red centrepieces and amusing favours will please your guests.

TAKE A TIP

1 That jelly stirred into stiffly-beaten egg white makes a frosting of sweet smoothness in a lovely pastel color.
2 Sweet potatoes have more natural sweetness than other vegetables. Let them add sugar to your meals.
3 Here's an easy way to speed the process of making a large quantity of sandwiches. Stand the entire loaf of sliced bread on end. Spread filling on top buttered slice and set it to the side of the loaf. When the second slice has been spread set it and the slice under it on top of the loaf, then set two slices on the "filled" pile. You will only butter the one side of the slice upon which the filling is spread, but if filling is moist they will be tasty.
4 Minced veal moistened with concentrated celery soup makes a very good sandwich filling.

THE SUGGESTION BOX

Many thanks to our friends in Northern Ontario for their splendid ideas.

(Mrs. J. W.) Valentine Party menus: Put your valentine greeting on the service plates, cut circles of cellophane the size of the inner circle of plates and cover the plates. Fill glasses of tomato juice will look very effective.

(Mrs. P. K.) Discarded adhesive tape spools are good candleholders for Valentine arrangements. The bases may be painted or simply covered with paper.

(Mrs. R. Mc.) If you have numerous leftover candles, melt them, pour the melted wax into individual gelatine moulds, and insert soft string wicks. Set these on fancy plates and burn the candles in the moulds.

LENNOX AND ADDINGTON COUNTY FEDERATION NEWS

Owe Dr. Blair a Vote of Thanks

People living on farms or in rural communities, where it is not possible to establish or maintain strict quarantine of the household's milk supply, owe a vote of thanks to Dr. W. G. Blair, M.P. for Lanark County for bringing to the attention of the House of Commons the extent to which human beings are being infected with Undulant Fever.

As most live stock men know, Undulant Fever is the disease in human beings contract through the handling of infected cattle or using raw milk from cows infected with Bang's Disease, one of the most common forms of contagious abortion.

Dr. Blair stated that Undulant Fever is a rural disease, eighty per cent. of the cases reported having occurred among farmers and their families, while butchers, truckers, veterinary surgeons and travellers account for the remainder through handling infected cattle or using raw milk. He reported that in the years 1934-38, of 515 cases of Undulant Fever reported in Ontario, there were twenty deaths but during the period 1942-1944, since pasteurization became more widely compulsory, cases numbered 321 and death 10.

But he added that these were only the reported cases. Many went unreported.

Speaking from his medical experience, he stated that Undulant Fever causes marked weakness and may run a course of two or three years. People afflicted with it suffer a most serious illness and during the more acute stages are confined to bed. They run a temperature for weeks and months and the course of the disease is most debilitating. It is doubtful, he stated, whether those who get it ever regain normal health. The effects may show themselves in later years.

While pasteurization of milk has helped to slow up the spread of Undulant Fever, Dr. Blair stated that to get rid of it we had to get rid of Bang's Disease in cattle. He urged the Federal Department to spend more money in its research branch to study the disease and find methods of combatting it. He cited a new law in force in the State of Connecticut where compulsory vaccination of calves against the disease has been adopted. It calls for state vaccination at state expense and $125,000 has been appropriated for the work which will require $1 to 60 of the state's practising local veterinary surgeons.

Dr. Blair believes Canada should do something similar and institute compulsory vaccination under such a plan as that now in force for T.B. control.

He might have added that live stock breeders in co-operation with the Ontario Veterinary College, have already set up one small Bang's Disease free area in Ontario and are working in one or two other communities to establish a complete calfhood vaccination system for these areas. In addition many individual breeders vaccinate regularly all the calves dropped in their herds.

Most live stock men who know anything of the serious economic loss caused by outbreaks of Bang's Disease, quite apart from the serious dangers of Undulant Fever should back Dr. Blair, have long urged the Federal Government to undertake preventive measures against it similar to those taken against T.B.

Now that the dangers of war are over it is time this other serious danger to human life and health is attacked. If the Federal Department will give leadership and bear a fair share of the cost, live stock owners will, we believe, be ready to do their part in removing this menace. And the best information available to-date points to calfhood vaccination as the most effective control. — The Farmer's Magazine January, 1946.

NO BUTTER CUT UNTIL MARCH OR AFTER

Ottawa. — A Prices Board spokesman said, Thursday last, "There definitely will be no reduction in the Canadian butter ration before January." (Coupon values for February were announced some time ago. If the ration is to be reduced it would be for March or later).

He made the statement when questioned on reports which said that due to a seasonal decline in creamery butter production a further reduction in the ration might be necessary. Some reports said the reduction might be from six to four ounces a week.

The situation is reviewed on a monthly basis and rationing plans have not been decided beyond February, said the spokesman. Canadian butter stocks January 1st were 33,711,000 pounds, compared with 31,800,000 pounds on December 1st and 40,110,000 pounds on January 1st, 1944. The 16,080,000 pounds decrease in stocks during December represented a seasonal decline which normally does not improve until late April or early May.

Canadians took a one-ounce-a-week cut from seven to six ounces, January 1st. Similar reductions in the butter ration were enforced in the Dominion during the two previous winters.

At the time the one-ounce reduction was announced, the Prices Board said the reduction was being spread out over several months so as to avoid drastic curtailment or severe shortage in 1946. Officials promised resumption of the seven-ounce ration "just as soon as supplies permit—probably in April."

Cheese Consumption Increased During War

Winnipeg. — Consumption of cheese in Canada increased during the war years to a current annual rate of approximately 4.5 pounds per capita, compared with 3.75 pounds per capita for 1939, D. M. Beattie, official of the Federal Agriculture Department, said here recently.

In an address prepared for delivery before the Manitoba Dairy Association annual convention, Mr. Beattie said the Canadian people were capable of consuming "much more" cheese than being used at present because many groups ate "very little if any cheese."

Even in Britain, where cheese is rationed, consumption increased from 8.6 pounds per capita in 1938 to around 11.75 pounds at present, said Mr. Beattie, associate chief of dairy products in the Federal Departments grading and inspection services. However, this increase was the result of the necessity of cheese in the diet rather than the result of supply.

Discussing future cheese markets, he noted that Canada has signed a contract with Britain to supply 125,000,000 pounds of first grade cheese at 20 cents a pound during the year ending December 31, 1947. "This is the same as the contract for the 1945 production year."

MUST SPREAD BUTTER QUOTA

Ottawa. — Restaurants and other quota consumers will have to spread their butter allotment for the present quarter over an extra month, the Prices Board announced last week end. The quota previously set for January, February and March will have to last until the end of April.

Officials said the step is being taken to further safeguard the reserve stock which is required to meet the consumers' butter ration until the seasonal increase in domestic production bolsters supplies in the spring.

The Board said this may mean that some public eating places may have to discontinue serving butter at certain hours. However, "a few special exceptions, such as hospitals, will not be affected. The reduction will not affect individual coupon consumers.

A prices board spokesman said there will 'definitely' be no reduction in the coupon value of butter during February.

TAMWORTH

CONGREGATIONAL MEETING OF TAMWORTH UNITED CHURCH

Tamworth, Feb. 4. — The annual congregational meeting of Tamworth United Church was held in the Religious Educational Building. The attendance was regrettably small. Rev. W. H. Baugh conducted a short period of community singing, then opened the meeting with scripture reading and prayer.

Mr. Clifford Milligan acted as Secretary.

The Treasurer, Mr. J. E. Huffman, reported a balance on hand after all expenses were paid.

The Treasurer of the Woman's Association, Mrs. T. Milligan, was absent, and Mrs. W. H. Baugh gave the report, which showed a fine balance on hand after a most successful year.

Mr. R. C. Moss, the Treasurer of the Missionary and Maintenance Fund, reported a splendid year.

The reports of the Sunday School and the Young People's Union were read by Edwin Lochhead, who is the Treasurer for both organizations. Both reports showed excellent balances on hand. Good donations were made to the M. & M. funds.

Mrs. J. S. Haggerty reported for both the Women's Missionary Society and the Baby Band. The Auxiliary reported 31 members and the raising of the allowance for the first time in a number of years.

The report of the Mission Band was given by the Superintendent, Mrs. W. H. Baugh.

In Mr. Baugh's brief remarks he said the congregation had given good support to the Ontario Temperance Federation, Orphaned Missions, and to the Protestant Churches in Europe Fund. He also reported 7 baptisms, 3 funerals, 5 marriages, 5 members received on profession of faith, 2 received by transfer. There are 156 members and 109 families.

As Mentor of the Trail Rangers' Camp Mr. Baugh reported a very good year. The object and aims of the Trail Rangers' work were explained and were listened to with interest.

The Elders and Stewards were re-elected for the year 1946.

Mr. Manley Marshall was elected to the Board of Trustees.

The congregation passed a resolution supporting the Attorney General, Hon. Leslie Blackwell, K.C., in his recent action against gambling, but, at the same time, they recorded a strong conviction that the present sub-section of the Criminal Code, which grants exemption for the conduct of lotteries and games of chance for religious and charitable purposes should be repealed.

BOYS' WEEK

Boys' Week will be held from February 4th to 16th. It is hoped that a Father and Son Banquet will be held in the R. E. Building during the above week. A boys' and girls' service will be held on February 10th.

DEATH OF MISS HUNTER

A well known and highly respected citizen of Tamworth, Miss Frances Hunter, age 70 years, passed away very suddenly at her home here on Wednesday, January 23rd. Deceased had been about as usual until the evening before her death. She was a loyal Red Cross worker and was in her place at each meeting. She will be greatly missed in the Thursday afternoon gatherings.

The funeral service was held at the home of her sister, Mrs. William Jamieson, on Saturday afternoon, and the remains placed in the vault, to await interment in the United Church cemetery in the spring. Rev. W. H. Baugh officiated at the service.

She leaves to mourn her loss one sister, Mrs. William Jamieson, Tamworth, and one brother, Mr. Joseph Hunter, Tehkummah, Manitoulin Islands.

Those who attended the funeral from out of town were: Mr. Joseph Hunter, Mr. James Hunter, Mrs. Douglas Wagg, all of Manitoulin Island; Mr. and Mrs. Wray VanLuven, of Kingston, and Mr. E. McGee, of Toronto.

The pallbearers were: Dr. S. Lockridge, Chas. Smith, Ross Loucks, Stanley Haggerty, R. F. Dell, and Herbert Milligan.

WOMEN'S INSTITUTE MEETING

The January meeting of the Women's Institute was held at the home of Mr. W. H. Baugh, with 17 members and three visitors present.

Due to the absence of the President, Mrs. Thomas Scanlin took charge of the meeting.

After the usual opening, the roll call was answered with "The funniest scrape in which I ever saw anyone". This brought forth many amusing stories.

After the minutes were read and approved, several items of business were dealt with. Mrs. J. W. Bradshaw and Mrs. Harry Anes were named as a committee to look after buying a piano stool for use in the Town Hall, also to investigate in regard to buying cups for the W. I. cupboard.

Several bills were presented and ordered paid.

Mrs. J. Nicholson explained the Girls' Project, "Bedroom Accessories", and asked the mothers present to see to it that their daughters take advantage of this course of sewing.

Mrs. Manley Marshall, Convener for Citizenship, Peace and Education, then took charge. The motto "A Viewless Stream of Common Will can Move Mountains", was given by Mrs. Terry Donovan. Mrs. Marshall read a paper on "Citizenship", which was sent out to all branches of the district.

A very interesting part of the program was a demonstration by the leader of blankets made of old materials, also of hooked rugs.

A contest on "Trees" was conducted by Mrs. Fred Milligan. Mrs. Baugh won the prize. Receipts of the evening were $16.35.

The National Anthem closed the meeting, after which lunch was served by the hostess and her committee.

On Thursday evening a class of 14 girls met at the home of Mrs. J. Nicholson and organized for the course, "Bedroom Accessories". Miss Gwen Caffrey was elected President, and Miss Betty Tucker was elected Vice President. It is expected that this week the class will get off to a good start in the project.

A series of house parties is being held to raise funds to send comforts and treats to returned service men in the Christie Street Hospital Toronto, also to the Military Hospital in Kingston.

Before Christmas a euchre and dance was held in the Town Hall for this purpose, and a fine lot of treats, smokes, games, an Afghan, books and magazines, were sent, for which several letters of appreciation have been received by the committee in charge. This committee consists of four ladies, Mrs. J. Nicholson, Mrs. W. G. Richmond, Miss Lauretta Cunningham, and Mrs. J. S. Haggerty.

Mrs. Nicholson and Mrs. Richmond have each had a euchre in their homes, and there will be more in the near future. It is hoped that by spring a fine fund will have been realized to give some measure of comfort to the boys who have given up so much for the good of their home and country.

As the motto of the Women's Institute is "For Home and Country", the committee feel that they are doing a good work, and are carrying on under the auspices of the Women's Institute.

Veterans Advised to Use Jobless Benefits Before Using Savings

Veterans without employment during the reconversion period this winter have been advised by the Hon. Ian A. Mackenzie, Minister of Veterans' Affairs, to take advantage of the out-of-work benefits of the Post-Discharge Re-Establishment Order rather than expend war service gratuities on their maintenance during difficult times.

Mr. Mackenzie stated that 5,000 veterans drew the out-of-work benefits in November, and expressed anxiety that many newly discharged persons were using up their gratuities that are being set aside for the benefit.

"It is in their own interest and in the national interest that they should take full benefits of this service and conserve their gratuities, as far as possible, for future requirements," he said.

"It appears many veterans who are now unemployed do not understand the conditions under which the out-of-work allowance is paid," Mackenzie said. "At the time the rehabilitation legislation was drafted, this period of recession in employment and the process of reconverting war industries to peacetime production, especially in the winter months, was anticipated and the benefit was established to tide ex-service men and women over a situation which they could not control.

"Some veterans seem to be reluctant to apply for the benefit for the period of service in the Canadian forces, up to a maximum of one year, during the eighteen months following discharge. Amount of the benefit is $50 monthly for a single man and $70 for a married man, with allowances for children. A married man with two children would draw $94 a month.

"Every ex-service veteran should register with the National Employment Service; if they have no work available for him, they will so certify, and help him to make his application for the out-of-work benefit."

Mr. Mackenzie said. "The out-of-work benefit is administered in close co-operation with the National Employment Service, and the process of seeking work carries on during the period of benefit."

"We don't want our ex-service men and women spending their gratuities for a purpose for which the out-of-work benefit was designed," Mr. Mackenzie said. "The benefit is there as a protection against seasonal unemployment, and it is meant to be so used."

AMENDMENTS PERMIT USING OF CREDIT

Under the provisions of an important amendment to the Veterans' Land Act, an "ex-serviceman who owned land before the war and who has returned to it, may secure a loan for the purpose of repairing and purchasing equipment. This loan will be made without prejudice to the veteran's use of his re-establishment credit.

Prior to this announcement, the farmer veteran could secure a mortgage loan at the rate of 3% per cent. In such cases, his re-establishment credit was "frozen."

May Use Credit for Purchase of Radios, Pianos

As a result of a new order issued by the Department of Veterans' Affairs, radios and pianos may be purchased by veterans using their re-establishment credits. Hitherto these two items around which home life is centred in most Canadian homes, were not considered as furniture, and could not be purchased with re-establishment credits.

The new regulation, however, limits purchase of radios or pianos to married veterans mainly, and specifies that more essential items of furniture must be obtained first. Where veterans have growing children, pianos may be obtained fairly easily in cases where the instrument is deemed essential to the musical education of the children, the order states.

"It was about ten o'clock at night, and the two occupants of the police car patrolling the rain-washed, deserted streets were rather fed up.

"Nothing coming through?" the driver asked his fellow-policeman who sat in the back seat with the wireless ear-phones over his head.

"No—. Wait a second, though. Here's a message from headquarters." He began writing.

"Well, what is it?" asked the driver eagerly.

"Sergeant says bring in an extra portion of fish and chips when we go back to supper. He's got a visitor at the station."

ORGANIZE FOR HEALTH

It is fitting that once a year — during "Health Week" which this years opens February 3rd — all citizens should take time to consider what has been accomplished in the program of health for Canadians. With the co-operation of Dominion, Provincial and Municipal departments of health, departments of education, schools, churches, service clubs and other public-spirited organizations, an effort is being made to again call to the attention of all Canadians the need for organizing for health.

Science has made enormous contributions in the field of preventive medicine in our own lifetime. And yet, failing to apply the discoveries of science, we go on allowing health and life to be sacrificed because we are not sufficiently informed to spend reasonable time or pass adequate legislation for the prevention of sickness and the conservation of life.

The statement that in the war years 50,000 industrial workers were unable to work on account of sickness on an average day, and that of 1,260,000 men examined for military service 307,000 were unfit for military duty of any kind, should be sufficient to give pause. In spite of our existing milk-borne disease and our failure to control venereal disease, only one province in Canada has a province-wide law enforcing pasteurization of milk and only two provinces have adequate legislation for medical examination before marriage. This is an evidence of the fact that either Canadians generally are still uninformed as to the urgent need for action or extremely lethargic.

In either case, there is a vast need for a widespread education campaign. Briefly, if the facts are disseminated widely enough, and often enough, there will be a widespread demand for action.

"Health Week is but a brief intensification of the year-round effort of your health departments and the Health League of Canada to make you health-conscious.

BRITAIN ANXIOUS TO AID

London. — Two important statements have been made by the United Kingdom Government which show Britain's anxiety to do as much as she can within her own country to help those who have suffered in concentration camps in Europe.

The first was the announcement that Britain will admit immediately those survivors of the Nazi camps who have close relatives in Britain able and willing to look after them "and also other distressed persons who have been in hiding from the Gestapo or for various reasons are especially in need of care."

There are thousands of close relatives of Nazi victims in Britain to receive them. They found refuge there both before and during the war. Up to April, 1943 alone, 150,000 refugees entered Britain, and in June, 1944 it was officially stated that they were still being admitted at the rate of about 850 a month. Many of these refugees will themselves be able to save others now, and reunite their families.

The other statement refers to naturalization. During the war naturalization was suspended, and the refugees who had settled in Britain were anxious about their future. Naturalization is now to be resumed, and priority is to be given to aliens who have served in the Forces, or in science, industry and commerce.

Britain is a very crowded country with a population of 500 per square mile, compared with 44 per square mile in the United States. Yet during the war, Britain has shown her desire to help, whatever the cost. No refugee who reached Britain, even without a visa, was ever turned back. And in addition to the stream of refugees who came in the usual way, there were many others who entered under various British schemes organized to meet special circumstances. For example, after D-Day, plans were made to accommodate 10,000 French refugees from embattled Normandy. In March, 1945, 2,000 Dutch children were brought over for three months' holidays in camps, and 'private homes all over the country, to allow them to recover from the horrors of Nazi occupation. Later, when the concentration camps were liberated, plans were immediately made to bring to Britain large numbers of the derelict and pitiable children who were found there. The program has begun with 1,000 children from the dreaded Theresienstadt Camp in Czechoslovakia. The first 300 of these children were flown over in bombers by the R.A.F. and placed in a private holiday camp in the English Lake District.

Those are the latest illustrations of sympathy and help which have been characteristic of Great Britain ever since the Nazis came to power. Estimates published in 1943 showed that the assistance of money or kind, given by private organizations and the individuals in Britain to refugees from German Europe amounted to £9,500,000 ($38,000,000). In addition, the Government helped, not only by giving every facility to the voluntary bodies, but also by providing funds in aid. In 1938, the Government set aside £4,000,000 ($20,000,000) to help Czech refugees. Following the outbreak of the war, the Government decided to subsidize private organizations caring for refugees. At first fifty per cent. of the cost was given and this was later raised to one hundred per cent. Over £1,200,000 ($4,800,000) had been spent by the Government in this manner by May, 1943, not including the Ministry of Health expenditure on refugees.

Canada to Aid in Restoring Library Of Caen University

A campaign will be launched in Canada and the United States to restore the Library of Caen University, shattered when Canadians fought the battle of the Falaise Gap in their drive through Normandy to the Rhine.

The committee hopes to raise a total of 100,000 books and $100,000 in Canada and the United States to restock the ruined Caen library, which has indicated a special need for legal volumes.

Chief Justice Rinfret, chairman of the Canadian section of the committee, received permission last month under the War Charities Act to go ahead with the campaign in Canada.

J. M. SIMPSON, K.C. NEW CHAIRMAN BD. OF EDUCATION

Board Asks Citizens to Confer on Project of New School

At the inaugural session of the Napanee Board of Education, held last Wednesday evening, J. M. Simpson, K.C., was elected chairman of the Board for 1946. Mr. Simpson has been a member of the Board for over ten years, H. L. VanLuven was elected vice-chairman, and Russell Hunter was appointed secretary-treasurer at a salary to be fixed by the Management Committee.

Mr. Simpson, in his opening remarks, thanked the members for the honour conferred upon him, and made several worthwhile suggestions in eliminating lengthy meetings of the Board. He said that when possible, all minor details should be left for committee work. He also welcomed two new members to the Board, Wallace Roy and Garnet Leary. Other members present were: Ward Wartman, Rod Sharpe, Don. Roblin, P. U. Laidley, C. N. Loucks, J. A. Marshall and G. L. Howitt. There were two members absent, H. L. VanLuven and J. D. Mayhew.

COMMITTEES NAMED

P. U. Laidley, W. Wartman and C. N. Loucks were named a nominating committee to strike the standing committees for this year. The following are the committees with the first named as chairman:

Management — H. L. VanLuven, J. A. Marshall, G. L. Howitt, Don. Roblin.

Finance — P. U. Laidley, H. L. VanLuven, C. N. Loucks, and Rod Sharpe.

Property — C. N. Loucks, Ward Wartman, Wallace Roy, J. D. Mayhew.

Supply — P. U. Laidley, Rod Sharpe and Garnet Leary.

Health — J. A. Marshall, G. L. Howitt, and Don. Roblin.

F. W. Ramsay asked the Board for permission to use the craft shop of the Public School and the gymnasium at the Collegiate, for one night each week, for two boys' groups, the Trail Rangers and the Tuxis. He said one group was of the ages 11 to 14 and the other, 15 to 17. The matter was left in the hands of the management committee in conjunction with the two principals, with power to act.

A letter was read from F. A. Correll the secretary of the Lennox and Addington Fish and Game Protective Association, re the coming Bird House display here. Mr. Laidley, speaking on the matter, said that it was a very worthwhile project. On motion, a grant of $50 was made for prizes.

A request for permission for graduates to use the Collegiate gymnasium, was let in the hands of the management committee.

PRINCIPALS' REPORTS

C. E. Jamieson, Principal of the Collegiate, gave the attendance report for January. The total enrollment was 341, and the percentage of actual to perfect attendance was 84.29. In his remarks, Mr. Jamieson stated that this was an all-time high attendance since 1931-32. He also spoke about the excellent work done by a pupil, Miss Dorothy Goodridge, who helped out in the office of the school during a time of staff shortage. It was decided to reimburse Miss Goodridge with the sum of $10.

W. L. Bell, Principal of the Public Schools, reported a total enrollment of 515, with an aggregate attendance of 8606 and an average attendance of 409.36. The percentage was 85.86.

During the month, the sale of War Savings Stamps amounted to $119.25. Mr. Bell also stated that there were seven boys' hockey teams organized within the school and three girls' teams, and all were showing up well. He also said that it was hoped to have a hockey game with Kingston in the near future.

Mr. Simpson congratulated Mr. Bell on his work and also on the hockey situation.

Mr. Bell thanked Wallace Roy for donating a set of hockey nets for the rink.

J. A. Marshall reported that J. A. Egan, overseas veteran, had been re-engaged as a member of the teaching staff of the Collegiate.

A communication was read from Mrs. E. Smith, requesting that the sum of $2.50 paid her each week for teaching Friday afternoon at the Public School, as a supply, be increased. The matter was left in the hands of the management committee with power to act.

Rod Sharpe asked for permission for the three county members, Ward Wartman, Don. Roblin and himself, to retire when lengthy public school matters were discussed, as the county members have no voice on them. Mr. Simpson suggested, when possible public school matters be discussed at special meetings and if the county members found it convenient to come their advice would be appreciated.

REPORT ON EAST WARD SCHOOL

A report from Edgar A. Cross, Consulting Engineer, of Toronto, regarding the East Ward School, was read, which stated that he made an examination of the School on January 3rd of this year, as to the safety of the structure, and found numerous cracks of minor dimensions in the walls, poor mortar joints, and wooden furring of rafters, defective. He also stated that the building was not in any danger of immediate collapse. He recommended that it be kept under close observation and also suggested that it be used for a minimum length of time; only until other accommodation can be provided. In his opinion the condition of the building does not justify the expenditure of large sums for minor repairs.

Mr. Laidley moved that the secretary send a letter to the Home and School Club of the town, asking it to call a meeting of the public at an early date, at which time the public should select an advisory committee to sit in at meetings of the Board, to discuss public school matters, and that the report of Mr. Cross be submitted to this committee for its opinion.

Former Manager Returns to Napanee A & P Store

Mr. Harry Taylor has returned to his former position as manager of the Napanee A. & P. Store. Mr. Taylor was manager of the Napanee store in 1941 and part of 1942 before his enlistment in the Canadian Army Dental Corps. Since then, until his discharge, he was stationed in Kingston. After discharge he was assistant manager of the Kingston store.

Mr. Don. Thompson, who has been manager of the A. & P. store in Napanee, for several months, leaves this week for Belleville.

Federal House Session Set For March 14th

The second session of the Twentieth Parliament will get under way on Thursday, March 14th, Premier King announced last week, following a meeting of the Federal Cabinet. The proclamation calling Parliament together has been issued.

BUTTER RATION TO BE REDUCED FOR TWO MONTHS

Beginning in March Weekly Quota Four Ounces Each

Ottawa, Feb. 11. — Butter rations are to be cut from six to four ounces a week, at least during March and April, it was announced over the week-end by Rt. Hon. J. L. Ilsley, Minister of Finance. The order by the Wartime Prices and Trade Board governing the cut is to be put into effect as a result of steadily declining stocks.

Mr. Ilsley, in making the announcement, said that the cut was necessary in order to meet a temporary emergency. When the seasonal increase in domestic production takes place in the spring, the ration can be restored to at least six ounces.

COUPON DATES GIVEN

The reduction will be effected by making one coupon come due every two weeks, instead of three coupons every four weeks. Coupons will become valid on March 7 and 21 and April 4 and 18.

Depleted reserve stocks, lower winter production and increased consumption had combined to make this action necessary if consumers were to be able to obtain butter for their valid coupons. The civilian population at the present time was more than 600,000 greater than a year ago, due in part to the natural increase in population but in large measure to the rapid return of the Overseas forces to civilian life in Canada.

REASON GIVEN

The minister said that for a time the Government had hoped it might be possible to avoid this cut by supplementing domestic butter supplies with importations through the Dairy Products Board, but this is now quite apparent that the current world shortage of butter and other edible fats meant that outside supplies could be obtained only at the expense of others who were already in a much worse position than Canadians. In this connection, Mr. Ilsley noted that the United Kingdom had just reduced its butter ration from three ounces to two ounces a week and at the same time cut the total fat ration (including cooking fats) by an ounce a week.

THE BUILDING PROPOSITION

The question of purchasing a building in Napanee for Legion Headquarters was discussed at some length. For the past several months the property committee has been investigating possibilities for such a place, and at the present time, a building here may be purchased.

It was also pointed out in the discussion that the County Council intends building a County Memorial Hall and that the Legion would have their own quarters in this building.

It was known when the County project would be completed. It was finally decided to leave the matter in the hands of the executive committee and that their report be heard at a special meeting of the Post, to be held tonight (Wednesday February 13th), at 8:00 o'clock.

FORESTRY PLOT COMPETITION AGAIN IN 1946

Encouraged by the success of the Forestry Competition for Ontario schools, held in 1945, the Ontario Horticultural Association announces through its secretary, John A. Carroll, of the Ontario Department of Agriculture, that a similar competition, sponsored in co-operation with the Ontario Conservation and Research Association, will be held in 1946. Last year some eighty schools took part in the competition, which requires the planting of a reforestation plot of not less than half an acre in size, as near as possible to the school property. The regulations are almost the same as last year, with some slight changes. Judging will be on the basis of fifty points for the plantation, twenty points for collections of leaves and thirty points for the written competition in which teams of five students will take part. This year greater emphasis will be laid on having the forestry plot adjacent to the school grounds.

For the purpose of the competition, the Province has again been divided into six zones, as follows:

Zone 1A — Essex, Kent, Lambton, Huron, West Elgin.

Zone 1B — East Elgin, Middlesex, Perth, Norfolk and Oxford.

Zone 2 — Welland, Lincoln, Haldimand, Wentworth, Halton, Brant and Waterloo.

Zone 3 — Bruce, Grey, Dufferin, Simcoe, Wellington, Peel and York.

Zone 4 — Ontario, Durham, Northumberland, Peterborough, Victoria, Hastings, Prince Edward, Lennox and Addington.

Zone 5 — Renfrew, Lanark, Carleton, Grenville, Prescott, Russell, Dundas, Glengarry, Stormont, Leeds and Frontenac.

In each zone there will be $50 in prize money, donated jointly by J. E. Carter of Guelph and the Ontario Conservation and Research Association. The winning plot in each zone will then become a competitor for the provincial award, in which $100 in prize money has been donated by J. E. Carter.

The regulations require that entries be made to the school inspector in each county or area, not later than March 1st of 1946. The judging will be done as soon as possible after October 1st, and the entries of the first prize schools in each zone for the provincial competition must be in the hands of J. A. Carroll, not later than October 15th.

In view of the keen interest shown in the competition last year, it is expected that even a larger number of entries will be made in the 1946 event.

Can. Order Foresters Degree Team Visits Kingston

The Napanee degree team, headed by Chief Ranger, Almon Douglas, visited Kingston Canadian Order of Foresters on Thursday, February 7, to put on the initiation for nine candidates, seven from Kingston and two from Morrisburg.

In spite of an epidemic of sickness which depleted the team, it was highly complimented for its floor work, by organizer Beckstead.

The Kingston Court showed its appreciation by serving a very fine banquet, catered by the Women's Institute.

The meeting closed at 11:40 p.m., with everyone satisfied that it had been an evening well spent.

On January 31st, it rose at 7:25 and set at 5:14—that is it rose twelve minutes earlier and set 33 minutes later. The day lengthened between these two dates, 45 minutes, that is lengthened on an average, a little more than one minute per day—45 minutes in 41 days. The length of the day on January 31st was 9 hours and 49 minutes.

Lennox and Addington Orange Lodge Holds Annual Meeting

On Tuesday, February 5th, 1946, the annual meeting of the Lennox and Addington County Orange Lodge was held in the Lodge rooms in Napanee. About forty representatives from the various lodges throughout the county were present. County Master, E. A. Salsbury reviewed the past years activities and expressed hope for the coming year, especially now that the war was over, and also he was chairman of the business meeting. It was decided that, since there are, in the province of Ontario, about 91 schools, supported by public, but which have been taken over by the Roman Catholics, and in which there are taught Romanist doctrines, and in which the language used is French, not English; and likewise there are about 70 High Schools in Ontario to which the same applies, therefore County Lodge petition the Minister of Education of Ontario, that:

(1) The contract which the Government made with the University of Ottawa, which is a French Roman Catholic institution, and therefore receives only French Roman Catholics, for training teachers for bilingual schools, be broken, and

(2) That if it is found that after these past 25 years or more of teacher-training through this institution sufficient teachers have not been efficiently trained to carry on the work, that a course be put on in the regular normal school, and that it be open to all students who are qualified;

(3) That these bilingual schools be inspected by public school inspectors; and

(4) That private high schools be kept entirely separate from any other schools receiving Government aid and that they be managed by an entirely different Board.

After discussion it was agreed that the Twelfth of July Celebration be held this year in Napanee, and that it be a County Memorial Celebration in Memory of those who served in the Second World War.

The election of officers for County Lodge resulted in the following officers for 1946-47:

County Master—Charles McConnell.
County Deputy Master — Arthur McKnight.
County Chaplain—Ronald Baker.
County Recording Secretary—Kenneth Freeman.
County Treasurer—W. E. Higgs.
County Marshall—Victor Drew.
First Lecturer— G. Barr.
Deputy Lecturers — H. Tyner, C. Parfitt.

After the officers were duly installed by C. A. Milligan, it was decided that the next annual meeting be held in Napanee.

The secretary was instructed to send a letter of remembrance to Manson Lee of Yarker, who was absent through sickness.

The meeting was closed with the Orange Ceremony.

A rainbow may sometimes be seen all day long in a cloudless sky in Siberia. It is said to be due to reflection of the sun on fine particles of snow in the air.

Ministerial Association Met in Napanee

The Napanee and District Ministerial Association met on Tuesday, February 5th, 1946, at 10:30 a.m., in Trinity Church, Napanee. Those present were as follows: the Vice-President H. C. Secker in the chair, and Revs. H. A. Bunt, J. Robinson, W. Fletcher, J. A. Haw, C. D. McLellan, W. H. Clarke, J. F. Dingman, Archdeacon Dumbrille, Noble Hatton, K. J. Crawford.

The meeting opened with Scripture reading and prayer. It was decided that the Rev. Noble Hatton represent the Ministerial Association at a meeting about to take place to organize a Veterans' Rehabilitation Centre for the County, to assist veterans in becoming re-established in civilian life.

It was agreed that the next meeting of the association be held in Grace Church, and the speaker is to be the Rev. A. W. Lougheed.

The paper was read by the Rev. H. A. Bunt. He reviewed a book by Andrew Blackwood, entitled: Pastoral Work. Mr. Bunt said that the care of souls is the chief concern of the pastor; he must not neglect his preaching of this week in the dining hall pastoral work. But there are difficulties in this work; the state of the times is not conducive to a minister taking time to meet his people individually, and caring for the individual's spiritual life. But it must not be neglected. Mr. Bunt gave advice as to how to begin on a new field; a plan for visitation was greatly stressed. A typical pastoral call was given, and the problem of keeping children in the church, and interesting men in the church, was discussed. Visits with the sick and shut-ins and the sorrowing, were then considered. The review as a whole gave a good view of one aspect of a minister's work.

A general discussion followed the presentation of the paper, and a vote of thanks was tendered to Mr. Bunt for the interesting address.

The meeting closed with prayer offered by the Rev. Mr. Robinson.

"Fifty-Fifty Club" Holds Supper Meeting In Trinity Church

Thirty young married couples of Trinity United Church attended a "What-Have-You" supper, arranged by the "50-50 Club" on Monday evening of this week in the dining hall of the church.

Following supper several stunts arranged by the programme committee caused considerable amusement.

Rev. Noble Hatton gave a talk on "Making a Successful Marriage," which was followed by a discussion on the subject.

The group will meet once a month during the winter.

Young People Conduct Service in Grace Church.

At the evening service in Grace Church, last Sunday, young people from Holloway Street United Church Belleville, were present, and most of the service was conducted by them.

Miss Margaret Hillis gave a very timely talk on the subject: "Who Is Mean to be a Christian" and this address was followed by an equally interesting and informative talk by Harry Dennis of Belleville. Miss Isabelle Richardson read the scripture while Miss Readim Robertson made the prayers. Miss Shirley Mitchell sang a pleasing solo, "Spirit of God."

The meeting was held in the interest of the "Crusade for Christ."

At the close the visitors were entertained by the Young People's Union when dainty refreshments were served in the Sunday School room.

CHILDREN'S CARNIVAL DRAWS LARGE CROWD TO WITNESS EVENTS

Annual Affair Sponsored by Lions Club

On Friday evening of last week between 300 and 350 children and adults were on hand at the Lions Rink at the east end of Dundas St. to take part in and witness the annual Carnival held for children up to the twelve years of age.

The weather was ideal for those taking part in the programme, but a little on the cold side for the spectators.

While the events were being run under President "Bill" Barrett was the busiest man at the rink. He and his committee were in charge of the refreshment booth, where hot dogs, chocolate milk and candied popcorn were distributed to all and sundry under twelve.

The coloured lights which encircled the ice surface were placed there through the courtesy of Mr. Chas. Walters and Mr. Jack Hayes of the Utilities Commission, which added greatly to the carnival spirit.

Music and amplifying equipment was donated by Mr. John Burkitt, and this added entertainment and feature made it possible for the Club members to keep order and announce the names of the winners.

The difficult job of judging was ably handled by Miss M. Way and Miss Turner of the Public School staff, and Mayor George Chalk.

Lion Percy Asselstine and his committee had a splendid sheet of ice on the rink, which enabled the contestants to show their stuff in fine style.

Mrs. W. S. Wilson Girl Guide Official

Mrs. W. S. Wilson was unanimously elected District Commissioner at the regular monthly meeting of the Lenox and Addington Girl Guides, on Tuesday evening, February 5th. Mrs. R. W. Douglas succeeds Mrs. Wilson as secretary of the organization.

A certificate was presented to Miss Barbara Caldwell, Leader of the First Company, Napanee Girl Guides, certifying that she has attended a course of lectures at Kingston Outpost on Patrol Leadership and the Girl Guide Movement, and has passed her examination very satisfactorily.

Tentative plans were made at the meeting, for a training session to be held in Napanee in the late Spring if possible.

The proceedings of a police-court case had been rather noisy and the magistrate determined to restore order.

"The next person who interrupts," he said sternly, "will be put outside."

"Hurray!" shouted the prisoner.

NAPANEE CITIZENS – TAKE NOTICE!

On another page of this issue of The Beaver, there is a notice of an important meeting to be held in the Napanee Town Hall on the evening of Friday, February 22nd, to consider public school matters.

The School Board is to be commended for its action in recommending that such a meeting be held and every citizen in the town who is interested in public school matters should consider it a duty and a priviledge to attend.

The School Board, some months ago, proposed to build a new public school in East Ward and the project has been the subject of considerable controversy, and resulted in the expression of opinions, both favorable to and opposed to the proposition. Opposition to the building of a public school in East Ward has steadily increased and the opinion has been widely expressed that one new public school, to serve the whole town, should be built to take the place of the present two schools.

The meeting will give the Citizens of the Town an opportunity to express their opinion publicly and should be of of great assistance to the Board of Education in formulating its plans for the future of the public schools in the town. The question is one which will affect the school life of Napanee for the next fifty years, in all probability, and should not be considered lightly.

The Home and School Association, which represents the parents of school pupils, is calling the meeting at the suggestion of The Board of Education. Both organizations deserve the support of the people of the town and, unless there is a good attendance at the meeting and a free expression of opinion, the School Board will feel justified in proceeding with its original plan.

BUREAUCRACY

On the editorial page of last week's paper we had an interesting little article entitled "Bureaucracy Kills Efficiency." It was an expression of a certain British point of view, that needs more than a passing glance. This article quoted a letter from Mr. J. C. Johnstone in the London Daily Telegraph, in which the writer vigorously opposed the nationalization of British telecommunications. This letter, and point of view, was supported by another letter —also published—by the Earl of Selborne, who was Assistant PostMaster-General in Great Britain, 1924-1929. Earl Selborne condemns in no uncertain manner, the management of the British Government monopoly of the telegraph system operated under the Post Office, which he denounces as inefficient.

We do not know a great deal about the British telegraph system, though what little experience we have had with it and with the ordinary British citizen would lead us to believe that it was as efficient as any other system. However, it is hardly fair for men to condemn all publicly-owned and operated enterprises on the basis of one. In Canada, we are proud of our Post Office system. It is run economically and efficiently. Indeed, it is the one Department at Ottawa which consistently makes money. The Canadian National Telegraphs, also a government managed enterprise, is the equal in efficient and kindly service, of any other. People who are in the newspaper business have considerable business with both the Post Office and The Telegraph companies. We have found them always efficient, courteous, and co-operative.

In Ontario, we are rather proud of our Hydro Electric Power Commission. This controls all electrical energy used within the Province. There has never been any charge of inefficiency against the Provincial system. Power is plentiful and cheap, and the enterprise is an example to many privately owned companies. He have never heard it said that bureaucracy in this area, kills efficiency.

In the Canadian National Railways we have a government-owned and operated system, which for efficiency and prompt, courteous treatment, equals the great private railroad which is its competitor. To be sure, we heard a lot of criticism a few years ago because it was not making money, but the increase in traffic during recent years has stilled all that. A great deal has been said about Canada's contribution to the war effort, and rightly so. But there has hardly been one word in praise of The C. N. R., over whose lines practically every ton of material was transported to Halifax and the seaboard. There was no inefficiency in the C. N. R.'s war effort.

If Mr. Johnstone and the Earl of Selborne would like a vivid contrast between publicly-owned and privately-owned transportation, we would suggest a visit to Toronto and Buffalo. Toronto has one of the most up-to-date and efficient street car systems in America, — publicly owned, and making money. The cars are fast, clean and comfortable. Across the border is a privately owned system in Buffalo, where the cars are old, slow and infrequent. There, nobody thinks of riding in them if he can possibly get any other mode of transportation. These general statements about bureaucracy and inefficiency of government - owned enterprises, come all too frequently and should not be taken at their face value. A little examination into Canada's experience will demonstrate that when public spirited and capable men are put in control, government ownership has nothing for which to apologize.

A CHILDREN'S NIGHT

The Children's Skating Carnival, which was held on the rink adjoining Trinity Church under the auspices of The Lions Club, was an example of a community at its best. The children, all juniors, had a good time. There were competitions for all. There were costume contests, competitions for grace and form in skating, and speed contests for different age groups.

There were two other groups, besides the children, who enjoyed the evening's fun. One, of course, was the group af parents who came to observe and to cheer-on the youngsters. The boards were lined with spectators, and even though it was a cold night and they had to stand, the group remained till it was all over. They seemed to get as much fun out of it all as the children themselves.

Those, however, who got most genuine satisfaction from the project were, no doubt, those who planned the programme and carried it through. The men had the whole series of events well organized, and ran them off as systematically as the age and enthusiasm of the children would permit. They must have done a lot of preparatory work for which they received their reward in the way the children enjoyed themselves.

The community is fortunate to have a group of men who are willing to give their time to its future citizens. The Skating Rink project was begun a year ago as an experiment. The response was so generous that the rink was enlarged and put on a more permanent basis, this year. Most of the work in connection with this, is done by the men themselves, and funds for carrying it through are provided by the Club. Projects such as this go a long way in preventing juvenile delinquency by providing an outlet for the energies of growing youth, under wise and systematic supervision.

MUTUAL CONFIDENCE NEEDED

We have long been friendly to the Russian people and sympathetic with their experiment in social living, and this, for two reasons. By nature, we are sympathetic towards the oppressed in any nation, and when the Russian peasants and workers rose in their anger against a brutal tyranny and a discredited ecclesiastical system, we rejoiced in their courage. Then, too, we were entranced by the way in which the people fought against every obstacle in the early days of their freedom and rapidly showed evidence of native genius, and ability for leadership. Then, too, our estimation of the Russians was enhanced by their willingness to sacrifice during the Great War, and by the dogged determination and superb fighting qualities they displayed as they drove the German military machine all the way across Europe.

Our admiration for the Russians, however, does not go to the extent of making us blind to their errors and their weaknesses. We confess to a feeling of disappointment at the way in which the Russians have sought to enlarge their territory since the close of hostilities. To be sure, they were not among those who signed the Atlantic Charter, nevertheless it was reasonable to assume that, as partners in the great struggle, they would have been loyal to its principles. One of those was, that those who signed it, were seeking no new territory. Russia has secured a large slice of Poland a piece of Finland, Islands from Japan, the port of Port Arthur from Manchuria, and now makes a claim for the former Italian colonies in North Africa. Her challenge of Britain's action in Greece was based, undoubtedly, on a fear that Great Britain would prevent Russia from getting complete control of the Balkans.

Russia has certainly made hay while the sun shines, or, in other words, has added considerable to her territory and her influence as a result of the recent World War. For this reason, we are glad that Mr. Bevin had the courage to oppose Mr. Vichinski, who demanded Great Britain's withdrawal from Greece. It is not good for Greece that British or any other troops should be stationed there, nevertheless it is a hopeful sign that the doughty little Foreign Minister had the courage to let Russia know that the British were not going further to follow an appeasement policy. We tried that once, with Germany and once was too much. There will probably be a better feeling now that the British and the Russians know exactly what each other thinks about them. Nothing is better for world peace than to reach an understanding.

BREAD

We in this country, who have plenty to eat, must have read with something of a shock last week, that the food rations in Great Britain are to be drastically reduced. It is hard for us to realize that there is a world - wide shortage of food. Whatever doubts we may have had when meat rationing was reintroduced here. a few months ago, have been dissipated by the facts recently made public.

In a letter to the writer, received a few days ago, a prominent church leader in Scotland says that the only difference between living conditions now and during the war is the absence of the casualty lists and the blackout. A ten-room house, he said, is allowed a half-ton of coal a month, and the food cues are as long as ever. That was written before the present restrictions were imposed.

The people of Great Britain have had a heavy load to carry. They worked long and hard, they went without adequate food and clothing, they withstood the organized military might of Nazi Germany for a long time, alone. And in the final stages of the conflict had to meet the threat from the German V-I and V-II flying bombs. They have had to dispose of their foreign credits in order to finance the war — credits which were the life's blood of British trade and commerce. And now, they are called upon, even after hostilities hav ceased, to tighten their belts and cut their food allowance.

This condition must be remedied, if it is within the power of the nations which possess food, to do so. Canada is one of those countries. We have the food; we have the land and the capacity to produce food. Every effort must be made now, as during the war, to produce to the limit; and Great Britain must be provided with sufficient credit to enable her to secure all we can provide.

In the meantime, before another crop season comes around, the Canadian people will be willing to share what they have, even if doing so means a restriction in our own food allowance. It is to be hoped our Government will ask us to share and share generously our food with the people of Great Britain, who have done so much for us and liberty-loving people, everywhere.

REPORT OF ANNUAL MEETING OF U. E. L. CHAPTER, I.O.D.E.

The annual meeting of the United ed Empire Loyalist Chapter, I. O. D. E was held on the Tuesday evening (February 4th), and opened with the Ritual of the Order, and Flag ceremony.

RETIRING REGENT, MRS. HALL'S ADDRESS

The Regent, Mrs. Duane Hall, gave the following splendid address:

"Officers and members:

"It is a pleasure to welcome you to this annual meeting and to thank you for the support and co-operation I have received at all times, at work, at meetings and in our social activities.

In recalling my fourteen years as your Regent, I have had many happy associations with this Chapter, as well as with the Provincial and National Chapters. The work of the Daughters of the Empire is most inspiring and has held a place second to none in the community.

The United Empire Loyalist Chapter was organized in 1910 with Mrs. Harshaw as Regent. She very capably filled office during the First World War and until 1927, when she was succeeded by Mrs. William Deroche, who started the Dental Clinic in the Public Schools, and did much for the growth of the Chapter. In 1931 Mrs. Kathleen Powell became acting-Regent. In 1929 I was appointed Convener of the Social and Finance Committee, and in 1932 was elected Regent.

It is not possible to mention all the activities since that time, but we have just concluded six long years of very constructive work, and I feel that we have done our best and have met all our obligations with no small measure of success. Every member has helped meet, in some way, the various demands made upon us.

You are now about to start upon a new year, with a good many changes in your executive. I know that you will keep the Chapter growing and will support, not only the regular activities, but also the post-war programme of the order, to aid the peoples of the British Isles and Europe.

There is now a Second War Memorial, which will assist the education of our veterans' children. This is a slight payment for the services rendered for our glorious freedom and we must carry on this task with renewed vigour, glad of the privilege of assisting in such a worthy cause.

I would like to wish my successors and all officers and conveners the greatest success in their work of 1946, and the years to come. With your help and your help only, they can have that success. I hope they will ask my help freely, as I feel that the I.O.D.E. has a real place in my heart."

Mrs. MacNaughton made a presentation, on behalf of the Chapter, of a beautiful bouquet of snapdragons, to Mrs. Hall, in appreciation of her many years of service in the Order, and Mrs. Hall will, at a later date, be honoured by a Life Membership.

In January 1941 a house to house canvass was made and monthly collections started. Paper cartons, cardboard, copper, aluminum, iron, steel, pewter, lead, zinc, brass, rubber, tires and tubes, batteries, bottles, glass foil, records and fats and bones were all collected. In September, 1941, a special aluminum drive was made. Following the gasoline rationing in 1942 the Town Council were kind enough to provide a truck and men for the monthly collections and continued to do so until October, 1945. INTERNATIONAL SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON, FEBRUARY 17TH, 1946

"THE RESPONSIBILITY OF A GREAT HERITAGE"

Lesson Text: Deuteronomy 4: 1, 32-40.

The forty years' wandering by the Hebrews in the wilderness, was nearing an end. A lot had happened since they left Goshen. They were at the Jordan, poised for an advance across the river and into Canaan, the land to which they had set out years before. Those who have been through modern warfare can appreciate the situation. There were the long years of preparation: morale had to be built up, rigid discipline imposed, confidence in their cause established, and faith in victory developed. It had all been done. Now, they were ready. Moses, it will be remembered, who had led them all these years, was not to be privileged to go with them into Canaan. His work was done. Before laying down his command, however, he wanted to give those he had led, a farewell message. His address was an appeal to history: now of the days that are past . . . whether there has been any such thing as this great thing". What he says in effect, is somethis: Has there ever been anything like the way in which our nation has been led by God. Moses then reviews their history to demonstrate this providential leading. Here are the highlights, as Moses recalls them: God speaking to them out of the fire; God called them a nation; a group within a nation; the trials, wonders, terrors, done by Divine power by which they were able to break away from Egypt. He reminded them that the success they had already achieved was due to God's guidance.

Having reviewed the history of the people, Moses then calls on them to keep God's statutes, and His commandments.

Moses was on sure ground. All too often, men pay scant heed to history. There have been countless times when a whole nation has decided to forget the past, and carve out a new trail. That was what the French did at the time of the French Revolution. That is what Russia did after 1917. That is what Germany attempted under Hitler. But in every instance it has been found that after a bit of experience with the new, it has been necessary to go back and evaluate again the contribution to the national life of those who had gone before. It will not be forgotten that one of the first things the Nazi regime did was to burn history books and books of religion. It discouraged religion and openly defied God; while the French, in their day of revolution wiped out the church and set up as a diety the goddess of reason. All this ruthless rejection of thousand years were forgotten. In the end all have to admit that history cannot be cut up into watertight compartments. Each generation makes its contribution, adding to the store of spiritual values.

What about the situation in our own area. Here we live in one of the oldest parts of Canada. Here, there came in the early days, Godly, unselfish men and women, who laid the foundations of the social and spiritual life in this area. This cannot be ignored, save at our peril. The way of life they lived for and sacrificed for, may be considered, by many, as narrow. And yet a departure from the spiritual principles on which they based their teaching, will land us in disaster.

A modern commentator makes this application to the lesson: "We do well," he writes, "to keep that truth in mind in dealing with any institution. A church cannot suddenly be transformed into something new, it also, is a stream of life. A family cannot suddenly change its entire way of living. We have been a family become quickly rich. We have observed them as they moved into a new location, bought a fine house, entered clubs, joined a swell church and tried to move among those who accustomed to the purple — it has been amusing, disgusting and tragic for all concerned! You see, back of grounds do hang over. You are part of the rock out of which you were carved. The tree that grows in Brooklyn does have roots."

Well, there you have it! A tree is known by its fruits: it may be said with equal truth, by their roots shall we know them. As we dare not ignore those that are gone, so those coming after us will build upon that which we to-day weave into the fabric of life's foundation. Therein lies our responsibility!

ELIMINATE the feed hazard in chick raising

It isn't enough to know the analysis of a feed—you must know how that analysis is made up. You must know how many pounds of the expensive ingredients like powdered milk, meat meal and cereal grass are in the feed.

And you get this information, right down to the pound, of every ingredient in CAFETERIA Chick Starter.

We can't invite you to compare the ingredients of CAFETERIA Chick Starter with other chick starters for no other feed gives you full formula information.

LET'S DO SOMETHING ABOUT THIS!

TO MEET THE WORLD ON EVEN TERMS

The long record of the War Amputations of Canada shows that unseen handicaps can be combatted successfully. All too many "amps" have lapsed into inertia in what should still be progressive years. But others, with better facilities available to them, or a greater personal incentive to struggle, have met the world on even terms.

The provision of special means to combat his unseen handicaps will give the young "amp" every chance to be as good a man maimed, as he might have been whole.

The one medium in existence with the specialized knowledge; the power to encourage and inspire; the proven devotion to the cause which is needed for success in operating such facilities is . . . the War Amputations of Canada.

To Help the "Amps" to Help Themselves

The "amps" of former wars know well what difficulties their comrades of the recent war must face.

That is why they have planned a permanent Centre to meet essential needs of war amputation cases. From their very nature these are beyond the scope of any official provisions, however generous.

In all existing governmental measures, "amps" share with all other war disabled in a splendid national programme of which all Canadians can be proud. But every "amp" will also face an unending struggle with unseen handicaps, that increase with age.

They are so intimate a part of his daily life—from the time he dons his artificial limb in the morning to the time he takes it off at night—that no governmental provisions ever can cover them.

They are things in which the "amp" must be self-reliant but in which he must look to others for the means to practice that self-reliance.

The "amps" themselves have planned an undertaking to provide these supplementary services.

GIRL GUIDE NEWS

On Saturday afternoon, February 2nd, the Guides of the First Napanee Company, met in the Guide rooms and had a cleaning bee. Several long delayed jobs were finished.

Later in the afternoon a Court of Honour meeting was held. The seconds were invited. Janey Wilson was elected secretary due to the resignation of Eugenia Hagerman. Antoinette Amodeo was elected treasurer. The meeting was then adjourned.

On Wednesday evening, February 6th, we had regular roll call and inspection, followed by a few remarks by Captain Caldwell, on Girl Guide and Boy Scout Week. We then had crafts and spent a half-hour making test cards for a game. Following this we sat in a circle and sang Guide campfire songs.

For the remaining time we practised dancing. It was decided there would be a Court of Honour meeting at the home of Mrs. W. S. Wilson on Saturday morning.

We sang Taps and the meeting was brought to a close.

V. O. N. NEWS

The Victorian Order of Nurses held an open meeting in the Armouries, Monday afternoon, February 11th. The President, Mrs. O. S. Reddick, was the chairman. Mrs. Charles read the Victorian Order Prayer of dedication. Mrs. Bassett, secretary, read the minutes of the last monthly meeting, also of the annual meeting, and Mrs. Medd, treasurer, gave the financial report. Mrs. Galbraith reported $146.95 raised in the recent 'Telephone Bridge' held in the town. It was announced that there would be a bridge and euchre for the benefit of the Car Fund, the evening of February 27th, at the Superior Restaurant. In connection with this event there will be a raffle for a wool blanket, five dollars credit at any grocery store, and a pair of Nylon stockings.

The V. O. N. Nurse then gave her report. There were 35 cases carried during the month, with 720 visits made. Fourteen and a half hours were spent in school, and four Baby Clinics held.

The convener of Finance, Mrs. P. U. Laidley, announced that the membership drvie would be held the last of this month.

Mrs. O. S. Reddick introduced the speaker for the afternoon, Lieutenant Marion Mills, a Nursing Sister in the American Army, who has returned recently after thirty months' service in Italy. Lieutenant Mills gave the history of the various insignia she wears, most of which is strange to Canadians. She outlined the various types of hospitalization set up by the American Army in the battle areas, and gave a vivid picture of how they operated. Her description of such story book names as Casa Blanca, Cyma, Capri, Sorrento and Naples was thoroughly enjoyed, although the glimpses she gave of the more intimate life of many of the Italian people made everyone very thankful to be Canadians and citizens of a happier land.

Mrs. P. U. Laidley moved a vote of thanks to Lieutenant Mills for her interesting talk, which was seconded by Mrs. Geo. Paul and warmly endorsed by all present.

A social hour followed the meeting when the ladies of the Roman Catholic Church served tea.

What would we give to clasp his hand,
His smiling face to see—
To hear his voice to see his smile
As in the days that used to be.

In Loving Memory

KIMMETT— In loving memory of Grace Kimmett, who died February 8th, 1945.

A dear one from our midst is gone;
A voice we loved, is stilled.
A place is vacant in our home,
Which never can be filled.
Sadly missed by husband,

7ap MORLEY KIMMETT, and FAMILY.

STINSON — In loving memory of Miss Mary Stinson, who passed away at her home at Tamworth, one year ago, February 11th.

Her thoughts were all so full of us
She never could forget,
And so we think that where she is
She must be watching yet.
In angels keep their watch up there,
Please God, just let her know
That we down here, do not forget,
We love and miss her so.
Sadly missed by

7ap ADA and FAMILY.

SOLMES — In loving memory of a dear husband and father, Robert J. Solmes, who passed away February 6th, 1941.

We often sit and think of him
When we are all alone,
For memory is the only friend
That grief can call its own.
Like ivy on the withered oak,
When all other things decay;
Our love for him will still keep green
And never fade away.
Ever remembered by his

7a WIFE and DAUGHTER, EMMA and FAMILY, Hill.

WEDDING BELLS

BELL - MADDEN

The Rev. Nchle Hatton officiated at a charming wedding in Trinity United Church, Napanee, Wednesday afternoon, February 6th, when Elizabeth, daughter of Judge and Mrs. James Ernest Madden of Napanee, became the bride of Ralph Bell, son of Mr. and Mrs. Fred C. Bell, of Moscow. Mrs. Bertha Black was at the organ throughout the service and during the signing of the register Mrs. Olive Dennison sang. Forming the background for the bridal party were graceful settings of pastel spring flowers, pink and yellow snapdragons, iris, daffodils and freesia interspersed with the dark green of palms and ferns.

Given in marriage by her father the bride was lovely in a portrait gown of brocaded satin patterned with a delicate spray motif. Classically simple in style it was fashioned with a moulded basque and sweepingly bouffant skirt. The only note of trimming was an applique of crystal beaded leaves encrusting the deep sweetheart neckline, edging the long sheath tight sleeves and encrusting the slightly dropped waistline. Her full length veil of tulle illusion was created with a coronet of matching brocade, the same crystal beading accenting the spray motifs. Her bouquet was of white freesia, hyacinths and ivory roses.

Attending the bride were her two sisters, Harriet and Sally Madden, charming figures frocked in frosted lime crepe, the slim sheaths accented with soft draping. In their hair they wore ostrich tips of matching lime mixed with maline and they carried cascades of yellow freesia, periwinkle, mauve hyacinths and coral roses.

Harry Moore of Napanee attended the groom as best man and the ushers were Jack Bryson of Toronto, James Madden, Napanee, brother of the bride, and Howard Bell and Norman Bell, brothers of the groom, of Moscow.

The reception following the ceremony was held at the home of the bride's parents, Mrs. Madden, mother of the bride, received her guests wearing a gown of black velvet accented with gold accessories. Gold sequin embroidery trimmed her black feathered calot and her corsage was of red roses and violets. Mrs. Bell, mother of the groom, assisting with the receiving, had chosen for the occasion a gown of black crepe accented with jet embroidery. With it she wore a black sequin hat and a corsage of pink roses and freesia.

Later the bride changed into her going away costume, a printed silk frock in tones of baroque gold and mandarin red over which was worn a fitted grey lamb top-coat. A matching red straw hat with black accessories and a corsage of red camelias completed her costume.

DORLAND

Dorland, Feb. 9 — One cannot complain of monotony in the weather during the past week, from below zero to rain twice, with brilliant sunshine alternating with heavy clouds. Many people viewed the gorgeous display of colors in the aurora borealis on Thursday evening.

In spite of unfavorable conditions on Wednesday afternoon a meeting of the W. M. S. was held at the home of Mrs. H. John. Owing to the January meeting having been cancelled, there was much business to be attended to, arranging plans for the year's work, etc. The next meeting will be held at the home of Mrs. S. Simonds.

Quite a more soldier boys from this district arrived on Monday, after a rough passage on the Queen Elizabeth. Among them were Lieut. Franklin Magee. Mrs. McCradden who was residing in the United States, joined her husband at the home of his parents, Mr. and Mrs. William McCrudden. Mrs. Magee is still in England, but hopes to reach Canada next month.

A jolly time was enjoyed at the Valentine party, sponsored by the Y. P. U. in the school room of the United Church on Friday evening.

Belleville Presbyterial W. M. S.

The Winter Executive Meeting of Belleville Presbyterial Women's Missionary Society took place in Bridge Street United Church, Belleville, on Thursday, January 31. Mrs. Spafford, the president, presiding.

Morning Session

Mrs. Ralph Hills led in a service of worship, reading from Isaiah II: "They shall beat their swords into plowshares, their spears into pruning hooks . . . neither shall they learn war any more." Mrs. Sills said, in part: "There have been many many wars since Isaiah wrote this. It must have sounded fantastic. To accomplish it, "The mountain of Jehovah's House shall be established on the top of the mountain — a revival of true religion, with the spear and sword not thrown away but made over — beaten into plowshares and pruning hooks."

Reports

A suggestion from Prince Edward that we should be more alert to affiliate W. A.'s Mrs. Spafford said, "A sectional offering might be used for extra missionary emphasis — greater missionary interest in W. A.'s."

Mrs. Nickle felt that their pageant open forum, instead of the story of the year had been helpful in Madoc section.

Mrs. Honan (corresponding secretary) reported in part: The resignation of Mrs. Pennel, secretary of Mission Circles, was received with regret. Mrs. Honan also read a letter from Dr. Winnifred Thomas, now visiting the Presbyterial for their felicitations on the honorary degree given her by her alma Mater, Dr. Thomas felt the W.M.S. and all church women were honored in the honor given her.

Mrs. Honan said she appreciated all friendly notes sent with reports — that we must not rest on our work, can bend our efforts to constructive work for peace.

Anniston Evening Auxiliaries and affiliated W. A.'s had reported in 1945. Bethel, Prince Edward, provides World Friends for all children of school age. Several auxiliaries use Special Objects to create interest. A pamphlet, Special Objects, may be sent for and one selected and then the society could write to Toronto to see if the one they have selected is available.

Mrs. Haggerty (treasurer) report follows in part: Last year's receipts $14,500 (1944), this year's receipts, $16,500.00 (1945). Auxiliaries, $12-708.50 — affiliated Societies, $74.35; Evening Auxiliaries, $1,940. 57. Circles, $224.15. A complete report of Mission Bands and Baby Bands not yet in. 22 life members.

Reports of Mission Bands should state clearly their home address and church. It was decided that Mrs. Fraser be invited to audit the books.

Mrs. Haggerty reported Circles for Mrs. Pennel: three out of eight reported with 111 girls. The best read Circle gets a free book shelf.

Afternoon Session

Worship, Mrs. Mountney opened with: Little by little the world grows strong.

Little by little, in fighting the wrong,
Little by little the wrong gives way.
Little by little truth's dawn is here.

Mrs. Broad read a part of Matthew VI.

Mrs. McCreary said in part: "When individuals are right, the world will be right. Many fanning bees keep the hive fresh, because many wings, moving in unison, make a strong current. If we only had enough fanners! The greatest need is not for wheat, nor gold, nor jobs, but for prayer and a wise use of our time."

Mrs. Bailey (Christian Stewardship) sent out 76 reports. Only 26 out of 64 of the replies reported a missionary for prayer. The most complete report was sent by Mrs. MacMullen from Mt. Pleasant—Rodden. Christian Stewardship was presented mo thly, quarterly or with one entire program—$17,000 had been allocated for 1946. Objectives at least reached their allocation in 1945. Evening Auxiliaries had been allocated separately. All missionaries for prayer are in the Blue Book.

Keen appreciation was expressed for the use of a pleasant and meeting place for the executive in Bridge Street Church, and $5 was voted from the Presbyterial treasury account, as a small payment for its use.

Mrs. Finlay reported C.G.I.T.: 21 groups affiliated, with 222 girls. Gifts of money $89. These girls often took charge of the night lunch at their churches, a valuable contribution. Mrs. Finlay said the W.M.S. vice-presidents for younger groups should contact these groups in their churches and invite them to be affiliated and the auxiliary which has been given a money contribution from them, should report it as such. There are eight new groups this year.

Mrs. Harrison's Mission Band report was given by Mrs. Demp and the Executive learned with regret that Mrs. Harrison was resigning in April. 45 out of 56 Mission Bands reported; 1033 annual and 18 life members; 708 World Friends taken and 28 made quarterly financial reports. Mrs. Harrison suggested that the auxiliary appoint one of its number to visit and help the Mission Band.

Mrs. Alton's Baby Band report was given by Mrs. McCreary. Of 28 Baby Bands, 19 reported 409 members; 23 life members; 4 new Baby Bands. From Tweed Baby Band came $30 from gift boxes.

Literature, Mrs. McCreary, 72 reports received, the best yet. Reading has increased; $56.23 worth of books have been added to libraries this year, $302.18 literature handled. Steward's, the best read society reported.

Mrs. Way, Temperance and Christian Citizenship, 74 out of 85 reports came in, 16 good. Progressive items from reports follow: Letters sent to Members of Parliament, enrolment against use of alcohol in homes; letter to Prime Minister King re the Japanese; health units. Mrs. Way believed that total abstinence should be the centre and objective of every Christian; that education for this should be increasingly promoted with temperance Posts in every Sunday School, and films used.

Miss Worden, Supply Secretary, reported expenses $10.9, allotment $15, sales sent out, most of them picked up at her own door. Cash donations included $3 for a picture for Lake St. Peter Church, on Miss Coulte's and Miss Willow's field. Miss Worden had received 22 quilts and 90 gifts. She now needs mittens, socks and Bibles only; no calls for other supplies. A change of policy necessary for supply work. Mrs. Nickle, Mrs. Broad, that the skills of supply workers in the W.M.S. be directed towards handicrafts. That these should be sold, the money used for the allocation of the individual, society but reported to Miss Worden.

Mrs. Hamilton reported a decrease in World Friends, but some send direct to Toronto. Mrs. Broad reported 209 associate members in 24 auxiliaries heard from: $169.78 from them. Stirling has 69 associate members and $115.42 of the above donated by them.

Plans for Presbyterial are going forward for the first week in April. Mrs. Thompson, 2nd vice-president (Dominion Board) has been invited and Dr. Thomas has been contacted for a missionary speaker. Each departmental secretary will be asked to give a brief report.

Mrs. Haggerty dismissed the group with prayer.

MUSKOX EXPEDITION TO PIERCE ARCTIC

Ottawa — This winter the "Creation of Sam McGee" will have nothing on Exercise Muskox for "strange things done under the midnight sun," as Robert Service aptly puts it. The Muskox expedition will pierce the Arctic circle and the land of the midnight sun in a dozen modern snowmobiles — and receive food and fuel from airplanes whose crews passes will refuse to work near the magnetic pole.

In spite of the combined elements and all the frozen north can offer to oppose civilization's advance, the small party of modern-day explorers will bounce over snow, ice and mud for 3,000 miles in 81 days to emerge with secrets the north has guarded jealously since history began.

If Muskox is successful — and the quality of its men and equipment indicate that it can scarcely be otherwise — Ottawa, besides opening the Arctic, these secrets wrenched from the barren lands will simplify the entrance by land and air onto the mining and forest areas of Canada, where climates are less vigorous and the lure of natural resources all great or greater.

The time for such a scientific expedition is right because stocks of cold weather materials needed by the armed forces for winter warfare are still available . . . cold weather clothing, equipment, vehicles and aircraft. In addition to materials, there is the backlog of methods learned by large-scale air and parachute supply work in Burma and France, and the new techniques for navigating especially by radio. Muskox has had a vanguard in Arctic Exercises Polar Bear, Eskimo and Lemming and the combined experiences of these predecessors will be useful. Finally, because the armed forces have made these tests and because they now have the only trained personnel available the Army and RCAF are the logical choice to conduct Muskox. Civilian scientists and observers will check their findings and establish weather stations along the route.

Pushing off from the present base camp at Churchill, February 14th, the men of Muskox are plunging 900 miles north to the Arctic coast, 900 miles westward, then 1200 miles back up the Mackenzie Valley to Edmonton. The midway point in the trek will be Cambridge Bay with important stops enroute at Eskimo Point, Baker Lake and Perry River. Near Baker Lake the force will pass through the rarely visited land of the Musk-ox . . . the strange animals from whom the exercise has taken its name. Next stage of the route lies over 400 miles of unmapped country between Baker Lake and the Arctic Ocean . . . unmapped except for Back River, which was discovered, travelled and surveyed in 1834 by Capt. Back of the Royal Navy. Although it is as big as the South Saskatchewan River, there has been only one other recorded journey down the Back, since 1834.

Next stop is Perry Riverr where an Eskimo operates the lonely Hudson's Bay Post. After Perry River the trek will cross 50 miles of open ocean ice to the nearest Arctic island, Victoria Island, which is larger than Great Britain. Here at Cambridge Bay, the RCMP ship St. Roche is wintering, the same St. Roche that conquered the Northwest Passage two summers ago. The force will pause for about nine days at this port of call, while a detachment makes its way north to Dermatt Bay to take magnetic observations close to the magnetic pole. During this pause in the schedule, the base forces will leave Churchill for Yellowknife and Norman Wells to be in closer contact with the expedition in the last half of its journey which should be less difficult by comparison.

From Cambridge Bay the force travels 200 miles across the usually smooth ocean ice to Coppermine, then strikes inland to the first trees since leaving Churchill. At Great Bear Lake the force visits the uranium mine at Port Radium.

Spring and break-up will be approaching now with warmth and nearly continuous daylight, and the country will be no longer uninhabited and untravelled. The route lies across the ice of Great Bear Lake to Norman Wells and up the Mackenzie River past Port Simpson to Port Nelson where a tractor trail left from the building of the Canol pipe line. Mud and slush will impede the vehicles now over a tractor trail left from the main Mackenzie and Liard Rivers before the spring break-up and reach the Alcan Highway at Port Nelson late in April. The last 700 miles should see the expedition down the Alcan highway by May 5th.

The snowmobiles or "Penguins" as they have been nick-named by an anonymous draftsman, and the Canadian armoured snowmobiles developed two years ago when 400 were made for a proposed invasion of Norway. On 15 of the 400, armour was come off and a cab substituted to protect the driver and three passengers. Muskox will prove whether or not these are the logical vehicles for the extreme north country.

No. 1 Air Supply Unit of the RCAF Transport Command has undertaken to supply the expedition. Huge, twin engined Dakotas, work - horses of World War two, will fly to the moving forces from bases at Churchill, Yellowknife and Norman Wells. Sections of arm dropping crews will drop by parachute 3,800 pounds of fuel and supplies daily — weather permitting. Their flights will be supplemented by single - engined Norsemen on skis.

SERIOUS DAMAGE DONE BY WINDSTORM IN NAPANEE AREA

Young Man Injured Buildings Damaged

The 70-mile-an-hour gale which swept across Ontario last Thursday, did considerable damage in the Napanee District as it did in other parts of the Province.

On the farm of L. H. McCaul, who lives about three miles west of Napanee on No. 2 Highway, part of the roof of a barn and some of the woodsiding were blown off and struck Mr. McCaul's 19-year-old son, Gerald, who was in the barnyard. The injured young man, who was cut about the head and had his shoulder crushed, was taken to Kingston General Hospital for X-ray examination and for treatment.

On the Hunter Farm, now owned by Clarence Milligan, on the outskirts of Napanee, a shed about 24 ft. and 30 ft. blew over and struck and killed a valuable steer, in the barnyard.

A lumber storage shed at The Beaver Lumber Company in Napanee, was toppled over when the wind lifted it from its foundation. A plate glass window at the Daly Tea Company Office, which had been cracked, fell out on the street, and at Marsh's Feed Store, the brick front of the building was loosened from the roof and will have to be removed and rebuilt. Several chimneys were reported to have been toppled over, and large branches of trees were broken off and in some localities quite large trees were also twisted off. Shingles from barns and parts of roofs of buildings were also reported to have been ripped off by the wind.

The roof on a barn on the farm of Marshal Barnhart, near Hay Bay, was reported to have been blown off. At the residence of Earl Dier, who lives on the Hambury Road, just outside of Napanee, part of the brick on one of the gables were blown in and fell through the ceiling of one of the bedrooms of the household. Besides the damage to the building, the house was filled with mortar and plaster dust.

In Deseronto, Dr. McVicker had parked his car in front of a residence while he was making a call and his wife phoned that she wished to use the car. Just after she had driven away with it, a large tree beside where the car had been parked blew over and would have badly damaged the car had it been still parked there.

During the morning the Hydro power was interrupted a number of times.

LEGION PROPOSES TO GET BUILDING FOR CLUB QUARTERS

At a special meeting of the local branch of the Canadian Legion, it was voted unanimously that the branch purchase a building to use at its own quarters. The meeting was presided over by the second vice-president, S. D. Goodridge, and was held last Wednesday night. There was a good turnout of members.

It was also voted unanimously that an appeal to the public be made for donations towards the purchasing of a building; that a dance be held next month; as a means of raising funds, and also that the Branch should purchase the Wales Building, if and when it can finance the purchase of the property.

It was also decided that the President be empowered to appoint a special finance committee to device ways and means of raising funds for the purchase of an appropriate building.

OWAD DISMISSED CHARGE OF BATH BANK ROBBERY

John Owad, Windsor, who was held in custody in the County Gaol in Napanee for the past two or three weeks, was released on Thursday of last week, when Magistrate Garvin dismissed the charge of armed robbery of The Royal Bank, at Bath, on August 20th, 1946, under which he had been arrested.

K. S. Ham, Crown Attorney, said that while there was quite good circumstantial evidence against Owad, he did not consider the evidence was sufficient to warrant putting the County to the expense of a trial.

Owad was represented by a Windsor lawyer when he appeared before Magistrate Garvin and after his release, left later in the afternoon for his home in Windsor.

NAPANEE LIONS HEAR ROSS WINTER AT "EDUCATION NIGHT"

Splendid Address Given by Director of Adult Education

Annual "Education Night" of the Lions Club of Napanee was held on Monday evening of this week, at the Superior Tea Room and about 125 guests and members were present to enjoy one of the most successful evenings the Club has had since its inception.

Following the dinner, the president, Lion "Bill" Barrett, turned the meeting over to the programme Lion Percival Smith, chairman of the committee in charge of the evening's entertainment. Mr. Smith welcomed the guests on behalf of the Club and called upon the heads of the various school staffs and organizations present, to introduce the members under their jurisdiction.

Public School Principal, Mr. W. L. Bell, introduced the teachers of the Public Schools, Major C. E. Jamieson, the staff of the N. C. V. I., Mrs. Findlater, president of the Home and School Association, introduced the officers of that organization. The members of the Board of Education were called upon by chairman J. M. Simpson, K.C., and Mayor Chalk was introduced by chairman Gerald Smith.

The initial part of the program took the form of an impromptu quiz, with Lions Ward Wartman, Ed. Calver, "Hap" Hatton, Percy Asselstine and Harry Moore taking part. Their prompt and humorous answers provoked a great deal of laughter.

The next item was a duet, "Our Maid Remembers," with Mrs. W. V. Drury, Mervyn Owen, Bert Seymour, Wm. Brady and Gordon Mac-Gregor taking part. This item was another impromptu affair and was greatly enjoyed by all, the accompanist on the akit the quartette sang one or two numbers.

Following the above, Mrs. Drury rendered a humorous solo which drew gales of laughter from those present.

At the conclusion of the musical portion of the program, the chairman called upon the guest speaker, Lion Chief Langford, Public School Inspector, to introduce Mr. Ross Winter, O. B. E., recently appointed head of the Provincial Board on Adult Education for Ontario.

Mr. Langford, in his remarks paid tribute to the speaker for the high award, and also to the contribution he has made in the promotion of education, particularly in the R.C.A.F. from the time of his enlistment in 1942, until his recent discharge. He also drew to the attention of the audience that Mr. Winter received his early education in the Township of Richmond, Carleton County, and graduated from Queen's in Kingston.

MR. WINTER'S ADDRESS

In his opening remarks, Mr. Winter spoke of the valuable work done by the Home and School Associations, particularly of this community during war time and urged that these efforts be continued on during the period of transition from war to peace. He pointed out the vast changes in the mode of living and the definite advances in the various phases of life—particularly in the promotion of education. The speaker used as an example the giant program of education promoted by the R.C.A.F. and the other services, during the war. The basic factors in this program were to provide training in the various trades, cooperation and team work, particularly among aircrew. The value of repeated courses to keep the enlisted men abreast of the times was also compared with similar courses provided by the various technical departments, available to those engaged in the "civilian army."

Mr. Winter then drew the attention of the audience to the high ideals, the spirit and the leadership of the British peoples during the bombing of the British Isles and the unity of purpose that was present during those trying times. He spoke of the confidence the people had in their leaders and the benefit derived from far-sighted planning and training.

The need for further planning, Mr. Winter said, was as great if not greater in peace time than it was during the days of strife. Properly planned adjustments and events and the acceptance by the people at the grassroots level, would pay large dividends later on. He also spoke of the lack of bare necessities of life, so evident on the continent of Europe, and the definite need for further rationing in the more fortunate countries.

In comparing the need for planning in peace, as well as war, Mr. Winter spoke of the multitude of details gathered in order to invade the actual beaches of Italy and General Eisenhower and his staff accomplished by team-work and planning.

In the transition from war to peace Mr. Winter said there is bound to be unrest. The sudden change from fellowship in the Armed Forces to civilian life was abrupt and he urged his listeners to make an effort to help veterans rehabilitate themselves, by providing the community spirit which was so evident in the Forces. The Canadians, he said, had the advantage over practically all other nations of being able to adapt themselves to nearly all conditions overseas.

Mr. Winter suggested a comprehensive and effective program be instituted on a community basis in order that all may know what is going on and to remedy that which is not being done. Attention, he said, must be paid to the young men and women just out of school.

The speaker enlightened his audience as to the plans of the department of which he is the head, and the methods and set-up now in force.

At the conclusion of the address, Lion John Diamond was called upon to thank Mr. Winter for the splendid address which he had given.

25-YEAR BUTTONS PRESENTED TO FORESTER MEMBERS

On Wednesday evening at the regular meeting of Court Lennox No. 78, Canadian Order of Foresters, which was presided over by Almon Douglas, Chief Ranger, A. M. Jones of Smith's Falls, a member of the executive of High Court, was present and had the honor of presenting 25-year membership buttons to several who have been members for 25 years or more. The number to receive buttons was quite a lengthy one, but several could not be present.

Those receiving the buttons were the following and the years which they joined the Court: — James Magee, 1859; G. T. Walters, 1899; W. E. Vine, 1900; John Dyle, 1902; W. S. Exley, 1904; S. D. Davey, 1906; Marshall Hudson, 1901; Almon Douglas, 1902; W. Sage Nelson, 1905; A. M. Black, 1907; Luke Young, 1912; Thomas A. Anderson, 1910; Harold Richardson, the Rev. Noble Hatton, the present Scout Leader in Napanee, and Fred Barnett the Cub Leader.

Mrs. Platt, who spoke on girl guiding, was introduced by Mrs. Asselstine. She briefly reviewed the history of the Girl Guide movement, which was instituted in England in 1909 by Lord Baden-Powell, and was started in Canada in 1910, and at present has a world membership of 2,000,000. The guides, she said, have a great deal to offer in helping to solve present day world problems. The greatest thing they have to offer, she declared, was training youth for good citizenship. The Guide Leaders aim to train young people to carry out their responsibilities in the realm of the spiritual, moral, mental, physical and social. The guides have ten laws based on the ten commandments. They seek to promote a healthy competition and stress a respect for authority, which is absolutely necessary for good citizenship.

Mrs. Platt urged Rotary to encourage the guides in every way possible.

Mr. Poole, who was introduced by E. C. Hogarth, spoke briefly of the life of Baden-Powell, whom he characterized as an outstanding christian, a distinguished gentleman, and a great patriot. The aims of the movement are more in need of being stressed today than ever before, he said. This week is a week of dedication, of advertising and celebration of Boy Scouts and Guides, Mr. Poole stated, and expressed his regret at being unable to continue as Scout Leader.

Rev. Noble Hatton spoke briefly, thanking the Club for its recognition of Boy Scout Week and bespeaking for the Scouts the support of the Rotary Club.

ROTARIANS ENTERTAIN NAPANEE LEADERS SCOUTS AND GUIDES

Scouts and Guide Week Now Being Observed

The Napanee Rotary Club had as guests at the Tuesday luncheon this week leaders of the Girl Guides and Boy Scouts, and heard addresses in connection with Scout and Guide Week, which is being observed this week, by Mrs. Platt, of Kingston, Area Commissioner for Eastern Ontario, and Verk Poole, until recently Scout Master in Napanee. Among the guests were also Mrs. W. P. Asselstine, a Counsellor of the Napanee Girl Guides; Mrs. W. S. Wilson, District Commissioner of the Guides, Rev. Noble Hatton, the present Scout Leader in Napanee, and Fred Barnett the Cub Leader.

Mrs. Platt, who spoke on girl guiding, was introduced by Mrs. Asselstine. She briefly reviewed the history of the Girl Guide movement, which was instituted in England in 1909 by Lord Baden-Powell, and was started in Canada in 1910, and at present has a world membership of 2,000,000. The guides, she said, have a great deal to offer in helping to solve present day world problems. The greatest thing they have to offer, she declared, was training youth for good citizenship. The Guide Leaders aim to train young people to carry out their responsibilities in the realm of the spiritual, moral, mental, physical and social. The guides have ten laws based on the ten commandments. They seek to promote a healthy competition and stress a respect for authority, which is absolutely necessary for good citizenship.

Mrs. Platt urged Rotary to encourage the guides in every way possible.

Mr. Poole, who was introduced by E. C. Hogarth, spoke briefly of the life of Baden-Powell, whom he characterized as an outstanding christian, a distinguished gentleman, and a great patriot. The aims of the movement are more in need of being stressed today than ever before, he said. This week is a week of dedication, of advertising and celebration of Boy Scouts and Guides, Mr. Poole stated, and expressed his regret at being unable to continue as Scout Leader.

Rev. Noble Hatton spoke briefly, thanking the Club for its recognition of Boy Scout Week and bespeaking for the Scouts the support of the Rotary Club.

At the close refreshments were served.

THE I. O. D. E. Second War Memorial Fund Campaign

The following announcement is made public from the Dominion Headquarters of the Imperial Order Daughters of the Empire in the Dominion of Canada.

Similar in purport to the Memorial part of which is still functioning) established by the Imperial Order Daughters of the Empire at the conclusion of the First Great War, a Second War Memorial will be inaugurated by the Order on its "Founder's Day," 13th of February next, for which the sum of $300,000 will be required.

Like its predecessor for which approximately half a million dollars was also provided, the new Memorial is being launched with the object of furnishing bursaries in Canadian Universities for sons and daughters of men and women who during the Second Great War, died in the service of their country or suffered permanent disabling injuries. It is expected that another project will be to establish post-graduate scholarships to selected students for study in universities in any part of the British Empire.

In the First War Memorial 25 sons and daughters of deceased or permanently disabled men of the Services were each given four-year bursaries, valued at $1,200.00, in Canadian Universities, and 145 post-graduate scholarships grants from $1,400.00 to $1,600.00 were made to students, selected for their outstanding ability, to give them the privilege of one year's study in a British University overseas. The last Bursary awards were made in 1937 because it was estimated that after the date the children of veterans of the First War would not be eligible for entrance to college, but post graduate scholarships form a continuing part of the First War Memorial.

The desire of the Order to make post-graduate scholarships of advantage to Canada as well as to the Empire is set forth in a paragraph of the memoranda sent to prospective scholars, which reads: "All Imperial Order Daughters of the Empire scholars shall return if possible to Canada to live and if we have given the funds to live and study for the completion of a course in British Universities. Nearly all the scholars benefitting from the First I.O.D.E. War Memorial now participate in the professional and business life of the Dominion, one is the wife of the President of a University, several are authors, some are lawyers, some are clergymen, some are in the medical and radio work or on some other phase of creative professional or commercial life."

The urge to memorialize the soldier dead is old and deep. Such a memorial takes the form of educational benefit are of more recent vintage. The Imperial Order Daughters of the Empire serve to combine in their effect reverence for the dead with gratitude to those who will have to bear physical suffering for their lifetime as a result of war and a sense of responsibility to the dependents of a these brave men.

IN HIGH PLACES

Mr. Harold Ickes, who was Secretary of the Interior in President Roosevelt's Cabinet, and who continued to hold the same office in President Truman's Cabinet, has resigned under circumstances which have startled the United States and have caused serious misgivings with respect to the present administration. The trouble arose when the President appointed Edwin W. Pauley, Under-Secretary of Navy. The appointment has to be ratified by the Senate. Mr. Ickes was asked to testify before the Senate Committee on Mr. Pauley's appointment. He informed the President that he had been notified to appear before the Committee, and reports that the President said: "tell the truth, but be kind to Mr. Pauley." Well, Mr. Ickes told the truth and in the telling of it, reported that Mr. Pauley, in a conversation, had suggested a line of policy on condition that Mr. Pauley would pay into the party funds $300,000. When asked what he thought of Mr. Ickes' statement before the Senate, the President is reported to have said Mr. Ickes might have been mistaken.

That was enough for Mr. Ickes. He at once held a Press conference and told the reporters what he thought of the President. He would have no one challenge his honesty and integrity even if that someone should be Mr. Truman, himself. There was little left for Mr. Ickes to do but to resign, which he did, setting a date for the resignation to take effect a couple of weeks later. The President answered and suggested the resignation take effect in two days, to which Mr. Ickes replied that, a person who had been in office thirteen years ought to be able to get out in two days.

In brief, that is the story. It has had wide repercussions, because the integrity of a trusted public servant is involved. We, in this country are not in a position to pass judgment on this issue. But in the United States, the Press of all Parties is frankly disturbed. The issue is seen, not only as an ordinary Cabinet shuffle, but a real crisis, which will have wide-reaching effects, even down to the next presidential election. Writing of it in "The Christian Sience Monitor," Roscoe Drummond says:

"Mr. Ickes is leaving the Truman Administration on an issue of integrity in government and personal veracity. And in this area of conduct Mr. Ickes' reputation overshadows any Federal public official of the thirteen years he has served; friend and foe will so testify. When Mr. Ickes says that the President's nominee for Undersecretary of the Navy, Edwin W. Pauley, tried to coerce him to drop the tidewater oil suit on the ground that it would scare off party contributions from California oil men, the country is disposed to believe Mr. Ickes—and not Mr. Pauley or Robert E. Hannegan or even Mr. Truman's own gentle "Ickes might be wrong" rebuttal.

The encouraging feature of the whole episode is that the nation is aroused over an issue which challenges the integrity of a public servant. The people, in spite of all that is said about them, still demand honesty of its public men.

MOLT, CLUCK OR CACKLE?

Press dispatches tell of a new breed of hen. It is not the sort with which we, here in the poultry district, are familiar. It is a steel hen — a big one—the invention of a certain Robert G. LeTourneau, of Longview, Texas. It is described as a vehicle thirty feet square with a motor in front, travelling on rubber tires. It rolls on a building lot, lays a foundation, pours the concrete walls and nestles over the spot for 24 hours or until the cement hardens. Then it chugs away to lay another house, while experts put glass in the windows of the first.

It all sounds so interesting and intriguing. We've been wondering, though, whether it clucks, molts or cackles. If it is a success and the results accepted by the public, the purchaser will probably shed his feathers and everything else he has when the bill is presented; the old machine will probably cluck as it finishes one house and moves to a new nest, while Mr. Robert G. LeTourneau will do the cackling as he rakes in the shekles. Having settled this we are still wondering who will do the crowing?

ONE STRIKE SETTLED

The strikes which have stalled the reconversion plans in the United States, and because of the relationship between industry in Canada and The United States have affected business here, are in process of settlement. The strike in The United States Steel Corporation was settled on Saturday. The blast furnaces and open hearths will be fired as quickly as possible. "Probably, within a couple of weeks, the mills will start to roll. The main feature of the settlement of the greatest work stoppage in United States history, as given by The United Press, are:

The TERMS: 18½ cents an hour, beginning Monday, with a retroactive payment of 9¼ cents an hour for work performed since January 1st. The USW - CIO originally asked a 25-cent raise.

WEEKLY WAGE: The new hourly rate of 1.24½ gives $49.80 for a 40-hour week, compared with $55.12 for a 48-hour week when the straight hourly rate was $1.06.

WORKERS IMMEDIATELY AFFECTED: 130,000 employees of five U. S. Steel Corporation subsidiaries.

OTHERS INVOLVED: 325,000 in 80 other basic steel companies and 300,000 employees of 700 manufacturers of steel products and other companies under contract with the USW.

COST: 6,000,000 tons of steel and $169,000,000 in wages.

ANNUAL INCREASE: $185,000,000 in the basic steel industry and nearly $300,000,000 for all USW members.

The strike which lasted twenty-six days did not achieve all that was hoped for. The men received a raise in wages. But the Corporation also received the right to raise the price of steel $5.00 a ton. The President had said, that according to his Fact Finding Committee, the increase in the price of steel was not justified. Yet, when the settlement was made, this increase was permitted.

The work will now go on. The result may be quite the reverse of what was expected. If the increase in wages and in steel merely go to increase the price of goods to the consumer, then the much dreaded inflationary spiral will have been given another twist.

Wages and cost of material cannot keep on increasing for ever. Some day they will tumble as we learned to our sorrow in 1929. Better a thousand times that wages and cost of products be strictly controlled than that we should go through another recession such as marked the thirties. Canada will do well to keep her controls for quite a while yet!

THE SPY RING

One of the revelations which came to light during the war was the unfair use made by the Nazis of their diplomatic service. It was shown that before the war German Embassies in various countries were the centres of information gathering agencies. These were conducted in such a manner as to be virtual espionage enterprises. So that when the war broke out the Nazis were fortified with all manner of material to aid them in their conflict.

If any suspicion of that sort of thing is going on with other nations, it should be, at once, cleared up. It would appear from the meagre amount of factual material that has come out from Ottawa, that there has been some espionage going on, somewhere. Apparently, some officials in the Canadian service are involved. They have been shadowed for some time and finally apprehended. Who they are, and just what they have done, and how much secret information they have imparted to the Russians, is not known to the public. But the announcement that there has been a commission appointed, and that the results of the commission's findings will be made public, is reassuring.

Apparently, the move on the part of the Dominion Government when it apprehended the public servants, was known to both Great Britain and The United States. It is altogether likely that there may be espionage rings in both these countries, and Canada, in bringing the matter out into the open, was doing so in the interest of all three nations. It will be a good thing for all concerned, including the Russians themselves, if early in the post-war era it is discovered that it does not pay to abuse diplomatic privileges.

PRISONERS-OF-WAR RETURN TO BRITAIN

The announcements that prisoners-of-war were being returned to Britain have caused some anxiety on the part of those directing projects where prisoners-of-war are presently engaged in Canada. Accordingly the Minister of Labour, the Honourable Mumphrey Mitchell, felt that a statement on the question was desirable.

Approximately 33,000 prisoners-of-war have been in Canada under the custody of the Canadian Government, which Government has been acting in this regard as an agent for the British Government. Almost all Canadians will be quite in accord with the idea of meeting the request of the British Government that the prisoners be returned to Europe. The only concern is in regard to the minority which is being used on work projects.

Out of 33,000 prisoners-of-war it was not felt desirable to use more than 11,000 on work projects. The reason that more were not used on work projects was due to the fact that they were of the type who would not prove satisfactory to the employers and would be more of a nuisance than a benefit. It has been felt necessary to keep the majority under close custody in internment camps.

The working parties have given, on the whole, excellent satisfaction. Briefly, the plan under which they have been used, is to give the prisoner himself the credit of 50 cents per day and require the employer to pay the going rate of wages. This has worked out very satisfactorily in certain industries where other manpower was not available and where the manpower available showed great reluctance to take on the jobs. The plan has been so successful that it has been quite a productive source of revenue for the Dominion Government. During the current fiscal year a total revenue of over $2,000,000 will be paid to the Federal Treasury from this source.

Prisoners-of-war have been used for lumbering and logging — pulpwood cutting — manufacture of bricks in brickyards and the cultivation of sugar beets. In all of these industries it is usually quite difficult to interest workmen when other employment is available.

The Department of Labour has consistently followed the practice of not using prisoners-of-war unless it has been proven quite definitely that the situation could not be met from the usual labour market.

In sending prisoners back from Canada it has been arranged with the British Government that the working parties will be sent last which means that there will be no danger of disturbing the prisoners who are working in lumber camps until after the winter season is over unless they can be replaced with ordinary civilian labour. The requirement has been placed with employers using prisoners-of-war that they must keep orders for men in our Employment Offices. In this way it is assured that prisoners-of-war will not be used to fill jobs and block Canadian workmen from employment.

Representations have been made from the Canadian Agriculture Association — farmers usually cultivate sugar beets and the Sugar Controller and operators of sugar plants. All these representations have emphasized the good work done by prisoners-of-war during the last three years and have expressed a fear of reduction in production if prisoners-of-war are not retained in Canada.

The Minister of Labour stated, "no one is more concerned than the Canadian Government in keeping the production of food from our farms and sugar from our sugar beet crops up to a high level and those who have worked so hard in these industries during the war years may be confident that the planning and co-operation of the Labour Department will be continued during the transition period and, indeed, during the years to come. Already plans are being made in respect to the farm labour situation of 1946, and I am quite confident that labour will be made available to put in the crops and that the tremendous task of harvesting them will be carried through during 1946 as was the case in previous difficult years."

The Minister went on to say: "Specifically in regard to the minority of prisoners-of-war who were used in work parties it is my intention to review the whole situation in the light of the requirements, about the last of April, 1946, and if necessary, I will not overlook the possibility of applying to the British Government the removal of the comparatively small number of prisoners-of-war who have been engaged in work parties be allowed to remain in Canada for a longer period." It should not be overlooked, however, the Minister further pointed out, that work parties are badly needed in Britain for that country's reconstruction programme."

One of the plans which the Labour Department is proceeding with is the circularizing immediately all farmers, urging them to employ their help now rather than wait until next summer when it might be hard to get.

PRICES BOARD AIDS VETERANS GETTING START IN BUSINESS

BY ARTHUR EDDINGTON
Wartime Prices and Trade Board

Canadian veterans to-day are putting into action ideas for business hopefully thought out during long years of war. With the help of Wartime Prices and Trade Board and other agencies, they are quickly turning their hopes into something more concrete than just ideas.

ADVICE GIVEN

With the problem of financing fully investigated with DVA representatives, and if the veterpn is fairly certain he can get a place of business, he should get in touch with the nearest local office of the Prices Board for a licence. Here he will be given help in every possible way and advised about supplies for his proposed business. He will also be told about price ceilings and the maximum legal charges he can make for his goods or services. Veterans get priority at the Prices Board Office.

On December 1st, 1945, the Board helped the returning veteran by simplifying the procedure for new entrants into business. All that is required now is a license, and these are issued readily, except for lines involving industrial sugar quotas or the use of irrem corn. Even in these fields, special arrangements have been made to help ex-servicemen.

A recent check-up shows that 96.7 per cent of applications for licences received from ex-servicemen have been granted. With few exceptions, licences are now issued directly from Regional Offices of the Board, speeding up the work through more personal contact with the applicant.

By revising its policy governing distribution of goods in short supply, the Prices Board took another step to help the veteran get into a business of his own. September 15, 1945, the Prices Board modified its equitable distribution policy to allow new entrants some share of goods in short supply, and thereby assisted in the re-establishment of demobilized persons. Early in October the equitable distribution policy was further modified so that manufacturers can now supply many commodities to old or new customers without any Board distribution restrictions.

FREE OTHER GOODS

Other goods have been partially freed for new entrants into business. In the case of these goods suppliers must distribute 80 per cent. of their production to basic period — 1941—customers, but can use the other 20 per cent. to fill any order they wish. As a result, Veterans setting up businesses are eligible to obtain a fair supply of goods, such as certain food stuffs, machinery, hardware, dry goods, textiles, drugs, underwear, novelties, tobacco and sporting goods.

As an example of how servicemen are rehabilitating themselves, during the past six months the National Field Offices of the WVTB aided over 5,000 Veterans into business. From the months of June to November, 1945, 731 re-entered the line of business they left upon enlistment. These special category veterans received preference with relation to a quota of goods in short supply. During that same period, 4,861 started as manufacturers, wholesalers, retailers and other types of business. Every application for a licence is judged solely on its merits.

In summing up, the following is the procedure generally carried out:

(1) Check your re - establishment credit with DVA representative, and see how it can best be applied to the type of business you wish to enter.

(2) Go to the nearest Prices Board office and discuss freely the type of business you have chosen. Be sure you have a proposed site and suppliers for your business.

(3) Obtain your licence and the release of your re-establishment credit which you intend to use for your business.

(4 Get cracking!

INTERNATIONAL SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON, FEBRUARY 24TH, 1946

"HOME FOUNDATIONS FOR NATIONAL GREATNESS"
Lesson Text: Deuteronomy 6: 4-12

The first section of today's lesson is known amongst the Hebrews as 'shema.' The Hebrew word for heaven is "shema," and as this passage is considered one of the most important in the Bible, the Hebrews call the passage after the first word of the sentence. These words are taught to every Jewish child. They form the basis of his whole religious life and his ethical code.

"Jehovah is one God." We have been hearing a great deal in recent years about "one world." Modern means of travel and communications have eliminated space and time. We are all in it together. Whatever affects one part affects another. The corollary of this is also true. If we are all in one world we are all brothers, then we are all sons and daughters of One God. This is a truth long ago taught by the Hebrews but the truth of which we are only now beginning to see. Even yet, the full implications of the concept have not begun to dawn upon us. There is race prejudice aplenty, and class prejudice. There are bitterness and intolerance, based on these distinctions, which bid fair to wreck our post-war world. On the basis of one God and one world, only will it be possible to establish lasting peace.

The Hebrews were enjoined to memorize these concepts, and to practise them. Indeed, the Jews obeyed literally the command to bind them as prophets before their eyes. In little square boxes worn on the square, they inserted certain passages of scripture, including the shema and fastened it on the forarm and on the forehead. At first this was a sign of real devotion, but later it became a method of parading piety and was condemned as such, by Jesus.

In the last section of the lesson the writer urges the people to guard against forgetting God. He points out the danger of riches. There is always the danger that when people become prosperous they will forget God. That was what the writer warns against. It is a warning we have needed, long since. In our own way we learned to conquer the forces of nature, to use them for our own purposes. We made ourselves — so we thought — quite independent. We thought we could live without God. But the war threw us back on fundamentals. Even men not specialists in religious matters, are now telling us that the solution for all our problems is a religious solution. We can have peace — only as we have a religious basis for it.

This all goes back to the home. The world is suffering now from an outburst of juvenile delinquency it has not known in our time. The family life is breaking down. Children are not taken to Sunday School by their parents. The result is a generation marked by teen age robberies, and worse.

The home is the basis of our moral and social life. It must be builded on mutual trust, love and good will. In other words, it must have a religious foundation. We have come to a period in which it was taught in certain areas that morals had nothing to do with religion. Experience of a century should maintain that children are but animals and can be taught to do the decent thing in little matters, apart from religion. That may be well enough for a theory, but as a means of creating the good life it fails. Morality, unless based on religion, is like a house without a foundation. The home which is the corner stone of the state, must be permeated with the love of God, if it is to meet the stress and strain of human experience.

The 'Queen Elizabeth's' "Comeback"

The eighty - five thousand tons "Queen Elizabeth", the world's largest liner, will by autumn be ready for the luxury passenger traffic for which she was built but never used. Within the next two months she will complete her last war job — taking American soldiers home — and then she will have six months' overhaul and refit. The first part of the renovation will be done at Gourock on the Clyde, where John Brown, the ship's builders, will complete the structural work halted when it was decided to convert her for troop-carrying. The boards over the swimming pools will be removed, and where soldiers slept elaborate cocktail bars will reappear. The builders will also give the ship a complete engineering overhaul, testing her turbine blades, four thousand feet of oil piping from bunkers to furnaces, and many miles of electric cables. Painting, refurnishing and restocking will be done at Southampton. Elaborate fixtures and other wall decorations boarded up while the ship was carrying troops, are in good condition.

The regular monthly meeting of the Selby Auxiliary of the W. M. S. was held in the Sunday School rooms on Thursday afternoon, February 7, with sixteen present. In closing the business, Mrs. Rose mentioned the World's Day of Prayer to be March 8th. Mrs. Amey called on four readers to answer questions in readings on diseases of Africa; papers were read by Mrs. Rose, Mrs. Merrick, Mrs. McLeod, Mrs. R. Denison, followed by a paper on the mission of Christian Principles by Mrs. A. Prisken. A solo was enjoyed by Mrs. A. Sexsmith and Mrs. George Robinson read a paper. A hymn was sung in the worship service and while standing, prayers were offered by Mrs. Merrick, Mrs. McConnell and Mrs. Prisken. The offering was received by Mrs. D. McCutcheon and is dedicated by Mrs. Rose, closing hymn was followed by prayer by Mrs. Amey, who also thanked all who helped her with the programme.

IN HIGH PLACES

Mr. Harold Ickes, who was Secretary of the Interior in President Roosevelt's Cabinet, and who continued to hold the same office in President Truman's Cabinet, has resigned under circumstances which have stirred the United States and have caused serious misgivings with respect to the present administration. The trouble arose when the President appointed Edwin W. Pauley, Under-Secretary of Navy. The appointment has to be ratified by the Senate. Mr. Ickes was asked to testify before the Senate Committee on Mr. Pauley's appointment. He informed the President that he had been notified to appear before the Committee, and reports that the President said: "tell the truth, but be kind to Mr. Pauley." Well, Mr. Ickes told the truth and in the telling of it, reported that Mr. Pauley, in a conversation, had suggested a line of policy on condition that Mr. Pauley would pay into the party funds $300,000. When asked what he thought of Mr. Ickes' statement before the Senate, the President is reported to have said Mr. Ickes might have been mistaken.

That was enough for Mr. Ickes. He at once held a Press conference and told the reporters what he thought of the President: He would have no one challenge his honesty and integrity even if that someone should be Mr. Truman, himself. There was little left for Mr. Ickes to do but to resign, which he did, setting a date for the resignation to take effect a couple of weeks later. The President answered and suggested the resignation take effect in two days, to which Mr. Ickes replied that, a person who had been in office thirteen years ought to be able to get out in two days.

In brief, that is the story. It has had wide repercussions, because the integrity of a trusted public servant is involved. We, in this country are not in a position to pass judgment on this issue. But in the United States, the Press of all Parties is frankly disturbed. The issue is seen, not only as an ordinary Cabinet shuffle, but a real crisis, which will have wide-reaching effects, even down to the next presidential election. Writing of it in "The Christian Sience Monitor," Roscoe Drummond says: "Mr. Ickes is leaving the Truman Administration on an issue of integrity in government and personal veracity. And in this area of conduct Mr. Ickes' reputation overshadows any Federal public official of the thirteen years he has served; friend and foe will so testify. When Mr. Ickes says that the President's nominee for Undersecretary of the Navy, Edwin W. Pauley, tried to coerce him to drop the tidewater oil suit on the ground that it would scare off party contributions from California oil men, the country is disposed to believe Mr. Ickes—and not Mr. Pauley or Robert E. Hannegan or even Mr. Truman's own gentle "Ickes might be wrong" rebuttal.

The encouraging feature of the whole episode is that the nation is aroused over an issue which challenges the integrity of a public servant. The people, in spite of all that is said about them, still demand honesty of its public men.

MOLT, CLUCK OR CACKLE?

Press dispatches tell of a new breed of hen. It is not the sort with which we, here in the poultry district, are familiar. It is a steel hen — a big one—the invention of a certain Robert G. LeTourneau, of Longview, Texas. It is described as a vehicle thirty feet square with 4 motor in front, travelling on rubber tires. It rolls on a building lot, lays a foundation, pours the concrete walls and nestles over the same for 24 hours or until the cement hardens. Then it chugs away to lay another house, while experts put glass in the windows of the first.

It all sounds so interesting and intriguing. We've been wondering, though, whether it clucks, molts or cackles. If it is a success and the results accepted by the public, the purchaser will probably shed his feathers and everything else he has when the bill is presented; the old machine will probably cluck as it finishes one house and moves to a new nest, while Mr. Robert G. LeTourneau will do the cackling as he rakes in the shekles. Having settled this we are still wondering who will do the crowing?

ONE STRIKE SETTLED

The strikes which have stalled the reconversion plans in the United States, and because of the relationship between industry in Canada and The United States have affected business here, are in process of settlement. The strike in The United States Steel Corporation was settled on Saturday. The blast furnaces and open hearths will be fired as quickly as possible. Probably, within a couple of weeks, the mills will start to roll. The main feature of the settlement of the greatest work stoppage in United States history, as given by The United Press, are:

THE TERMS: 18½ cents an hour, beginning Monday, with a retroactive payment of 9½ cents an hour for work performed since January 1st. The USW-CIO originally asked a 25-cent raise.

WEEKLY WAGE: The new hourly rate of 1.24½ gives $49.80 for a 40-hour week, compared with $55.12 for a 48-hour week when the straight hourly rate was $1.06.

WORKERS IMMEDIATELY AFFECTED: 130,000 employees of five U. S. Steel Corporation subsidiaries.

OTHERS INVOLVED: 325,000 in 80 other basic steel companies and 300,000 employees of 700 manufacturers of steel products and other companies under contract with the USW.

COST: 6,000,000 tons of steel and $169,000,000 in wages.

ANNUAL INCREASE: $185,000,000 in the basic steel industry and nearly $300,000,000 for all USW members.

The strike which lasted twenty-six days did not achieve all that was hoped for. The men received a raise in wages. But the Corporation also received the right to raise the price of steel $5.00 a ton. The President had said, that according to his Fact Finding Committee, the increase in the price of steel was not justified. Yet, when the settlement was made, this increase was permitted.

The work will now go on. The result may be quite the reverse of what was expected. If the increase in wages and in steel merely go to increase the price of goods to the consumer, then the much dreaded inflationary spiral will have been given another twist.

Wages and cost of material cannot keep on increasing for ever. Some day they will tumble as we learned to our sorrow in 1929. Better a thousand times that wages and cost of products be strictly controlled than that we should go through another recession such as marked the thirties. — Canada will do well to keep her controls for quite a while yet!

THE SPY RING

One of the revelations which came to light during the war was the unfair use made by the Nazis of their diplomatic service. It was shown that before the war German Embassies in various countries were the centres of information gathering agencies. These were conducted in such a manner as to be virtual espionage enterprises. So that when the war broke out the Nazis were fortified with all manner of material to aid them in their conflict.

If any suspicion of that sort of thing is going on with other nations, it should be, at once, cleared up. It would appear from the meagre amount of factual material that has come out from Ottawa, that there has been some espionage going on, somewhere. Apparently, some officials in the Canadian service are involved. They have been shadowed for some time and finally apprehended. Who they are, and just what they have done, and how much secret information they have imparted to the Russians, is not known to the public. But the announcement that there has been a commission appointed, and that the results of the commission's findings will be made public, is reassuring.

Apparently, the move on the part of the Dominion Government when it apprehended the public servants, was known to both Great Britain and The United States. It is altogether likely that there may be espionage rings in both these countries, and Canada, in bringing the matter out into the open, was doing so in the interest of all three nations. It will be a good thing for all concerned, including the Ruselans themselves, if early in the post-war era it is discovered that it does not pay to abuse diplomatic privileges.

PRISONERS-OF-WAR RETURN TO BRITAIN

The announcements that prisoners-of-war were being returned to Britain have caused some anxiety on the part of those directing projects where prisoners-of-war are presently engaged in Canada. Accordingly the Minister of Labour, the Honourable Mumphrey Mitchell, felt that a statement on the question was desirable.

Approximately 33,000 prisoners-of-war have been in Canada under the custody of the Canadian Government which Government has been acting in this regard as an agent for the British Government. Almost all Canadians will be quite in accord with the idea of meeting the request of the British Government that the prisoners be returned to Europe. The only concern is in regard to the minority which is being used on work projects.

Out of 33,000 prisoners-of-war it was not felt desirable to use more than 11,000 on work projects. The reason that more were not used on work projects was due to the fact that they were of the type who would not prove satisfactory to the employers and would be more of a nuisance than a benefit. It has been felt necessary to keep the majority under close custody in internment camps.

The working parties have given, on the whole, excellent satisfaction. Briefly, the plan under which they have been used, is to give the prisoner himself the credit of 50 cents per day and require the employer to pay the going rate of wages. This has worked out very satisfactorily in certain industries where other manpower not available and where the manpower available showed great reluctance to take on the jobs. The plan has been so successful that it has been quite a productive source of revenue for the Dominion Government. During the current fiscal year a total revenue of over $2,000,000 will be paid to the Federal Treasury from this source.

Prisoners-of-war have been used for lumbering and logging — pulpwood cutting — manufacture of bricks in brickyards and the cultivation of sugar beets. In all of these industries it is usually quite difficult to interest workmen when other employment is available.

The Department of Labour has consistently followed the practice of not using prisoners-of-war unless it has been proven quite definitely that the situation could not be met from the usual labour market.

In sending prisoners back from Canada it has been arranged with the British Government that the working parties will be sent last which means that there will be no danger of disturbing the prisoners who are working in lumber camps until after the winter season is over unless they can be replaced with ordinary civilian labour. The requirement has been passed with employers using prisoners-of-war that they must keep orders for men in our Employment Offices. In this way it is assured that prisoners-of-war will not be used to fill jobs and block Canadian workmen from employment.

Representations have been made from the Canadian Agriculture Association — farmers who usually cultivate sugar beets and the Sugar Controller and growers of sugar plants. All of these representations have emphasized the good work done by prisoners-of-war during the last three years and have expressed a fear of reduction in production if prisoners-of-war are not retained in Canada.

The Minister of Labour stated, "no one is more concerned than the Canadian Government in keeping the production of food from our farms and sugar from our sugar beet crops up to a high level and those who have worked on these industries during the war years may be confident that the planning and co-operation of the Labour Department will be continued during the transition period and, indeed, during the years to follow. Already plans are being made in respect to the farm labour situation of 1946, and I am quite confident that labour will be made available to put in the crops and that the tremendous task of harvesting them will be carried through during 1946 as was the case in previous difficult years."

The Minister went on to say: "Especially in regard to the ministry of prisoners-of-war who were used in work parties it is my intention to review the whole situation in the light of the requirements about the 1st of April, 1946, and if necessary, I will not overlook the possibility of appealing to the British Government requesting that the comparatively small number of prisoners-of-war who have been engaged in work parties be allowed to remain in Canada for a longer period." It should not be overlooked, however, the Minister further pointed out, "that work parties are badly needed in Britain for that country's reconstruction programme."

One of the plans which the Labour Department is proceeding with is, the circularizing immediately all farmers, urging them to employ their help now rather than wait until next summer when it might be hard to get.

PRICES BOARD AIDS VETERANS GETTING START IN BUSINESS

BY ARTHUR EDDINGTON
Wartime Prices and Trade Board

Canadian veterans to-day are putting into action ideas for business hopefully thought out during long years of war. With the help of Wartime Prices and Trade Board and other agencies, they are quickly turning their hopes into something more concrete than just ideas.

ADVICE GIVEN

With the problem of financing fully investigated with DVA representatives, and if the veteran is fairly certain he can get a place of business, he should get in touch with the nearest local office of the Prices Board for a licence. Here he will be given help in every possible way and advised about supplies for his proposed business. He will also be told about price ceilings and the maximum legal charges he can make for his goods or services. Veterans get priority at the Prices Board Office.

On December 1st, 1945, the Board helped the returning veteran by simplifying the procedure for new entrants into business. All that is required now is a licence, and these are issued readily, except for lines involving industrial sugar quotas or the use of broom corn. Even in these fields, special arrangements have been made to help ex-servicemen.

A recent check-up shows that 98.7 per cent of applications for licences received from ex-servicemen have been granted. With few exceptions, licences are now issued directly from Regional Offices of the Board, speeding up the work through more personal contact with the applicant.

By revising its policy governing distribution of goods in short supply, the Prices Board took another step to help the veteran get into a business of his own. September 15, 1945, the Prices Board modified its equitable distribution policy to allow new entrants some share of goods in short supply, and thereby assisted in the re-establishment of demobilized servicemen. Early in October, the equitable distribution policy was further modified so that manufacturers can now supply many commodities to old or new customers without any Board distribution restrictions.

FREE OTHER GOODS

Other goods have been partially freed for new entrants into business. In the case of these goods, suppliers must distribute 80 per cent. of their production to basic period — 1941 — customers, but can use the other 20 per cent. in any order they wish. As a result, Veterans setting up businesses are eligible to obtain a fair supply of goods, such as certain food stuffs, machinery, hardware, dry goods, textiles, drugs, underwear, novelties, tobacco and sporting goods.

As an example of how servicemen are rehabilitating themselves, during the past six months the National Field Offices of the WPTB aided over 5,000 Veterans into business. From the months of June to November, 1945, 731 re-entered the line of business they left upon enlistment. These special category veterans received preference with relation to a quota of goods in short supply. During that same period, 4,961 started as manufactrires, wholesalers, retailers and other types of business. Every application for a licence is judged solely on its merits.

In summing up, the following is the procedure generally carried out:

(1) Check your re - establishment credit with DVA representative, and see how it can best be applied to the type of business you wish to enter.

(2) Go to the nearest Prices Board office and discuss freely the type of business you have chosen. Be sure you have a proposed site and suppliers for your business.

(3) Obtain your licence and the release of your re-establishment credit which you intend to use for your business.

(4 Get cracking!

INTERNATIONAL SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON, FEBRUARY 24TH, 1946

"HOME FOUNDATIONS, FOR, NATIONAL GREATNESS"

Lesson Text: Deuteronomy 6: 4-12

The first section of today's lesson is known among the Hebrews as 'shema'. The Hebrew word for heaven is "shema," and as this passage is considered one of the most important in the Bible, the Hebrews call the passage after the first word of the sentence. These words are taught to every Jewish child. They form the basis of his whole religious life and his ethical code.

"Jehovah is one God." We have been hearing a great deal in recent years about "one world". Modern means of travel and communications have eliminated space and time. We are all in it together. Whatever affects one part affects another. The corollary of this is that we are all in one world and all are brothers, then we are all sons and daughters of One God. This is a truth long ago taught by the Hebrews but the truth of which we are only now beginning to see. Even yet, the full implications of the concept have not begun to dawn upon us. There is race prejudice aplenty, and class prejudice. There are bitterness and intolerance based on these distinctions, which bid fair to wreck our post-war world. On the basis of one God and one world, only will it be possible to establish lasting peace.

The Hebrews were enjoined to memorize these concepts, and to practise them. Indeed, the Jews obeyed literally the command to bind them as prophets bound their eyes. In little square boxes about an inch square, they inserted certain passages of scripture, including the shema and fastened it on the forearm and on the forehead. At first this was a sign of real devotion, but later it became a method of parading piety and was condemned as such, by Jesus.

In the last section of the lesson the writer urges the people to guard against forgetting God. He points out the danger of riches. There is always the danger that when people become prosperous they will forget God. That was what the writer warns against. It is a warning we have needed, long since. In our own day we learned to conquer the forces of nature, to use them for our own purpose. We made ourselves — so we thought — quite independent. We thought we could live without God. But the war throws us back on fundamentals. Even men not specialists in religious matters, are now telling us that the solution for all our problems is a religious solution. We can have peace — only as we have a religious basis for it.

This all goes back to the home. The world is suffering now from an outburst of juvenile delinquency it has not seen in our time. The family life is breaking down. Children are not taken to Sunday School by their parents. The result is a generation marked by teen age robberies, and worse.

The home is the basis of our moral and social life. It must be builded on mutual trust, love and good will. In other words, it must have a religious foundation. We have come through a period in which it was taught in certain areas that morals had nothing to do with religion. Scholars of a certain school maintain that children are but animals and can be taught to do decent thing without relation to religion. That may be well enough for a theory, but as a means of creating the good life, it fails. Morality, unless based on religion, is like a house without a foundation. The home which is the corner stone of the state, must be permeated with the love of God, if it is to meet the stress and strain of human experience.

PRICES AND RATIONS ON 1946 MAPLE CROP UNCHANGED

Ottawa. — Price schedules and ration regulations covering sale of the 1946 output of maple products will remain the same as those governing distribution of the 1945 crop the Prices Board announced this week.

During the main producing season from March 1st to May 31st, each valid sugar - preserves coupon is good for the purchase of two quarts (80 fluid ounces) of maple syrup, or four pounds of sugar. After May 31 the coupon value of maple syrup returns to its normal level of 40 fluid ounces per coupon, but coupon values for sugar remain unchanged throughout the year.

Prices are the same as last year on sales to consumers. The ceiling for producers selling direct to consumers is $3.15 a gallon for Canada light grade, $2.90 for Canada medium, $2.65 for Canada dark, and $2.40 for ungraded syrup, packed in one-gallon metal containers. A premium of 25 cents per gallon above the price of Canada light may be charged for syrup marketed as Canada fancy.

The ceiling price for "farmer's run" bulk maple sugar is unchanged at 22 cents per pound, and the ceiling price for sales to consumers of maple sugar in one-half, one two or four pounds blocks is 35 cents per pound, regardless of who is making the sale.

Consumers buying in person from producers must surrender the requisite number of valid sugar-preserves coupons. Those who buy by mail must obtain purchase vouchers at any local ration board as it is illegal to send loose coupons through the mail.

Producers who sell maple syrup or maple sugar must register with a local ration board, and coupons and other ration documents they acquire must be turned over to their local ration board every month in envelopes provided by the ration administration.

I. O. D. E. BRIDGE SUCCESSFUL EVENT

Under the auspices of the U. E. L. Chapter of the I. O. D. E. a bridge and euchre party was held on Friday afternoon in the Officers' Mess at the Armouries. In spite of the extremely cold weather, there was a very good attendance. The event was opened by the Regent, Mrs. Macnaughton who made a few remarks about the beginning of the Order on February 16th, 1900, praising Mrs. Clarke Murray, a Scots woman, the foundress, who came to Canada to make a new home and who conceived the idea of banding the women and children in an organization to work for their beloved country.

The Second War Memorial Fund which will provide bursaries and scholarships to children of disabled war veterans, was touched upon. The second object of the party was the establishment of a fund of $1.000 to be raised during the year as the Chapter's quota of the $500.000 for this great memorial. The National Anthem followed the few remarks.

At 4.15 a goodly number had gathered to enjoy a delightful tea of dainty sandwiches and cakes. The tea table was attractively arranged with centre piece of sweet peas and tall tapers. STAR DISCOVERS HE MAKES HEARTS THUMP

Brian Donlevy has played many he-man roles during his brilliant screen career, from "What Price Glory," "In Old Chicago" and "Jesse James," right down to "Wake Island" and "Two Yanks in Trinidad," but in his latest picture

An American Romance

IN TECHNICOLOR) — PLAYING AT "THE GRANADA THEATRE" ON WEDNESDAY & THURSDAY, — FEBRUARY 27TH AND 28TH — he discovered something his fans always have known, that he can also make feminine hearts flutter.

It came about during his sequences at the Carnegie-Illinois Steel Corporation in South Chicago, where he was closely surveyed by some 2200 girls who work at the plant, as King Vidor, producer and director of the picture, shot his scenes. They came to watch.

The girls are employed as general laborers, grinders, inspectors, and other types of jobs, and are not a little critical in their tastes, which includes man power. After observing Donlevy in sweaty, rough clothes shoveling fuel into roaring furnaces for several days, their spokesman gave him the stamp of approval.

"We like him," she declared simply, "because he's regular. He acts and even looks like a steel worker."

Ann Richards, young Australian actress, plays opposite the star in the King Vidor story which is a cavalcade of American industry from the turn of the century to the present time. Produced by M-G-M the picture's locales include Pittsburgh, Minnesota, Chicago, Detroit and Los Angeles.

DESMOND Y.P.U.

Desmond Young People's Union met at the home of Mr. Henry Keech on February 11. The president opened the meeting with a hymn, followed by all repeating the Lord's Prayer. The roll call was answered by clippings on Africa that were given out by the convener. The minutes of the last meeting were read and adopted. The missionary convener, Mrs. Victor Drew, took charge of the meeting. Mr. Fred Bell gave the scripture reading. Mrs. Drew took for her topic Missionary Work in Africa. She gave an interesting talk on the Sunday school and camps in Africa. Marguerite Hannah gave a reading on the weddings in Africa. Mrs. Drew spoke of the many great hardships the people of Africa had to stand while at work. Miss Weese read a poem and Mrs. Frank Switzer gave a reading.

The meeting closed by singing a hymn and repeating the Mizpah benediction. The balance of the evening was spent in contests and games.

SILLSVILLE W. A.

The January meeting of Sillsville W. A. in the form of a social evening for the community, was held at the home of Mr. and Mrs. D. B. Sharpe. The president, Mrs. H. M. Hough, opened the meeting by reading a New Year's message written by Bishop Renison. The treasurer's report for the year 1945 showed $14.50 on hand at the beginning of the year, receipts were $137.41, and sale of bond $52.45. The report could not be completed as the bills were not all in. Motions were passed to pay all parsonage bills and for coal for Sillsville church.

A congregational meeting was then conducted by the minister, Rev. H. G. Steers, after which Mr. and Mrs. Harnden delighted all with a musical program and stories. Lunch was then served. $4.85.

SILLSVILLE W. A.

The February meeting of Sillsville W. A. was held at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Bert Windover, on Feb. 12, with a large attendance of members, visitors and children. A pot luck dinner was served at the noon hour, which was both delicious and plentiful. After dinner a quilt was put on the frames and tied, for the Red Cross. With the president in the chair, the meeting came to order by all repeating the Lord's Prayer. Several items of interest were discussed. The minutes of the last meeting were read and accepted and the answer to the roll call at our next meeting is to give a recipe for cake, of your own choice. Some of the young ladies of the W. A. are putting on a play soon, to make money for church purposes.

The meeting closed with the Mizpah benediction and thanks were expressed to Mrs. Windover for the use of her home and to Mrs. D. R. Sharpe for the January meeting. Lunch $4.01.

NEW BOOKS AT THE PUBLIC LIBRARY

The Egg And I — MacDonald
Life on a wilderness chicken ranch, told with wit and high humor. Mrs. MacDonald has a hilarious sense of the ridiculous. If you've forgotten how to laugh, this book is what the doctor ordered.

African Journey — Robeson
A first review of the book says: "Paulda Robeson's journal appears at exactly the right moment. . . In this warmly personal account, she has foreshadowed the mounting crisis in formerly remote regions now vital in the post-war world pattern. . . The informal nature of Mrs. Robeson's style helps lighten what might otherwise be a very grim business."

Principles Of Radio For Operators — Atherton.
Based on the author's extensive experience in training men for communications work in the Armed Forces, this book is a highly practical, expertly organized, thoroughly illustrated training manual and handbook for radio operators, maintenance men, and those constructing equipment for sending, receiving and testing. It covers all basic electrical principles and explains fully the workings of each part of radio.

Grand River — Dunham
Here is told the romantic story of the River Thames (the Grand), which is also the story of the Mohawk migration to Upper Canada, and the subsequent settlement and development of the fertile Grand River Valley.

Against These Three — Cloete
The story of Paul Kruger. Cecil Rhodes and Lobengula, last of the Zambezi Kings, whose inevitable disagreement set the stage for a drama of chaos in Africa.

Last Leaves — Leacock.
All the sparkle and wit which are Leacock, illuminate the pages of this final collection of his work. And, as the readers of his books have learned to expect, there is, throughout, a rich vein of shrewd wisdom running beneath the gaiety and merriment.

The White Tower — Ullman.
In writing the heroic story of five men and a woman against a mountain, James Ramsay Ullman has exploded the depths and heights that are the spiritual quests of human kind. He has come closer than most writers to the eternal verities that must, in the end, elude us all. It is his great achievement that he has provided the reader with a new dimension in human experience.

Three O'Clock Dinner — Pinckney.
The scene is contemporary Charleston during a few tumultuous summer days that change the lives of the members of two of the city's families. The story that develops is alive with violent and subtle emotions, full of the inevitable clashes that result when the destinies of people with contrasting standards become intertwined.

January Thaw — Partridge.
Anyone who has ever lost his heart to an old house, real or imaginary, will fall in love with this story of an old Connecticut farmhouse, and the family who couldn't resist it even though they knew the deed wasn't "quiet."

A Lion Is In The Streets — Langley
Not often in American publishing history has so strong-fibered and richly laden a novel as this appeared. It is the story of a man, potentially a great leader, tricked and destroyed by his love of power; and of a woman, loyal and honorable, forced to choose between her love and her deepest convictions.

Repent In Haste — Marquand.
This is a story of youth and love and war, highly poignant and convincingly realistic, and few who read it will fail to gain a new insight into the thoughts and environments of the men overseas. It illustrates the abnormal effect of war on people who, in other times, would lead normal lives.

Most Secret — Shute.
Once again Shute has written a novel utterly unlike anything he has ever done before—the thrilling adventures of four men who set up a private navy and waged war in the stormy waters of the English Channel.

Day of Wrath — Child
The story of this magnificent novel centres in the city of Arom, Germany. It is the story of a great love in a world wasted only to hate. It is the story of what happens to simple people trapped and enslaved, body and soul, by their masters, the Great Planners, Leaders, Overseers, Directors-General.

Other Books
Reprieve — Warwick Deeping.
Better Harvest — Violet King.
The Nurse At Whittle's—Hancock.
The Family On Maple Street — Taber.
A Job For Jenny — Baldwin.
Obey Thy Heart — Blizard.
First Girl — Carew.
The Widening Pool — England.
Coast Guard Girl — Craig.

2ND TYENDINAGA

2nd Tyendinaga, Feb. 14. — Last week Joan Merion and Gordon Johnson were admitted to the Belleville General Hospital, suffering from injuries received when the car in which they were riding, crashed into a moving freight train on the Canadian National Railways, a short distance north of Shannonville. Dr. J. J. Robertson is attending the injured men.

Born to Mr. and Mrs. Floyd Goodfellow, in the Belleville General Hospital, on January 31st, a son. Congratulations A brother for Gary, Wayne and Bobby.

Mr. and Mrs. Bruce Sherman, Mr. and Mrs. Jack Sherman, Mr. and Mrs. Hayrd Sherman and Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Hagerman, entertained their friends on Wednesday night to a euchre and dance held in the L.O.L. NAPANEE W. I.

The February meeting of the Women's Institute was held on Tuesday afternoon, with a good attendance. Mrs. E. L. Boyle, president, presided and the meeting opened with the singing of the Ode, Prayer for Peace and a Salute to the Flag.

Mrs. F. Richards, treasurer, gave her report, which showed a good balance on hand. The sum of $3 was voted to be sent to the District Association. A one-minute's silence was observed in memory of our late District Director, Mrs. Alma Akenbrack, who was a most faithful and helpful member. An afternoon euchre was planned for Friday, February 22nd, with Mrs. J. Agnew and Mrs. E. Loucks as conveners, the prizes being donated by Mrs. E. Boyle, Mrs. J. Francis and Mrs. E. Loucks. A nominating committee was appointed consisting of Mrs. J. Agnew, Mrs. M. Hudson, Mrs. C. E. Jamieson.

The conveners of the programme were Mrs. A. Empey, Mrs. B. Seymour and Mrs. LeMaistre, the topic being 'Social Welfare.' Mrs. Empey presided for the programme, which consisted of two very splendid papers. One was given by Mrs. Shipp, on "Florence Nightingale," and the other on "Public Health Services," by Mrs. C. E. Jamieson. Mrs. M. Hudson gave a demonstration on hooked rugs and a punchwork cushion, which proved very helpful.

A vote of thanks was extended to all those who assisted in the programme, by Mrs. LeMaistre and Mrs. Seymour. The roll call was "Hints on Health Care."

The meeting closed with the singing of the National Anthem.

WEDDING BELLS

CONWAY - TILTZ

A very pretty candle-light ceremony was solemnized in the home of Mr. and Mrs. C. A. Beringer, Bridgeport, Conn., on Thursday, February 14th, at 5:30 p.m., when Miss Olga Elizabeth Tiltz, of Elmhurst, Long Island and Mr. Frederic W. Conway of Rochester, formerly of Napanee, were united in marriage. The bride was charming in a shell pink gown with sequin trim, with waist-length veil of tulle illusion held in place with roses, carrying an old-fashioned nosegay made of heirloom lace and rosebuds. The bride's attendant, Mrs. C. Beringer, were wild - rose crepe and a corsage of roses. The bride's mother was in moss green and Mrs. W. Miller, the groom's mother, of Rochester, N.Y., wore beige and a corsage of Talisman roses.

Mr. W. Miller, of Rochester, acted as best man.

A reception and buffet supper immediately after the ceremony, was attended by about twenty-five guests, many of whom were from out-of-town.

Mr. Frederic Conway is a grandson of Mr. C. W. Conway of Napanee, and a nephew of Mr. and Mrs. Beringer.

The happy couple are honeymooning in New York City.

GIRL GUIDE NEWS

By Mary Margaret Douglas

On Saturday, February 6th, a Court of Honour meeting was held at the home of Mrs. W. S. Wilson. The meeting opened with the Guide prayer. The minutes of the last meeting were read and approved. We then discussed business. Several new ideas for crafts were brought up.

The meeting on Wednesday, February 13th, opened with regular roll call and inspection, followed by a discussion about new business. We then practised the Morse code with the light. After twenty minutes of Morse, we had a dance "Skip to my Lou." For the next half-hour we had crafts. We are now making print aprons of different styles.

Then we gathered in a circle and sang camp-fire songs for the rest of the evening.

From February 17th to 22rd, is Girl Guide and Boy Scout Week. The Scouts and Guides of Napanee began the week of activities by a church parade to Grace United Church at 6:40 Sunday evening.

February 22nd is "Thinking Day." This day is set aside by Girl Guides throughout the world to give special emphasis to international friendship. February 22nd is also the joint birthday of the founder, Lord Baden-Powell of Gilwell and of the World Chief Guide, the Lady Baden-Powell.

REID — Mr. and Mrs. A. C. Reid, Deseronto, are pleased to announce the arrival of their son, Clifford Franklin, 10-lb. baby, at the Belleville General Hospital, February 11, a brother for Roma.

In Loving Memory

ASSELSTINE — In loving memory of a dear wife and mother, Mrs. Robert Asselstine, who passed away, February 22nd, 1944.

Two years ago God took you
To that home so far away.
But your memory ever lingers
Deeply in our hearts each day.

Sadly missed by her Husband,
ROBERT ASSELSTINE, and Children AUBREY, NEAL, JOHN and MARION.

POSTE — In loving memory of William Poste, who passed away on February 24th, 1945.

The rolling stream of life goes on
And still the empty chair
Reminds me of the face and smile
Of one who once sat there.
But the midnight stars are shining
Upon his lonely grave.
Beneath it sleeps the one we love
The one we could not save.
And when evening shadows are falling
And we sit there alone,
To the heart there comes a longing—
If he only could come home.

Sadly missed by
WIFE, DAUGHTER, SON, and BROTHER-IN-LAW

The ladies sometimes like the dim, flattering light of candles. But most people, even if they could get far greater illumination from candles at far less cost, would prefer electric light.

Considerations of health, comfort, convenience, cleanliness and safety, have become more important to the modern way of life than the factor of cost.

Nevertheless, it costs money to survey new power sites, harness waterfalls, and build transmission lines, so that when you flick a switch or set a thermostat you can be sure of light and heat at your fingertips. Quite possibly a part of your own Life Insurance premium has been invested in the public utilities which render these services.

Government supervision of all such investments safeguards the money laid away by more than four million thrifty policyholders, united for their common security in the great co-operative business of Life Insurance.

This portion of every dollar invested out of Life Insurance funds helps to finance thousands of building and transportation projects, public utilities, industries, etc., which create employment throughout the country. The remainder is in municipal bonds, farm and town mortgages, etc. In addition, $500,000 is paid out in direct benefits every working day to policyholders or their loved ones.

With a bin full of coal and a larder full of food, you might well face a cold week-end with confidence. The fact that you do not have a bin full of electricity somewhere does not worry you. Hydro has proved to be so dependable. Yet, electricity cannot be stored . . . must be made and delivered the very instant you use it. That is "Hydro Service".

Suppose it is 2 a.m. The baby has just fallen out of its crib. Half awake, you reach for a switch. You want light fast. You get light instantly. Yet the electricity that lights the lamp is made after you flip the switch . . . made at the source of water-power, perhaps hundreds of miles away. It flashes to you through many miles of transmission lines, through transformer and distribution stations, and you use it before the water that makes it can leave the powerhouse. One single break or failure in all those miles of wire and equipment might cut off your light . . . and newspapers would write about it, it would be so unusual.

To keep all these millions of dollars worth of equipment operating, with no mistakes or serious interruptions, is the continuous job of a large and wide-spread staff of watchful Hydro employees. Yet, the cost per unit of power is very low. Ontario power rates are among the lowest in the world. That is "Hydro Service".

DORLAND

Dorland, Feb. 16. — The rain on Wednesday washed away most of the snow except in banks on the sides of the road, but left ice in places.

The violent wind on Thursday caused considerable damage. The telephone lines are in a bad condition, but the Hydro power was not interrupted for more than a few minutes. A number of buildings, particularly barns, were damaged; those belonging to James Bird and Harold Magee the most seriously so far as we have learned. Quite a number of people were over to save the roofs going off.

Dorland was also experienced early in the week in getting on and off the ice on the Prince Edward shore by motor, raising up, but the route was changed and traffic continued.

Mrs. Fraser Lasier passed peacefully away in her sleep on Wednesday morning. She was formerly Miss Gertrude Emmas, a native of Prince Edward County, but resided at Brighton after her marriage until the death of her husband in 1927. She then moved to Toronto for a time, but for the last ten years has made her home here with her niece, Miss Lillian Carr. The last five months she has been confined to bed most of the time, but until then was a regular attendant at all United Church services. Despite her advanced years, Her brothers and sisters, also her children, two daughters, one son and a grandson, all predeceased her. The funeral service was conducted by the pastor, Rev. R. G. Greene, in Miss Carr's home on Friday afternoon, after which the body was placed in the vault at Napanee, to await burial in the family plot at Brighton in the spring. Friends were present at the service from Toronto, Orono, Brighton, and Napanee.

Owing to the rough cold weather there was a poor attendance at the play, presented in the church school room by Hawley talent, under the auspices of the Y. P. U., but was not as large as it would have been under more favorable circumstances. Those present report the party well taken, and an amazing evening.

Mrs. and Mrs. Emmas, of Orono, is spending a few days the guest of Miss L. Carr.

McLellan, of Napanee, was present, and assisted Dr. Aylesworth, who is in charge of the church services. Refreshments were served by the ladies of the church, and a social time was enjoyed.

The February meeting of the Fourth Line W. A. was held at the home of Mrs. Ford Denyes. The President, Mrs. Denyes, presided, with Mona Hagerman as Secretary. Miss Mona Hagerman had charge of the program, the theme being "Let the beauty of Jesus be seen in me". Those taking part in the program were Mrs. Fred McCracken and Mrs. Harvey Reid. At the close of the meeting Mrs. Denyes and committee in charge served refreshments.

Miss Bessie Card, of Napanee, is spending a few days with Mr. and Mrs. Byron Jackson.

Mr. John Kimmett spent several days last week in Toronto attending the annual convention of the Ontario Crop Improvement Association. He also visited his sister, Mrs. G. M. Fleming, and Mr. Fleming.

The terrific wind on Thursday morning last did considerable damage in Roblin and vicinity to trees, roofs, etc. Telephone and Hydro wires were broken. A telegram had to be sent to call the Hydro repair crew to remove the live wire, which might have caused serious trouble.

The Women's Institute met on Thursday afternoon at the home of Mrs. H. R. Paul.

Mr. and Mrs. Leslie Palmer and children, of Kingston, were week end guests of Mr. and Mrs. T. E. Richmond.

Mr. and Mrs. Fred McParlane spent Sunday at Mr. Chas. H. Kimmett's.

SELBY

Mr. and Mrs. D. Weese have returned home from visiting friends in Detroit, Toronto, and Oshawa.

Rev. Mr. and Mrs. Merrick were in Kingston on Wednesday, calling on friends in the hospital.

All roads led to the Sexsmith homestead on Thursday evening, when neighbors and friends gathered to spend the evening with Mr. and Mrs. D. R. Sexsmith and family, who have sold their farm and are leaving shortly to take up residence in Napanee. During the evening Rev. Mr. Merrick presiding as chairman, called upon Miss Lu Hudgins, who read an address, expressing the sincere regret of the many friends of the family, who, through the years, have proven such good neighbors and friends, ever supporting the best interest of the church and community. Should be leaving our midst, and assuring them of our continued interest in their welfare. Messrs. Arthur McKnight, George Price, and Arthur McLeod presented Mr. and Mrs. D. R. Sexsmith with an electric lamp. Mr. and Mrs. Stanley Sexsmith and Doris with a wall mirror, and Mrs. Millie a reversible Kenwood blanket. On behalf of the family, Mr. Stanley Sexsmith voiced his appreciation of the gifts received and the spirit which prompted them. A short and enjoyable program followed, consisting of instrumental music by Geo. Mc-Knight and Homer Jackson, a vocal solo by Mrs. Carl Martin, a monologue by Mrs. Merle Denbrou, and a vocal solo by Dorland Jackson, at the conclusion of which the ladies served lunch.

Mr. Manley Kimmett had charge of the temperance program at Sunday School on Sunday morning, which consisted of a vocal duet by Dorland Jackson and Charlie Pringle and a reading, "Safety First, for Billy's Sake", by Clifford Frisken. Following the program, Mrs. Jim Hoover, at the request of the Superintendent, Mr. Percy Hudgins, presented the awards to the contestants in the National Temperance Study Course, which were received by Marie Price, Margaret Laird, Evelyn Hudgins, and Helen Fitzpatrick in the Intermediate Group, and Billy Denbrou in the Junior, each of whom received 80 per cent. or over. Congratulations.

Mr. and Mrs. Ross Winter, of Toronto, are guests of the former's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Sam Winter.

We are pleased to know that Mrs. Geo. Bush is able to be out again.

COUNTY FEDERATION NEWS

"ORGANIZATION IS TREND"

The prices of farm products hit a 30-year low in 1933 and it was at that time The Canadian Federation of Agriculture was organized to give all farmers and farm organizations a single, united voice.

In 1939 after price ceilings on foods had gone into effect, the Federation brought pressure to bear to bring agricultural prices into line with other Canadian industries and at the same time produce the required amount of food.

We are beginning to realize that we are moving away from a period of pioneer economy and into a world of organization. In the war years the Federal Government began to recognize the Federation of Agriculture as the voice of the farmers of Canada. As a result the goodwill of all governments in all provinces was obtained and the Federation was represented on numerous advisory committees. No one could stick a political label on the Federation of Agriculture.

Agriculture has reached a period of adjustment. An international situation will soon develop in which farmers will not likely be allowed to market their products independently. Canada is moving toward a three-way partnership between farmers, processors and the state.

At the present time we see labor and industry jockeying for position and if agriculture is not solidly united, it will again be the forgotten member of Canadian society. That will not be the case if we have the wholehearted support of commodity and co-operative groups and county federations banded together, determined to fight united for agricultural security.

The world today is cognizant of the fact that agriculture can make a great contribution towards maintaining peace by producing sufficient food to feed the people of the world.

FAMILY REUNION

Mr. and Mrs. Frank Harnden of South Napanee, held a dinner on Sunday, February 17th, in honor of their son, Pte. Claude Harnden, who recently returned from Overseas.

Relatives from out-of-town present were Mr. and Mrs. Sid Simmons and family, of Mimico, Mr. and Mrs. Wilbert Simmons and family, Peterboro, Mr. and Mrs. Percy Simmons, Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Simmons, Picton, Mr. and Mrs. Jim Simmons, Kingston; Mr. and Mrs. San Simmons and family of Adolphustown; Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Harnden and family of R.R. 1 Napanee and Mr. and Mrs. Bruce Harnden of R.R. 3, Napanee.

The chairman rose to introduce Mr. Wm. Becker. He found it necessary to mention that during the preceding year the membership of the society had fallen off considerably. This, he continued, had resulted in a depleted treasury, making it necessary to depart from their usual high standard and secure a very much inferior type of speaker for the current year. The cost of which, he asserted the chairman, innocently, "I now have the great pleasure of introducing."

SOCIETY OF FRIENDS APPEALS FOR HELP FOR RELIEF IN EUROPE

Contributions May Be Sent To Toronto Headquarters

The "Canadian Friends War Victims Relief Fund" sponsored by the Religious Society of Friends (Quakers) in Canada, and registered under the Canadian War Charities Act, 1939, is seeking funds to aid in relief work in Europe, where an appalling disaster is happening at this moment. Millions of tons of foodstuffs and supplies are needed, now. The Canadian Government has made large contributions through UNRRA, by means of the National Clothing Drive and in other ways, but supplementary voluntary aid is urgently needed.

The Canadian Friends' War Victims Relief Fund has been allocated 40 tons of Cod Liver Oil for the purpose of relief in Europe. The appeal, has now realized enough money to pay for the first five tons. It is extremely important that the remaining 35 tons should also be bought for shipment to Europe before the Winter ends. Contributions sent to The Canadian Friends War Victims Relief Fund, 113 Maitland Street, Toronto 5, will help to make this possible.

There is no need to emphasize the value of Cod Liver Oil as a supplement to the meager diet now obtained in Europe. It may mean the difference between life and death to thousands of people.

Quaker Relief Units are now established in various countries in Europe. Cod Liver Oil is one of the six items on their priority list of needs.

Contributions may be sent to: "CANADIAN FRIENDS WAR VICTIMS RELIEF FUND" — "FRIENDS" HOUSE, 113 MAITLAND STREET, TORONTO (5), ONTARIO.

SUGAR-PRESERVES COUPONS

Following the recent merger of the sugar and preserves coupons, the Sugar Board has announced that three of the new combined sugar-preserves coupons will be good for 2 pounds for the purchase of either sugar or preserves. Coupon S-2 becomes valid on March 7th and Coupons S-3 and S-4 will be good on March 31st.

O. W. Rodomar, Administrator of Consumer Rationing said that in certain months this year as in March three preserves coupons will become valid. This is not extra sugar, but will bring the 1946 ration up to the level of the first eight months of 1945. In addition the canning sugar allotment will be the same as in 1945 — 20 pounds per person.

Mr. Rodomar also added that consumers are entitled to the full coupon value when purchasing sugar or preserves. As an example, he explained that one sugar coupon is good for the purchase of two twenty fluid ounce tins of canned fruit or two 12 fluid ounce jars of jam.

The grocer should sell from his stocks two of these cans of fruit or two jars of jam, for one sugar coupon. However, the grocer may sell the customer only one tin of fruit and make up the difference with one jar of jam or the proper quantity of some other food, such as honey, molasses, or maple syrup, also rationed under the combined plan.

At a special meeting of the Napanee Town Council on Monday evening of this week the tax rate for 1946 was set at 55 mills, an increase of 10 mills over last year. The increased rate is the result of a 4 mill requisition for school purposes, a 2 mill deficit for 1945, and 4 mills for extra expenditures by different departments in the town.

Last year the total requisition for school purposes was $12,092.86, nothing being required for the Collegiate. FARMERS URGED TO SEEK HELP EARLY AS POSSIBLE

"Place your order for farm help now" is the advice being given by the Dominion Department of Labour to farmers all over Canada.

The message is going out to farmers generally by means of a letter signed by the Honourable Humphrey Mitchell, Minister of Labour, and Arthur MacNamara, Deputy Minister of Labour. The letter refers to the shortage of farm labour during the war years and predicts that with the probable expansion of peacetime activities in other industries it will still be difficult to secure experienced help this season. "Because of this possibility we would urge you to employ labour that may be available now," the letter states. "Not only will increased winter work help to reduce your labour requirements during the busy spring and summer months, but you will be more likely to have efficient and steady help familiar with your operations at those times when you need it most." With the letter an order form is provided which farmers are urged to complete and take or send to the nearest local office of the National Employment Service or the nearest Agricultural Service, indicating particulars of their labour requirements.

Commenting on the farm labour situation for 1946, Mr. MacNamara said: "We are prepared to do everything possible through the Dominion-Provincial Farm Labour Program and the National Employment Service to see that labour is available where and when it is needed for the 1946 crop. Between 350,000 and 400,000 agricultural workers were taken off farms during the war years, and, no doubt, a good many of these workers will be going back. Farm wages are much higher now than they were before the war, and some workers have been figuring out after their experience as city dwellers that, given a reasonable level of farm wages, they would be better off on the farm from a monetary point of view than at work now available to them in industrial centres. What appeals to this group are those items which we tend most." With the letter an order form is provided which farmers are urged to complete and take or send to the nearest local office of the National Employment Service or Agricultural Service, indicating particulars of their labour requirements.

OTTAWA CONTINUES SPY PROBE

Ottawa. — Presentation of evidence designed to prepare the way for further disclosures in Canada's spy probe was understood to occupy early sittings this week of the parliamentary mission named to investigate the giving of secret information by Canadians to representatives of a foreign power.

While there is no official information as to when these detentions will take place in the formal letter from the counsel of the Royal Commission to the Right Hon. L. St. Laurent, Minister of Justice, on Saturday, this is not far off.

Unofficially, it was learned that a British scientist who had a prominent part in research into the atomic bomb has been taken into custody in the United Kingdom.

There is no information that this man is connected with the present spy probe in Canada but it is more than possible, however, even if he is, that it is not likely that he will be brought to Canada but rather would be tried in Great Britain. The information which arrived here over the weekend did not disclose whether or not this scientist had been in Canada during the war or whether his activities had been confined to the United States.

The disclosure over the week-end that eleven men and two women have been held for questioning also stated bluntly that the original action of the Canadian Government in calling for the detention of these Canadians was fully justified.

In a preliminary report to the Minister of Justice, the Commission made it clear that additional persons might be detained. On the basis of evidence submitted to date, the number of additional persons may not be large but those would more than likely include persons in the public eye.

The report noted that the Commission was proceeding with its work as rapidly as possible but stressed difficult circumstance under which it was operating. The Commissioners desire to make an interim report but this might take two or possibly three weeks.

There is complete confirmation of the serious nature of the charges, the commission said.

BROAD OUTLINE

When the interim report is submitted, possibly to Parliament, which meets on March 18th, it will give broad outlines of the nature of secrets which Dominion Government employees and others betrayed to the Soviet agents. This report might also contain the names of persons involved.

Outline of the procedure which the Dominion Government followed in the prosecution of the suspects is contained in the carefully - worded letter from the Commission to the Justice Minister. The Cabinet passed Order-in-Council PC 6444 on October 6th, 1945, which authorized under the Inquiries Act and continued under the National Emergency Transitional Powers Act. Specific orders were signed for detention by the Royal Canadian Mounted Police and Commissioner Wood, Supreme Court Justice Minister. ANSWER TO SOVIET

There was a series of conferences over the week-end between various groups of officials engaged in the espionage investigation. It is thought they discussed the future course which the Commission would follow.

Both the United Kingdom and the United States have been kept fully informed on proceedings to date.

COMMITTEE FORMED AT PUBLIC MEETING TO ADVISE SCHOOL BD.

Board Proposes Review of Schools in Napanee

At a meeting of citizens of Napanee on Friday evening, February 22, called by the Home and School Association at the request of the Board of Education, an advisory committee was chosen to confer with the Board in the problem of the proposed new public school in Napanee. The committee recommended by the nominating committee: Geo. Daly, Dean Embury and E. C. Hogarth, B. com posed of the following: Mrs. K. S. Ham, Mrs. T. J. Hunt, Mrs. C. Ham, Mrs. W. S. Wilson, Mr. G. F. Smith, Mr. W. P. Asselstine, Mr. Werk Poole and Mr. E. L. Pindlater.

Mrs. Pindlater, president of the Home and School Association opened the meeting, which was attended by 75 citizens of the town, and explained its purpose, after which G. F. Smith was chosen to act as chairman of the meeting.

P. U. LAIDLEY SPEAKS

P. U. Laidley, a member of the Board, outlined the reason why a new school was thought to be necessary. He said that the present public schools are outmoded, overcrowded and that the teachers are unable to give the pupils the attention necessary for their best instruction. Many pupils are said, are retarded because of the existing conditions and as a result are not fitted for secondary education. The Board of Education has been aware of the situation for some years, but during the war years could do nothing to improve conditions. Since the war the Board had made a careful survey of the public schools and had found the East Ward School in particular, in a most deplorable condition. The services of an architect had been secured and plans had been made for the erection of a new four-room school in East Ward, to start. Many citizens objected to the building of a new school in the East Ward and had expressed the opinion that one new school should be built to replace the present two public schools. As a result, the Board hesitated to go ahead with the building of a school in the East Ward and had decided to consider the matter of the schools on a broader scale. Because of this decision, the meeting on Friday evening was called for the purpose of securing the assistance of the citizens of the town in deciding what should be done.

DISTANCE NO BARRIER

Geo. L. Howitt, another member of the School Board, said that the Board had been raised to the building of one school for all the pupils of the town, on account of the distance from the outlying districts was too great for small pupils to walk. But, he said, Mr. Attendance Deputy Minister of Education, had expressed the opinion that children in Napanee were not too great for one school to serve all the pupils.

Mr. R. L. Miller commended the Board for asking that an advisory committee of citizens be formed and suggested that the Board and the committee secure plans for a new Central School and suggest a site on which it be built, and then send the plans and site to the parents of the pupils attending the public schools, so that their opinions on the problem might be secured.

J. M. SIMPSON EXPRESSES OPINIONS

Mr. J. M. Simpson, chairman of the Board of Education, spoke of the condition of the present East Ward, because of the deplorable condition of the present building and the condition of ten years. He said, there had been discussion in the Board, concerning the safety of the East Ward School. There had been considerable discussion in the School Board concerning the school in East Ward and the Board finally decided to go ahead with its erection. Then the question of a new public school for the town came up, and it was given consideration. But, said Mr. Simpson, there is the difficulty of securing a suitable site in the centre of the town. To secure such a location, he considered it would be necessary to tear down houses, which he though, at the present time, with the shortage of houses, was impossible. He brought up the problem of distance children would have to walk if a central school is built, but went on to say that all the schools in the town are in a deplorable condition, and said that if a proper location could be secured, why not pull down all the schools, including the Collegiate, and erect one building to accommodate all the pupils attending school in the town.

W. S. WILSON FAVORS ONE SCHOOL

W. S. Wilson speaking on the question, said that everyone present at the meeting was concerned about providing the best school accommodation possible for the children of the town. The Department of Education, he said, now has plans for the best type of modern schools, which will give the pupils the best advantages possible. The problem of distance, Mr. Wilson said, could be overcome by providing transportation. There is no need, he stated, of letting the question of a site enter into the discussion at this stage. That problem he thought could be overcome. The first thing to consider is to provide the best possible advantages for the children, which could be best assured by having a public school children in the town attend one school, which should include adequate facilities for vocational training, a suitable auditorium, gymnasium and the most modern equipment. The question of cost he also said, should not hold up an advanced educational programme. The town's financial position is steadily improving and in a few few years, the existing debenting will all be all paid off and the present tax rate will be correspondingly reduced. The first thing to do he said, is to decide to have one public school for the town, and then face the other problems which will arise.

Important Notice To Brownies Aged – 7 to 9 Years

The first meeting of Brownies (7 to 9 years) will be held in the Girl Guide rooms over Scrimshaw's Store on Wednesday, February 27th at 4:15 sharp. Regulation forms will be given out at school on Tuesday. Each Brownie wishing to join must bring this form, signed by parents.

The Brownie Leader (Brown Owl) will be Mrs. Bruce Davis, of Bethany, who has had several years' training in Oshlips, in Nova Scotia.

Order Eastern Star Card Party

There was a large attendance for the card party which was held on Wednesday night, in the rooms of Argyll Lodge No. 212, I.O.O.F., under the auspices of Napanee Chapter No. 181, Order of the Eastern Star. Euchre, lasting on Friday evening was called for the purpose of securing the assistance of the citizens of the town in deciding what should be done.

DISTANCE NO BARRIER

Geo. L. Howitt, another member of the School Board, said that the Board had been raised to the building of one school for all the pupils of the town, on account of the distance from the outlying districts was too great for small pupils to walk. But, he said, Mr. Attendance Deputy Minister of Education, had expressed the opinion that children in Napanee were not too great for one school to serve all the pupils.

Mr. R. L. Miller commended the Board for asking that an advisory committee of citizens be formed and suggested that the Board and the committee secure plans for a new Central School and suggest a site on which it be built, and then send the plans and site to the parents of the pupils attending the public schools, so that their opinions on the problem might be secured.

J. M. SIMPSON EXPRESSES OPINIONS

Mr. J. M. Simpson, chairman of the Board of Education, spoke of the condition of the present building and the condition of ten years. He said, there had been discussion in the Board, concerning the safety of the East Ward School. There had been considerable discussion in the School Board concerning the school in East Ward and the Board finally decided to go ahead with its erection. Then the question of a new public school for the town came up, and it was given consideration. But, said Mr. Simpson, there is the difficulty of securing a suitable site in the centre of the town. To secure such a location, he considered it would be necessary to tear down houses, which he though, at the present time, with the shortage of houses, was impossible. He brought up the problem of distance children would have to walk if a central school is built, but went on to say that all the schools in the town are in a deplorable condition, and said that if a proper location could be secured, why not pull down all the schools, including the Collegiate, and erect one building to accommodate all the pupils attending school in the town.

W. S. WILSON FAVORS ONE SCHOOL

W. S. Wilson speaking on the question, said that everyone present at the meeting was concerned about providing the best school accommodation possible for the children of the town. The Department of Education, he said, now has plans for the best type of modern schools, which will give the pupils the best advantages possible. The problem of distance, Mr. Wilson said, could be overcome by providing transportation. There is no need, he stated, of letting the question of a site enter into the discussion at this stage. That problem he thought could be overcome. The first thing to consider is to provide the best possible advantages for the children, which could be best assured by having a public school children in the town attend one school, which should include adequate facilities for vocational training, a suitable auditorium, gymnasium and the most modern equipment. The question of cost he also said, should not hold up an advanced educational programme. During the week end, Chief of Police and Mrs. T. S. Moore had a reunion of all the members of their family in celebration of the return from Overseas, last week, of Gnr. Silas Moore, one of three sons of the family who had served in the Canadian Army Overseas, to return home.

The members of the family present were: Mr. and Mrs. T. Leslie Moore and daughter, Diana, of Ivy Lea; Mr. and Mrs. George P. Moore and son, Brockville; Stewart Moore of Toronto; Gnr. Silas Moore, Miss Ruth Moore and Donald Moore, of Napanee; and Mr. George A. Moore, Kingston, brother of Chief Moore.

Women's Institute Euchre Party

At the euchre party held in the boardroom of the Agricultural Department, last Friday afternoon, under the auspices of the Napanee Women's Institute, there were nine tables in play. The prize winners were: First, Mrs. Harry Secord, Miss B. Moore; Lone hand, Mrs. Marshall Hudson. The door prize was won by Mrs. R. Rattan.

The conveners were Mrs. Earl Loucks and Mrs. John Jaynes.

Consisting of a violinist and a pianist, the latter a remarkable child prodigy in real what they lacked in skill. One very wet morning they were playing most enthusiastically although there was only one customer in the place. At the close of one selection he got up and came to their little platform. "Do you play anything by request?" he asked the violinist. "Certainly, sir" came the reply. "Then I wonder if you'd mind playing a game of dominoes till I've finished my lunch?"

PAGING ALL DRINKERS

On Monday morning, there appeared in "The Globe and Mail" of Toronto, a little news item which should cause even the most partisan and biggoted intoxicationist to gasp. Here it is just as it appeared:

"William Gonda, 43, of Adelaide St. W., was arrested last night by Det.Sergt. Fred Munro on a charge of indecent assault and supplying liquor to minors.

"The finding by P.C. J. Cleasly, of a 10-year-old girl, staggering on Queen St. W., being assisted by her 9-year-old sister, brought about a police investigation that resulted in Gonda's arrest.

"When the constable saw the girl staggering he believed she was ill and picked her up to carry her home. Police say the constable smelled liquor and, taking the girl home, called Det.-Sergt. Munro.

"The girls told the police of being in a Queen St. W. cafe, smoking cigarettes, when the elder is alleged to have asked Gonda "if he had anything to drink." Police say they went to his room on Adelaide St. W. Here, the 10-year-old girl told the police she had two drinks of brandy and wine mixed and three drinks of wine. The youngest girl said she took a "sip" of brandy, then left it. The 10-year-old girl charges Gonda with indecent assault."

We would suggest that Mr. E. V. Macaree of "The Globe and Mail," Mr. E. P. Taylor, of Canada Breweries; Mr. Samuel Bronfman, of Seagram Distillers, and a lot of people who have their money in liquor stocks, should brood over that for a few moments.

GETTING IT AIRED

There is nothing like getting a public question aired. A hush-hush policy, even the most perfect and well intentioned, will breed suspicion and opposition, if it is carried on without proper public opinion behind it. The only way to get that opinion is by letting in the air. The meeting of Citizens on Friday night is a case in point. There, an opportunity was given to all and sundry to air their views on the school issue. This, they did! Then after everybody had been given ample opportunity to express their views, the meeting got down to business and did the obviously right thing, in appointing a Committee to look into the whole matter of school accommodation in the town, and report back. The Committee chosen is a competent one. The membership of it is representative. The Committee will, no doubt, look at the school situation from every angle and report back. In this way, public opinion will be brought to a focus in definite proposals, which should be a great guide to the School Board.

WHAT RUSSIA WANTS

Before the turn of the Century a jingoistic song was popular in England. It had to do with Britain's relation to Russia. We quote from memory and, as memory is a bit tricky at times, we may not get it quite right. However, it went something like this:

"We don't want to fight
But by Jingo, if we do,
We have the men, we have the ships,
We have the money, too.
We fought the Bear before
And we'll fight the Bear again—
But Russia shall not have Constantinople."

Russia was then looking towards the South and a warm water port. Russia, a great land power, lacks water ports that can be used all the year round. Consequently, Russia has always been on the alert to get control of such ports, only to find her ambitions blocked, now by one nation, now by another.

In addition to Russia's desire for warm water ports, there has been added something else. In recent years oil has grown in importance. Russia needs oil. She sees oil in Iran, and wants to get hold of it, but finds Britain and The United States were there first. So she tries one method after another to get access to this source of modern fuel.

This struggle has been reflected in certain tensions particularly between Great Britain and the U.S.S.R. The matter was debated in the House of Commons, last week. There were plenty of critics of the national policy. But Foreign Secretary Bevin while he did not underate the seriousness of the situation, said definitely and bluntly, that he could not conceive of any situation arising that would lead to war with Russia. He revealed that he had offered to extend the Soviet - British Treaty from twenty to fifty years.

It is to be hoped that the relations, now strained, will, before long, be righted. It is here that the U.N.O. can assert a wide influence. For the U.N.O. is called into being to settle just such a problem as that posed by Russia in her relations to Great Britain. If Russia has a grievance, let it then out with it, and if Great Britain has cause for anxiety, then out with that, too. The international atmosphere would be much more healthy were there less suspicions of Russian underhand tactics. The attitude of the Russian Embassy in Ottawa reflected in the recent revelations, does not help much to dissipate those suspicions, and certainly, it is making the work of The United Nations Organization most difficult, early in its life.

G. HOWARD FERGUSON

The death, in Toronto, on Thursday last, of Honourable George Howard Ferguson, removed one of Canada's most forceful and colorful personalities. The late Mr. Ferguson was the product of the small town, being born at Kemptville, Ontario. After his education, he returned to his home town to practise law. There he served as Councillor and Reeve before contesting successfully a seat in the Ontario Legislature, in 1905. He rose in the Conservative Party to become a Cabinet Minister and then Leader of the Opposition, and finally Premier of the Province of Ontario.

Mr. Ferguson was a shrewd politician, a witty but hard-hitting talker. He was a great Imperialist, and never failed to make known his faith in the British Empire. After retiring from active politics, Mr. Ferguson became the Canadian High Commissioner to Great Britain, which position he filled with satisfaction for five years. On his return, Mr. Ferguson gave his attention to business affairs. He was a Governor of the University of Toronto and latterly Chancellor of Western University.

Mr. Ferguson weathered many a political storm by his genial manner and keen political sense. He was courageous, when courage was needed, and made friends, easily.

Mr. Ferguson's administration was marked by the struggle over the sale and distribution of intoxicating beverages. When much else that he accomplished is forgotten, he will probably be remembered for his Jonathan - like affection for Canon H. J. Cody and for establishing beverage rooms throughout the Province.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

To The Editor of
The Napanee Beaver,

Dear Sir:—

Mr. Percy Hadley is to be commended for his fine example of true democracy, in his motion to call a Citizens' Meeting to select a committee to consult with the members of the Board of Education, regarding the erection of a Public School in Napanee.

The Committee appointed is a fair representation of the Citizens of the Town, and if they and the School Board show proper co-operation, results should soon follow. At any rate, it is getting off to a fair start on a most important question affecting every citizen.

There are good locations in this town for a Public School, and I can see no point in berating our Forefathers for their incoherence in planning our town. We must admit, after an inspection tour, that with all their shortcomings, they made an excellent job of it.

The present state of emergency is the East Ward School, which has been condemned and must be replaced. The other two schools have not been condemned, and are in good serviceable condition. There is, therefore, no point in tearing them down when labor and material are so high.

The location of the West Ward School is ideal. It stands on an elevation of ground, which drains in all directions from the building. If additional playground is required, there is vacant land just east of the school ground. My plan is for one school for the town on the West Ward grounds. I would not replace the present building until a later date, but would build a wing to the north of it that would take care of the East Ward situation at the present. Then when material and labor become cheaper, the present building could be replaced, completing the new structure.

This might mean transporting the children from certain areas, but hill areas are being successfully transported for greater distances than would be necessary here.

A state of emergency exists at the East Ward School. Already one year of parapment, disagreement and inaction has taken place. It is now time for all to pull together and get something done.

If the school is to be built this year the plans and specifications should be ready and the contract let, by the time school ends in June, so that the spring revelation could start at once. If everything proceeded according to plan the building should be completed by September 1st, when schools open.

Yours for Consideration,
R. H. PAUL.

PRISON REFORM TO THE FORE

Ottawa.— One of the questions high up on the calendar will be the appointment of a penitentiary commission implementing the legislation at the last session of Parliament.

There is authority to appoint three members. One will be chosen to begin with and conceivably, it may be decided then, that one is enough.

It is considered to be time something was done. The crime wave, sweeping over Canada, may have nothing to do with the penal system at all, or the adequacy of the penalties. Nevertheless, when so many who are charged with armed robbery or other crimes, these days are ex-penitentiary-some find reason to question the working of retributive reform as it has been applied heretofore.

A question most commonly asked is why these people are let out on ticket-of-leave if they are to return to their old careers in crime. Similarly, if they served their full time, and were released when they were entitled to be, their return to familiar paths indicates that their moral reformation was not much of a success.

In some cases, this return to crime is attributed to the failure of the ex-convict to secure a gainful occupation because of society's cold shoulder. More often it is due to the inborn criminal tendency which some psychiatrists regard as a form of mental disorder.

Some years back, a royal commission, headed by Mr. Justice Archambault of the Superior Court of Montreal, made a very exhaustive inquiry into the penal system in Canada.

They investigated its working here and they also visited the United States and the Old Country. The report was voluminous, its recommendations were many and concrete. In degree, some have been carried out but in the main, they were not.

The penitentiary commission which was recommended was never appointed. Just why it was not has never been clear. Matters were allowed to drift awhile and then the report was presented. Then the war came and it was invoked as a reason for inaction having regard to enormous priority and the greater urgency of war policies and war administration.

Now peace has come and curiously with it a wave of crime with violence, robbery in particular. The most disturbing factor is that a large number of the armed robberies and incidental murders are by young men and in many cases, by those with a record. Another element in it is the criminal upon whom a term in the penitentiary has left no imprint of reformation.

The intention now is to appoint a one-man commission to start with and have him make a survey of the situation. The report of the commission dates back seven or eight years. It is desired now to know if the conditions have changed any, meanwhile, and if so, how, and what should be done.

Is the system too coddling and insufficiently tough? To what degree is retribution the accompaniment of reform? Is it too easy to get people out on ticket-of-leave? Is the Borstal system for younger offenders desirable? These are a few of the questions to be answered and there may be many more. So far as the British Borstal system is concerned that would be a matter of negotiation between the dominion and the provinces. Reformatories are within the purview of the provinces.

One thing which will surprise many is that, according to a former superintendent of penitentiaries who at one time headed the big Kingston institution, fifteen years is the average time a "lifer" spends behind the walls. Fifteen years is quite a stretch of time. The crime may well have been forgotten. All connected with it, save the convict, may be dead. If the convict's conduct has been good and someone interceded for him, he may be released. The experience is that a life sentence does prove effective. Those lucky enough to get out after fifteen or twenty years, do not break prison and usually they avoid any return to prison. The odd exception proves the rule with tiresome regularity. Remission branch deals. Different reports are made by the warden of the penitentiary as to the prisoner's conduct, by the doctor or other official's and often the opinion of the trial judge is sought. A ticket-of-leave is a parole. It is not a pardon. Failure to comply with its conditions, and the 'leave as of course' and more crime would do.

The present crime wave is regarded as one evidence of the post-war psychology of unrest. Peace has come but not the peace dreamed of in the long years of war and with little of the ecstacy which followed the armistice in World War I.

A continuance of labor unrest and strikes and threats of strikes has no connection at all with crime but they happen to be simultaneous. In one case the remedy sought is economics. In the case of crime, better work may be an impulsion in the occasional case but for the most part, it is attributed to the extravagant leniency of the individual to steal and get away. Getting away with one robbery may suggest another.

The view is widely held that the courts, at times, have overstrained in the matter of leniency and that often the criminal does have the best light. That now is being corrected in parts. There are varying views whether or not treatment of prisoners is sufficiently tough.

The evident disposition now is to tighten up or crack down, all along the line, including generous resort to the lash. That, the authorities say, is a deterrent. Like for its humiliation and the physical pain it entails. Though no injury is inflicted, the experience is one which is not forgotten. In place of being confined to sex crimes, this penalty is being applied now, more widely to general violence.

The Criminal Code it is thought needs no amending. All the current crimes are the common categories. If the judge wish to impose them, the maximum penalties are stiff.

What causes the crime wave is considered perhaps more a question for psychiatric experts in moral delinquency, than for those concerned with the administration of justice. But in the face of this alarming phenomenon, many urge the necessity of the courts, with greater uniformity, imposing more severe sentences — and in the judge's discretion — the lash.

From the other viewpoint it will be for the penitentiary commission to find out if there is anything wrong with the penal system in its inner workings and administration and, if so, change is desirable.

FAMILY BONUS NOW TOTALS $250,000,000

Hon. Brooke Claxton Tells of Act at Catholic Welfare Conference In United States

Canada's health minister, Hon. Brooke Claxton, outlined before the National Catholic Welfare Conference, in Washington, the details of Canadian family allowances legislation.

In an address prepared for delivery, Mr. Claxton said that close to $250,000,000 a year now was being paid to some 1,363,000 families. The allowances ranged from $5 to $8 a child, depending on age, and the average monthly payment was $6.01 a child.

Families with incomes below $3,000 annually derived some revenue from the allowances. Income tax exemptions were lowered by the amount received in allowances.

Statistics pointed to the fact that 84 per cent. of all children in Canada are supported by 16 per cent of the gainfully occupied, said Mr. Claxton.

"Wages, as we know, are based on work done, not on the number of children in the home so the single man and married man with a family get the same rates of pay for similar work. Obviously any adjustment in wages will not help the relative position of the father who brings up a family.

"Canada, like other countries going through a period of postwar adjustment, is deeply concerned with keeping up production and employment and Canada's scheme for social security has its roots in the Federal Government's reconstruction plan.

"The payment annually of $250,000,000 to the people of the country who most need to spend it has a two-fold purpose. Its first purpose is to protect the rising generation, assuring children of their basic needs; its second purpose is to maintain domestic purchasing power.

"Compared to the vast figures in which the United States deals the sum may seem small but in Canada with a population of only 12,500,000 people, the annual expenditure of $250,000,000 represents a steady flow of purchasing power which will help to keep the wheels of industry turning and maintain farm prices and markets."

Mr. Claxton said that the largest single payment actually made to date was $35 a month to one family, but the average paid per family was $14.27.

"Two-thirds of the families receiving the allowance average between two and three children," he said. "Two families in Canada have fifteen children under 16 years of age receiving family allowances; six families have 14 children under 16; 44 families have 13 children under 16; 15 families have 12 children under 16; 811 families have 11 children under 16 and 2,631 have 10 children under 16, making a total of 3,644 families having 10 or more children.

"This represents one-third of one per cent of the families in Canada receiving family allowances. Families containing between five and nine children under 16 totalled 132,324 or eleven per cent of the families. Those having four children or less total over 88 per cent of the families receiving allowances."

TRAIN MEALS BY SLOT MACHINES

London — Automatic buffet cars, believed to be the first of their kind in the world, are to be installed on trains operated by the Great Western Railway of the United Kingdom. The cars will enable passengers to purchase snacks, smokes and drinks at any time on the journey by putting stamped "ration" coupons or one shilling into the slot of one of many hundreds of snack compartments. Stand up counters will be fitted in front of the big observation windows on each side of the cars for the convenience of passengers who prefer to take their refreshment there.

The new cars will be brought into service as soon as food conditions in the United Kingdom permit. The automat buffet system will probably be used on short distance journeys, long distance trains p

INTERNATIONAL SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON, MARCH 3RD, 1946

"ENTERING AND POSSESSING A NEW LAND"

Lesson Text: Joshua I: 1-4; 23: 1-11

There is always a sense of consternation when a great leader dies. There was world-wide sorrowing when the late President Roosevelt passed away. There was a feeling that something terrible had happened, and that the world could not easily be reconciled to the changes that are inevitable when strong men lay down their tasks. There was a great deal of the same feeling when Mr. Churchill was defeated. We had become so accustomed to his leadership that it was hard to think of any but Churchill guiding the affairs of state in Great Britain.

Something like that must have seized the minds of the Hebrew people, when Moses went — Moses who had led the people out of Goshen, and had guided them through the stormy stages of their early national life. But God raises up other men. He does not depend on one man. Joshua took hold where Moses left off. Moses may have been just the type of man needed for the organization of the nation. It needed a different type now. A military leader is not necessarily the best man for peace conditions.

We expected of a new leader. We wait with bated breath for the first words he has to say. We are eager to know his platform, his policy. Joshua was not long in proclaiming his plans. He was ready for action. He was not going to wait too long, mourning the loss of Moses. "Go over" he told the people, and he outlined for them the territories they would be expected to occupy. And he promises them the leadership to enable them to achieve their objective.

In the second section of the lesson, we pass from the beginning of Joshua's rule to the closing scene. He is an old man now. He has not accomplished all that he had set out to do, but he had done his best. So he calls the people together, at least he called the leading men in all the twelve tribes, together and addresses them. He recounts briefly his achievements and his gains. He then undertakes to give some advice that should govern their actions in the future.

In the first place he urges them to maintain the purity of their religion. It would be easy for them, as future history proved, to forget their sisters religious life in a new environment.

The important point in both these occasions, is the insistance by the leader that they were to trust God's guidance and His leadership. "We forsook God and God has forsaken us. We substituted our own volition for God's way." That was the confession of Ley, one of the Nazi leaders, before committing suicide; and Pastor Niemoeller said to his congregation: "If the churches had acted in unity, we could have prevented the war."

That is the lesson which Joshua, here, was teaching his people. He knew, as do we, that Humanity apart from God and God has forsaken us, is doomed to failure. That is as true of a single man as thousands of others know in our day, that, unless God is placed at the centre of all our planning there is little hope for the world.

Here we are facing the gigantic task of building a new world. We may draw up pacts, conventions and treaties, but unless they are supported by a deep faith in the eternal purposes of God, and faith in each other, there is not much hope that they will succeed.

Conway - Sandhurst

Conway - Sandhurst Feb. 25. The fine winter weather of the past two weeks has been excellent for farmers who are busy preparing wood and doing other farm work.

"NERVES" She Called It

Lost interest—losing friends—she never went out anymore—always "tired, "blue", she felt—but it was her kidneys! Letters of her blood—that needed attention. She used Dodd's and Conway Public Schools took an active part in the work and brought in very fine results.

The High winds have caused considerable damage in the community. Barn roofs, doors, and windows suffered to quite an extent.

Ice storing is the order of the day and the ice is reported to be of good quality and thickness.

Miss Betty Haight, Reg.N., of Kingston, spent the week end with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. W. Haight, Conway.

We are sorry to report that at time of writing Mr. H. M. Robinson, of Sandhurst, is ill. We are extending best wishes for a speedy recovery.

We are glad to report that Mr. A. Wilson, of Conway, who has been ill, has recovered.

Mr. and Mrs. Acton Hayes returned on Thursday from their honeymoon. We extend heartiest congratulations.

Born, to Mr. and Mrs. Wes. Conway, a baby boy.

The Red Cross, of Conway have adopted three European families, and so far have succeeded in packing several fine boxes, containing food, clothing, and necessities. Sandhurst and Conway Public Schools took an active part in the work and brought in very fine results.

Tamworth Church Observes Boys' Week

During Boys' Week, February 3rd to 10th, on Monday evening, February 3rd, the Eagle Group of Trail Rangers of the United Church, joined with the Young People's Union in a sleigh ride. Two sleighs, one driven by Mr. Herb. Rogers and the other by Mr. Edwin Lochead, accommodated about fifty of the people. It was a very cold night but the ride was enjoyable. Everybody soon warmed up at the Religious Education Building while playing games directed by Wray McLaughlin and Rev. W. H. Baugh and partaking of hot cocoa and sandwiches served by Mrs. J. S. Haggerty and Mrs. M. Marshall.

Father and Son Banquet

On Friday evening, February 8th, a "Father and Son" banquet was held in the R.E. Building. The excellent meal was served to twenty-six fathers and sons by the mothers of the Trail Rangers. Grace was said by Tally Glenn Stinson. During the meal jokes were told by four boys, Bob Clark, John Haggerty, Glenn Stinson and Gerald Brown. After the mentor, Rev. W. H. Baugh, had proposed a toast to the King, he led a sing-song. Then four boys gave a demonstration of first-aid. Jim Martin and Bob Armstrong bandaged a broken forearm, while John Haggerty and Glenn Stinson appplied artificial respiration on Garry Barnshaw. Everyone enjoyed the game "Bible Baseball." The pitchers were Mr. D. Clark and Mr. J. S. Haggerty and the umpire was Rev. Kenneth J. Crawford, of Enterprise. The runs were made by each side answering a question about the Bible. A radio stunt called "Gargle Twice Hour" was given by Glenn Stinson, Bob Clark and Gerald Brown. John Haggerty, ex-chief Ranger who was one of the ten Trail Rangers chosen from all the groups in Ontario to attend Boys' Parliament in Toronto, last December, gave a paper on "I was at the 25th Ontario Older Boys' Parliament." The toast to the fathers was given by Chief-Ranger Gerald Brown, while the toast to the sons was proposed by the Principal of Tamworth High School, Mr. Miller. Mr. Miller stressed the value of each Trail Ranger doing his best in his work and pointed out that a useful life was based on surtesy, duty and responsibility. Sub-Chief Bob Clark's two songs, with his guitar accompaniment were rendered in fine style. Cache John Marshall then welcomed the fathers anr urged them to support all the activities of the Group. He announced the dates of the Finance Campaign for Boys' Work in Ontario as February 18th to March 4th. He said the Tamworth boys would sell shares in this campaign and twenty yper cent. of the total would be returned to them. The Mentor then welcomed all present and explained briefly the aims and purposes of a Trail Ranger Camp. He also thanked the ladies for providing an excellent banquet. A short silence was observed to honor the fathers and sons who had died on active service. After another sing-song the special speaker, Rev. Kenneth J. Crawford, B.A., addressed the gathering. He based his remarks on the theme for boys' work for 1946: "Build To-day the Christian Way." The speaker dwelt on the amazing vision of the prophret Isaiah in the 11th chapter of his book, of a new earth, wherein people are living in peace and security. Even the wild things in nature have been subdued. The good lives we try to live will make possible the kind of world we are endeavouring to build in our homes and our community. We are fellow-labourers with God. If we are determined to build with God then we can build our lives and consequently our world on Christian way. Two of the fathers, Mr. J. S. Haggerty and Mr. J. H. Brown, expressed their pleasure at being present and wished the boys much success in their group work. The program ended with the singing of the hymn "Abide With Me" and the benediction.

Boys' Church Service

On Sunday evening, February 10, a Boys' Church Service was held in the United Church. Two Trail Rangers, John Haggerty and Bob Clark, each read a scriptural lesson and a prayer, while Glenn Stinson and Garry Bradshaw took up the offering. The minister, Rev. W. H. Baugh, chose as his text, "There Is a lad Here," John 6: 9, and emphasized the value of work among the teenage groups for the church and community of today and tomorrow.

THE SHIPS

To-day great ships are coming with our ken,
Proud, unafraid;
Their decks alive with lean, bronzed fighting men—
Men who have made
Their stand for liberty and victory come,
Wearing their hard-won laurels, as they bring Peace and security to those at home,
Across a sea no longer menacing.

To-day great ships, weighed down with precious freight,
They reach our shore—
And oh! the hearts of those who patient wait
Will grieve no more!
Tears left unshed when partings shook the soul
Will fall, as they return, like summer rain.
For they have sought and found, have reached the goal,
And, crowned with victory, come to us again.

To-day proud ships do land, and we can scan,
With anxious eyes,
Their decks, perhaps in vain. For, since the world began,
Was sacrifice
That all may live. So as the stately ships,
Empty for us, come proudly home again.
Crush back the tears, press firm the trembling lips,
Rejoice, rejoice, because they died like men!

Ontario Headquarters Bank of Montreal

Of contemporary classical design, the new Bank of Montreal Building, reproduced here from the architect's sketch of the elevation, will dominate one of Toronto's busiest street intersections. On the north-west corner of King and Bay streets, the building extends more than 150 feet northward on Bay and 94 feet west on King. The bank's main Toronto office and the assistant general manager's department for Ontario, will occupy the first four floors and basement of the building. Rising sixteen storeys, at a height of 224 feet, the other twelve floors are to be occupied by a variety of commercial and financial tenants.

PRESENTATIONS MADE TO SEXSMITH FAMILY AT SELBY

On Thursday evening, February 14 over 100 friends and neighbors gathered at the home of Mr. and Mrs. W. R. Sexsmith; Mr. and Mrs. Stanley Segsmith and Doris, and Mrs. Lila Miller, to spend a social evening with them before their departure for their new home in South Napanee, the former residence of Mr. and Mrs. Fred Mellow.

The farm on which the Sexsmith family lived has been in the family for 139 years and has been sold recently to Mr. Jos. Dudgeon.

The Sexsmith family have been valued members of the Selby community throughout their long residence in the neighborhood and as a mark of the esteem in which they are held, gifts were presented to them by their friends during the social evening held in their honor.

The following is the address read when the presentations were made:

Dear Friends:

"There are friends we meet as we journey along,
Who, like ships that pass in the night,
We meet one day, and they drift away—
Silently out of sight.
There are other friends whom we grow among,
Who prove loyal, staunch and true—
Whom we leave with a sigh,
When we say good-bye —
Just such friends, are you."

In the onward march of time, changes are bound to occur. Sometimes, these come so suddenly that we wonder if we have been rightly informed. So it was with us when the news spread that you had sold your farm, and would be leaving our community.

To-night, we, your friends, have met in your home, with feelings of pleasure and regret— pleasure because we know from experience we will have a good time here, regret because the parting, so near at hand, severs the many ties that only years of labour together can establish. These, we cannot break, without a degree of sadness.

We are sorry you are moving from our neighborhood. We find it hard to think of your going and can scarcely imagine this street without the Sexsmith family. For many years you have been a part of our community and church life; faithful in duty, friendly in need. You have been supporters in good causes; you have been true friends in time of sickness and sorrow. We realize our church will miss you, as the men have served on the trustee board at different times, for many years, and the ladies have been efficient teachers of Sunday school classes and faithful members of all other departments of church work.

But human nature demands something more than mere words as a lasting expression of our friendship and esteem. As such, kindly accept these gifts: Mr. and Mrs. D. R. Sexsmith, this lrifight lamp; Mr. and Mrs. Stanley Sexsmith and Doris, this mirror; and Mrs. Lila Miller, this blanket.

May you enjoy each in your new home in Napanee. May the years ahead be filled with happiness and may your memories of this community, be treasured companions, always. (Signed) on behalf of the Community, Percy Hudgins, William A. McLeod, George Price, Arthur McKnight, Ernest Kerr.

A man revisited his old home which he had had to sell to a rich man because the expenses were too heavy. "And how is my ancestor, the ghost, who used to walk up and down the stairs all night?" he asked. "Oh, 'im," said the new owner, who had had the place modernised. "E don't give us a wink of sleep, ringing for the lift!"

BOY SCOUTS NEWS

First Napanee Wolf Cub Pack

Two major events were held at the last pack meeting on Saturday night. First, the pack was visited by Rev. Noble Hatton and secondly, the investiture of four recruits into the pack.

The main games of the evening were "Pick-up Marbles", "Through the Loop" and "Whose Turn." The Grey Six and Blue Six were the winners of these games.

Announcements for the night included the coming Cub Mothers' Auxiliary Rummage Sale in the Napanee Armouries, on Saturday, March 2nd. Cubs are to bring clothing donations to the Armouries on Thursday afternoon. Mothers of Cubs are asked to attend a meeting to be held at 4:00 p.m. on Thursday, at the Armouries.

All Cubs were encouraged to enter the Lennox and Addington Fish and Game Protective Association's annual Bird House Contest. Cubs who are winners will be given special awards by Akela, for their efforts.

During the meeting, the following recruits were elevated to the ranks of Wolf Cubsh: Gail Rogers, Jack Walker, Donald Creighton and Orlen Calver. Akela presented the new Cubs with their Tenderpad Badges and welcomed them into the pack and the Great Brotherhood of Scouts.

The guest of the evening was Rev. Noble Hatton and Akela Barnett introduced him to the pack during the Red Flower.

The Order of the Bone went to the Yellow Six for the highest points of the evening, starting in March, the pack will hold Honour Six Pennant Competitions. The nightly points and any additional points will be totalled for four meetings. The winners will receive the Honour Six Pennant.

Closing ceremonies consisted of the Cub Silence, Prayers and Flag Down. Dismissal was given after Akela's final verse.

A full turnout of Cubs is strongly requested for the next meeting as the registration of the pack is to be compiled.

Eisenhower and Scouting

General Dwight D. Eisenhower has nothing but the highest praise for Scouting. The General, who admits he was not a Scout himself, said that his young son was in the Boy Scouts. "My own experience," said the General, "has been that anyone who has learned Scouting has learned something which is going to be very useful to him."

TRINITY W.M.S.

There was a large attendance at the February meeting of Trinity W. M. S. on Tuesday 19th. The president, Mrs. Switzer, occupied the chair for the short business session and Dr. Mary Cornelius conducted the devotional. The temperance secretary, Miss E. Parke, speaking on Narcotic Drugs, told of the widespread epidemic of drug addiction in many parts of the world, after World War I owing to the lack of an effective control programme. Now, a drug smuggling has already begun on a disturbing scale.

Dr. Cornelius read and commented on the scripture lesson and offered prayer. Her theme was "God's Healing Power." Mrs. Cochrane sang a solo in keeping with the theme. She was accompanied by Miss B. Baughan.

Mrs. Switzer presented the third chapter of the Study Book. She spoke on Angola and told of the progress of the Church and the miracles being wrought by our little group of Christian men and women in this vast country of Angola. We are challenged to make an earnest effort to understand the problems of Africa.

All are invited to attend the World Day of Prayer, on March 8th.

CARE OF BABY CHICKS

Experimental Farms News

Clean houses and yards, clean litter, good feed, careful management, together with a little common sense, are the essentials in handling baby chicks in order to prevent losses, says B. F. Tinney, Dominion Experimental Station, Charlottetown, P.E.I.

Everything should be in readiness before chicks arrive. Too often no preparations are made until notice of arrival is received from the express agent. Brooder houses should be thoroughly scrubbed down — floors, walls, ceilings — and disinfected previous to the arrival of the chicks. All drafts must be eliminated. Leaky roofs must be repaired and made tight. Corners of the brooder-house floor should be rounded off with wire or boards to prevent crowding or piling. Floors should be covered with clean, dry litter. Clean sand, chopped straw, planer shavings, or, for the farmer, clover heads, leaves, etc. from the barn floor, are excellent. Litter should be changed whenever it becomes dirty or wet.

The brooder stove should be operated for several days before the arrival of chicks and a check made to see that the controls work effectively, and adjusted to maintain a temperature of 93 to 98 degrees, two inches above the floor at the edge of the hover. Do not guess the temperature, but use a thermometer. Temperatures after the first few days may be lowered about five degrees per week, as the chicks grow older. Uniformity in temperature is essential. Rapid changes will cause overheating, or chilling with disastrous results.

A good brand of commercial starter is less likely to give trouble than home-mixed feeds and when followed up with growing mash will give good results. The manufacturer's instructions should be followed carefully. Chicks should not be fed until they are about 48 hours old.

Adequate feeding space for all chicks should be provided. For the first week or ten days, feed five or six times daily, leaving the mash before the birds for about 15 or 20 minutes at each feeding. Changes should be made gradually to a good growing mixture.

Be careful not to overcrowd chicks. It should be noted that brooder ratings are based on day-old chicks and a 500-chick brooder should not be expected to handle as full rating after the birds are several weeks old. When ready to range see that clean land is provided — land on which birds have not ranged for at least three years. Cleanliness and good management practices are the watchword and if these are observed, success should follow.

An American go-getter, visiting Scotland for the first time, found himself puzzling over the dialect of the hotel porter. Taking the man for a foreigner, he inquired his nationality. "I belong to Scotland, bonnie Scotland," replied the porter proudly. "And far d' ye cam frae?" — "From the greatest country the world has ever known," boasted the American. "Mon!" exclaimed the Scot, "what an awfu peety ye've lost your accent!"

An actor started a quarrel with an unknown man at a cafe, or maybe it was the other way round, but the quarrel went on, and finally the actor got so wild, that he jumped up, threw his visiting card on the table, and walked out.

The other man picked it up, read it, pulled out his pen and wrote on it: "Please admit bearer." Then he paid his bill and walked off to the theatre where the actor was appearing, to avail himself of a free seat.

WEDDING BELLS

BRADY - LLOYD

A quiet and pretty wedding was solemnized on Saturday, February 9, 1946, at 3:00 o'clock, at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Bert Lloyd, Point Anne, when their second eldest daughter, Elizabeth Maude, became the bride of John Robert Brady, the only son of Mr. and Mrs. Jesse Brady of Madoc. The ceremony was performed by Rev. C. V. Freeman, of Christian and Missionary Alliance Tabernacle, Belleville, Ont.

The home was beautifully decorated with evergreens and red roses. Red pink and white carnations were table bouquets and pink and white streamers and large white bell in the centre of the room over a small table holding the large wedding cake and silver candlesticks, were also used as decorations.

The bride, entering the living room on the arm of her father, who gave her in marriage, looked lovely in a gown of white slipper satin, with long sleeves, sweetheart neckline, and wearing a gold locket and chain, the gift of the groom, and carrying a bouquet of red roses and white carnations with white satin streamers.

Mrs. Stewart Amass of Belleville, played the wedding march. The bride was attended by her sister, Clara Almeda, who wore a gown of pink sheer with pink headdress and blue net veil, and carried roses and carnations tied with white satin ribbon.

Mr. Chester Shephard of Point Anne, assisted the groom.

Following the signing of the register, portraits were taken and a dainty buffet luncheon was served. Those present were Miss Dorothy King, of Point Anne, Miss Marjorie Brady, of Harold, with Mrs. Amass, Mrs. Mahar and Mrs. Wickett assisting. Mrs. Lloyd received guests attired in mauve crepe with corsage of Talleman roses and Mrs. Brady were figured silk jersey with corsage of Talisman roses.

The gift to the bridesmaid was a gold locket and chain; to the groomsman a gold collar and tie clip; to the pianist, a large rose bowl.

The happy couple received many lovely gifts and, amid congratulations and showers of confetti they left for Toronto and Niagara Falls, the bride choosing a blue ensemble.

Out-of-town guests were Mr. and Mrs. Leslie Brady of Harold, Mr. Stewart Brady and Marjorie and Mr. Stan Royle of Belleville, and Mr. and Mrs. G. P. Wickett, Belleville.

The bride is a granddaughter of Mrs. Will Conger, Napanee, and Mrs. and Mrs. Charles Brooks of Stirleville.

CHADWICK - PRICE

On Saturday, February 23rd, at 2:00 p.m., Marjorie Aileen, the only daughter of Mrs. Cora Price and the late E. R. Price, became the bride of James Kenneth Chadwick, recently returned from Overseas, where he served two and a half years. He is a son of Mr. and Mrs. Lawrence Chadwick, of Morven. The marriage took place at the home of the bride's mother, Rev. W. R. Merrick officiating, and Miss Norma Wood, cousin of the bride and Mr. Nelson Chadwick ,the grooms' brother, were attendants.

The youthful bride, given in marriage by her uncle, Mr. Everett Price, took her place beside the groom, under an arch of pink streamers and white bells, as the wedding music was played by Mrs. Everett Price. The bride was attractively gowned and looked charming in a nainbib streeth-length frock, with flowered calot, and matching veil, and carried an arm bouquet of pink roses.

Following the ceremony a reception was held, after which luncheon was served to about twenty guests, by the Misses Tina and Ruth Hudgins, cousins of the bride.

Later, showers of confetti and good wishes, the bride and groom left for the United States, where they will spend their honeymoon. For travelling, the bride wore a turquoise wool suit, with valor rose hat and brown fur coat.

Upon their return, Mr. and Mrs. Chadwick will reside on their farm at Empey Hill.

WEDDING BELLS

MACKINTOSH - WHITMAN

The Rev. Mr. Grantham officiated at a ceremony performed in the Baptist Church, Trenton, on Saturday afternoon, February 23rd, when Edna Olive, daughter of Mrs. B. Whitman, Trenton, and the late George Whitman, of Albany, Oregon, became the bride of John Mackintosh, formerly bride of John Mackintosh, formerly Radio Officer of the Merchant Marine, son of Mr. and Mrs. John Mackintosh, Toronto. Miss Edna Burke was at the piano throughout the service and during the signing of the register.

Given in marriage by her brother, Clarence Whitman, formerly of the R.C.A. 47th Battery, Napanee and Overseas, the bride was lovely in a portrait gown of white crepe. Her full-length veil of Brussels net, was held by a crescent of apple blossoms. Her bouquet was of red roses. Attending the bride was Miss Margaret MacIntosh of Toronto, sister of the grocm, wearing pink net and veil of pink net, and carrying red carnations and roses.

L.A.C. George Whitman, formerly of the R.C.A.F. Overseas, brother of the bride, attended the groom, and the ushers were Murray and Ronald Mitts, all of Trenton.

A reception following the ceremony was held at the home of the bride's mother. Mrs. Whitman wore a mauve dress and a corsage of yellow roses, and Mrs. Mackintosh ,mother of the groom, assisting with the receiving, had chosen for the occasion a blue dress, and wore a corsage of pink roses.

Later, the happy couple left for their honeymoon trip to Montreal, after their return they will reside in Toronto.

"Just after his conviction the prisoner put up a strong plea for mercy. "So you can see, your honor," he ended, with a wink, "I'm really down and out." But the judge had heard that story so often before. Looking over his spectacles he replied: "No, you may be down, but you're not out —not for six months anyway."

A Scot living in London called at a cats-meat shop one morning and asked that a quantity of meat be put aside for him every day. Some time later the vender was surprised when the man rushed in and told him to cancel the order.

"What's the matter?" inquired the butcher. "Is your cat dead?"

"No, no no," puffed the man, "she's caught a mouse."

After a lively argument, says wife: Bill, you're a terrible man to live with; why can't you be like Jack Sound-Sleep, she went on. They've been married twenty years, and his wife tells me he's gentlemanly, and loving and tender.

He ought to be tender, replied hubby. He's been in hot water for twenty years.

Dear Sir:-
I purchased nine pigs six weeks old a while back. They were the poorest looking pigs I have ever seen anywhere, and one pig was so small, I intended killing it, but decided to give it a chance. After six weeks on "Miracle" feeds, these pigs now weigh three times more than they did at six weeks old. The small one is now nearly as big as the rest of the litter.
Sincerely,
C. J.

PRICE CONTROL AND RATIONING INFORMATION

Readers may address their questions mentioning the name of this paper to Information Branch, WPTB, 490 Sussex Street, Ottawa, Ontario.

Q. I am a school teacher and board out. Has my landlady the right to my WHOLE ration book, seeing I go home on the week-ends? Also has she the right to use my canning sugar coupons?

A. If you are being served three meals per day, your landlady is entitled to the complete ration book. On week-ends and regarding the use of your canning sugar coupons, that is strictly an agreement to be reached with your landlady.

Q. Is there a ceiling price on pork spareribs? I bought two pounds and was charged 80c, which seemed very high.

A. Yes, there is a ceiling price on spareribs — for back ribs the maximum price is 32c per lb. and for side ribs, 26c per lb. You do not mention the type you bought but regardless of that it looks as if you were overcharged a considerable amount. Please send in the name of your butcher and we will investigate his prices.

Q. At our church we are planning to give a reception for the men who have returned from Overseas. We will require a number of cakes and pies and would like to know where we apply for extra sugar.

A. Unfortunately you will not be allowed extra sugar for this purpose . . . so many receptions and celebrations of this kind are being given just now that the demand would be very heavy, therefore, no extra allowances are made. If the members of your group would each like to contribute butter and sugar out of their own rations, they may do so.

Q. I wish to rent a furnished bedroom to a gentleman who has his meals out. If I should require the room later on can I give him a week's notice? He will be renting by the week.

A. No . . . if you rent this room by the week and the tenant is well-behaved and pays his rent regularly, you would be required to give him six months' notice to vacate.

Q. The other day I bought a pound of coffee for 55c. Formerly it was 46c and then raised to 49c and now 55c.

A. The information your grocer gave you about this brand of coffee was incorrect. It should correctly not sell for 55c. Sometimes different stores will put on a special price as has a 43c lot of MJB generally sells not higher than 46c per lb. Sorry we cannot mention the brand name of bringing in the ore checking prices at this store.

Q. I have purchased a house which is tenant occupied. Have I the right to give the tenant notice and if so how much?

A. Under the 'Freezing Order' you cannot give this tenant notice to vacate.

Q. I have occupied part of a house for two years and a half. Can I now be charged with a separate water bill?

A. No! This would be considered increased rental. If the landlord wishes to make such arrangements he would have to make application to the Rentals Administration for permission to increase the rent.

Q. I have heard several rumours lately to the effect that coffee rationing is coming back again very shortly. Is this true?

A. There is NO truth whatever in the rumour that coffee may be rationed again. The Foods Co-ordinator of the Prices Board is anxious that everyone be assured that there is a plentiful supply.

Q. Is a landlord compelled to keep a tenant who is destructive and undesirable?

A. Definitely not . . . If your tenant is undesirable and you wish an eviction order you may apply to your local Rentals Administration Office for forms in which to apply to the court of Rentals Appeals for exemption of WPTB rental regulations. If this exemption is granted, you may then give the tenant a month's notice under Provincial law.

Q. A few days ago I bought 10 lbs. of potatoes for 34c. They were of very poor quality and I would like to know if there is still a ceiling price on potatoes?

A. Yes, there certainly is a ceiling price on potatoes. The maximum price for potatoes in the Ottawa area is 34c for 10 lbs. of Canada No. 1 or fancy. Since you have given us the name of the store we will check this matter.

Q. I have a little boy who will not be two years old until July. Up till now I have been getting coupons to purchase canned milk. When I received my last issue I was told that when it expired in March, I couldn't receive any more. Is this correct?

A. No. You were definitely misinformed. WPTB regulations provide that these coupons are to be issued for children up to two years of age. When your present coupons are finished in March or April you are most certainly entitled to another issue to cover the time until his second birthday is reached.

FRUIT IMPORTS TO INCREASE . . . PRICES ALSO

Dates, raisins, prunes and a number of canned fruit juices are among the items soon to be in better supply here, but little improvement is seen for jams, sweet pickles, olives, evaporated milk, lard and shortening and canned fruits. It is learned.

Canada is getting almost twice as many dates as last year — 7,000 tons in all, most of which already has arrived from Iraq. More were allowed on the import quota because of the impossibility of bringing in the usual figs from Turkey. Over 15,000 tons of prunes will be brought from California, and from the same state the Dominion soon will be receiving its share of the 1945 raisin crop, according to an article in "Canadian Grocer." These, however, may become scarcer later because wet weather last fall caused spoilage in dry.

Among the fruit juices are lemon, prune, pineapple and grapefruit juice. Prune juice will be limited because few retailers can afford to handle it at prices and markups allowed by the Wartime Prices and Trade Board. Lemon juice will be in fair supply and there will be some pineapple juice coming in from Hawaii late next month and more from Australia when navigation opens again on the St. Lawrence.

Purchase of 703,000 cases of grapefruit juice chiefly from the West Indies, has again been arranged through Ottawa. The first of which already arrive on the market shortly. Lima beans and kidney beans imported from California and Michigan, are two other items expected to be in fair supply following the Prices Board's decision to allow a price increase.

Though Canada recently purchased 6,000,6oo pounds each of shortening and lard from the United States, this will do little more than maintain the 1945 ration, the article notes. Heavy slump in pork production is given as the reason.

NEWBURGH MISSION BAND

The Daisy Mission Band of Newburgh United Church met in the basement on Saturday afternoon at half-past two. Before the meeting opened games were played, including Relay with Balls, Queeny Man, Spin the Pan, London Bridge is Falling Down.

The meeting opened with thirty-seven children present. After the opening hymns several children offered prayers for nurses, hunger, clothing, food and children across the seas. Roll call was answered by What makes a successful Mission Band.

The secretary's report was given by Kathleen Watson. The treasurer's report was given by Marilyn Moore. The business part of the meeting was in charge of Mrs. Herrington. A number of Gift Boxes were given out and thirteen children paid their fees. The Purpose Pledge was repeated by the children. Mrs. Herrington had charge of the worship. Gerald Tompkins read the Psalm, and Mrs. Herrington explained a prayer written by a little Bantu girl, in Africa.

The programme consisted of a solo by Carol Waldie, a temperance reading by Kathleen Watson, a reading by Romanie Pluge, a piano solo by little Irene Embury, a song by Joyce, Wilma and Marion Wagar.

The offering was received by Jean Godfrey and dedicated by Mrs. Ramsay. Mrs. Herrington closed the meeting with the Mission Band Prayer, after which the children enjoyed a picnic lunch, with hot mallard milk.

"You're a failure!" nagged the wife. "When you courted me you said I should always be the flower of your life, and now—"

"You're still the flower," said the henpecked one, "but no rose — I should say snapdragon."

THE MIXING BOWL

BY Anne Allan
HYDRO HOME ECONOMIST

Hello Homemakers!

What constitutes true economy in buying foods? Is it simply a matter of looking for bargain price tags on everything? Is it taking the tired head of lettuce, the wilted celery in order to save the difference in cost between them and prime produce? Of course, it isn't!

You can afford good quality if you are wise and east more of what you pay for. Buy those plump, golden oranges and that three-rib roast, but use every last bit of them. Orange peel makes a good sweet pickle and a beef bone is the soul of a soup!

It is all in knowing how. You have to know how to salvage the vitamin value that lies in the outside lettuce leaves. You should know how to capitalize on the flavour hidden in the celery tops that the less skilful cook throws out. And you need good recipes like these:

CREAMED PEAS WITH CELERY TOPS

Melt three tablespoons of butter, add one-quarter cup flour. Gradually add two cups milk; cook over hot water, stirring until thick. Add two cups cooked or canned peas, half-cup chopped celery leaves. Season with salt and pepper. Garnish with toast points. Serves four to six.

TAKE A TIP

Tea is orange pekoe, probably to you. Did you know that you should say pek-o, not peek-o, and that the word is an index of size of the tea leaves, not of flavour?

Oranges are usual navel (navel) oranges at this time of year. They are easily segmented and easily served whole instead of juiced. They are best for marmalade, too. The Valencias we buy during the summer are more juicy.

The lemons on our market dry out easily. If there is no room in the refrigerator or no refrigerator, keep lemons in cool water. It's an old-fashioned stunt that also refreshes those that are getting dry and hard.

Stale slices, dry crusts and other left-overs in the bread box can be used to make scores of delicious dishes — yet often go into the garbage instead. Studies show that bread is the most wasted food in our kitchens.

French toast and cheese toast are hearty enough for main dishes.

French toast is made by dipping slices in a mixture of egg beaten with two tablespoons milk and browning on both sides in a little fat in the frying pan. For cheese toast, lay slices of cheese, salted and peppered, between slices of unbuttered bread. Brown the sandwiches on both sides in fat, cooking slowly until the cheese melts.

Crusts and bone-dry pieces can make up the supply of bread crumbs that every good cook likes to have on hand. Dry the bread in a slow oven, then roll it to crumbs or put through food grinder. Tie a paper bag over the outlet of chopper to prevent crumbs from spilling. Keep crumbs covered and protected from dust and moisture.

Aside from the familiar uses of crumbs in coating foods for frying, topping dishes for baking and stuffing vegetables or meat, there are bread crumb specials such as crumb pastry for cream pies, crumb cake, crumb cookies and crumb bread pudding.

THE SUGGESTION BOX

Mrs. N.C. says: Dish towels hung straight after washing, and then dried, are more absorbent if they are not starched.

Mr. N. J. says: Old corks will protect the points of scissors, ice picks, etc.

Mrs. G. E. suggests:

BAKED SPARERIBS

Three to four pounds spareribs, half pound prunes, salt, pepper, flour.

Select two sections of spareribs. Soak prunes in cold water overnight or for several hours, and drain. Put the sections of spareribs together with the prunes between and tie to hold in place. Season the meat with salt and pepper and rub with flour. Place it on a rack in an open roasting pan and sear in a hot oven, 450 deg. F., until lightly browned. Reduce the heat to moderate (325 deg. F) and continue cooking for about an hour longer or until the meat is tender. Baste occasionally with the drippings in the pan.

"THE BRAY CHICK DOES THE TRICK"

BRAY CUSTOMERS TELL US

Last year, Mrs. Walter Donald, of Summer Hill, N.B., got 369 Bray Chicks. This year she wrote us: "I only lost 3 out of the 369. The cockerels averaged 6½ lbs. dressed at 6 months. The Bray Chick sure Does the Trick."

HEAVY BREED AND CROSS-BRED COCKERELS NOW AVAILABLE

W. J. Burke, Sydenham, Ont., writes: "Never had such quick maturing birds before." Eric Lindquist, Osborne, Man., reports: "Wonderful luck — be sure I will stay with Bray Chicks from now on." Mrs. H. Burrows, Courtice, Ont., writes: "I have had less trouble with this lot than with any other chicks I ever bought." Donald B. Gordon, Bonshaw, P.E.I., says: "Very satisfactory—laying well all winter."

That's the kind of letter we like to get—and we get a lot of them! Wouldn't chicks of the stamp that makes people write such letters suit YOU? To make the most of this year's real poultry profit opportunity, you will want really good chicks; and Bray Chicks have proved all across the country that they have the stuff to "do the trick".

Dinner in His Honour Held on Thursday

About the finest possible tribute that could be paid to any man was extended to Mr. W. A. Grange, at a dinner in the Superior Restaurant Banquet Hall on Thursday evening, February 28th, attended by nearly 100 of his friends, when appreciation was expressed to him of his long service to the town, to his church and to the many organizations with which he has been connected for over fifty years.

The dinner was arranged by a group of Mr. Grange's friends and admirers, who felt that such outstanding and unselfish service as he has given in the public interest, should no longer go unrecognized.

Butter Coupon Value Still The Same

We all know butter is scarce and many housewives across Canada are finding it hard to make their ration last until the next coupon comes due.

The butter shortage is responsible for the present reduced ration. But this does not mean that coupon values have changed. Recently there have been cases where some grocers have demanded two coupons for a half pound of butter.

This is definitely illegal, WPTB officials said. One valid butter coupon is still good for half a pound of butter where it is sold. The ration reduction being achieved by lengthening the time between coupon validations.

The present situation is sufficiently bad so that temporary shortages in many places are to be expected, but the Dairy Products Administration in Ottawa Board is doing its utmost to rush supplies to areas where most needed.

FIBRE GLASS LIFE JACKETS

Birmingham, Eng. — Fibre glass manufacturer developed into two main branches during the war—bat wool and textile—like Thumb Chance, chairman of a glass manufacturing firm said here.

Bat wool, one of the most efficient insulators known, is being used in the construction of prefabricated houses, he said, and is now being produced at the rate of 100 tons a week.

Glass is replacing kapok in aircraft and life jackets and is particularly useful in Pacific areas where it resists organisms which attack other substances.

Sir Hugh said the glass table cloth is "the housewife's dream, but she won't get it just yet. We have to make it crease-resistant and stronger so that when the housewife puts it into a tub she won't tear it to pieces."

A fibre glass cloth used to reinforce plastics, produced a material lighter than aluminium, stronger than steel and with better elastic and physical properties, he said.

THE SEAWAY

We, in Eastern Ontario, are deeply concerned with the hearings now being held before a sub-committee of The Senate Foreign Relations Committee, in Washington. The Committee is collecting evidence on which to base a recommendation with respect to the St. Lawrence Waterway. Last week, those in opposition to the plan were heard. Two main groups are leading the Opposition. On the one hand, there are those on the Atlantic seaboard who base their objections to the scheme on the adverse influence it will have on the business of the coastal cities. One speaker went so far as to suggest that, should the plan go through, it would about kill New York and that, he argued would be disastrous for the whole country.

The other group centres around Chicago and the coal mining interests of Pennsylvania. These latter were particularly vociferous in condemnation of the scheme. Their's was a very subtle argument. Deepening the St. Lawrence and opening it to seaborne traffic, they maintained, would permit Russian steamers to bring in Russian coal. Because of the low labor costs in Russia, the coal could be sold more cheaply in Canada than Pennsylvania coal, and as Canada is the best market at the present time, that market would be lost and business in the States would suffer.

Of course, it is very difficult to say what will happen if something else happens. Certainly, should the seaway go through, there would be a shift of business. That is to be expected. There was a great change when automobiles came, and when aeroplanes were invented. There is not much validity in an argument that would stop progress because it interferes with business. Business always has the ability to adjust itself to new conditions. Should the coal miners feel the pinch of competition, other groups would benefit by cheap power and ocean transportation.

Ultimately, the seaway plan will go through. Progress cannot be halted by any group, no matter how powerful. For a time, they may block reforms, but finally progress wins out.

We have no right to tell the Americans what they should do. But in the light of all the conditions now prevailing, it would appear that this is the opportune time to go through with this gigantic scheme. To do so would provide work for thousands of people for a long time. It would make available much needed power, and would make the cities and towns on the Great Lakes, seaports.

Canada is ready to go forward; it is to be hoped that the United States will go forward, too.

HOPEFUL SIGNS

There are some hopeful signs in the present disturbed state of international affairs. Perhaps the most significant of these is the frankness with which the Democratic Leaders are talking to Russia. The appeasement policy which was followed with respect to Hitler was taken as a sign of weakness and encouraged him and his henchmen to make even greater demands from those they sought to dominate. Now, however, the Democratic peoples are not hesitating to tell Russia that she must keep her word, that she must abide by her agreements.

Russia agreed to be out of Iran by March 1st. Her troops are still there. Secretary Byrnes of The United States, has told Russia that taking machinery from Manchurian factories is not her right. He has reminded Stalin, too, of his agreement to get the Russian troops out of Iran.

This frank dealing is a hopeful and healthy sign. Nothing is lost by being frank with friends; indeed, much is to be gained. This is true in personal relations — it is equally true in the larger area of international politics.

SELF-GOVERNMENT

Basic to the democratic way of life is the assumption that human personality is sacred. Every person has certain fundamental rights, one of which is the right to express his views as to who shall govern the country to which he belongs. When for long years this right is denied, the seeds of trouble and revolution are being sown. To prevent the seeds from taking root, dictators invariably keep the common people ignorant. From ignorance stems bigotry and superstition. However, in the process of time, even ignorant and superstitious people throw off the yoke in their determination to achieve some measure of freedom. Inevitably the pendulum swings a full arc and one form of dictatorship is substituted for another. That happened in Russia. It is happening in certain parts of Eastern Europe, now. It will happen in Spain. The swing will be away from the right to the extreme left. Communism is the natural successor to Fascism. Democracy comes later. Only after people have become educated and have learned to give and take, are they ready to govern themselves.

Self-Government is a matter of long training and experiment. It is an achievment. We are seeing, today, this progress towards Democracy at work. There is not much hope that it will come quickly among nations unready for it. Unfortunately, dictators, whether of the Right or Left, do not prepare the people for this role. It is here that the great Democracies have a great responsibility. They must show the way. They must be patient with those who will have to lead, in Democratic movements, in defeated and discouraged peoples. They must prevent, as far as possible, the substitution of one form of dictatorship for another. This will not be an easy task.

Should Franco be forced out of office in Spain, it will be an almost super-human task to prevent the nation from going Communist. This is probably why certain groups, even in the Democratic countries, are backing Franco. They prefer a dictatorship of the right rather than one of the left. In the long run, however, Democratic principles will prevail. The way may be long and tortuous, but the goal will be ultimately achieved, and the rights of human personality and self-government, acknowledged and accepted.

TOURIST TRAFFIC

From all appearances the tourist traffic to Canada will be increased within the next year or two. It is even said that before long the tourist trade will be Canada's greatest industry. Plans are being made, officially, to take care of the influx of visitors, and those who are interested, are being encouraged to prepare to meet the demand for accommodation and meals. New roads are being planned, and older roads are to be widened. No advertising campaign for telling Americans of Canada's opportunities will be launched this year, as prospects are there will be all the tourists we can handle.

Ontario is not the only part of Canada that is making plans to meet this situation. Last week, a conference of Boards of Trades and Chambers of Commerce in New Brunswick, was called by the Premier. The Government announced a five-point programme:

1 The Government will institute licensing and inspections of tourist accommodations to assure that they are brought up to standard.
2 It will compile data on what sites are available for the building of tourist facilities.
3 It will set up tourist outposts at border points, to give information to visitors.
4 It will keep the highways in shape.
5 It will encourage handicrafts, teaching New Brunswickers to produce goods which tourists will readily buy . . .

all of which shows that governments are alive to tourist possibilities. We, in Lennox and Addington, have one of the finest counties in Ontario for tourists. There is no reason why this might not become one of the most popular tourist centres in Ontario, and the tourist business one of our most lucrative.

Now is the time to prepare for it. A concerted and organized effort should now be made, not only to make our assets known, but to educate and train tourist housekeepers as to the way in which they can meet the demands of the stranger within our gates.

GRACE CHURCH W. A.

The February meeting of the Woman's Association was held Thursday in the Sunday School room, with a good attendance. Mrs. Willfrid Smith, president, presided and was assisted in the devotional by Mrs. A.Grieves, Mrs. A. Thompson, Mrs. W. Ramsay, Mrs. S. Shetler and Miss E. Van Alstyne. The prayer was given by Mrs. H. Vine and a vocal solo by Mrs. J. F. Dingman.

In the absence of the secretary, Mrs. Valleau, Mrs. F. B. Elliott was the acting secretary. All arrangements were made for the Saint Patrick Tea on March 13th. It was decided to serve the supper for the Father and Son banquet, to be held in March.

Mrs. G. E. Gibbard and Mrs. A. Grieves gave most interesting talks on Home Nursing and Emergencies. The programme was in charge of the group of which Mrs. W. F. Barrett and Mrs. H. Vine are the conveners.

The meeting closed the Mispah benediction.

GENERAL RECOMMENDATIONS ON EDUCATION

At a meeting of the Board of Directors of the Ontario Educational Association, at Easter, 1945, the general executive was empowered to prepare a brief for submission to the Royal Commission on Education.

In keeping with the all-embracing character of the general association, the Ontario Educational Association brief deals with general educational matters rather than with particular aspects of education. A summary of the recommendations, which appeared in the official organ, "The O. E. A. News Bulletin" in the February issue, 1946, follows:—

1 Recruiting Prospective Teachers. Prospective teachers should be recruited from the secondary schools. The Guidance Officer of such a school should feel it his duty to give a course in teaching as a career to interested student groups. The Department of Education might have a booklet prepared on the topic, and might arrange for talks on the subject to high school assemblies. Higher salaries and scholarships alone will not relieve the teacher shortages.

2 Selection of Prospective Teachers Additional requirements for Normal School entrance might be an oral test, a favourable report from the High School Principal, or Guidance Officer, and successful passing of an aptitude test.

3 Training Prospective Teachers. The O.E.A. recommends (1) that every effort be made to extend the period of elementary teacher training beyond the one year plus summer courses now in force; (2) that part of the work covered in such extended training courses count toward a university degree; (3) that health services be extended to the Normal Schools; (4) that the matter of the provision of residences attached to certain Normal Schools be given serious consideration.

4 The Training of Teachers in Service. The O.E.A. brief recommends that, even under an extended pre-service training, prescribed academic and professional work be still required for the obtaining of a permanent certificate; that summer courses for teachers be more professional than academic, and include refresher courses, and that a reading course be one requirement for a permanent certificate.

5 Supervision of Instruction We recommend that, if more supervising teachers are to be appointed to assist Inspectors, some of them be primary specialists; that the proposed plan of regional offices of the Department of Education be given serious consideration; and that Inspectors and Normal Masters be provided with refresher courses.

6 Audio-Visual Education We recommend that the Department of Education continue its present progressive policy of placing the facilities of radio and motion pictures at the disposal of the schools, that teachers receive instruction in the use of these educational media, and that the Department keep in touch with the latest developments in audio-visual education.

7 Health in Schools We commend to the Departments of Health and Education the ideal school health programme prepared by the School Health Section of the O.E.A. We call to the attention of the Department of Education the recommendations of the Men's Physical Education Section of the O.E.A. as to increased provision for health and physical education in secondary schools, and we recommend increased stress on mental health in schools.

8 Guidance We recommend that the Guidance programme be continued and expanded.

9 Religious Education (1) The Ontario Educational Association commends the Department of Education for the introduced religious education into the public elementary schools of the Province. (2) This general association of the O.E.A. heartily endorses the views expressed in the brief prepared by the College and Secondary School Department of the Ontario Educational Association regarding religious education for the secondary schools.

10 Public Libraries and Schools We recommend that, as a training for citizenship, public libraries be recognized as a part of public education; that training in the use of books be stressed in schools, and we suggest that the time may be opportune for legislation providing for provincial certification of public librarians.

11 Inter-Departmental Co-operation The Ontario Department of Education and the Children's Aid Branch of the Ontario Department of Public Welfare might find mutual advantage in closer co-operation.

12 The Composite School The establishment of secondary schools of the composite type should be encouraged in Ontario.

13 A County Board of Education The time seems ripe for legislative provision of permissive County Boards of Education.

14 Larger High School Districts The Department of Education would seem to be well advised to continue to promote the formation of larger high school districts comprising both rural areas and urban centres.

15 Adult Education The O.E.A. recommends that the Department of Education assume the responsibility for organizing the existing facilities for adult education; that an effort be made to meet the expressed needs of all communities; and that the use of schools for the purposes of adult education, be encouraged.

16 The Junior College Junior Colleges should be established in centres throughout the Province, which would derive areas now improvided with any local facilities for higher education.

17 Research in Education We recommend that the research function of the Department of Education be emphasized both for academic and administrative purposes.

18 Publicizing Education We recommend that, by adequate publicity, the public be kept acquainted with and sympathetic towards the findings of research in modern education and educational progress.

19 Canadian Citizenship Promotion The Ontario Educational Association recommends that a constant and systematic effort be maintained in our schools to weld together into a common Canadian citizenship all the diverse elements of our people, and that the Ontario educational authorities co-operate fully to this end with the Departments of Education or Educational Associations of the other eight provinces.

British Recovery Vital To Eire

BY ALAN MONTGOMERY
Canadian Press correspondent

Dublin — Confidence that Britain's industrial recovery will be rapid "and that, her industries, particularly her engineering industries will soon be able to accept large-scale export orders", is expressed by Sean Lemass, Minister of Industry and Commerce.

British recovery was of vital importance to Eire, he told the Solicitors' Apprentices' Debating Society of Ireland, because of Eire's large sterling balances built up during the war.

"Our economic position is particularly vulnerable in circumstances such as now exist," he said. "Practically the whole of our pre-war exports went to the United Kingdom and we received in exchange British funds, which, however, were freely exchangeable into other currencies and therefore available to finance the purchase of goods elsewhere.

"Now, however, the position is changed. Sterling is no longer freely acceptable outside the sterling area, and it is from outside that area we draw the bulk of our supplies of such essential commodities as wheat, maize, timber, petroleum and tobacco."

Mr. Lemass said the only safe policy for Eire at present was to increase home production and reduce dependence on goods imported against dollar payments.

Later the government "will have to consider the adjustments in our external trade and general financial arrangements which will best suit our interests in the changed world situation."

He outlined Eire's basic foreign policy as "full support for every international organization which is formed for the purpose of substituting, in the conduct of inter-state relations reason and law for tyranny and force and which offers a fair prospect of success in that purpose."

The same principle, he said, "extends from the political into the economic field."

Ready money: Large numbers of men and women from Eire have been working in British factories and during the last year have sent home to their families about £11,500,000 (-$51-?0,000). Recent settlement by the British Ministery of Pensions sent another £3,000,000 into the country, another £15,000,000 derives from investments in British securities.

INTERNATIONAL SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON, MARCH 10TH, 1946

"NATIONAL DISASTER AND DELIVERANCE"

Lesson Text: Judges 2: 7, 11, 16-23

When the Hebrew people moved into Canaan they left the wilderness and they had a lot of adjustments to make. In the wilderness they had lived an ancient life. They had to wrest their livelihood from a stubborn non-productive land. They developed into a vigorous, hardy people, able to cope with the vagaries of wind and storm, to get water from seeming inaccessible places, and out of a sort, from all but barren steppes.

When they crossed into Jordan they entered a land that was tilled and cultivated. So lush was the growth that Hebrews spoke of it as a land flowing with milk and honey. Gradually they adopted the ways of the people, becoming themselves farmers and settled land owners. Along with that change was a change in religious life and in conduct. They became lax and soft.

Long before this happened, or at least while it was taking place, there was little in the form of settled government. There developed in each area a sort of elder statesmanship. An old man, known for his fairness and good sense, became a sort of judge, making decisions, and in general, keeping a resemblance of good order. At best, this was a rough and ready way of handling public affairs in a transitional stage. It is this condition which forms the background of this week's lesson. For convenience sake the period is known as the time of the judges.

The story follows a familiar pattern. The people foresook God. God raised up judges, the people repented and prosperity followed. This formula is repeated time and again throughout the Book of Judges. It is what might be called the theme song of the book. It is more than that though, it is probably an accurate account of what happened. Israel's trouble began when they forsook God. Getting into a new land with plenty of easy food and a new prosperity, they thought they did not need God, as they did in the desert. Then trouble arose. They discovered that there are forces outside themselves which they disobey only at the risk of physical and spiritual loss. That is the way it works in history. The German people who gulfed a religion of blood, the realm of science far in advance of others, openly denied God. The result was inevitable horror camps, brutality, arrogance, self-glorfiication and then utter collapse.

The danger of prosperity is a real one. The danger of achievment is equally great. In the post-war world there is need more than ever, a sense of dependence on God. We had days of prayer during the national danger. Days of prayer now are equally needed.

Half the world is hungry, starving. We here, have plenty and to share. A sense of world-wide brotherhood which is the corollary of faith in God, would compel us to brush aside all thought of profit, as we did during the days of lend-lease, out through all red tape and get the food to those who but for us, will surely starve.

Forsaking God has the same results in our day as it did in the days of the judges. Perhaps more than anything else, what is now needed is a new note of penitence on the part of Christians, and a renewed determination to accept responsibility for making Christian our whole social and economic and political life. We have forsaken God and paid the price. In a return to God is the only hope of the world.

Conway - Sandhurst

Conway - Sandhurst, March 4. — So March made its entrance as a lamb. Such delightful weather is most welcome and helpful. The ice in the Bay of Quinte remains good, but the warm sun and cutting March winds have begun to cut away the top snow and make it slushy for travel.

Colds are common and many are confined to bed with flu or lagrippe.

Miss Peggy Ham, Reg.N., who has been ill at her home at Conway, is improving.

This past week brought moving day, and a busy one it was in this neighborhood.

Mr. and Mrs. Frank Vaughn have moved to the farm of Mr. Archie Wright.

Mr. and Mrs. James H. Hayes and family, of Sandhurst, moved to their new home at Hayburn.

Mr. and Mrs. E. Kearns and family have moved to Enterprise.

Mr. and Mrs. McGinnis, of Bath, have moved to the farm vacated by E. Kearns.

Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Keys, of Sillsville, have returned to their farm at Sandhurst.

We are glad to report that Mr. H. M. Robinson is feeling better at time of writing.

Mr. Red Wright and Mr. Frank Ham went to Toronto last week for a few days. Mr. Ham returned on Thursday but Mr. Wright, who was taken ill, will remain for some time.

Mr. and Mrs. Ford Rombough, of Adolphustown, were Sunday guests of Mr. and Mrs. Ross Lasher, Sandhurst.

CAMDEN EAST

Camden East, March 4.—Mr. Chas. Histed, an aged and highly respected resident of this village for the past 60 years, passed away at the Kingston General Hospital on Wednesday evening, February 27th. The late Mr. Histed had lived alone since the death of his wife in 1941 until a few days before going to the hospital he was moved to the home of his youngest son, Percy. He went to the hospital on February 20th and his condition was not thought serious at that time. The late Mr. Histed was in his 87th year, and a member of the United Church. His remarks were brought to his home and the funeral was held in the United Church on Saturday afternoon at 2:00 o'clock, with the minister, Rev. W. Fletcher, of Yarker, officiating. The choir, under the leadership of Mrs. V. Edgar, sang "No Tears" and "Safe in the Arms of Jesus". Left to mourn his loss are two sons, Herbert, of Desmond, and Percy, who is Postmaster at Camden East; also two grandsons and three granddaughters. Beautiful floral offerings rested on the casket. The pallbearers were Ogden Hinch, Irvine Russell, Arch. Alkenbrack, Wm. Gehan, Joe Lewis, and George Shane. The remains were placed in the Napanee vault, to await burial in Camden East United Church cemetery in the spring.

Mr. George Black, who has been ill at his home here for several weeks, passed away on Wednesday night. His funeral was held on Friday to the United Church, with Rev. W. G. Fletcher officiating, under the auspices of the Masonic Lodge of Tamworth, with Newburgh members in attendance. The late George Black leaves to mourn his loss his widow, one daughter, Mrs. Cloue, of Croydon, and Mrs. Paul, of Kingston, and one son, Archie, of Flint, Mich., who was unable to attend the funeral. The body was placed in Tamworth vault, to await burial beside his first wife in the spring.

TAMWORTH

Tamworth, March 4. — The February meeting of the Women's Institute was held at the home of Mrs. J. W. Bradshaw. There were eleven members and four visitors present.

The 1st Vice President, Mrs. S. Gilmour, was in the chair.

After the usual opening, the roll call was answered with "An Economy Wrinkle".

The reading of the minutes brought forth several items of business to be looked after.

Mrs. J. W. Bradshaw reported having purchased a piano stool for use in the Town Hall.

The secretary reported having bought some new cups, to be placed in the W. I. cupboard in the Town Hall.

Several bills were presented for fruit for the sick, and goods for the Girls' Class. These were all ordered paid.

Mrs. T. Scanlin, Mrs. W. G. Richmond and Mrs. J. Nicholson were named as a committee to meet the Township Council and interview them in regard to enlarging the Town Hall and putting it in proper shape.

It was decided that a Tag Day for the Navy be held in September.

Mrs. T. Scanlin offered her home for the District Executive to meet, as it is to be held in Tamworth this spring. The menu for lunch was left for the Executive to arrange.

This being the "Home Economics" meeting, a paper was read by Mrs. Harry Amey, that had been prepared by the Convener, Mrs. Fred Milligan. The paper was on the subject "Feeding the Family for Health".

Mrs. Scanlin then gave a very vivid description, in a half hour talk, on her recent trip to Texas. The speaker showed samples of cotton as it is picked from the fields, and said she travelled a great distance through Indiana and Illinois, where field after field of corn and cotton were being harvested, this being the second crop this season. In Texas the main crops are corn, cotton and sugar cane. The pigs in Texas are of poor quality and are called "razor backs".

The Christmas decorations were marvellous, especially in the churches. She mentioned the gorgeous orchards of grape fruit, and said it was grand to be able to go out in the yard and pick fresh grape fruit for breakfast.

She pictured the extreme beauty of the Rio Grand Valley Mexico, the Gulf of Mexico, the Cork Screw Mountains, and also mentioned several items of Mexican food. Their national dish is beans.

In travelling through eleven States she obtained several pictures, which were on display.

This talk was most interesting and very instructive.

The meeting closed with the National Anthem.

Money received at this meeting was $10.20. Lunch was served by the hostess and her committee.

SANDHURST W. A.

The February meeting of Sandhurst W.A. was held at the home of Mrs. T. Gurren with sixteen members present. Following opening exercises a hymn and prayers were said by Rev. H. C. Secker, followed by the scripture reading. Roll call was answered by the members. The minutes of the last meeting were read and approved. The report was given, showing a balance on hand of $29.67. Correspondence was read which included a notice regarding the World's Day of Prayer to be held March 8th, also the duties of a key woman, who is appointed to look after duties in her parish of service-for World's Day of Prayer. The regular routine of the monthly board meeting was read. Collection was then taken which amounted to $22.15. Rev. Mr. H. C. Secker closed the meeting with prayer.

The Dorcas Committee took over and knitting and sewing was done while Mrs. F. Ham read from the study book. A dainty lunch was served by the hostess, which was enjoyed by all.

Some enterprising Australian ex-servicemen plan to supply Western Australia with fish—delivered by air! They hope to buy a Dakota plane capable of carrying 7,000 lbs. of fish, with which they will carry on their trade. Where there are no suitable landing-fields fish supplies will be dropped by parachute.

In the Garden

After six years of war the world workshops are beating their swords back again into plow shares. For ex-service men, for all those who have worked too hard or at too fast a pace, there is a call for that vast throng of normal, average human beings who get a natural craving to dig in the soil every spring. Gardening offers a cure, rest and relaxation all rolled into one. There is fresh air, healthful exercise and the solid satisfaction of seeing things grow. One can talk as little or as much as one likes and the cost is hardly worth mentioning — a few dollars for tools, a few cents for seeds, and nature with a little help will do the rest.

PLANNING WITH HELP

While the soil is getting warm, garden experts advise doing a little planning. Especially where the plot is small and one wants to make the very best used of this limited area, a rough sketch on paper of the general layout will help. On this mark the main boundaries and the permanent features like fences, hedges, ways, sidewalks, house lines, garage, etc. In planning shrubbery and flower gardens the beginner is advised to bear in mind that each plant should have half as much room either way as it will be high at maturity. This means that shrubs like lilacs, which grow about eight feet high, should have at least four feet between, ordinary shade trees like the maple should be 30 to 40 feet apart, though one can plant temporary shrubbery between. With foundation planting about the house, too, it is important to give space, and not get this right under the eaves. Most shrubs will make a much better show if planted at least three feet in front of any wall or fence.

MAKE SURE THEY WILL GROW IN CANADA

There are a lot of beautiful flowers and shrubs that will grow well in the Southern States or in the mild climate of England that will not do well in Canada. Our climate, soil and other conditions are not suitable, just as their conditions do not suit certain things that thrive abundantly here. Columnists have poked some good-natured fun at the glowing pictures and descriptions in the seed catalogues, but as a matter of fact those listed and pictured in Canadian publications have been tested under Canadian conditions and are based on actual fact. The pictures are invariably actual photographs and any gardener of reasonable experience can reproduce them faithfully in his own backyard.

BUILDING UP THE SOIL

Ideal garden soil is loose, open and on the light side, a mixture of sand, clay and rotted vegetable material. That combination is rather rare under natural conditions. However, even poor soil can be gradually changed into something more desirable. The best general corrective is plenty of rotted manure. If you have refuse such as rotted sods, green crops, turned in. Cultivation alone will work wonders after a year or two. All weeds, vegetable tops, grass clippings, etc., should be dug in and if possible a load or two of manure.

Commercial fertilizer should be used carefully, according to directions. During the war some marvelous new fertilizers and beneficial bacteria have been developed.

THE MIXING BOWL

BY Anne Allan

HYDRO HOME ECONOMIST

Hello Homemakers!

Reminiscing about the days when one could order a gallon of maple syrup from the farmer, one told the story about a tourist who ran out of gasoline on a country road and seeing a boy coming along, with a big tin pail, hailed him — "say, son, I hope that's gasoline you have there." "No" the boy replied, "I hope it ain't—it would taste like the dickens on Ma's pancakes."

Flip jacks and crepes are a special treat now when both butter and sugar are limited in supply. Instead of merely pouring butter on the hot pancakes slice a few sections of banana on them before pouring on the syrup. Maple syrup is indeed the favourite topping but we suggest a choice of alternatives this year.

Syrups: mock maple syrup, honey and peanut butter melted in boiling water, strained honey or old-fashioned sugar syrup. Old-fashioned sugar syrup is made using white, brown or shaved maple sugar in the proportions of two cups sugar to two-thirds cup boiling water and two tablespoons lemon juice. Stir until sugar is dissolved and boil until clear.

TAKE A TIP

1 Before attempting to make up a stack of pancakes remember to have a good recipe and use the proper precautions in frying if you wish to avoid fussy and soggy cakes.

2 You can buy prepared pancake flour and save yourself the bother of mixing.

3 Grease the griddle or heavy frying pan evenly.

4 Have the griddle piping hot. For a simple test, place a few drops of water on the griddle and if the drops dance about in lively fashion it is hot enough. Make small pancakes as they are easily handled and of better shape.

5 Fry the cakes until the whole top is dotted with bubbles; then turn them quickly, using a wide turner to avoid breaking the cakes.

6 When golden brown with slightly crisp edges, remove them to a warm shallow serving pan, stacking them on end. Serve at once.

One of the essentials of oven baking is to know your range and observe its correct temperatures. If the oven has a worn indicator you may be able to purchase an oven-test thermometer that should be kept on the rack while baking.

Oven Temperature 425 Degrees F.

1 Fruit cobblers, (tea biscuit dough), Dutch apple cake, coffee cake.

2 Oven steamed vegetables, scalloped tomatoes — on high shelf.

4 Baked potatoes (medium - size 50 minutes) — high shelf.

Oven Temperature 400 Degrees F.

1 Muffins, refrigerator rolls.

2 Fruit cobblers.

3 Sausages, meat balls in sauce.

Oven-steamed vegetables, scalloped tomatoes, pepper squash, (covered part time).

5 Baked potatoes (medium - size 1 hour).

Oven Temperature 350 Degrees F.

1 Plain cakes, cornbread, gingerbread upside down cakes, apple betty, apple crisp hermits, fruit bars, quick loaf breads.

2 Baked apples.

3 Meat casseroles, roast beef, roast lamb, baked pot roasts, braised meats of all kinds.

4 Scalloped potatoes, leftover vegetables (covered to reheat).

5 Oven cooked breakfast porridge (covered).

TAKE A TIP

1 The average oven has accommodation for at least two or three dishes at once. It is necessary, however, to select dishes which need the same temperature of heat and to do this is to list your favourite dishes, quick breads, vegetables and desserts under the temperatures at which each should be cooked.

2 Oven companions do not necessarily have to be kitchen companions. A dessert for next day's lunch (custard, baked fruit, etc.) or even oven poached cereal for the next morning.

3 Select baking dishes to fit the oven racks. Do not use large roast pans if smaller ones will do.

4 Do not have foods on lower shelf directly under those on top. This prevents foods from browning on top.

THE SUGGESTION BOX

From a townslady who has moved to Northern Ontario but who still reads her home town paper comes a newsy letter. We publish a few of her suggestions:

1 If your electric iron has become discoloured and sticks to the clothes pour a little salt on some brown paper and press the iron in and move around in the salt.

2 A handy ironing board attachment is a small stiff brush useful for brushing out fringes, ringing up chenille or velvet materials and removing lint from cotton materials.

3 Keep packages of black and white press-on mending tape and a small paid of scissors near your ironing board. Mend small tears as you iron.

4 Good parts of an old shower curtain make waterproof bibs for baby.

New Weed Killer Genuine Knock Out

What George Knowles, Weed Control Expert, Field Husbandry Division, Central Experimental Farm, Ottawa, believes is the most helpfully yet discovered in the battle against weeds. It is a new chemical known as 2-4-D, which is a contraction of 2-4-dichlorophenoxyacetic acid. His belief follows the encouraging results of a series of elaborate experiments carried on in Ottawa and at several other Dominion Experimental Farms in co-operation with 13 north central states of the United States.

In Ottawa the experiments disclosed that one application of the powerful new chemical, which the manufacturers say will be on sale in quantities in Canada early in the spring, will kill many weeds, more effectively than any other chemical. It will also kill dandelions and most other weeds found in lawns, without injury to the grass. It does, however, eliminate clover, but the clover gradually grows again without reseeding.

While 2-4-D when used on Canada Thistle in grain crops has not completely kill the vigorous weed, it was so badly set back that it did not reappear until nearly harvest time and then only in the form of young shoots. Practically the same results were obtained on field bindweed growing in a field of oats. Just how many applications of 2-4-D will be required to spell sure and certain death to Canada Thistle and field bindweed in grain crops is yet to be determined.

When annual weeds, such as mustard, lamb's quarters, and red root pigweed are sprayed with the new weed killer, they are blotted out completely as Hiroshima was by the Atomic bomb. As an example of this, Mr. Knowles says a dense growth of mustard growing in an acre of grain was eliminated by one spraying of 120 gallons of liquid that contained less than three-quarters of a pound of one of the preparations containing 2-4-D. Amazingly the new devastating weed killer does no perceptible injury to plants of the grass family, which includes wheat, oats, barley and rye. But if it is used on a lawn around a flower garden, Mr. Knowles advises the exercise of considerable care or some cherished plants may be damaged, for there is still much to learn about the new wonder weed killer.

Discovery of 2-4-D was made by a group of scientists in the United States in 1943 while experimenting with hormones or growth stimulants. Over-stimulation it was found, killed some plants, one of which was field bindweed. The news of what 2-4-D did to bindweed caused great interest among agricultural scientists everywhere and plans to carry on experiments on other weeds have since been carried out at several points in Canada and the United States.

If additional experiments with 2-4-D give as encouraging results as those which have already been disclosed farmers may be able to wage a more successful war against weeds, which cost them many millions of dollars annually.

PRICE CONTROL AND RATIONING INFORMATION

Q. Three months ago I rented a Furnished apartment to a couple with one child. Now I hear that they have two boarders. Are they allowed to do this?

A. WPTB rental rules permit any householder to share his accommodation with whomever he likes or to let or sublet any part of it. So your tenant would be quite within his rights in having two boarders.

Q. Last week I purchased at a drug store, a new lipstick, a box of face powder and a bottle of patent medicine. While the powder was the same price as I usually pay, the lipstick was four cents more and I was charged 15 cents extra for the medicine. When I questioned the storekeeper he said the ceiling prices had been suspended on these articles and he could charge any price he liked. Is this right?

A. The ceiling price was suspended on these but certain other items as of February 1st. However, if the prices rise unnecessarily on certain items the price ceiling can be re-imposed at any time.

Q. I run a boarding house. The other day I purchased a 165-oz. tin of pie peaches, unsweetened, and did not realize we are coupons, as these large cans of unsweetened fruit are not rationed. I would like to find the same size tin of Sweetened Cherries for pies. Will I have to give up coupons?

A. Sweetened canned fruit is not available in 165-oz. tins but if it were you would have to surrender coupons as all sweetened canned fruit is rationed regardless of the size of the container. As you know all unsweetened canned fruit is also rationed in all sizes of cans under 165-oz. to give wider distribution.

Trans-Canada Air Lines Booking Passengers For Overseas

Montreal. — Schedules on Canada's air service to Great Britain have been increased to three flights weekly and fare-paying passengers are now able to book passage from any Canadian city, according to an announcement made by Trans-Canada Air Lines, operators of the service for the Government. Accommodation, both eastbound and westbound, has been set aside for business men and other travellers, whereas the service had been confined in the past to priority ticket holders.

Effective immediately the big Lancastrian four-engined aircraft will leave Montreal Airport on Mondays, Wednesdays and Fridays for Prestwick, Scotland, the passengers arriving in London and other United Kingdom cities a few hours later. Westbound departures from Prestwick are made Wednesdays, Fridays and Sundays. Mails and express are being carried, as well as passengers, and the express shipments may be forwarded from any point in Canada.

On a normal flight, the cargo capacity is 3,300 pounds of mail, express and baggage. Four of the six Lancastrians built in Canada for this trans-Atlantic service have accommodation for ten passengers each and two are equipped with eight passenger seats. Each has a crew of five, Captain, First Officer, Navigator, Radio Officer and Purser-Steward. This Trans-Canada express operation is being flown by senior pilots specially trained over the Atlantic men who were drawn from the Company's transcontinental routes, and to supplement the flight personnel of the airline, a large number of RCAF pilots, navigators and radio operators have joined TCA. In all, more than 500 crossings over the Atlantic have been made by T.C.A. The time taken on these flights has been approximately twelve hours, although the line's record trip was ten hours and fifteen minutes.

Conveniences now installed for the passengers include modern heating and ventilating system, fluorescent lighting and kitchen units "heated electrically. Dinners of roast chicken, steaks or lamb chops, with vegetables are prepared at the Montreal Airport and at Prestwick and served to the passengers over the ocean. T.C.A. passenger agents at airports, Salad luncheons, afternoon teas and coffee are also served during the air voyage. Magazines and newspapers are provided for the passengers, as well as cribbage boards and other games.

"It is our intention," says D. R. MacLaren, superintendent of passenger service for T.C.A., "to develop for them the distinctive Canadian service, friendly but reserved, which will be the best on the North Atlantic."

Seven Trans - Canada Air Lines passenger agents, all former RCAF men, have taken a special course to fit them for their duties as Purser-Stewards on board these trans-Atlantic Lancastrians. When they left port and at Prestwick and served in the Air Force, the week became to the passengers over the ocean. T.C.A. passenger agents at airports, in the Atlantic service because of character, initiative and tact and knowledge of flying and of airline procedure.

THE TREATMENT OF JEWS IN THE BRITISH ZONE

London — Recently published accusations that Jews in the British zone in Germany have been mistreated, were brought up at Question Time in the House of Commons, when B. Hynd, head of the Government Department for Germany and Austria, replied that the accusations are without foundation, and went into considerable detail on the whole subject.

He said that by the end of October, about 580,000 displaced persons had immediately quarrelable were left in the British zone. Of these, only a relatively small proportion were Jews.

Referring to the prominence given to conditions supposedly existing in Belsen camp, he said that this camp was in fact destroyed by order shortly after the British troops arrived. The only assembly centre near the site is at Hoehne, where a large number of displaced persons, among them 9,500 Jews, are accommodated. "This Centre," he said, "is run by the British Red Cross Society under the direction of a relief detachment of the military authorities. The Jewish displaced persons maintain their own guards, workshops, recreation rooms, and sickbay, and organize their own working parties and administration. The following food scale is in force: 2,915 calories per day for nursing and expectant mothers, 2,840 calories per day for workers, 2,161 calories per day for non-workers and children.

"The medical is administered by UNRRA. There is an adequate supply of medicine and the hospital is well fitted and well run. Included in the staff are some German doctors and nurses who work under the direction of UNRRA doctors. Each displaced person has at least two blankets, as have all displaced persons in assembly cellrea, and all have received a fresh outfit of clothing since leaving the Belsen Concentration Camp.

"There is no censorship of newspapers within the centre. No restriction is placed on Zionite activities, and complete freedom of movement in and out of the camp is permitted.

"A minimum ration scale of 2,000 calories per day is prescribed for all displaced persons in the British zone with additions for workers and other special categories. This is much in excess of what is being received by the Germans.

Frequent levies of clothing for the benefit of displaced persons have been made on the German population to augment such imported clothing as has been available. Every effort is made to provide adequate protection against the cold. Deficiencies still exist, particularly in blankets and men's overcoats, but steps are being taken to make good the shortages.

"Displaced persons are accommodated in areas known as assembly centres, which often consist of blocks of houses requisitioned from the German people. Other assembly centres consist of large well-fitted barracks or camps. Inevitably, given the general shortage of accommodations in the heavily bombed German cities, some assembly centres are overcrowded, but the standard of living space laid down as the minimum for displaced persons is higher than that allowed for the German population. The movement of displaced persons to specially selected winter accommodations started in October last and is now practically complete."

'Betrayer' of Nazis Now Tries To Save Himself

BY WAVERLEY ROOT

Experts on Germany are taking with a great deal more than the proverbial grain of salt the stories of conflicts with Goering which allegedly caused the disgrace of Dr. Hjalmar Horace Greeley Schacht, together with what appears to be Schacht's own attempt to save himself by claiming that he betrayed the Nazi regime by giving information and their aggressive plans to the Allies.

The case for Schacht is based on these statements:

(1) That he resigned as Minister of Economics in 1937 because he refused to cooperate with Goering who was the director of the German Four-Year Plan.

(2) That he was 'ousted as President of the Reichsbank in 1939 also because of his conflicts with Nazis and from that time forward "assisted" the Allies.

(3) That he warned an American diplomat of the invasion of the Low Countries, two weeks in advance.

(4) That he likewise warned an American diplomat of the attack on Russia, three weeks in advance.

Even if all of these statements should prove to be true, they do not necessarily indicate that Schacht was not playing the Nazi game to the hilt. And even if it is true that he abandoned the Nazis, — does not follow that he ever ceased to espouse the cause of Pan-German aggression, of which the Nazi Party was one means of action, but not the only one.

The story of Schacht's disagreements with Goering is an old one, put forward at times by what seemed to be German sources, with a purpose suspected at the time as being that of giving Schacht an anti-Nazi reputation so that in case of defeat he might be able to remain in a position of influence and continue to direct Germany along the course of world domination. Thus, in April, 1943, a report was floated that he had written a letter to Goering so blistering that he had been obliged to leave political life altogether and retire to the country. Yet he continued to be a member of the cabinet.

It is probable that he did disagree with Goering. It may even be that this was the reason why he resigned as Minister of Economics. But disagreement with one of his colleagues on questions of method does not exonerate Schacht of agreeing with him on the end to be sought, and since he remained President of the Reichsbank after this episode, as the second statement offered in his behalf reveals, it cannot be held that this resignation relieves Schacht from complicity in Germany's plot against the world. The second statement, in short, nullifies the value of the first.

He left the presidency of the Reichsbank in 1939 — but was he "ousted"? His own appointee replaced him, and though he remained behind the scenes, he continued to direct the policy of the bank through his men in its administration. Again, there is no proof that this change meant abandonment of this role as a directing power in the Nazi state. Indeed, he was still a member, and, indeed, the assertions made in the third and fourth statements that he was a very important secret to the Allies show him as being still a member of the inner circle, privy to a very few men at the top. The third and fourth statements, in short nullify the value of the second.

The warning Schacht is said to have delivered concerning the invasion of the Low Countries is reported to have been extremely vague. He said that he would not be in Berlin on a certain week-end "because I don't want to be there when it happens." If the defense rests solely on the assertion that he hoped the word "it" would be correctly interpreted (the timing was wrong anyway, since the invasion did not occur during a week-end), it is pretty weak. He could hardly claim that it was impossible for him to be more explicit, for statement for statement he has as having been much more explicit on the attack on Russia. The fourth statement, in short, largely nullifies the very slight value of the third.

This leaves us with nothing but the fourth point in Schacht's defense: that he tipped the United States off on the Russian attack three weeks in advance. Why? If we look back in recent German history for a similar example, we find Benesh von Neurath telling French Ambassador Francois Poncet, there months in advance of Germany's plan to take over Austria. We know the reason for that. It was to test France's reaction. If France and England had shown signs of opposing the move by force, Germany would not have attacked. The reaction was weak, so Austria was lost.

It is entirely possible that if Schacht did make this revelation, the reason was the same. Germany wanted to make sure that the new move would not bring America into the war. Violent reaction might have changed her plans. Absence of reaction caused them to be carried out.

Thus all of this, even though the facts alleged are completely true, does not indicate Schacht's innocence. In June, 1940 he must have warned the United States of Germany's attack against Russia: but there is no claim that in November, 1941 he warned the United States of Japan's attack against herself. And he was not out of high councils then either. It was after Stalingrad, at the end of 1942 and the beginning of 1943 that Schacht worked out, for Hitler, an economic plan to maintain as much as possible of Germany's improved position resulting from the success of her early conquests in case of ultimate defeat.

One of the plans to prevent a beaten Germany from losing everything is believed to have been the attempt to save individual leaders for the future by giving them anti-Nazi reputations; and the various stories which came out of wartime disagreements with the Nazis were ticketed at the time as being inspired by this desire to make of him a Trojan horse to bring victory by guile to the nation which could not win it by force. If this theory is accurate, the reports coming from Nuremberg would represent the working out of this plot.

But even if it is not, even if Schacht's defence is not part of a conspiracy entered into with the Nazis to keep him a power in Germany, the case against him is convincing. He worked for German hegemony long before the Nazis became the German government as President of the Reichsbank. In 1931, abandoning the government he was serving then, in order to build the economic and financial structure which would permit Germany to make war under the direction of the Nazis, whom he considered the instruments who would bring success to the Pan-German idea. He may very well have abandoned this instrument also, when it proved incapable of performing the task. But he cannot demonstrate that he ever abandoned the object he pursued consistently all his life, only that he adopted other means to achieve it.

NEWFOUNDLAND'S FUTURE

London. — In 1933 the Newfoundland Parliament voluntarily renounced its Dominion status in favor of Government by a Commission appointed by the King. Now the island is once more to be given the opportunity to decide what form its administration will take, according to a statement made to the United Kingdom House of Commons by Prime Minister Attlee. This promise carries out the policy stated by the Coalition Government in December, 1943, now endorsed by the Labor Government. Mr. Attlee's connection with the welfare of Newfoundland, is close, since, in September, 1942, he visited the island in his capacity of Secretary of State for the Dominions, in order to discover how the people there felt about the restoration of their constitution.

Newfoundland, which previously was a fully, self-governing Dominion, experienced financial difficulties during the depression. After borrowing heavily for some years, she found herself unable to pay interest on her debts. A financial crisis developed in 1933, leading to the appointment of a Royal Commission of Inquiry. It was after this investigation that the Newfoundland Parliament asked Britain to take responsibility for her administration and financial problems until she could herself develop stability. Since that time the island has been administered by the Governor and six Commissioners, three of them Newfoundlanders, and three from the United Kingdom, appointed by the King.

During the war the island assumed importance as a naval and air base, with consequent improvement in economic conditions. In 1941 she balanced her budget without a grant in-aid from Britain for the first time since 1932, and in 1942 she had a surplus of $7,000,000 from a total revenue of $23,000,000. It may be, of course, that this wartime prosperity is only temporarry.

Mr. Attlee announced that as early in 1946 as the Newfoundland climate permits, a Convention is to be elected, with all adults voting. The Convention is to consider and discuss changes that have occurred in the financial and economic situation of the island since 1934, "bearing in mind the extent to which the high revenues of recent years have been due to wartime conditions." It is also to "make recommendations to His Majesty's Government as to possible forms of future government which should be put before the people of Newfoundland at a national referendum." Mr. Attlee said: "In order to assist the Convention His Majesty's Government will make available to it when it meets, the services of an expert adviser who could give guidance on constitutional forms and procedure; and they will also prepare for the use of the Convention a factual and objective statement of the island's financial and economic situation."

He wished the fullest possible start to any new Government which might take over, but warned that Britain must be careful about making financial commitments which, in view of the special difficulties of the next few years, might be difficult to honor.

Diamonds Again For the Aga Khan 224 Pounds of Them!

Bombay — Elaborate preparations are being made here for the glittering ceremony, March 30, when the Aga Khan, spiritual leader of the Ismaili Moslem community, will be weighed against more than 224 lbs. of diamonds.

More than 40,000 Moslem spectators will crowd into a stadium for the ceremony which will mark the Aga Khan's diamond jubilee as spiritual leader of the community.

Diamonds estimated at $4,000,000 will be placed on one side of a scale until the bulky 69-year-old Aga Khan seated on the other rises into the air. The diamonds will not be poured on the scale, but will remain throughout the ceremony in transparent containers in which their dazzling beauty will be seen clearly by the spectators.

Four years of preliminary work have gone into the ceremony, which will attract the Aga Khan's followers from many places, including Afghanistan, Syria and Iraq. To house the pilgrims a city of tents is being erected, near Bombay. Cost of the diamonds is being met by voluntary subscription.

Proceeds of the event will be invested and interest from the fund used for social welfare and advancement of the Ismaeli community. The same course was followed on the occasion of the Aga Khan's golden anniversary when he was weighed against an amount of gold valued at about $2,000,000.

About one-quarter of the diamonds to be weighed were purchased outright and will be sold as souvenirs of the occasion, the remainder, uncut diamonds, are the property of diamond syndicates, which will get them back, and the fund will receive their equivalent in money.

Moslem leaders do not want to discuss in advance the significance of the weighing ceremony, adding that it will be explained fully in speeches to be made the day of the event.

The Aga Khan, known mainly to the western world as owner of famous race horses, is a former president of the League of Nations, an elder statesman of India and a strong proponent of co-operation between Hindus and Moslems. He is expected to be consulted when a new constitution for India is drawn up.

M. B. MILLS CO.

NAPANEE

WITH THE CANADIANS OVERSEAS

BY CAPT. PHIL LAUZON

(Canadian Army Public Relations)

Enterwegen, Germany — One cold, gloomy, foggy night, a ghost train, composed of fourteen wagons, "40 men or 8 horses" style, mysteriously pulled in what used to be the Friesoyth railway station. The whole thing was very "hush hush." Even Lt. W. M. Therien, Ottawa, who was sent down with twenty lorries, never expected the surprise he had when Lt. R. J. Ashman, Brockville, Ont., told him that 393 "important" war criminals and 213 witnesses were on the train.

After a last trip from Norway to Germany on the "SS Hercules", the 972 guests, including one to be hung "as soon as convenient", boarded the train in Lubeck at six o'clock in the morning and arrived in Friesoyte at 8:15 p.m.

One British officer and 30 men were used as an escort on the train. "What did they do all the time?", we asked. "They just actually stayed in there. We never had any trouble with them," replied the be-spectacled British officer casually floating in an "imported" great coat adorned with a leather jerkin and a Sam Brown belt. We noticed, too, that all the doors were sealed.

As each door was opened with much noise and difficulties, one by one, their dull, clean-shaven, bewildered faces quickly crossed the beam of a motorcycle's spotlight and disappeared in the darkness.

It was like watching a puppet's show on a miniature stage. All of them were army personnel, ranking from Major-Generals to private soldiers. Most of them, tall, well-built, six-footer, lying size types were unusually well and warmly dressed, including the following gear unknown to Canadian Army personnel: well-tailored, fleece-lined great coats, fur-lined hats and ear muffs.

Dragging along their heavy, neatly fixed army kit topped with blankets, many carrying brand new suit-cases, each group of thirty piled in one of the twenty awaiting trucks heading for Estenwegen's prison camp, well-staffed and guarded by the Cameron Highlanders of Ottawa. The C.O. of the camp is keen, battle-tested paratrooper, Major C. L. Dymond, of Toronto, who remarked: "We are not keepers, we are waiters."

A special group composed of twelve high-ranking officers headed by a Major-General asked the privilege of having a private truck to themselves. The "special" soon arrived. The smiling General climbed in followed by his eleven grinning, satisfied confreres. But before the last gate was closed, twenty more unwilling officers were forced in.

CROWDER - HANNAH

A pretty wedding took place in Wall Street United Church, Brockville, at 1:30 o'clock, on Saturday afternoon, February 9th, when Miss Olive Bernice Hannah, eldest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Clifford Hannah, Camden East, became the bride of Ernest Howard Crowder, 62 John Street, Brockville. The ceremony was performed by Rev. Gordon S. Maxwell.

The bride looked charming in a suit of medium brown, with accessories of dark brown. Her flowers were yellow roses. Miss Viola Dixon, of 174 King Street West, was bridesmaid and wore a green dress with black accessories. Her flowers were yellow roses.

Robert Crowder, the brother of the groom, was groomsman.

A reception was held after the ceremony at the home of the groom's parents, with fifty guests present. Mrs. Crowder, mother of the groom, assisted in receiving the guests.

The young couple will reside in Brockville.

Britain needs 5,000 more dentists and it will take twenty years to make up the deficit if a comprehensive scheme is to be provided under the national health plan. This was revealed in the recently-issued report of the inter-departmental committee on dentistry. The report urged the government to make an immediate grant of £1,250,000 ($5,625,000) with an annual grant rising to £300,000 to improve and equip dental schools. The report said there are about 15,000 dentists in the country.

The Late Mrs. C. A. Knapp

After an illness of several months' duration, Mrs. Catherine Annie Knapp, beloved wife of the late Thomas O. Knapp, passed peacefully away on Friday, March 1st, at the home of her daughter, Mrs. E. M. Badgley, Melrose, with whom she had resided for nearly two years.

The late Mrs. Knapp, who was born in Napanee and was in her 78th year, was the eldest daughter of the late Samuel Bruce Wilson and Sarah Sills. Following her marriage to Thomas O. Knapp of Kingston, she and her husband resided near Selby for thirty-five years, where their family was born and where Mr. Knapp predeceased her in June, 1904. In 1919, the family moved to Napanee.

She was a member of Grace United Church, and although unable to attend the church services for some time, she has maintained a deep interest in all its activities. She was a life member of the Women's Missionary Society.

Her cheerful disposition and her thoughtfulness for others, won for her many friends, both young and old. In recent years, through frail in health she gratefully welcomed her friends. She was well known and highly esteemed. Her passing will be widely mourned by many friends.

She leaves to mourn her loss and cherish her memory, two sons, S. W. Knapp, Napanee; F. W. Knapp, of Kingston; three daughters, Carrie Mrs. E. M. Badgley, Melrose, (Hazel) Mrs. Alex. Winter, Napanee, and (Beatrice) Mrs. W. W. McCabe, of Napanee. A sister, Mrs. R. A. McIlwaine, predeceased her a year and a half ago. She also leaves seven grandchildren and three great-grandchildren.

The funeral was held at Napanee, Monday, March 4th, at 3:00 p.m. from the Tierney Funeral Home and was conducted by her pastor, Rev. C. D. McLellan, who delivered a comforting message and paid warm tribute to her Christian character and life of service. He was assisted by Rev. A. W. Loughead, of Shannonville.

The floral tributes were many and beautiful. The remains were placed in Riverside vault for interment later. Those acting as pall-bearers were Messrs. J. Friden, R. S. Wales, A. F. McKnight, W. A. McLeod, H. A. Wood, and R. D. Martin.

"We cannot think of her as dead,
Who talks with us no more;
Along the path of life we tread,
She has but gone before."

The Late Mrs. Earl Alkenbrack

A death, which caused deep sorrow among the members of her family and her many friends, occurred at Kingston General Hospital on Wednesday, February 27th, when Mrs. Earl Alkenbrack passed away after several weeks' serious illness, during which she underwent two operations.

Mrs. Alkenbrack, who was formerly Joanna Beyette, was born in Desoronto, 44 years ago, and was a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Beyette. Since her marriage, about ten years ago, she had resided in Napanee. She was of a quiet and retiring disposition, but those who knew her best admired her for her many fine qualities and deeply regret her early death.

She is survived by her husband and one young son, Roy, and also leaves her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Beyette, four sisters, Mrs. Ray Joyce, Napanee, Mrs. Jack Edwards and Mrs. Don. McNamara, Desoronto, and Mrs. Mitchell Carter, Kingston, and one brother, Pascal, of Desoronto.

Her funeral was conducted at St. Patrick's Church, Napanee, by Dean E. M. Leary, who was assisted by Father Martin, of Beseronto. Interment was at St. Vincent's Cemetery, Desoronto.

The pall-bearers were Dr. E. R. Ellicott, Messrs. Clarence Plumley, Harold Barnhart, Herbert Caughlin, James Brady and Dan Hunt.

He was one of those fathers who believe in trying to answer any question put by his son. So he did his best when the youngster asked: "What are ancestors, daddy?" "Well my boy," he replied, "I'm one of your ancestors and your grandfather is another."

A puzzled frown marred the child-ish brow. "Then, daddy, why do people brag about them?"

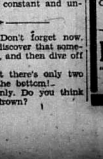
BOY SCOUTS NEWS



FIRST NAPANEE WOLF CUB PACK

The weekly meeting took place last Saturday night, with a large turnout of Cubs on hand. As the Pack is soon to be re-registered, a close check on all Cub ranks, etc., was carried out. Games played were "Whiling Wheels" and "Wrapping Parcels."

The first cornerwork period the Pack studied two knots: they were the bow line and sheet bend. Later in connection with this the Pack held testing the ability of the Cubs at tying the reef knot.

Announcements were made to the effect that the next meeting will be on Indian Night. Cubs are to dress as Indians and only wear their Cub neckerchief. The "Order of The Bone" was awarded to the Yellow Bird.

The meeting closed with Cub Silence, Cub Prayer and Flag Down.

Akela and the members of the pack wish to thank all those who gave generously in connection with the recent rummage sale. The Mothers' Auxiliary also wish to thank the many friends who helped to make the sale a success.

National Employment Service benefits THE WHOLE community

Regular employment and pay envelopes make for carefree families—for prosperous communities—for "good times" for employer and employee alike. The National Employment Service, with offices in more than 200 cities and towns across Canada, serves the needs of both employers and employees—and the local N. E. S. office takes its place in importance to the community among the time honoured community institutions—the Post Office, the Court House, the City Hall.....

Without National Employment Service, the worker is left to his own initiative to find a job to support himself and his family. The employer may be unable to reach workers he requires. National Employment Service is the clearing house through which employer and employee are brought together, so that both may have their free choice of the entire employment market.

National Employment Service has 5 main functions:

1—Organization of the whole employment market, and bringing together employers and employees;

2—Collection of information on employment problems for the use of Government, Management and Labour;

3—Administration of Reinstatement in Civil Employment Act;

4—Dealing with Unemployment Insurance Benefits;

5—Dealing with Out-of-Work Benefits for Ex-Service Personnel.

Make full use of the Local Office of National Employment Service. It is there to serve your needs, and those of the entire Community.

CEYLON'S STEPS TOWARDS DOMINION STATUS

The Ceylon State Council has accepted the United Kingdom Government's proposal for a new constitution, based on the Donoughmore Commission's recommendations. This means that, given the co-operation of all concerned, the present Crown Colony of Ceylon should soon be well on the way to Dominion status.

The problem of the Ceylon constitution centres in communal and religious differences of long standing. The majority community, the Sinhalese, are mainly Buddhist. The principal minority. The Tamils are mostly Hindus. The struggle between the two groups has been going on for centuries. The smaller communities consist of Moors, Malays, Burghers (descendants of the Dutch) Eurasians and Europeans.

The present constitution, introduced in 1931, provides for election by universal suffrage without literacy qualifications, on a territorial and not a communal basis. Although the lack of literacy qualifications has led to abuses among certain sections of the population, the step is felt to have been justified by the many social reforms carried out since 1931.

The substitution of territorial for communal representation, it was hoped, would increase mutual confidence between the communities. In fact, it led to the accentuation of differences. The Sinhalese obtained a large majority in the State Council and in 1942 held all but one of the seats on the Board of Ministers, and the minorities became seriously alarmed.

From the time this constitution went into effect, further reform was continually pressed; by 1941 the demand was for Dominion status, and the United Kingdom Government undertook to consider the matter with the least possible delay after the end of the war. In 1943, in response to further representations, Britain promised that future postwar reforms would give Ceylon responsible government in all matters of internal civil administration. Meanwhile the board of Ministers were invited to draft a constitution which would be examined by a Commission after the war. Early in 1944 the Ministers had prepared their scheme, though without consulting the minorities or securing the support of the one minority member of the Board.

The United Kingdom Government, instead of waiting until the end of the war, undertook to appoint a commission under Lord Soulbury to visit Ceylon at the end of the year to discuss the proposals and consult "with various interests in the Island, including minority communities." The Ministers, strongly objecting, declared that last condition was not part of the 1943 declaration, withdrew their plan.

Lord Soulbury's Commission proceeded to Ceylon, nevertheless, and in October, 1945, the United Kingdom Government offered to Ceylon a new constitution based on the Commission's proposals, which in fact conform in most respects with the Ministers' scheme. It provides for a House of Representatives, a Senate, and a Cabinet on British lines. The Governor will retain certain powers over defence, external affairs and minority interests. Universal adult suffrage on a territorial basis, will continue, but with special arrangements to ensure the proper representation of minorities. The delaying powers of the Second Chamber are also intended to safeguard their interests.

The Sinhalese majority have expressed disappointment that the new proposals do not include Dominion status forthwith, while the Tamils are still apprehensive about the power which they feel will be put into the hands of the Sinhalese. The smaller minorities are chiefly concerned with securing representation in the Lower House. The United Kingdom Government stated that they hoped the operation of the Constitution would provide experience out of which Dominion status would evolve. In view of this assurance, the Ceylon State Council, by a vote of 51 to three, have accepted it for the interim period.

UNBREAKABLE "SPECS"

A British scientist has invented spectacles which can be trodden on, dropped or bent without being damaged. He is Professor Low, inventor of the bi-focal lenses used for both long and short sight — and the contact, invisible lens—which fits over the eyeball.

His latest invention, "unbreakable" glasses, weighs less than a quarter of an ounce. They are made from one piece of fine wire with tiny, half-moon lenses just below the line of vision. The wearer can lift his eyes from his book for normal sight without interference from the glasses.

FABRIC FROM SEAWEED

Additions to an ever-widening range of British products were being shown recently by the United Kingdom Royal Society. The new seaweed rayons have also aroused much interest attention. They are woven into a fabric and then dissolved in a soap bath. The result is a cloth of an entirely new design.

Seaweed also enables cotton to be woven without twisting, for the yarn may consist of cotton and seaweed rayon in which only the latter takes the twist. Then after weaving, the seaweed rayon can be dissolved out, leaving an extra strong cotton fabric made from untwisted cotton.

HELPFUL HINTS FOR WINTER FEEDING DAIRY CATTLE

Too often our Dairy cows are neglected during the winter months. This practise is costly enough, even if the cow is dry, but is injurious to the health and production of a cow that is milking. A producing cow, during the winter months, is at a disadvantage, because the feeds lack succulence, easily digested proteins and minerals, and high vitamin content grasses. For these reasons the cow requires a feed containing the necessary food factors for winter production.

There are several facts to be considered by a good dairyman:

1— Water is necesary in a ration to keep the digestive organs functioning. Cows which have water before them at all times produce more milk.

2— Proteins are used to build tissue, muscle, promote growth, development of the unborn calf and for secretion of milk.

3— Fats and Carbohydrates are burned in the body to produce heat and energy.

4— Minerals and vitamins are required in lesser quantities but are absolutely necessary for health and vigour.

5— Meal mixtures should be fed at the rate of one pound of mixture for every three to four lbs. of milk produced.

6— Feeds which are above 22 per cent. protein or which contain a large percentage of barley, corn, rye or cottonseed meal, need to be fed with discretion. Trouble with mastitis infection seems to be greater when these ingredients are increased.

7— Dairy meal mixtures should contain from 15 per cent. to 19 per cent. protein.

8— Home grown grains do not contain enough of either protein or minerals to provide a balanced ration. Therefore, it will be readily understood that feeding a dairy cow intelligently means more than throwing some oat chop into the manger and expecting her to do the rest.

Well proven meal mixtures consisting of 15 per cent. to 17 per cent. protein are given below:

1	Oats	500 lbs.
	Barley	200 lbs.
	Wheat Bran	200 lbs.
	Oil Cake	100 lbs.
	To this mixture add 3 lbs. of minerals for every 100 pounds of feed.
2	Mixed Grains	800 lbs.
	Commercial Dairy Concentrate (32 per cent.)	200 lbs.
3	Mixed Grains	700 lbs.
	Commercial Dairy Concentrate (24 per cent.)	300 lbs.

PRESENTATION MADE TO THE McFARLANE FAMILY, OF DESERONTO ROAD

On Friday evening, March 1st, over 100 friends and neighbours gathered at the home of Mr. and Mrs. W. J. McFarlane, Deseronto Road, to spend a social evening with them before their departure for their new home at Oshawa.

The McFarlane family having lived in this community for several years, shall be greatly missed. As a mark of esteem in which they are held, the community presented them with an electric table lamp and electric iron. Mrs. R. E. Dowling read the following address, as Mr. C. Young and Mr. Kimmett presented the gifts.

Dear Mr. and Mrs.

McFarlane and Family:

We, your friends and neighbours have gathered at your home to spend a last evening in your society and to extend to you our most sincere wishes for all possible happiness and prosperity in your new home. However, as in all partings, our feelings are tinged with sadness. Good-byes are never pleasant, least of all when we feel that we are losing from our midst, friends and neighbours such as you have always been. We shall miss you, it is true. We have always found you faithful in duty ever ready to lend a helping hand in time of need. But it is our sincere hope that you will find, in your new home, more and even better friends.

Words seem inadequate to express one's sentiments at a time like this, but we want you to know that in our hearts we sincerely wish for you, one and all, Mother, Dad and Children, the very best that life can offer. We extend to each and every one of you a cordial invitation to visit us at any time. May the years be filled with happiness and may your memories of this community be treasured companions, always.

We just shake hands at meeting.

With many that come nigh.
We nod the head in greeting
To many that go by.
But we welcome through the gateway
Our few old friends and true —
Then hearts leap up and straightway
There's open house for you.

In closing, we ask you to accept this gift, not for its intrinsic value, but as a tangible expression of our friendship and esteem.

(Signed) on behalf of the community, Ralph Kimmett, Douglas Kimmett and C. Young.

Mr. W. J. McFarlane graciously responded to the address. A delightful lunch was served, after which the Misses Audrey and Hilda McFarlane favored with guitar selections.

NEWBURGH W. I.

The regular monthly meeting of Newburgh Women's Institute was held at the home of Mrs. H. Baldwin with a good attendance of members and an increase in the number of visitors. Roll call was answered by each member telling of her first accomplishment alone — this proved very amusing. Mrs. D. Wilson, education convener, had prepared the programme. Rev. Mr. Herrington spoke to the ladies on Child delinquency. He gave as the chief causes the following: (1) Breakdown in family life due to depression and war; (2) Mothers occupied in war industries, while the children are left to run the streets; (3) Lack of proper food—a cause for theft; (4) Two wars in twenty-five years; (5) Lowering of movie standards; (6) Poor choice in toys for children to play with; (7) Drink—as a main cause for the lowering of all standards of living; (8) The lack of religion in the home; (9) The need for Boys' Clubs, under good leadership. As a remedy for these causes he gave the following: (1) Adequate wages would overcome the need of the mother working; (2) Have better movies for children and adults, as well; (3) Less drinking would mean happier homes with less divorce and less hunger; (4) Better religious training in the home. Mr. Herrington's thoughtful address was much appreciated.

Mrs. Hugh Ramsay sang "Just a Prayer Away," with Mrs. D. Wilson as accompanist.

A st. Patrick's programme is being arranged for the March meeting.

At the conclusion of the National Anthem, Mrs. Baldwin and her assistants served refreshments.

STRATHCONA - NEWBURGH W. C. T. U.

The Strathcona-Newburgh W. C. T. U. met at the home of Mrs. James Wilson, on February 20. The theme of the worship was Service, led by Miss Cameron. The thoughtful selection of text, hymn and the prayer added much to this impressive half-hour. Routine business was dispatched and a pleasant discussion followed, when several controversial items were brought forward. A donation of nine dollars was voted for the National Headquarters Building Fund. This is for an expansion of the work of the W.C.T.U. operating at Toronto. Mrs. D. Wilson and Mrs. B. Finlay sang a duet. An address of perennial interest on Frances Willard was given by Mrs. Doris Wilson. She reviewed this wonderful woman's genius for organization and speaking. Throughout many years she leveraged one public appearance a day, and she met criticism and opposition with untiring courtesy and inexhaustible fortitude.

This helpful meeting closed with Rev. Mr. Herrington giving the benediction. Mrs. Wilson served a cup of tea.

'My husband plays tennis, swims and goes in for physical exercise. Does your husband take any regular exercise?'

'Well, last week, he was out seven nights running.'

The Moscow Women's Institute held a very successful bazaar and concert on Friday evening, February 22nd. There were many useful and pretty articles on sale and ready buyers bought them quickly. The sale was interrupted while the program was presented. The program consisted of solos by Mrs. Arthur McQuaig and Miss Leola Drew, a piano solo by Mrs. Howard Bell, a debate, and a one-act play. The debate, "Resolved that married men live longer than bachelors", was well upheld by Mr. Cecil King and Mr. Claude Huffman for the affirmative, while Mr. McGeorge Brooks and Mr. Edgar Drew spoke for the negative. Both sides did exceptionally well and many amusing points were brought out and drew much applause from the audience. Mr. Allen Huffman asked for a vote from those present to decide which side had won, and the decision was in favor of the negative. The play, "Mrs. O'Leary's Cow", was especially well presented and was decidedly humorous from start to finish. Those taking part in the play were Mrs. Edgar Drew, Miss Marjorie Huffman, Mr. Jack Bell, Miss Donalda Huffman, Mrs. Jack Huffman, Miss Dorothy Kerr, and Mr. Donald Huffman, and each did his or her part exceptionally well. CITIZENS' COMMITTEE CONFERS WITH BOARD ON BUILDING SCHOOL

To Consider Problems from All Angles

At a meeting, on Monday evening of this week, of the Citizens' Advisory Committee and the Napanee Board of Education, a motion was passed that the members of the Advisory Committee be added to the Property, Finance and Management Committee of the Board, to act in an advisory capacity in the matter of the building of a new school in Napanee.

Mrs. K. S. Ham and Mrs. T. J. Hunt were assigned to the Management Committee; Mr. G. F. Smith, Mrs. C. E. Gibbard and Mr. Werk Poole, to the Finance Committee, and Messrs. W. S. Wilson, L. Bedore and W. P. Aseltine, to the Management Committee.

The assigning of the Advisory Committee members to the various committees was the suggestion of Mr. P. U. Laidley, who expressed the opinion that the Citizens' Committee could be of most assistance to the Board, in helping to assemble information which would lead the Board to decide whether the project of the new school in East Ward should be proceeded with, or whether one new school for the whole town should be built to replace the present schools.

Mr. Simpson, Chairman of the Board, was of the opinion that the Citizens' Committee should first make a suggestion as to a site for one new school. He stated that the mind of the members of the Board were open on the qustion of building one school, if a proper site could be secured.

Mr. W. S. Wilson said, that he considered the first thing to do is to decide if two schools for the town are advisable, or if one would be better. He considered that making the matter of the site for one school the first issue was putting the cart before the horse.

Mr. H. L. VanLuven's opinion was that a site for one school should be picked first and then secure the information as to the approximate cost after which approval of the Department in Toronto, should be secured.

Mr. G. F. Smith expressed the opinion that the Board should get information as to the cost of one new school, the cost of remodelling the West Ward, and consider these with the cost of the projected new school in East Ward.

Present at the joint meeting were the following members of the Advisory Committee: Mrs. G. E. Gibbard, Mrs. K. S. Ham, Mrs. T. J. Hunt, W. P. Aseltine, W. S. Wilson, Werk Poole, G. F. Smith and E. L. Bedore, and the following members of the School Board: J. M. Simpson, Wallace Roy, Charles Loucks, Garnet Leary, J. D. Mayhew, H. L. VanLuven and P. U. Laidley.

NAPANEE DISTRICT MINISTERIAL ASSOCIATION

The Napanee and district Ministerial Association met on March 8th, 1946, at Grace Church, Napanee, at 10:30 a.m. The president, the Rev. H. A. Bunt, was in the chair, and the following members were present: Capt. Murrell, Lieut. Clarke, the Revs. H. C. Secker, N. Hatton, C. D. McLellan, W. H. Baugh, W. H. Clarke, J. F. Dingman, J. A. Haw, William Parker, W.G. Fletcher, A.W. Loughead, J. Robinson, W. R. Merrick, K. J. Crawford.

It was decided that the next meeting be held in St. Mary Magdalene's Church, Napanee, and that the Rev. Dr. Peter Bryce, who will be speaking at Trinity Church Anniversary Services on April 7th, be invited to address the Ministerial on April 8th, at the regular meeting at 10:30 a.m.

The Rev. A. W. Loughead presented a paper based on a recent book by the Rev. Professor J. M. Shaw, of Queen's Theological College, Kingston, entitled "Life After Death".

Philosophy. Mr. Loughead said, says that man should be immortal; science says that man may be immortal; but only religion says that man is immortal. Nor does spiritualism give us proof of immortality, the results of its endeavour to find out about life after death are too trivial and irrelevant to prove what is claimed. But it is God's nature that provides the basis of faith in a future life. In the Old Testament there is evidence of a beginning of a belief in a future life, and this evidence is based on the nature of God. There is, during life, a tond of fellowship too strong to be broken by death. Jesus' resurrection is the good news that at the heart of the universe is a Love that will not let us go. What is the life after death like? There is a natural curiosity about this, and in the New Testament there is help enough to guide us and give us hope; that there is a spiritually embodied existence, and since God is our Father then heaven is our Father's house where His children gather. And we will begin on the other side of death much where we left off, but we shall be in a much more favourable and powerful surroundings. Mr. Loughead then went on to discuss the fate, after death, of unbelievers. Three main theories were mentioned; the pre-Christian doctrine of eternal punishment; the doctrine of universal restoration, in which the love of God is triumphant in every soul; the doctrine of conditional immortality, in which those who refuse to believe face extinction.

A general discussion followed the reading of the paper. The vote of thanks was moved by Mr. Hatton, and seconded by Mr. Merrick, and shared in by all.

The meeting was brought to a close by the Benediction pronounced by Mrs. Merrick.

Canada's Wheat Mart Assured Until 1948

Winnipeg, (CP.) — Canada's wheat will find a ready market in the United Kingdom and Europe in the next two years, William Grant, general manager of the Wholesale Floor and Allied Departments of the Scottish Co-operative Wholesale Society, Edinburgh, said recently in an interview.

Canada will then find keen competition and price and quality will remain positions as governing factors. He added that consumer tastes would also affect the import of wheat.

Canadian wheat is the best in the world, Mr. Grant said, but if the British trend for "white" bread continues, then the yardstick of flour quality changes.

DOCTORS FIGHT HEALTH PLAN IN UNITED KINGDOM

London. (Reuters) — British doctors are setting up a £1,000,000 fund to fight, if necessary, the Government's proposed national health service plan which it is expected will be ready to go before Parliament in about two weeks' time.

This was announced last night by the council of the British Medical Association, the "doctors' trade union" with 50,000 members, which has guaranteed the first £80,000 towards the fund.

The British Medical Journal, commenting on the proposals, said: "Should Parliament prove obdurate and refuse to modify proposals in the bill which the profession might consider to strike at the essential freedoms of medicine, the doctors of this country might have to decide not to work in the new service."

A specialist from Harley Street—leading medical centre in London—said: "There will be no question of doctors going on strike.

"What may happen will be that patients will refuse to pay any fees, on the ground that the new bill entitles them to free treatment.

"The doctors will then give them treatment free of charge—and that is where the fund will come in."

Part of the fund also will be used for propaganda, the British Medical Journal declared. Individual doctors will be asked to subscribe £20 each, it added.

A Health Ministry official said that details of the bill still are secret and that Aneurin Bevan, the minister responsible for it, had outlined the scheme in confidence to representatives of the medical profession "so they know doughly what to expect."

WORLD DAY OF PRAYER SERVICE WELL ATTENDED

The World Day of Prayer, an annual event, was held in the Sunday school room of St. Mary Magdalene's Church on Friday afternoon and was largely attended, the room being filled. On the platform were Mrs. Austin Smith, president of the Women's Auxiliary of St. Mary Magdalene's Church; Mrs. George Switzer, president of the Women's Missionary Society of Trinity United Church; Mrs. Emma Vanalstine, president of the Women's Missionary Society of Grace United Church; Mrs. H. M. Johnson and Capt. Edith Murrell and Lieut. V. Clarke, of The Salvation Army. The programme opened with quiet music played by Mrs. Fred Richards. After the opening by Mrs. Austin Smith, the theme for the first part was Mrs. H. M. Johnson, following which Miss Emma Vanalstine rendered the "Things That Make for Peace A Childlike Spirit." This was followed by a vocal solo, sung by Mrs. S. Booth, with Mrs. Bert Seymour playing the accompaniment. The others taking part were Mrs. George Switzer, Miss Alma Thompson, Capt. Edith Murrell, Mrs. W. J. Wilson, Mrs. Moore Bettes, Lieut. V. Clarke, Mrs. J. A. Haw and Dr. Marsh Cornelius.

Well known hymns were sung and the meeting was brought to a close with the National Anthem and the benediction.

KNITTING SERVICE STILL NEEDED BY RED CROSS

The following letter received from the Ontario Headquarters of the Canadian Red Cross Society, sets forth the need for continuing knitting and sewing.

The letter follows:

To Women's War Work Conveners:

We have had many requests from Conveners as to what work there will be after the Women's War Work Committee dissolves on April 1st.

Groups who wish to continue knitting and sewing are encouraged to do so with the assurance that the work is much needed and will be most gratefully received at Division Warehouse and shipped through the National office. Actually the only change will be that the name of the W.V. will be dropped from the name.

The Chairman of the National Executive is in England now and it is hoped he may have very definite projects for us to work on when he returns. In the meantime, we have had an urgent call from England for infants' clothing. We immediately shipped stocks of this that we had on hand, and the need at the moment is for more infants' clothes, particularly, fannelette vests and sookers. Work on this project alone will keep us busy through April, and early Autumn.

We have had the satisfaction that comes from working to help others. None of us, I think, could continue giving as much time to Red Cross as we did during the last six years. On a reduced scale, however I do think we will find that so long as we can positively assure the women that we are not creating work to hold them together, but rather working for an emergency still as great as in war time, they will want to have a share in the opportunity.

Yours sincerely,

BAE KNIGHT,

Mrs. Lane Knight, Chairman
Ontario Division.

NORSEMAN SKIMS OVER SNOWMOBILES

(TOP) Here is the men of "Exercise Muskox" hall for their hourly break. During the hazardous run from Churchill, Man., to Baker Lake, the small moving force was buffeted by blinding winds which blew snow hundreds of feet in the air, and forced the operation to "holeup" for two days. Planes of the R.C.A.F. will drop food and fuel by parachute over the entire route, about one-sixth of which Muskox has already covered.

(BELOW) — "Exercise Muskox" rolls past saluting base. Brig. R. O. G. Morton, OBE., DOO M.D. 10 took the salute as the ambitious expedition left Churchill February 15th. The force pushed off for Baker Lake with the temperature at 43 degrees below zero and a 27 mile-an-hour wind whipping across the frozen country. The 560-mile run was made a little more than three days behind schedule, arriving March 1st. . . . Next stop — Perry River — above the Arctic Circle, then Cambridge Bay, almost 1,000 air — locked miles north of Churchill. Here the moving force will stop for nine days while the army base force moves from Churchill to Yellowknife. . . . When they arrive in Edmonton early in May the men will have covered 3,100 barren miles of Canada's unknown Arctic wastes. (Canadian Army Photo)

THE HOPEFUL NOTE

There were many points in the address which former Prime Minister Churchill gave in Fulton, Missouri, around which a bitter controversy will rage for some time to come. It took the Russians a bit longer than other people to express their reaction to the address. The official Russian reaction is not enthusiastic, to say the least.

Whatever may be said about the controversial issue, there was one hopeful note in the address, which has not received the notice it deserved. Speaking on the U. N. O. charter, Mr. Churchill said: "If the Western Democracies stand together in strict adherence to the principles of The United Nations Charter, their influence for furthering the principles will be immense, and no one is likely to molest them. If, however, they become divided or falter in their duty . . . then, indeed, a catastrophe may overwhelm us all."

For weeks, representatives from practically all the nations in the world, met at San Francisco, to lay the foundations of peace. After long discussion, a charter of peace was adopted. This was hailed everywhere as a foundation for lasting peace and prosperity. There is only one way to prevent another world war and that is by the nations, whose signatures are attached to the document, remaining loyal to its provisions. Mr. Churchill's remarks were directed particularly to the Americans — but they apply equally to all those who signed the treaty. The Russians, as well as the Americans, and the Member States of the British Commonwealth of Nations, all — without exception, must abide by that to which they solemnly affixed their signatures.

The situation is complicated by the fact that the Big Three represent two different ideologies; two different philosophies of government. One must not try to dominate or coerce the other. There is no hope of the Democracies converting the Russians to their view of government, nor is there any hope that the Russians will convert us to their way of organized life. Each must recognize the rights and the wishes of the other. Each must do all in its power to assure the other of its good will and good intentions. The United Nations Organization was designed for this very purpose. If all the nations would recognize this — all would be well.

WHAT IS THE HOLD UP?

The country is experiencing a great shortage of houses. From one end of Canada to the other, people are clamoring for a place in which to live. What is the hold up? During the war whole villages and towns were established in a few weeks. Material was available, manpower was available, and money was available. But now that the war is over, the whole business is in chaos — can it be that the government is more efficient than private management? That might easily be one explanation of the situation. During the war there was nothing needed that was not forthcoming. The demand for materials for war purposes has ceased — labor is abundant — where is the hold up?

When the Queen City is to get 72 new houses, the news calls for a red headline in the Press — seventy-two families forsooth. There should be houses built for thousands—yes, hundreds of thousands of people. Even in the small towns, like our own, where life is supposed to go the even tenor of its way, it is next to impossible to get a home in which to live.

If the situation continues as is, or if it does not get better fast, then the Government should cut through red tape and get the job done, with the same efficiency, the same speed as was done during the war. One of the reasons why the public finally demanded government ownership in certain fields, was because of their mishandlement by private interests. There is no more reason why the Government should be in the Hydro and Transportation business than in housing. It may come to that unless something happens, soon!

FROM THOSE WHO HAVE!

The average man can think in terms of a hundred dollars or perhaps even a thousand or two, but when it comes to millions or billions, he is a bit out of his depth. The Canadian Government is proposing a loan of $1,250,000,000 to Great Britain. The probability is that the financial experts have looked into the situation and are assured of Canada's ability to make this loan. Of that, nobody but the expert can speak, but from the wartime experience of raising money from the Canadian people, the loan ought not to be impossible. Of course, most of the money involved will never leave Canada. It will be placed here to the credit of Great Britain, against which she can draw to pay for goods produced here. This will make a ready sale and an assured market for our goods.

If Canada has the ability to make this loan, it should, in all conscience, be made. In Great Britain, conditions with respect to food, clothing and other necessities of life, are no better than they were during the war. Food is scarce and severely rationed; clothing and coal are likewise rationed and scarce. Great Britain paid a great price in the war, not the least of which was the way in which the people had to curtail expenditures on what we, in this country, consider necessities.

When the matter of the loan comes before Parliament, for ratification, it will be debated and, in the course of the debate, many facts concerning it, will be clarified. It would be too good to hope that it would pass without opposition. Indeed, a Canadian Press dispatch from Ottawa, forecasts such opposition. This dispatch says: "When the terms of the agreement were made known there was speculation there would be some opposition to the loan, particularly from some members of Quebec, on the grounds that the terms were too generous. Several Quebec members are expected to take the same stand as they did during the war years, when they opposed the granting of mutual aid, financial gifts, and an interest-free loan to Britain."

PASSING THE BUCK

Passing The Buck is a sort of indoor pastime or other. The town council is all for some public expenditure, so long as the county pays. The county is all for it, if the Ontario government pays, and the Provincial government is all for it, provided the cost is borne by the Dominion government. All of which is very silly, for in the long run, all the money for all government projects comes out of the common people. The particular item which brought this to mind was the attempt of the Ontario Federation of Labor to delete a clause from a motion calling for a change-over in Southern Ontario, from 25-cycle Hydro power to 60-cycle. The report of the meeting, at which the matter was discussed, says:

"T. F. Stevenson, business agent of the National Union, Civic Utility and Electrical Workers (OCL) made an unsuccessful attempt to have the clause relative to the change-over shelved for another year. Until the chief engineer's report is issued and some idea of how the change is to be paid is gained.

"'The cost of this change' said Mr. Stevenson, 'will not be peanuts'—admitting, however, that it was desirable, and would eventually have to come. He wanted to know if the delegates, as shareholders in Ontario Hydro, were prepared to foot the bill.

"'It is estimated that the shareholders—who are you—will be called on to furnish $30 million of the total cost of $35 million,' warned Mr. Stevenson, in moving an amendment to have the clause deleted from the resolution."

Then comes along the famous indoor sport. The change should be made, if the other fellow pays for it. Mr. Murray Cotterill presented the amendment, which carried: "That the change-over be endorsed, but that no part of the cost should be levied against domestic consumers of power."

It is so easy to spend other people's money!

"WHEN YOU AND I WERE YOUNG, MAGGIE" — A CANADIAN PRODUCT

An interesting fact that few Canadians are aware of is that a world-renowned old secular song is a product of the Land of the Maple.

Back in the middle of the last century a Canadian girl named Maggie Clark, fell in love with a schoolteacher, a certain young George W. Johnson. Their favorite trysting place (writes Sigmund Spaeth, in "The Rotarian") was an old mill on the creek near the girl's home. As love often does, it drove the youth to poetic expression and he fashioned some simple verses prophesying for them a peaceful old age filled with lovely memories of their courtship. His poem began:

I wandered to-day to the hill, Maggie,
To watch the scene below,
The creek and the old rusty mill, Maggie,
Where we sat in the long, long ago.

The prophesy failed to come true, however. Like the immortal Genevieve . . . Maggie died within a year of her marriage, her death coming in Cleveland, Ohio, to which George Johnson had taken her not long before.

A widower now, Johnson returned to the University of Toronto, his alma mater, and there spent the rest of his life as a member of the faculty. During this period his poem to Maggie was published in a collection called "Maple Leaves," and thus came to the attention of James Austin Butterfield, an Englishman.

Mr. Butterfield wrote some music for Johnson's poem in 1866 and published the song himself, but with a proper contract for the payment of royalties to the author of the words. The simple, unpretentious setting exactly suited the spirit of the text, equally unassuming and straightforward in its honesty. The perfect combination of words and music has been sung all over the world ever since. That then, is the story of how "When You and I Were Young, Maggie, came to be. Maggie Clark is believed to have lived in or near Brantford, Ontario.

CAMPAIGN TO SECURE ALBERTA HARD COAL IS A 'DEMOCRATIC CRUSADE'

"THIS IS A CRUSADE FOR BETTER, cheaper coal, and for the development of the nation's natural resources. It is a crusade to keep Canadian dollars in Canada. It is a battle for the interests of the many against the insignificant few," declared Mervyn Brown, Chairman of the Board of Allied Industrials Limited, in an address before a capacity audience at the Collegiate auditorium, in Brantford, Ontario, on Wednesday night, February 20th. Mayor J. H. Matthews, of Brantford, Chairman of the mass meeting told the large audience why he and his City Council are behind the crusade for more, better and cheaper coal for the householdeors of the city, and City Controller Nora Henderson of Hamilton also addressed the meeting. Many were unable to gain entrance to hear the speakers condemn the Federal coal control and demand Governmental action to aid in freeing 4,000,000 people of Ontario from almost total dependence on foreign household coal. At the conclusion of Mr. Brown's address an unanimous resolution was passed by the audience which packed the hall to capacity, endorsing the Massey Hall resolution in favor of the "Alberta Hard Coal Foundation" plan.

REPRINTED FROM THE BRANTFORD EXPOSITOR FEBRUARY 21 - 22, 1946

Mr. Brown spoke here in the interests of a vigorous campaign he is conducting across the Province to pave the way for the mining of Alberta hard coal to supply the Canadian market. Introduced by Mayor John H. Matthews, who presided, Mr. Brown declared the problem of securing coal for more than 4,000,000 men, women and children in Ontario who are dependent almost entirely on one source of supply "has reached the perilous stage."

Charging that the dependence on "foreign anthracite to heat our homes is entirely unjustified," Mr. Brown stated that the use of Canadian hard coal "can reduce the cost of home heating in the two coalless provinces in Canada, Ontario and Quebec, by from 20 to 30 per cent."

The speaker mentioned that he intended to fight to a finish to secure Alberta hard coal for the householders of Ontario and Quebec and termed the fuel problem "one of the most serious with which you are faced today."

He reiterated again and again that neither he nor the company with which he is associated "is conducting this campaign for personal gain, but solely for the good and welfare of the people." He said also he has spent much time in accumulating facts and figures and these prove that "there is no good reason why 4,000,000 people should have to depend on a foreign — though friendly — country for hard coal when Alberta contains ten per cent. of all the known coal in the world."

Roundly denouncing what he termed "the coal ring," members of which are endeavoring to block his efforts and those of his company, Mr. Brown said: "Never was there a greater and more damnable power in Ontario and Quebec than you have in this coal ring working against the public interest." He scored actions and statements which he said had been made by the Fuel Controller. Such statements and actions were not in the interests of the people, he said.

He termed this coal problem as being "far bigger than any political issue because the very lives of millions of people are threatened." He quoted figures showing that the average price paid for United States anthracite coal in Ontario is $16.24 per ton, emphasizing that Alberta hard coal can be mined, transported, distributed and delivered into the consumer's bin for $12.50 per ton.

Mr. Brown declared that Alberta hard coal deposits are most extensive: "It is a crime to know that such vast deposits lie idle while the people of Ontario stand in grave need of hard coal," he said. He urged that the railways build a spur line of 60 miles and that the Ontario Government be asked to finance the erection of storage facilities for the coal in the Province against any emergency, such cost to be added to the consumer price.

The speaker asked for the support of the audience in the campaign to secure Alberta hard coal and outlined details concerning the Alberta Hard Coal Foundation, which organization was formed following a meeting in Massey Hall, Toronto, January 24th, which was attended by Mayor Matthews and the Mayors of more than 25 Ontario communities. More than 90 communities had already signified their intention of continuing the fight, Mr. Brown said. In conclusion the speaker urged upon the audience the necessity of contacting local Members of Parliament to have them take up the challenge in behalf of their constituents.

CONTROLLER HENDERSON

Hamilton's Controller, Nora Frances Henderson, special speaker, declared "the story is a simple and dramatic one of inability to bring down from Alberta, good, hard coal to fill the empty coal bins of Ontario." As a municipal administrator, Controller Henderson stated she "is painfully near to the tragedy of a coal shortage." She declared herself as being wholly in support of this crusade and favored "bringing the whole issue right out into the open. This campaign represents democracy in action and when the people become sufficiently aroused and know they are in the right, nothing can stop them," she concluded.

Members of the Brantford Collegiate Institute Cadet Corps distributed cards on which members of the audience wrote their names making them eligible for a "claim" on 75 tons of coal. The claims were drawn for and, while the cards were being filled out, Stan Francis, well known Canadian radio figure, conducted a snappy "sing-song", with Lois Winder, Toronto, at the piano.

Alderman Walter Dowden was introduced and read the resolution which was unanimously adopted. On the stage were representatives from the City Council and several other civic organizations, local and from other cities throughout Ontario.

CLASS DISTINCTION AMONGST FLOWERS

It is not an uncommon thing to arrange several different kinds of flowers in a vase, and then a few hours later to find that some of them are already drooping.

One should not always jump to the conclusion that the flowers were not fresh, for it is now a proven fact that certain kinds of flowers do not live happily with others lin the same vase.

Sweet peas should always be given a vase by themselves as they seem to have a harmful effect on other blossoms.

If placed in a vase with others, the sweet peas will often suffer themselves, and will fade much sooner than they would ordinarily have done.

Mignonette should also be placed by itself for even a pot of this fragrant plant on the table has been known to make flowers in nearby vases droop.

Some kinds of roses quarrel with other varieties of the same flower.

If, after flowers have been arranged, some of them droop with no apparent reason, it is quite likely that they are offering a silent protest against their associates.

By keeping fresh quarters they can generally be brought back into a fresh condition.

INTERNATIONAL SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON, MARCH 17TH, 1946

"RELIGION IN EVERY DAY LIFE"

Lesson Text: Ruth 1: 8 - 17

Recently, last week to be exact, the writer made a train trip. At one point his seat mate was a lady from the States, who had come over to Canada to be on hand when her nephew arrived with his English bride. Every effort had been made to provide a pleasant reception and to make the stranger feel at home. At one home the writer visited they were expecting a telegram to arrive soon for their soldier son. There, too, letters had been coming back and forward to break down barriers, and create the proper environment. Thousands of Dutch brides will be arriving before long, and, no doubt, the same warm welcome awaits them. Then, too, the Government had a hand in this matter. No soldier could marry without securing permission from military authorities. And before allowing the bride to come to Canada an investigator checked up on the conditions to which she would come.

We have travelled quite some distance in this matter of inter-marriage since the days of Ruth. Even those days, as Naomi pointed out, the Moabite girls would not be accepted in Juda. They were looked upon not only as aliens, but as people who had lived under the protection of a quite different God. Of course, we still have a long way to go. Once suggest racial equality and someone will come back with the question: "Would you like to see your sister married to a negro?" Of course the answer is that racial equality does not necessarily mean that. There are good and bad in all races. There are some Canadians to whom one would not like to see his sister married.

One of the most interesting and instructive matters emerging from a study of this passage is the sequel. The Moabite woman, won the love and affection of one of the Hebrews. She became, through him, the great grandmother of King David, who was the head of the line from which came Jesus, of Nazareth. It is an interesting speculation as to what would have happened had Ruth turned back with her sister.

There are lots of jokes about mothers-in-aw. Perhaps they are more numerous than those on any other theme. There is one mother-in-law who had won the undying loyalty of her daughter-in-law. Probably no passage in the Old Testament is better known than the beautiful words in which Ruth makes her declaration of loyalty to Naomi: "And Ruth said, entreat me not to leave thee and to return from following after thee; for whither thou goest I will go; and where thou lodgest I will lodge; thy people shall be my people, and thy God my God; where thou diest will I die; and there will I be buried. Jehovah do so to me, and more also, if aught but death part thee and me."

Ruth accepted Naomi's God because she knew Naomi. She learned of God from her mother-in-law. The title of this lesson is "Religion in Everyday Life". Well Naomi must have practised her religion very assiduously. More than that, she must have made it attractive. "Thy God shall be My God". We can imagine Ruth saying: "Well, if your religion makes you what you are, then I want to be in on it". And so she determined to follow Naomi to the end. After all, unless religion does that to those who profess it, there is little or no excuse for adopting it. Religion is not something to be put on with our Sunday clothes and left in the closet the rest of the week. It must reflect itself in personal conduct and in a'l human relationships. We once heard of a man who said he believed in angels, because his mother was one. Of course, by the same reasoning, many might believe in devils. Nevertheless the only way in which religion is demonstrated to the world is through human personality. When properly absorbed our religion will, by its very contagion, attract and win others. Not only those who see us in our Sunday manners, but those in the home who see us in our working clothes and our week day manners.

LEGACY

Maintenance of the massive coastal defence guns which the Germans left behind them in Norway has called for the recruiting of volunteers for special army training. Norway's coastline is now dotted with these huge installations. Built at a cost of millions of dollars, each of the complicated electrically driven units is self-contained, complete with its own power plant, and a month of neglect can have disastrous results. Now under the control of the Norwegian Army, this whole chain of German built fortifications can form a valuable element in that country's coastal defence, and according to Norwegian authorities will not be allowed to deteriorate. Some of the large calibre guns fire projectiles weighing one ton, and the only comparable installations are those along the French Channel Coast.

TAMWORTH

Tamworth, March 11. — Mr. Robt. McPhee left on Monday for Prescott, where he will take a six months' course in electrical construction work.

Reeve E. J. Courneya returned home on Saturday, after having spent the past few days in the Hotel Dieu Hospital, Kingston, where he received treatment.

An old and respected citizen in the person of Mr. John Morrison passed away on Friday. The funeral service was held at the Anglican Church on Monday. Rev. F. O. Ware conducted the service.

Mrs. Jack Sproule and daughter, Lynda, spent a few days last week at the home of the former's parents, Mr. and Mrs. W. G. Richmond.

DORLAND

Dorland, March 9. — This week has been real spring weather. The snow and ice disappeared rapidly; the rain, early this morning, has carried away all but a few remnants and where the banks were deepest. The creeks are running full and the ice is unfit for travel. Crows are plentiful and robins have been inspecting last year's nests. A number of sugar bushes have been tapped and, yesterday, were reported running well. Early tulips are showing sprouts.

The event of the week was the presentation in the Parish Hall on Tuesday evening of the comedy, "Always in Trouble", by members of the Y. P. U. A full house enjoyed many hearty laughs. Opinion was divided as to whether Misery Moon (James Dunnan), the darky who was always in trouble; Mr. Tutt (Ernest Smith), with his constant clowning, or Mr. Blair (George Smith), the gouty old millionaire were the most laughable characters. Lola (Margaret Remington), the pert lunch counter waitress, made a charming bride when she appeared in her wedding gown. Her partner (Edward John), the ticket seller, who wasted no words, refused to be over awed by the millionaire. Cinthy (Helen Smith), housekeeper for the old man, made a typical romantic maiden lady while Thelma Buell, as revengeful Russian lady, added the thrills. Tom Risley (Evan Brooks), the sophisticated college man, soon changed his mind about marrying when he saw Rosabud (Mary Johns), but the demure school girl was not without a few thorns when getting rid of an unwelcome swain. Minor parts were played well by Jean Foster and Jean Davis. Special credit is due some of the actors who had never taken part in a play before.

WHICH IS IT?

The pronounciation of the word "Australia" is causing much discussion among university professor and radio announcers.

"Ostralia" is the style which the External Affairs Minister, Dr. Evatt, uses in radio broadcasts.

But leading Australian phoneticians say that its an old style, and that "Ostralia" is the modern pronunciation, and the one generally accepted in Australia.

Dr. A. G. Mitchell, head of the language section of the English Department of Sydney University, says that an Australian who says "Ostralia" sounds affected.

The general manager of the Australian Broadcasting Commission says that he would be disturbed if he heard "Ostralia" in an ABC session because it would be so unusual. "Ostralia" has become sanctioned by usage.

A member of the ABC's pronunciation committee says that "Ostralia" is correct and that "Australia" is "too too English."

TO DEPOSIT ASHES UNKNOWN SOLDIER ON BATTLEFIELD

Ottawa. — The ashes of an unknown Canadian soldier brought unofficially to this country from the hallowed Canadian battlefield of Passchendaele, are now to find a last and fitting resting place — the place from where they came beside dead comrades now sleeping peacefully beneath friendly French soil. Honorary Major John W. Foote, VC, brick padre of the Dieppe raid, will convey the remains of the dead warrior to Europe. The Department of National Defence said that Major Foote will sail from Halifax on the liner Ile de France, on March 20th. He will take part in a solemn ceremony when the ashes are reverently laid to rest in the Canadian section of an Imperial War Graves Cemetery, close to Ypres. A former Canadian Army padre, the Reverend R. C. C. Creelman of Toronto, removed the ashes of the unknown soldier from the burned-out hull of a Sherman tank near the Laison River in mid-August, 1944. It was a good faith but wicked official sanction and against official policy that Padre Creelman brought the ashes with him to this Toronto church when he returned from Overseas, late last year. He had hopes of placing them in a Canadian National Memorial and Tomb to be constructed for the purpose. The decision that the ashes should be returned to the battlefield where many brave men fought and died, is in keeping with announced Canadian policy that no remains of servicemen will be returned to Canada at either private or public expense — a decision based primarily on equality of treatment. The Reverend Mr. Creelman was most co-operative in returning the ashes to military hands keeping and they are now at National Defence Headquarters waiting to be placed in an urn of Major Foote for the long journey back.

VETS TREATMENT RULE EXTENDED

Ottawa. (C.P.) — Extension of Veterans Department treatment coverage was disclosed last week in an Order-in-Council which said it now would include any physician lawfully practising in Canada "who may be chosen by a former member of the forces or other person to give such treatment as is permitted by the regulations."

The order also permits a period of deferment of the start of treatment with service rates of pay and allowances when, in the opinion of the department, it is expedient to do so. It further provides that the period of the forces or other person to give such treatment as is permitted by the regulations."

The order also permits a period of deferment of the start of treatment with service rates of pay and allowances when, in the opinion of the department, it is expedient to do so. It further provides that the period of training of a standard war graves marker on the graves of certain members of the R. C. A. F. following the Airforce and of the forces of "Associated Powers" buried in Canada.

The order says treatment for disability may be started later than 30 days after discharge "where the grant of necessary professional, technical or other treatment services or medical equipment prevents commencement of treatment within 30 days." Twelve months is the deadline for such action.

A further provision is that if a veteran obtains treatment outside departmental facilities which might have been provided by the department, the D.V.A. may reimburse him.

NAPANEE W.C.T.U.

On Tuesday, February 23th, Napanee W. C. T. U. met in Trinity Church and enjoyed a most interesting programme. The president was in the chair and, despite the stormy day, there was a splendid attendance. The W. C. T. U. Doxology was sung, followed by the Lord's Prayer, in unison. Mrs. Lewis took charge of the devotional period. She gave facts about alcohol and also gave some items on money spent for alcohol. She showed how dearly Ontario is paying for its revenue. Mr. Cumberland then led in prayer. Mrs. Elliott favored with a solo, and Miss Rook took charge of the club sheet, assisted by several ladies. A reception of new members followed and four ladies were welcomed by the president to the ranks of the W.C.T.U.

Our guest speaker, Rev. Mr. Truscott, took for his subject "The Life of Frances Willard," whose birthday all W. C. T. U. members celebrate in February. With deepest interest the speaker was followed all through the life of this wonderful woman from the time of her birth, 1839, to her death, 1823. Frances Willard, we are told, saw the entire field of reform. The temperance held first place in her love because she was convinced that humanity would never rid itself of its chains while under the influence of a drug that stifled ambition, chloroformed humanity and degraded mind and soul. She believed in the possibility of peace between nations based on understanding and friendship. Among the reforms she advocated were education for citizenship, vocational training for girls, compulsory arbitration in industrial disputes, a government that would rise above the difference of races, and class and creed. When the statue of Frances Willard was presented by the State of Illinois, to Statuary Hall in the Capitol at Washington, she was declared to be the foremost woman of the nineteenth century; the most beloved character of her time, and under God, a benefactress of the human race.

BOY SCOUTS NEWS

BY AKELA

FIRST NAPANEE WOLF CUB PACK

Visions of the old days when Indian braves, squaws and papooses danced and feasted with the full moon's re-enacted Saturday evening. Cubs dressed for the occasion and the evening's games, were planned on this basis.

The meeting opened with the Flag Break and prayers, followed by the inspection.

Games played were "Backward Weavers", "Tails" and "Trains."

Akela instructed the Cubs in the requirements of the second star model test.

The last game of the evening was "Birds and Cats."

At the Red Flower, Akela gave the story of Rikki-Tikki-Tavi, the mongoose. At the next meeting the story will be completed.

Two new members were welcomed into the pack. These Cubs were Jimmy Harrington and Bobby Follis.

The winners of the evening's competitions were the Yellow and Blue Six. Both were tied with 31 points each.

The next meeting will be at 7:30, on Saturday, March 16th.

Akela closed the meeting with Cub Silence, Cub Prayer and Flag Down.

"Don't You Know I'm a Wolf Cub?"

During a Nazi air raid on Newcastle-on-Tyne, an 8-year-old Cub, Newton Shipley, was found hanging head down in the debris of his home. Both legs were broken—one had subsequently to be amputated — and to all appearances the little lad was dead. Having freed him, the Warden, loath to put him down, was holding him in his arms and when the boy's eyes opened, and he smiled. "You're a brave boy, ain't you?" said the warden. Replied the boy, "Of course. Don't you know I'm a Cub-"

COUNTY FEDERATION NEWS
Lennox and Addington

This County has already organized a branch of the Federation of Agriculture, composed of all the different commodity groups, the executive being Donald Paul, president; Frank N. Ham, 1st vice-president; Clarence Milligan, 2nd vice-president, Harold L. McCaul, secretary-treasurer.

There is much to be done, but it can be accomplished if everyone puts his shoulder to the wheel and helps to make a stronger federation.

According to Government statisticians, the farmers of Canada are doing pretty well. These civil servants, tell the nation that the gross cash income last year exceeded that of the previous year by more than a billion dollars. Then the president of the Canadian Federation of Agriculture explained that the value of agricultural production has risen by only 13½ per cent. as compared with the three-year period of 1926 to 1929.

The farmers don't need statisticians to tell them whether they are well off. All they have to do is to examine their wallets or their bank accounts, if they possess such things.

The majority of the farmers in Ontario have somewhere around a hundred acres each. They keep cattle, hogs, sheep ,chickens. Their chief cash product is the whole milk or cream. They are the "little fellows" who feed "the other half" in the cities and towns.

Government statistics may give an accurate estimate of the gross cash income of "agriculture" but an entirely false idea of the income of the average farmer. The latter's bank account does not reflect affluence, or even prosperity.

It seems possible that agricultural policy may be shaped by mathematical calculations rather than by the actual needs of the man with the hoe.

No matter how many millions the statisticians say the farmers are making, the vast majority still are not making a decent living or getting ordinary conveniences to which they are entitled. . . . A better indication of their prosperity than a bushel of Government statistics would be a statement showing how much they were able to put away for their old age at the end of a year of the hardest toil, day in and day out, from cockcrow till curfew.

If the farmers desire to improve their lot they must become more articulate . . . and start organizing by townships to give effect to plans designed to meet community needs and yet suitable for inclusion in a national programme.

World Day of Prayer Observed at Newburgh

The World Day of Prayer, this year, was held in St. John's Anglican Church, at half-past two, and was well attended, there being fifty-one present. The leaders of the different churches were Mrs. W. A. Ramsay, Anglican; Miss Lillian Embury, Free Methodist; Miss Margaret Cameron, Presbyterian; Mrs. Harrington, of the United Church; Mrs. Oldham, the organist. Mrs. Ralph Whiteman sang the solo in the first part of the program, which was followed by a hymn.

During the third portion of the program, Mrs. Stanley Hanes sang a solo, accompanying herself on a zyther, and at the latter part of the program, a trio, "Grace, Marvellous Grace", was very effectively rendered, unaccompanied, by Mrs. Ralph Whiteman, Mrs. Hugh Ramsay, and Miss Phyllis McGill. Rev. Maurice Oldham, rector of St. John's Church, was the guest speaker, and preached from the text in Levitticus 26 : 6, "And I will give peace in the land". After the National Anthem was sung, Rev. Mr. Oldham pronounced the benediction. The amount of the collection was $12.72.

BETTE DAVIS STARS DRAMA – WITH FINE SUPPORTING CAST

A stirring tribute to the dignity of man—and to his ability to rise from the ignorance in which he is sometimes forced to dwell — is vividly achieved in Warner Bros.' newest screen drama . . . .

"The Corn Is Green"

playing Sunday, Midnight, Monday and Tuesday, March 18th and 19th.

IS ENGLISH TEACHER

Starring Bette Davis as Miss Moffat a determined English school teacher who discovers, in an untutored young miner, the spark of genius that sometimes leads to greatness, the film's action takes place against a background of poverty and barrenness so common to the mining province of Wales at the turn of the last century. With her heart set upon improvement of Welsh miners' welfare, Miss Moffat embarks on an almost impossible crusade to establish a school and bring learning and understanding to these deserving people.

Supporting Bette Davis are a host of capable players — among them John Dall and Joan Lorring, screen newcomers, and Nigel Bruce, and Rhys Williams.

The Late George Francis Hughes

The death occurred at the home of his brothers-in-law, Messrs. Maurice Tierney and Al. Wallace, on Friday evening last, of Mr. George Francis Hughes, after a lingering illness of several months.

The late Frank Hughes was born at Tamworth, Ont., in 1894, being the eldest son of the late Mr. and Mrs. L. C. Hughes. The family moved to Toronto when Frank was quite young. At the start of World War One he enlisted in the 48th Highlanders of Toronto, and saw service in France, Belgium and Germany.

Shortly after his return home he joined the staff of The Allen Paper Co., Toronto, and served as salesman for that firm until the amalgamation of the Allen Paper Co. with The United Paper Mills, and was with the latter firm until illness forced him to retire, nearly two years ago.

Deceased was a welcome monthly visitor at all newspaper and job printing offices east of Toronto, for 25 years, and his many friends will regret to learn of his passing.

In 1934 he married Miss Ethel Tierney, daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. Thos. Tierney, who with their daughter, Roberta, survive him. He also leaves one sister, Miss Anastasia Hughes, of Barrie; one brother Vincent Hughes, of Timmins, and an aunt, Mrs. Jos. McDermott, Brampton. Another brother, Ivan Hughes, was killed in action on January 9th, 1944.

The remains rested at the Tierney Funeral Home until Sunday noon, when they were sent by train to the Rosar Funeral Chapel, Toronto. The funeral was held on Tuesday morning at Our Lady of Perpetual Help Church, where Requiem High Mass was sung for the happy repose of his soul. Interment was made at Mount Hope Cemetery.

Rev. Dean Leacy held a short service at The Tierney Funeral Home on Saturday evening.

The pall-bearers were Messrs. Jos. Killorin, Sam Knapp, Jack Black, Martin Walsh, Don. Miller and Pat Murphy, all friends of the departed.

OBITUARIES

GEORGE BLACK, CAMDEN EAST

After being confined to his bed for several months, Mr. George Black, who had reached his 91st year, died at his home in Camden East, Wednesday, February 27th.

Mr. Black was born in Sheffield, four miles north of Tamworth, where he lived for many years. In addition to farming he operated a saw mill for a great many years. He was a member of the Sheffield Township Council for a number of years and was active in the Methodist and the United Churches. In politics he was a staunch Liberal and was also charter member of Lorne Lodge A.F.& A. M., of Tamworth.

Mr. Black was married twice. His first wife was Annie Rikley, who died in 1921. To them were born seven children, of whom three survive. In 1924, he married Mrs. Alida Stover and moved to Camden East from Tamworth, where he and his first wife had resided after retiring from the farm.

He is survived by his wife and three children, Myrtle, Mrs. D. Paul, Kingston; Nellie, Mrs. B. Case of Croydon; and Archie, in Flint, Mich. Four sons predeceased him.

His funeral was conducted in Camden East United Church, under Masonic auspices, on Friday, March 1st, by Rev. W. G. Fletcher, and interment will be made at Tamworth at a later date. During the service the door was open at the home of the deceased. Numerous floral tributes rested on and around the casket.

ROBERT CARROLL WILSON

Mrs. H. G. Clarington received the sad news on Sunday that her cousin, Seaman First Class Robert Wilson, had passed away suddenly with a heart attack, on Saturday night, March 2nd, at his home in Marshalltown, Delaware, U.S.A.

Robert was the youngest son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Wilson, his mother being the former Mollie Carroll of the Bath district. Robert had served in the United States navy for the past three years, having taken part in the invasion of Southern France and also in the battle with Japan. He had made four trips across the Southern Pacific. He had been home five days on a 30-day leave when he died. The young man told his mother he was feeling ill and the medical examination was called for but he was pronounced dead on arrival at the Wilmington General Hospital. Seaman Wilson was scheduled to be released from the Navy in a month. Two brothers, John A. and James C. Wilson also survive. Mr. and Mrs. P. G. Whitfield and Mrs. Leroy Hoselton left on Monday to attend the military funeral, which was to be held on Wednesday afternoon at 2.30 from St. James Episcopal Church, Stanton. Interment will be in St. James' Cemetery.

Mrs. Whitfield, Mrs. Hoselton and Mrs. Charles Hudson of Bath, are sisters of Mrs. Wilson and Mr. James Carroll is a brother.

BETHANY W. A.

The March meeting of the W. A. met at the home of the president, and opened by singing a hymn. The lesson topic, Stewardship, was read by Mrs. Victor Martin. The scripture was read by Mrs. Ida Martin. Short verses were given by Mrs. Conger, Mrs. Davis and Mrs. Burtch. Mr. Parker also gave a reading. The minutes of the last meeting were read and approved. Mrs. Davis handed in a dollar for the pot luck supper. The secretary reported having sent Mrs. Akenbrek a card of condolence. A card of appreciation was received from Mr. and Mrs. Perry Brown. The travelling apron was started on its way to raise money. The secretary was to get Easter cards for older members.

After the closing hymn, Mr. Parker led in prayer. Grace being sung, Mrs. DeMille served a dainty lunch and a vote of thanks was tendered her for her kind hospitality.

PARLIAMENTARY SESSION REFLECTS WORLD UNREST

Ottawa — The perplexities of the international situation will find considerable reflection in the new session of Parliament which is to forgather at Ottawa, Thursday. When the last session ended in December, the international outlook was promising. The United Nations organization was about to have in London its second meeting designed to be preparatory to the initial peace conference. Tentatively that was envisioned for May. Up to a few weeks ago, the belief was entertained here that the session of Parliament might be split into two stages — before and after the projected conference.

Now, there is no approach to a definite idea when the conference will take place. The uncertainty as to the time that Russia, a vital constituent party in it, wants a peace conference, is aggravated by certain doubts as to whether it wants any at all.

Nor is the revelation of planned and systematic espionage by Russia in Canada, acting under instructions from Moscow and carried on through the Russian embassy here, any emollient to the disturbed state of affairs generally. What this could lead to the former British Prime Minister set forth in his speech recently. The singular accuracy of Mr. Churchill's prophetic role before the war, may cause greater attention now than it did when his was the provebrial voice in the wilderness.

In the perturbed conditions all over, for instance, in Iran and India, Egypt and Palestine and Manchuria and the complete enigma of Russia and its expansionist plans, there is the same broad interest in Canada as in any other country. This nation being a signatory to the United Nations Pact, no doubt the situation will be discussed in Parliament.

The custom has been that external affairs should be discussed near the end of a session on the departmental estimates. Conditions being what they are, the discussions this time may be earlier. It would be in order in the opening debate usually confined to domestic matters.

To-morrow will be the start of the session but no one is in a position to forecast the finish or what may happen while it is in progress. The sessional program will be partly new and partly unfinished business. Of the latter, some of the things were highly contentious and there will be controversy as well over the new program. Particularly is this promised about housing and employment. Protests about the burden of taxation and certain scales of public expenditures contributory thereto, are recurrent.

The Earl of Athlone will officiate for the last time at the opening. The farewell of one Governor - General will be accompanied by appreciation of the warmest welcome to his successor-General should take place as ments. When Field Marshal Viscount Alexander is installed next month, the ceremony will be in Ottawa, in the Senate Chamber.

Tradition was dropped when the Earl of Athlone came and this will be followed again. Such tradition is that the swearing in of a new Governor-General should take place on the port of arrival, Quebec or Halifax. It calls for the attendance, not only of all Cabinet ministers but of the Judges of the Supreme Court. With Parliament in session, the convenience of all concerned will best be served by having the ceremony in Ottawa.

The Canadian loan or credit to Great Britain will need the sanction of Parliament. The necessary measure will be framed in the light of the announcement. It has come out as was expected both as to the tenure, the terms and the basis of the agreement. Despite some published reports to the contrary, there was never any intention that the amount should be less. What has been emphasized all through is that these financial credits nearly all to foster Canadian export trade and to surmount the obstacle of British dollar deficiency, will be fully as beneficial to Canada as to the borrower.

Reference also may be expected to the Dominion - Provincial Conference and the hope of early agreement over the financial relations between them. Finality or the next thing to it is looked for next month. The idea is for a broader basis than conceivable in the light of the stagnation and uncertainty in business it would create and for barriers in taxation and other relief, it would set up. The favorable attitude of several of the provinces seems assured. Premier Drew has declared the conference must not fail. Apart from plentiful utilitarian topics, Dupleessi' attitude is still a mystery.

A lot of legislation is planned that may not be mentioned in the start. Only the highlights are, as a rule. Whatever the government has to offer, will be amplified by what the other parties, on their part, propose. This promises to be considerable. The second session should be normally a more competent performance because in the first only a exception-al number of new members needed time to get their bearings and grasp the Parliamentary usage as well as the problems.

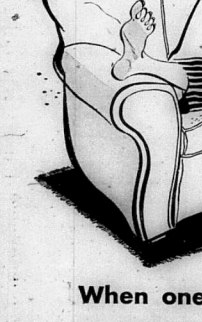
Over and above domestic questions which are very generous and take to extent troublesome, there is the background, unsettled and uncertain, of problems in the perpetuation of peace.

Canadian Vatican Mission Discussed

Ottawa, (C.P.) — It was learned last week that the Canadian Government has "noted" suggestions in some French language newspapers that a diplomatic mission be appointed to the Vatican, but that there has been no formal discussion on the matter.

It was recalled The Commonwealth already is represented at the Holy See by a British Ambassador and a mission from Eire. Only a few weeks ago Ireland cut their mission to the status of an Embassy "... their only mission abroad with that status.

Speculation in Ottawa is that if Canada did decide to have diplomatic representation at the Vatican, it might well be raised to Embassy. P. Vanier, present Ambassador to Paris. He made numerous visits to Italy during the war to visit the First Canadian Corps while he was minister plenipotentiary to the French Government, then in North Africa.



When one more is a crowd!

When the family comes home, or friends are caught in town without hotel accommodation, you can always make room for one more . . . if Dad will sleep on the chesterfield. But sometimes there simply is no room for one more.

Take the home that is not adequately wired, for instance. That new sandwich grill may be one appliance too many for the circuit to carry. The new kitchen mixer may be out of luck for a convenient wall outlet to operate from. Where to put that frozen-food cabinet may be a bigger problem than finding one you can buy. The wall outlet in the chosen corner may be already "overloaded" because of improper distribution of outlets per circuit.

When you build or remodel, be sure that your home is adequately wired. Be sure that it is ready to receive the new electrical appliances that you will be wanting to add from time to time. Employ a reliable electrical contractor, and see that there are plenty of outlets in every room, and circuits enough to serve them all adequately.

Your Hydro supplies power at rates that are among the lowest in the world. If you are to have full advantage of its convenience, your home must be adequately wired.

If you are improving or building a home, ask your Hydro for the booklet, "Adequate Wiring for the Postwar Electric Homes of Canada."

GERMANIUM

Germanium, a little known metal which has remained in obscurity for the half century since it was discovered, because few if any practical uses could be found for it, is now being utilized in alloys. It has been discovered that germanium forms an alloy with gold which does not shrink in castings so that it can be used in dental inserts and other places where precise measurement is essential. The alloy melts at 673 degrees fahrenheit, only 50 degrees higher than lead, whereas gold melts at 1,946 degrees. The alloy was described by Dr. Robert I. Jaffe of Columbus, Ohio, at the recent Chicago meeting of the American Institute of Mining and Metallurgical Engineers.

Hello Homemakers!

Many a tiny tot mimics her mother by serving her best-loved dolly sandwiches and tea (yes! like Mommie's bridge party). It's a wonderful opportunity for a child to imitate poise and daintiness. Your junior hostess will be educating herself to take the part of mother's helper before you know it. Don't you think these tea parties should be encouraged without too much concern in the gossip with Dolly. Give your daughter some dainty sandwiches and tell her how they are made and why they're good to eat. Help her to arrange a few sandwiches on her own dolly dishes and garnish with carrot sticks. When your back is turned every hint with the same inflection will be whispered to dolly perched up in a great big chair.

"CHILDREN'S PARTY SANDWICHES

1 Trim the crusts off the neatly sliced bread.

4 Make several open-faced ones:
(a) a slice of peeled orange
(b) a slice of hard-cooked egg
(c) tinted cheese
(d) pureed prunes or dates
(e) a whole sardine
5 Make dainty filled ones:
(a) finely minced meat molstened with salad dressing
(b) creamed cheese
(c) mashed cooked fish with a salad oil
(d) chopped hard - cooked eggs and onion creamed with a little milk
(e) bananas mashed with boiled dressing
(f) shredded lettuce sprinkled with lemon juice

NOTE: Do not season fillings highly for children. Salt is sufficient

THE QUESTION BOX

Mrs. S. N. requests recipe for cabbage rolls, previously published.

CABBAGE ROLLS

Into a mixing bowl put one and one-quarter to one and a half pounds of ground beef, one-half cup bread crumbs, one beaten egg, one-half cup of milk or tomato juice and one and one-half cups cooked noodles. Season and blend thoroughly. Add the centre tender leaves of a small cabbage which have been chopped and sauteed in a little bacon dripping.

Place mixture on the well-washed outer leaves of the cabbage and roll up each one and fasten with a toothpick. Brown a little dripping and sprinkle with salt and pepper. Arrange in baking dish. Pour in stock to a depth of about one inch. Cover and bake in an electric oven 325 degs. for one and one-half hours. Arrange rolls on hot platter. Make gravy with dripping in pan, using a bit of top milk and strain mixture over the rolls.

Bake potatoes at the same time and choose an oven-cooked dessert and thus utilize oven heat to the best advantage.

Mrs. B.C. asks for a moulded fruit dessert using a small amount of sugar and available fruit.

LEMON SPONGE

We made this lemon sponge pudding the other day, adding less sugar and a little more flour than usual. Instead of one cupful of sugar, we used three-quarters of a cupful and found it sufficiently sweet. To the three-quarters cup of sugar add the juice and grated rind of one large lemon, two and one-half tablespoons flour, one-quarter teaspoon salt and beaten yolks of two eggs. When smooth and well blended, gradually stir in two and one-quarter cups of milk and one teaspoon melted butter and fold in the stiffly beaten whites of the two eggs. Pour into greased casserole or baking dish, set in pan of hot water and bake in a moderate oven 30 minutes, or until it is firm on top. Serves four.

FRESH ORANGE DESSERT

Two tablespoons granulated gelatin, one-quarter cup cold water, one cup hot water, one-eighth teaspoon salt, one-half cup of orange juice, one tablespoon of lemon juice, orange sections.

Soften gelatin in cold water for five minutes. Add sugar and salt and hot water and stir over heat until gelatin is dissolved. Add orange and lemon juice, mixing well. Pour one cup of the mixture into a lightly greased mould and chill. When it begins to thicken arrange orange sections in it. Chill remaining mixture and when it thickens whip until frothy and thick, then pour into the mould. Chill until firm in electric refrigerator. Unmould and garnish with additional orange sections.

Mrs. J. T. asks how to serve canned cut beans. Butter is scarce at her house and they don't like cream sauce.

GREEN BEANS, CREOLE

Two and one-half cups canned green beans, three tablespoons of bacon fat, two tablespoons finely chopped onion, one-third cup of condensed tomato soup or chili sauce, salt and pepper.

Drain beans. Melt bacon fat and add onion. Cook slowly until onions are soft. Add tomato soup or chili sauce and beans. Toss together well. Cover and heat through over electric element turned "low". Yield, four to six.

THE SUGGESTION BOX

Miss P. B. says: I bought two unpainted chests for my small apartment. I painted the fronts and tops but papered the sides to match the wallpaper. This made our room look more spacious.

Miss W. D. says: I've replaced my button bag with empty glass jars which make button finding much simpler.

Mrs. B. J. says: Instead of throwing away a card table which had a hopelessly broken top, my husband covered it with rustproof screening. We use it as a knitted garment drier. Sweaters and such may be laid on it for quick drying, preventing considerable shrinkage.

Mrs. N. Mc. says: I've saved a lot of time on wash days by lacking your stain removal chart on the wall near the laundry sink. Below the instructions are the materials requested in many of the directions. This idea saves many trips to the recipe file in another part of the house.

PRICE CONTROL AND RATIONING INFORMATION

Readers may address their questions giving their name and address and mentioning the name of this paper — to Information Branch, WPTB, Sussex Street, Ottawa, Ontario.

Q. A few days ago I bought two ounces of shredded coconut for 12c, which is 96c per pound. I think I was overcharged. Is there a ceiling price on coconut?

A. No. There is no ceiling price on coconut.

Q. My grocer has been taking sugar coupons for cans of pie peaches, which contain no sugar. I questioned the grocer and he said even though no sugar was used in this product it is still classed as preserves and therefore rationed. Is this correct?

A. Your grocer is absolutely correct. This variety is classed as unsweetened canned fruit, and to provide wider distribution it is rationed.

Q. I paid $1.65 for a 50-pound bag of Maine potatoes. Was I overcharged on this purchase?

A. Yes! Definitely so. In the Ottawa-Brockville district, United States No. 1 size A potatoes have a maximum ceiling price of $1.33 per 50-pound bag and the maximum ceiling price for U. S. No. 1 size is $1.43 per 50-pound bag.

Q. Is a beauty salon allowed to charge 50c more now for a permanent wave? I had it $3.50 wave last week and said before they started that this was the one I wanted and could pay no more. When I received my bill it was $4.

A. There is still a ceiling price on such services as those given by beauty salons. The owner is not allowed to charge more than his ceiling price. If you give us the name of the salon charging the extra 50c, we will investigate their prices.

Q. I would like to know if I may send a blanket to the United States to a friend of mine who is to be married. How much duty would I have to pay and which is the best way of mailing it?

A. Sorry! But this does not come under the jurisdiction of the Prices Board. However, if you would write a letter addressed to the Director of Public Relations, Post Office Department, they would supply the information you require.

Q. Last year tickets for Junior O.H.A. playoff games were $1 and 50c. This year the price was raised to $1.50 for seats which were only 50c last year. Also students were always given a special section of the best seats and this year they were given very poor seats. Does the Board allow such price increases and changes?

A. There is no ceiling on the price of admission to hockey games. As far as the students are concerned it would seem that it is up to the management of the arena to allocate whatever section they wish. We are afraid the Board could not undertake to setup regulations controlling the seating arrangement at all the hockey arenas throughout the country. Your letter also mentions the fact that "scalpers" were selling tickets above the regular price. This would be a matter for police investigation and if you noticed such sales being made, it was up to you to notify the nearest police officer.

Q. On July 10th, 1945, I purchased a house and gave the tenants notice to vacate. When the notice was due the Wartime Prices and Trade Board told me I could not put these people out. I have been back several times but they still say the same thing. When can I give notice and how much must I give as I desperately need this house?

A. While we appreciate the acute housing shortage we must tell you that you cannot give these tenants notice to vacate. The WPTB "Eviction Order" precludes the giving of notice to tenants in self-contained housing accommodation, except in some special cases. If your case would not be one of these.

Q. I was charged 6c a pound last Saturday, for waxed turnips. Was I overcharged?

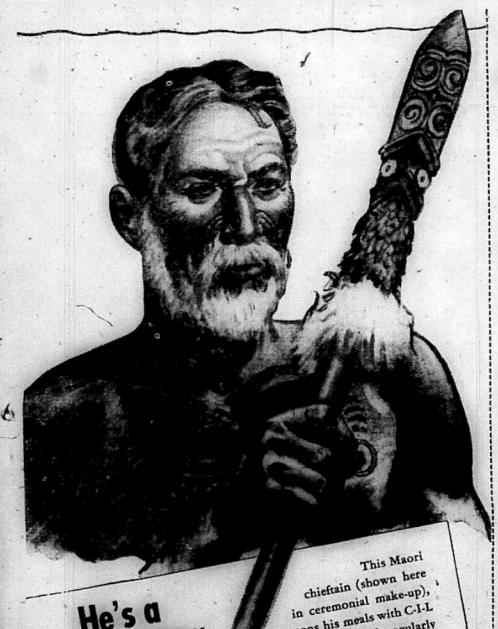
A. It would seem you paid 1c por poun dtoo much. 5¢ a pound is the ceiling price for waxed turnips of the type you bought. As you have given us the name of the grocer, we will check his prices at once.

Q. Would you advise if I was overcharged when I paid 19c for one pound of prunes and $1.55 for a 50-lb. hamper of potatoes?

A. Prunes are priced according to size and as you did not mention the size we could not say whether or not you were overcharged. If the prunes were large ones, 19c was not too much. The ceiling price for the 50-lb. hamper of potatoes which you purchased is $1.62 so you were not overcharged.

Q. Is there still a ceiling price on sugar? I never have paid more than 8c a pound, but enclose a bill from a small store near my home where I had to pay 9c.

A. There certainly is a price ceiling on sugar. Stores are not allowed to charge more than they charged during 1941. Each store has its own ceiling price and you will find that a few places charged 9c at this time and they are allowed to charge the same price now.



Looking Ahead
A new D.D.T. powder . . . an exploding rivet . . . a new fungicide . . . nylon hose.
WATER MIX D.D.T.
One of the most important advantages of the new D.D.T. powder, Deenate 50-w, is that sprays are made up simply by adding it to water. Unlike oil-type D.D.T. products, the spray is non-inflammable and may be safely used on livestock and plants.
Chemists have developed an exploding rivet with an explosive charge in the shank. When heat is applied to the head, it explodes the charge in the shank which expands and sets the rivet. Now used in aircraft, it has many other time and money-saving uses.
IT'S HERE
A new organic fungicide by the name of "Fermate" is now available commercially in Canada. "Fermate" has been extensively tested by Government Plant Pathologists and it reported to have many advantages over sulphur and copper fungicides in controlling orchard disease such as apple and pear scabs.
Soon now, the ladies will be able to buy nylon hose more sheer than any nylons they've ever seen. These super-sheer stockings will be knit by Canada's hosiery manufacturers from nylon yarn made by C-I-L at Kingston, Ontario.
He's a "WINDSOR" Salt Fan
This Maori chieftain (shown here in ceremonial make-up), seasons his meals with C-I-L "Windsor" Salt, exported regularly from Canada to his native New Zealand.
In Canada, however, salt has far wider significance, even though to most of us it is just a table essential. When treated chemically by C-I-L at Windsor, Ontario, it also becomes the basis for such commodities as chlorine, hydrochloric acid, caustic soda and synthetic ammonia, which have a range of application from the treatment of drinking water to the curing of hides.

BY GORDON LINDSAY SMITH

Each year sees scores of new flowers and vegetables offered to the Canadian public. Sometimes these are brand new varieties entirely, especially in the flowers, but more often it is an improvement over or an addition to one already well known.

Flowers that were formerly tall can now be secured in dwarf style available for edging; doubles are available where previously only singles were known. There are new shades and perhaps grand new colors. In vegetables, plant breeders have been concentrating on earliness, better flavor, elimination of hard cores or stringiness.

Not so long ago only a few varieties of corn could be grown in Canada and these only in the milder areas. Now, thanks to the plant breeders, there is not a province in which good garden corn cannot be produced. A few days lopped off the maturity period for any vegetable of the time it takes to bring flowers to the blooming stage, pushes varieties farther North.

Then again, thanks to the plant breeders, several different types in most vegetables and flowers are now available, thus increasing the chances of success in Northern gardens and adding variety everywhere.

Beginners are advised to look over the new Canadian seed catalogues carefully and keep in mind these new additions. The old corns, beets, carrots and beans of ten years ago, while still available, are not to be compared with the earlier, hardier and more flavorful types offered today.

NEW LAWNS AND OLD

One of the very first on-the-land jobs in the spring is lawn work, especially the patching and general cleaning up of established lawns. One can start this job almost as soon as the last snow is gone. Grass seed makes its best growth in cool weather. For patching and new lawns, too, experts advise getting a good grade of lawn grass, which will be a mixture of various sorts of grasses designed to make growth quickly and stay green year after year. For patching, the bare spots should be thoroughly stirred with a rake, then seeded rather heavily. Covering with brush or wire will protect from the birds.

Fairly early in the spring is the best time to apply commercial fertilizer, which should be spread according to directions and preferably just before a rain which will wash it in and prevent burning. Too often the average lawn is regarded as some permanent fixture which should take care of itself. As a result it soon chows wear and tear and eventually may produce more plantain, dandelion and other weeds, than grass. Good lawns are fed regularly with fertilizer, are rolled early in the spring when the ground is soft.

GROWING YOUR OWN PLANTS

Rather than purchasing started plants — in many sections of Canada this may be impossible or inconvenient anyway — many gardeners start their own in hot beds or shallow window boxes. The former are merely glass protected outdoor beds, where additional heat is provided by an underlying bed of fresh horse manure or hot water pipes or electric cable.

The window boxes are shallow affairs, a couple of inches deep, placed in a bright window. The soil used should be fine and loose, preferably a mixture of sand and leaf mould. Seeds are planted in March and in rows about an inch apart. When the plants develop their second set of leaves they are transplanted to larger and cooler quarters and a few weeks later they are set outside. Ventilate and keep soil moist.

AN INSULT

The final session of a musical competition was drawing to a close when the secretary, perturbed at the non-arrival of a number of the trophies, approached the chairman and informed him of the predicament.

Summoning his chauffeur, the chairman gave him instructions to drive home and ask the butler to give him half a dozen cups off the sideboard.

The cups were duly delivered, and the presentation of prizes proceeded according to program.

The conductor of the winning band was handed a beautiful trophy; another was presented to the winning tenor. When the leading soprano received her cup, however, she glanced at the inscription and fell in a faint. The inscription read: "Open competition for the best pig in the show."

3 tokens to carry over, left-over chicken for Sunday pie.

Is it possible to have roasts under meat rationing? Of course. The family of four with four meat coupons to spend each week can start on Sunday with a three-pound roast of veal requiring only two coupons. Let's have a good dressing and plenty of tasty brown gravy to accompany it. Enough will remain to combine with some colorful vegetables and a good cream sauce, to serve shortcake-fashion on your best baking-powder biscuits on Monday. For Tuesday fish night we'll provide the protein dish of the meal thus keeping your ration planning in line with the meatless day observance in restaurants.

Four tokens are ration change for Wednesday's lamb chops. On Thursday braised short ribs of beef make a dish which will cater satisfyingly to the hearty appetites of these brisk Fall days. A boon to your coupons, as well as your popularity as a hostess, would be unrationed chicken for Friday's dinner guests. The left-overs could go into a delectable chicken pie for Sunday dinner. Sausages for Saturday will provide a quickee meal for only three tokens. And there you are at the end of a week of good eating with three tokens to hoard for a future emergency.

Dear Sirs:
This year I have used your "Miracle" Chick Starter and I want to let you know the results I have had.
I received 450 chicks. They are New Hampshire Reds. I have only lost five, two of which were killed because they were crippled, and the others died from natural causes.
The chicks are strong and healthy, well feathered and growing fast.
They like the feed tremendously and clean it all up.
I am more than pleased with the results.
Yours truly,
M. P.

EDITOR FARM PAPER GUEST SPEAKER AT SEED FAIR DINNER

Urges Greater Production To Help Food Crisis

One of the best and largest attended fairs in the annals of the Quinte Seed Growers' Association, was held Thursday, Friday and Saturday of last week, culminating with a banquet held in the Superior Restaurant on Friday evening.

Competing for the honors were entries from the counties of Hastings, Durham, Prince Edward Peterboro Ontario, Victoria, Lennox and Addington, Peterborough and Northumberland. Judging on Saturday was by George A. Elliott of the Department of Agriculture, Toronto; cereal grains and potatoes, G. W. Michael, of the Seed Branch at Ottawa, and Dr. G. P. McRostie of Guelph Poultry Husbandry Department, O.A.C., Guelph Ont.

The Fair got under way about 9:00 a.m. Thursday morning, followed with the Boys' Seed Judging Competition at 10:30, in the Agricultural Boardroom.

In the afternoon at the Council Chambers in the Town Hall, addresses were given by Dr. G. P. McRostie of Guelph, Mr. George A. Elliott of the Department of Agriculture, Ottawa, and Mr. G. W. Mitchell, of the Seed Branch, Ottawa.Interesting talks were given by the speakers and much valuable information was gathered by the members.

At the banquet held on Friday evening, the Vice-President of the Association, John Rickard, of Newcastle, was chairman, in the unavoidable absence of the President, Mr. Oscar Parks, Bloomfield. Following the meal Mr. Rickard called upon Mayor Chalk of Napanee, to officially welcome the guests. In his remarks, the Mayor thanked the 'Association for the privilege of being able to attend, and urged the need to stay on the farms and produce from the good seed the necessities that are so badly needed to feed the starving millions as well as to keep up our own standard of living.

MR. PORTER'S ADDRESS

Mr. C. W. Buchanan, Napanee, the Secretary of the Seed Growers' Association, introduced the speaker of the evening, Mr. Watson Porter, Editor-in-Chief of the Farmer's Advocate, London, Ont. who, in his introductory remarks, said he was pleased to see so many present, especially so many youths.

Mr. Porter chose to speak on Seeds, but dwelt principally with Seeds of Human Welfare. We must keep in our thoughts the need of a world society and that all peaceful methods to-day is no longer looked upon as a colony, but has gained the status of nationhood amongst the Commonwealth of Nations. Therefore, we become world citizens, and will be judged, not so much by the amount of money and the number of articles we have sent Overseas, but by the sacrifices we have made and by what we still must endure.

Referring to the need in the starving countries, the speaker said that U.N.R.R.A. figured that 2,000 calories at least, per person, per day, were necessary to keep up a healthy condition. We in Canada consume, on an average of between 3,500 to 4,000 calories and in some cases, 5,000, according to energy consumed. From an authoritative source, Mr. Porter quoted the surprising fact that for every ton of food not shipped to India, 8,000,000 people died.

"Stressing the need of good seed, he referred to the world-wide drought in 1940, and said that Food Production was ten per cent. below normal. This should be an incentive to produce to the best of our ability in the season ahead. By July 31st of this year Canada's wheat stock will be down to 50,000,000 bushels, which is not an alarming low, but calls for productivity and elimination of all waste.

"This means something to agriculture in Canada," said Mr. Porter. With the shortage of foodstuffs and livestock in many parts of the world, we who have not suffered to any great extent, must be prepared to go to work on the programme laid down and struggle along to better days than we have ever known in the past. Even by so doing, it is doubtful if we can get out of it before 1950.

"Must Share What We Have"

The Food and Agricultural Organization which forms a branch of the U.N.O., did not do much prior to 1943, even though it was known that at cessation of hostilities the need would be great. However, arrangements were made at the first meeting in Quebec, last year, that the nations that have would help to the utmost the nations that have not. This must be done in a spirit of goodwill.

We can easily think ourselves into another depression, and false economy, by letting ourselves drift into a state of nationalistic pre-war thinking. We owe it to ourselves to live in a society of nations, let live, free from power and want, and free from fear.

Mr. Porter's splendid talk, rather than an address, was interspersed with humorous illustrations and was listened to with rapt attention by his large audience.

WINNERS ANNOUNCED

Chairman Rickard called upon A. Martin of the Ontario Department of Agriculture, Toronto, to announce the winners of the Seed Judging Competition, which was won by the team from Durham County, which led all others in points, finishing first, second and third, in that class. He referred to the show as being one of the largest in the history of the Association. Speaking of entries grown from good Canadian seed, he referred to the crop of young people raised on our farms, as the best, and suggested the addition of more of the junior members on boards to add impetus and create a more active interest.

Several of the members spoke of the fine showing and along with the chairman, thanked the speaker for his enlightening address.

During the dinner and preceding the speeches, Walter Blakely and Jack Caldwell sang duets and Mr. Blakely led in a sing-song between the courses.

April Sugar-Preserves Ration May Ease Butter Shortage

Three sugar - preserves coupons have been declared valid by Wartime Prices and Trade Board for April, in an effort to ease the butter shortage by giving Canadians a chance to use preserves on bread.

Coupons 46 to 50 (Book 3) will become valid, while S6 and S7 will fall due on April 18th. This does not mean that more sugar coupons are being allowed over the declared yearly figure — but this is simply a rearrangement of the allotment.

Prices Board officials also point out that although plain sugar coupons 46 to 70 expired March 31st, persons who have saved a few of them to buy maple sugar or honey or sugar can do so by exchanging them for vouchers at the nearest local ration board office. Vouchers must be obtained because loose cupons may not be sent through the mail when buying maple products.

Urges Maximum Yield of Foodstuffs in Next Four Years

Curtailment of food consumption, elimination of waste and maximum yield of foodstuffs were urged upon the Canadian people as three major ways in which this country could play a dominant role in relieving the world food shortage by Premier Mackenzie King, this week. Both the farmer and the housewife could help in the present situation when the whole "world is threatened by disease and disorder."

It was a stirring plea that the Canadian Prime Minister issued to citizens of this country. He and the members of his Cabinet had gone over the situation carefully and with a complete knowledge of the facts. There could be no question about the conditions of famine and starvation. The general picture was urgent and desperate. All practicable means had been taken to make available for export the maximum supply of foodstuffs.

He had nine specific recommendations:

1 Maximum yield of foodstuffs by farmers for the next four years.

2 Curtailment of wheat for distilling reduced 50 per cent.

3 Curtailment of wheat available for domestic milling by 10 per cent.

4 Encouragement of consumer savings in use of wheat and wheat products and encouragement of home gardens.

5 Reduction of wheat and wheat product inventories.

6 Flour and feed bulk shipment regulations to be modified.

7 Establishment of priorities for wheat for export.

8 An increase, wherever possible, of oats, and No. 4 wheat, for export.

9 Encouragement to farmers to market at once available wheat by means of special arrangement.

NEW RATION BOOK FOR CANADIANS IN EARLY FALL

Canadians will get new ration books early this fall, according to an announcement made recently by O. W. Rodomar, Administrator of Rationing for Wartime Prices and Trade Board. The new ration book is being prepared now and is required because present ration coupons for meat and sugar will run out later in the year. The new ration book will be Number Six.

"Early announcement of the new ration book is being made to keep before the public the continuing critical world food shortage and the part Canada must play in helping to feed the starving millions abroad," Mr. Rodomar said.

The same system of distribution used in the past will be set up to hand out the new books. Staffed by thousands of volunteers, distribution centres will be organized by the 627 Local Ration Boards across Canada.

NEW ZONING FOR REFORESTATION

Information has been received from Mr. Jas. Hepburn, M.L.A., for Prince-Edward-Lennox that the Ontario Department of Lands and Forests, in order to give better coverage in reforestation work has sub-divided the zone comprising eight counties in the eastern central part of Ontario, and made a Quinte Zone consisting of the Counties of Hastings, Lennox and Addington and Frontenac, and the headquarters for this zone will be at Napanee.

VETERANS URGED TO ACT NOW

Ottawa, (C.P.) — Veterans and servicemen planning to enter university next September, should get their applications in immediately, Hon. Ian Mackenzie, Veterans Minister, warned recently.

He said all indications "are that the universities are going to be crowded this fall."

"They are most anxious to give priority to veterans but it is essential that as early as possible they have some idea of the number they must accommodate. The application applies not only to those already discharged, but to those still in the service."

Mr. Mackenzie said proper procedure was to apply first to the university, then, when the notice of acceptance has been received, to apply to the nearest office of the Department of Veterans Affairs for the necessary approval of the course.

"You were lucky pal," said another, "In the trenches where I was we did nothing else."

BATH RESIDENTS PRESENT GIFTS TO SERVICEMEN

CANADA IMPRESSED U. N. O. DELEGATES

Toronto, (C.P.) — Canada's position as one of the major nations of the western hemisphere while allied with Britain and the British Commonwealth makes its sincere convictions the more valuable in affairs of the United Nations, said Dr. Eduardo Zuleta Angel, Colombian delegate to the United Nations meetings in London, in an interview in Toronto, recently.

Dr. Angel was president of the U. N. O. Preparatory Commission and provisional chairman of its General Assembly. He now is en route home to Bogota.

He said that United Nations delegates were impressed with "the calm, rational approach to all problems," shown by the Canadian representatives.

PENSION ACT STATED FOR AMENDMENT

Ottawa, (C.P.) — The Pension Act, 27-year-old piece of legislation that has rolled up public obligations of roughly $60,000,000 a year, will undergo its first Parliamentary review in five years.

A key instrument in care of tens of thousands of Canadian veterans of the two great wars and of their dependents, the act will come under study by the Commons committee on veterans affairs as one of its major considerations of the session.

Statistics alone bespeak its importance.

At the end of January the pension liability for the First Great War stood at nearly $37,000,000, representing payments to 10,000 disabled veterans and dependents. At the same time the liability for the Second Great War stood at more than $22,000,000, representing payments to more than 45,000 persons.

In 1919, the post-war year most closely corresponding to 1946, the liability stood at $17,000,000 for 39,000 persons.

Experience after the First Great War showed that it was fourteen years before financial outlay reached its maximum of $42,000,000. In the year of depression, 1932, 95,000 Canadians were wholly or partially dependent on pension but the largest numerical total was reached in 1941, when it hit 98,000, some of them men who had never claimed before.

CZECH INDUSTRIES STATE PROPERTY

Prague, (A.P.) — Czechoslovakia's vast nationalization program under which an estimated 70 per cent. of the country's industries became state property, went into effect last week.

Under the programme the workers become state employees and the managers state officials. Profits will go into the public treasury, as former owners are being compensated according to a plan, not yet completely formulated, involving payment of some cash and the balance in government bonds.

Industries to be nationalized are mines, gas and electric plants, iron foundries, metal machine factories, battery works, paper mills, wood products factories, textile mills and leather and rubber workers. Some smaller plants will remain private.

THE PLOT THICKENS

The arrest, last week, of Fred Rose, M.P., sole representative of the Labor-Progressive Party in the Legislature Assembly, at Ottawa, has added another surprise to the list of surprises which Canadians have received during the past few weeks. The Labor-Progressive Party, of which Mr. Rose is the representative, is the successor to the Communist Party, which was disbanded by the Government in 1940. Mr. Rose was arrested in his home in Montreal, and later released on ten thousand dollar bail, while his case was remanded until March 22nd. Mr. Rose took his seat in the House, on Monday; his right to do so was not challenged. Hundreds of spectators who lined up to get into the House expecting some excitement, went away disappointed, as nothing happened.

We have no right to comment on the guilt or innocence of a man against whom the case has not yet been proved. In our British law, a man is innocent until proven guilty. If Mr. Rose is not guilty then the Court will clear his name. If he is guilty he will be punished; his position in the House will not save him.

Quite apart from the innocence or guilt of those who have been arrested, it is a startling revelation that suspicion should have fallen on those in high office, and positions of trust.

Canada awaits, with anxiety, the full report on the activities of the spy ring.

APOLOGETICALLY

Canada is going to save some wheat in order to help feed the starving people of Europe. We are all for it. We, in this country, can do with much less wheat and wheat products than we now have, and not suffer. Dispatches which tell of the Ten Per Cent. cut in wheat to the domestic consumer, are frank and straight forward. But, when it comes to announcing a cut in the use of wheat for alcoholic beverages, all the dispatches from Ottawa hasten to add that the cut in wheat will not affect the amount of liquor made, very much. While the intoxicationists have to be assured that there will always be plenty of liquor, and that they need not grow apprehensive because of the proposed restrictions. Mr. and Mrs. Bread-Eater and all the little Bread-Eaters, need no such assurance, or at least the dispatch writers, who are generally "in the know" do not think they need it. The deduction is that we, as a nation, are willing to help starving Europe, so long as the supply of liquor is not interfered with.

It is about time someone in authority to do so, removed the crosses and wreaths from the Monument at the County Court House. The snow and wind of winter have left them much the worse for wear.

STOPPING THE CYCLE

Orthodox economists have for long gone on the assumption that the trade cycle is inevitable. There must be times of boom followed by times of unemployment. Indeed, there are those in our country who still maintain the inevitability of these trade cycles. In Great Britain, however, the Labor Government does not subscribe to this inevitableness. It believes that conditions may be so controlled as to prevent these recurring depressions. The first step in the Government's control policy was to nationalize the Bank of England. That has been done. The next step is contained in a Bill now before Parliament. This is a Bill to control investments, and should go a long way in the direction of preventing booms and depressions. A Worldover Press dispatch has this to say about a Bill which has received all too little attention on this side of the water. It says:

"If the Bill becomes law, a permanent control will be held by the Government over all new capital issues. No one will be able to invite public subscriptions for any scheme whatsoever without the approval of the Government, after its careful scrutiny. Says Dr. Dalton: 'This simple provision alone will prevent many of the financial scandals of the past and of the speculative boom which followed the last war. . . . This time the Government and the Labor Party mean to insist that national need, rather than private profit-making, shall determine priorities. . . . Our total financial resources available for new capital development are limited, and we must make sure that they are used to the best advantage.'

"The Chancellor believes that the Bill will enable the Government to promote production and suppress inflation. But a few years hence, the danger may cease to be too much purchasing power and too scanty production, and become deflation and unemployment through lack of purchasing power. The present controls are designed to prevent the menace of such a cycle. Stock issues will be regulated, therefore, by the Capital Issue Committee, which is the licensing agency for new issues, and also by a National Investment Council, composed of economic experts, acting as advisers to the Government."

If the experiment now being made in Great Britain is a success, the Labor Government will have earned the gratitude of the whole Democratic World.

UNDERSTANDING

The world is having a bad attack of nerves these days. Perhaps that is to be expected now that we are all living so close to each other. We are getting on each other's nerves. There are plenty of people who have an easy solution for this situation. Perhaps one of the easiest solutions offered by would-be physicians of the world's disorder, lies in a real effort on the part of one nation or group of nations to understand another. To be sure, mutual understanding is to be welcomed, but that, in itself, is no guarantee of mutual respect. There is, after all something in the old adage which says: "the more I see of some people, the better I like my dog."

Devere Allen, in a recent article, underlines the necessity for something more than understanding. He writes:

"Understanding is not enough, either, unless it extends to a comprehension of what the other fellow is really after, and unless better acquaintance leads to assurance that there is no basic rivalry, social or economic. It was a chauffeur in England who cured me of any superficial belief that understanding alone would accomplish miracles. As we drove past Monmouth, in the last province to be turned over by Wales to England, he said: 'See that schoolhouse, Sir? They'll be fightin' the same feud that went on there when I was a lad.' 'Feud?' I asked, 'a feud between you British and the Welsh?' You have lived side by side all these years, and surely you understand each other by now.' 'That's just it,' he exclaimed, earnestly. 'The closer we get to 'em and the better we understands 'em, the less we like 'em'."

This is quite in line with the account of the two women who were arrested for fighting. When brought before the magistrate, one said of the other: "The first time I saw her, she called me a sloven and a mean hussy." "Not the first time," interjected the other, "I did not know you then!"

Conservationists Present Resolution To Prov. Gov't.

Ontario Federation of Anglers and Hunters Ask Restocking Programme

"Whereas this Federation finds that the policy of planting year-old fish in depleted waters over a period of ten years has failed to result as anticipated and that careful investigation shows a lack of increase in proportion to such restocking, and whereas it has been definitely proven time to this Federation that the failure of restocking is a direct result of insufficient study and investigation preceding the planting of fish and resulting needless waste of time and money.

Therefore be it resolved that this Federation urgently recommends the adoption by the Government of Ontario of a Fish restocking program in keeping with up-to-date and the thoroughly scientific, and practical procedure; that all restocking programs be subject to an adequate survey of water and food conditions and the nature, favourable or unfavourable, as the case may be of the fish habitat to be replenished.

Also that where waters are restocked observation and biological studies should be continued for the purpose of serving future undertakings of the kind and to indicate improvements necessary in surrounding watershed such as the erection of fish ladders, conservation dams, stream improvements, reforestation, etc.

Furthermore, in order to insure the greatest possible facilities for public fishing suitable waters should be placed under Government management even to the taking over where necessary of areas now reserved for private fishing and as an aid to the necessary control of such fishing in public waters as well as to contribute to the cost of management a suitable charge be made for same and that in order to adequately carry out the above recommendations a competent supervisor should be appointed for each important district.

He should have charge of surveying and organizing necessary improvements to stream conditions and habitat.

He should be required to keep records of his observations and to carry on creel censuses and spawning beat counts and should work closely with local Fish and Game Associations. And whereas this Federation is alarmed by the present tendency to advertise and exploit game fish as an attraction to the tourist trade to the possible detriment of resident anglers of Ontario, and while being duly mindful of the revenue to be derived from such trade in right proportion, it is urgently recommended that in view of our failing fish by our own citizens, that all inducements be held out for the tourist trade be based on the expert finding of sufficient game fish surplus from year to year to warrant the offering of same over and above the requirements of our own people of Ontario.

And whereas it is an accepted fact that Fish and Game habitats are usually affected by the surrounding conditions of other natural resources, this Federation wishes to stress the importance of the interlocking of the activities of all Government departments dealing with Land Forests, Development and Planning, Agriculture, Hydro and Fish and Game.

As habitat conditions are all important to the last named we strongly urge the closest co-operation between the foregoing departments.

Finally, as a means to the fullest possible efficiency in the management of the Fish and Game Resources of Ontario, this Federation recommends the creation of a Fish and Game Commission entirely non-paid and non-political in its composition and administration.

Britain's National Insurance Bill

London — The National Insurance Bill, published on January 25th, is the culminating stage in the expansion and improvement of the United Kingdom's social services which have always been more advanced in nearly every respect than those of any other country. Social security, like nearly everything in Britain, has grown piecemeal throughout the centuries. It was the task of Sir William Beveridge, during the war, to devise comprehensive schemes which by closer co-ordination, would render the existing services more beneficial to those whom they serve and more economical in administration.

The new scheme will save trouble for insured people, paper work to employers, and paper for the nation. It will not only embrace extensive functions of the central and local government, but also those of innumerable voluntary societies, friendly societies — industrial life offices, trade unions and employers' provident funds. Over twelve million employed people were insured by the voluntary societies even before the last war but one, and it was on this foundation that state insurance was built.

Henceforth the whole system of social insurance, covering sickness, unemployment, widows, orphans and burdens caused by death is to be brought under a common administration; a single document will entitle all, without discrimination, to equal security. It links with the family allowance scheme already passed and provides for a most complete national health system.

For a weekly payment of four shillings and seven pence for men and three shillings and seven pence for women in employment, everyone will be covered by insurance to meet sickness, unemployment, maternity, widowhood and old age. The Bill, which it is intended to pass before August, puts into effect the main proposals of the original Beveridge scheme at rates of benefit slightly higher, to meet the rise in the cost of living in the three years since his report. The rates are substantially above these existing today, and include in addition new maternity allowances to cover the period before and after birth, and a new death grant.

No matter what misfortune may present the breadwinner earning a living, the state will be at hand to provide minimum standards based on the cost of living.

There is to be a benefit of twenty-six shillings per week for a single person, forty-two shillings for a married couple, equally in sickness and unemployment or when the breadwinner retires. In addition, a man who is unemployed or sick will have seven shillings and sixpence a week for the first child and subsequent children get five shillings a week under the family allowance scheme. Thus a man with a wife and one child, losing wages through sickness or unemployment, gets not less than forty-nine shillings for six weeks. Unemployment benefit will be paid for thirty weeks with extensions for a good contribution record, after which appeal may be made to spending departments for assistance.

A contribution is required from all no longer receiving full time education, until retirement at sixty-five except when unemployed or incapacitated through sickness or injury. Married women can choose whether to pay and thereby qualify for the benefits as the husband's dependent. Rates of contribution for employed persons are: a man, four shillings seven pence; employers, three shillings and ten pence; women three shillings and seven pence; employer three shillings; a boy under eighteen, two shillings and eight pence, employer, two shillings and three pence; girl under eighteen, two shillings and two pence, employer one shilling and nine pence. The Treasury contribution is about the employer's. A self-employed man pays five shillings and nine pence.

These payments are to cover benefits under the proposed National Health Service, of which the Government will bear the biggest part of the cost. The total cost of the scheme excluding payments for health service, are estimated at between 450 million and 500 million pounds a year for the first three years, of which 118 million to 133 million will be met by the Government.

Existing schemes of Unemployment Insurance, National Health Insurance, Widows, Orphans and Old Age Contributory Pensions and Non-Contributory Pensions will be modified, as required and beneficiaries will not suffer. It is estimated that if existing insurance schemes continued, the cost in 1948 would be 380 million pounds and that the cost under the new scheme will be 509 million pounds.

Provision is made for varying contributions when it appears expedient, with a view to maintaining a stable level of employment. Contributions are to be paid into a national fund under the management of the Minister of National Insurance who is to lay the accounts before Parliament. A small advisory committee will assist him. He will appoint its members, who are not to be members of Parliament; one is to be appointed after consultation with employers' organizations, one after consulting workers' organizations, one a woman, and one after consulting the Northern Irish Government if it decides to come in.

There is also provision for representative local advisory committees and determination claims by appropriate persons and tribunals. The Government will have the power to make necessary adjustments as regards colonies and other British dependencies as required.

There are only the principal aspects of this historic measure, the biggest constructive social experiment Britain has ever seen. It may be noted that the Beveridge scheme was based on three assumptions: firstly, Children's Allowances; secondly, comprehensive health and rehabilitation services for the whole population; thirdly, the avoidance of mass unemployment. The first is done, the second is being done and the third—mass unemployment— is the exact opposite of the situation as it is now, or is likely to be for years ahead.

INTERNATIONAL SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON, MARCH 24TH, 1946

"FORCES THAT UNIFY A NATION"

Lesson Text: I Samuel 7: 1-8, 13-15.

When the Israelites moved into Canaan, they entered a land which contrasted very sharply with Sinai. They had for forty years lived in a sandy, dry, and barren desert. They crossed into an agricultural land, a country of lush meadows, fertile olive groves and beautiful vineyards. Believing the prosperity of this country was the result of the Canaanites for worshipping the nature gods, it was not long before the Israelites began to worship these too. They worshiped the local gods —or Baals—on the hills, or high places, and the Ashereth, the female counterpart of the Baals. The worship of these latter was usually accompanied with licentious practises.

In the meantime, the ark, the symbol of Jehovah's presence, had been neglected. As a matter of fact the Philistines took it. Only to them it brought them bad luck wherever it went. So they sent it back. Loaded it on a cart and it came to Bethshemesh. The people there were nervous about keeping it, so, sent for the properly constituted authorities to come and get it. Then they to Kiriath-jerim went for it and brought it back with them where it rested.

Now with the ark safely back Samuel called upon the people to renounce the Baals and the Ashtereth and turn back to God, and serve Him only. The time had come when the people, because of experience, knew the need of central worship. They were now quite aware that the worship of a number of local gods was dividing influence, and an unsatisfying experience. They were ready to heed Samuel's call. There comes a time in the life of the nation when the unifying forces of religion can be called upon, a time when the people are ready to accept the appeal. Religion may be a divisive force; it may also be a very great unifying power. Whether it is the one or the other depends on the character of the worshipper and his approach to God.

In the case of the Israelites, they had learned by experience the necessity of worshipping one God. To seal their devotion, and their return to God, Samuel gathered all the people together at Mizpeh. There, water poured out symbolizing the return to God of the gifts He had given them. Then they made confession for their sins, and Samuel ruled over them. The sequel to the change in religious attitude, according to the Biblical account was that from then on the Israelites were successful in battle. The secret of their success followed this return to God, lay not in any magical result of such return as in the strength which came from united action. Instead of divided loyalties, the people were once again united by worship of one God. The that unity of worship and purpose lay the secret of success they had against the Philistines.

In all this Samuel played an important part. He was a consecrated devout man. It was he who was ready when the time came, to lead the people in their religious reorganization. He was ready when the opportunity knocked and he succeeded in building the religion of their fathers into the natural life of Israel. It takes time for men and women to do that, and these post-war years in terms of religion in the national and international councils, was never greater. We need the world point of view, which religion brings. We need the practical application of brotherhood and love which lie at the heart of religion, if catastrophe worse than any that the world has seen, is to be averted. These can be achieved only through religious men. The world's greatest need in these tragic days is men who, knowing God in Christ are willing, in public life, to apply that knowledge.

TELL-TALE POLAROGRAPH

One of the conspicuous directions of scientific progress in recent years has been in the way of measuring almost infinitely small traces of materials.

An instrument that is already proving of immense value in detecting the infinitely little is the polarograph. The polarograph is used for the detection of exceedingly small traces of chemicals in a great number of institutions and industries. An example is the recent discovery that excessively minute traces of the element boron present in the soil in which grape vines are grown has been responsible for the bouquet of certain rare juices.

The polarograph was invented by Professor J. Heyrovsky, of Prague University, and consists of a simple glass cell containing the liquid to be analyzed and a tiny tube — a capillary tube — through which drops of mercury fall, through the liquid, on to the bottom of the vessel. A very weak electric current is passed between the mercury drops and the pool of mercury, and as the voltage of the current is gradually varied, an electrical "jump" occurs every time a new element is encountered. The jerky increases in current, as the voltage is increased, cause a spot of light to make a jump on the sensitive paper, and by noting the position of these jumps the nature of the element present— too small to discover by chemical analysis—is revealed.

A delightful feature of the polarograph is that by an ingenious system of lighting it draws its own squares on the photographic paper, so that when the latter is developed, a curve with the jumps corresponding to the unknown elements appears on squared paper as a completed "graph" and from the position of any jumps the metals or impurities present, are calculated.

"Can you cook?" asked the prospective employer of the demobbed A.T.S. who was seeking a job.

"I'm afraid I can't," answered the girl, cheerfully.

"Understand the care of children?"

"Not a bit."

"Then what can you do?"

"I can assemble a machine-gun."

Pioneer Chick Mash is specially processed for FAST GROWTH • QUICK FEATHERING
LOW MORTALITY • LEY LITTER
MORE PALATABILITY • LESS DETERIORATION

Coarse granulation lessens diarrhea, eliminates mash accumulation on the beak which causes necrosis or decay. Because the chick drinks less water with coarse feeding mash, the litter droppings are prevented from becoming sticky, and there is less danger of coccidiosis.

FARMER versus ELEMENTS!

One of the country's most interesting sections, the rich foothills of western Wisconsin, populated largely by farmers of Norwegian descent, is the background for the emotional and moving new film:

"Our Vines Have Tender Grapes"

co-starring Margaret O'Brien and Edward G. Robinson at Granada Theatre, on Friday and Saturday, March 22nd and 23rd.

In a plot replete with the excitement of man's battle against fire, drought and flood, the two stars enact the parts of a kindly farmer and his idolized daughter. James Craig and Frances Gifford have the roles of a small town editor, trying to keep his paper going in the face of serious obstacles, and a teacher torn between her love for the editor and a desire to get back to big city life.

Careful planning and great fidelity to life was exercised in making the film adaptation of George Victor Martin's book. The cast includes Agnes Moorehead, young Jackie Jenkins, Sara Haden and Dorothy Morris.

The struggle of various families of the community to maintain their homes and build a heritage for their children, the ever present danger of spring floods and midnight fires provide the factual background for one of the screen's most poignant and action-studded dramas.

Mrs. J. A. Egan Died at Clinton

Word was received by Napanee friends of the death at Clinton, Ont., on Sunday, March 17th, of Mrs. J. A. Egan, a former member of the teaching staff of the Napanee Collegiate and Vocational School.

Mrs. Egan had been in ill-health for the past three or four years, during which time she had undergone several operations in Kingston General Hospital. Her death on Sunday was a release from intense suffering which she had borne with great courage and with unusual cheerfulness and optimism.

Mrs. Egan who was the only child of Mrs. Charles McKinnon and the late Mr. McKinnon, was a graduate of Victoria University, Toronto, and after attending the Ontario College of Education, came to Napanee in 1930 as a teacher in the Vocational Department of the N.C.V.I. Some years later she married Mr. J. A. Egan and when he enlisted and went overseas, early in the war, resumed teaching again and remained on the Collegiate staff until about a year ago.

During her residence in Napanee, Mrs. Egan was a member of the U. E. L. Chapter, I.O.D.E. and took an active interest in the war work done by the chapter. Some years ago, when the Badminton Club was flourishing, she was one of its most interested and valued members. Her many friends and associates in Napanee have felt great regret over her long illness and extend sincere sympathy to her family in her death.

She is survived by her mother and her husband, Capt. J. A. Egan, who recently returned to his position on the N.C.V.I. staff.

Her funeral took place at her mother's home in Clinton, on Tuesday.

CZECHOSLOVAKIA

A Post-War Social Laboratory

BY MAURICE HINDUS

New York. — Czechoslovakia is a momentous social laboratory perhaps the most momentous in Europe. A small country in the heart of the European continent, it is building what it wants to keep and with a no less scrupulous care for some new values which it considers inescapable.

Putting it briefly, Czechoslovakia is trying peacefully but with calculated vigor to work out a synthesis of the economic individualism of its past and the economic collectivism that is hovering over modern Europe. It is imitating neither Russia nor America. In its own fashion it is trying to reconcile the ideals and the practices of both, mindful of its own stature and its own destiny, and of the opportunities and the limitations that result from them.

This is the meaning of the nationalization decree which President Eduard Benes signed on October 24. In its economic aspects it is the most far-reaching that any industrialized European nation has yet issued. France, are still debating and still searching their hearts and their minds for some new economic compromise, Czechoslovakia is acting.

"Europe," a Czech statesman told me, "is blind. Hitler has despoiled it of its vision. We at least have sight enough to see the door to the future." He might have added: "We also have the energy and the will to reach out for this door."

It is this correspondent's conviction that because of its geography and history and the character, education and aptitudes of its people, Czechoslovakia is the logical nation to build a safe and lasting bridge between Russia and the western world. If it succeeds, it will make stupendous and perhaps heroic history. Its contribution to the stability of Europe, if not of the world, will be beyond calculation. It will allay fears and anxieties that are disturbing the mood and the mind of everyone.

If it fails, Europe will lose its most strategic and its best experiment in peaceful revolution, in peaceful transition from the pre-war to the post-war history of our times. Then anything may happen.

The Czech view is that the world of 1938 is dead beyond anyone's power to resurrect it. It died at the hands of Hitler and the German people, who, in their inordinate greed for the lands and possessions of others, drained the lifeblood out of the world.

that was, and particularly out of the institution of private enterprise as it once functioned.

In Czechoslovakia, they looted all the gold, the foreign securities and all other realizable assets. They left banks and insurance companies in a state of bankruptcy.

They flooded the country with paper money. Industries, particularly the steel and textile industries, which constituted the chief source of foreign exports, were left ill-health for the past three or four years, during which time she had undergone several operations in Kingston General Hospital. MADAGASCAR'S CHEQUERED HISTORY

British troops have left Madagascar and the French have re-entered into full possession of this rich and fertile island, in the fiftieth year since it became a French colony.

Even to-day Madagascar is comparatively unexplored and very largely undeveloped, though much was done to bring it under good order and discipline by a French soldier and administrator, General Galliemi, who won further fame in the First World War.

But it is interesting that it was British arms and discipline which made it possible for the Hova dynasty, in the early part of the last century, to conquer the rival chiefs and make a single kingdom in the island. The last of the Hova line, Queen Ranavalona III., who had reigned since 1883, was conquered by the French just fifty years ago, and exiled to Algeria, where she died in 1916. Her ancestor, the first of the Hova monarchs, had the name of Andrianimpoinimerina, and it was he who welcomed British aid 130 years ago.

His son, Radama I. was a good ruler, who abolished the export slave trade, encouraged English missionaries and gave his people the beginnings of a literature. But unfortunately, when, Queen Ranavalona I succeeded him in 1828, she instituted repressive measures, drove out the missionaries, and persecuted their native converts.

After her death in 1861, her son, Radama II changed all this, and Europeans again entered Madagascar. Under Queen Ranavalona II many of the people became converted to Christianity.

LAUGHING GAS

The effects of laughing gas may be no laughing matter for some individuals. Dr. D. E. Fletcher, reporting his finding in the Journal of Nervous and Mental Diseases, states that he found evidence of personality disintegration in twenty - nine cases in which nitrous oxide was used as an anesthetic. Since this gas i frequently used as an anesthetic for children in removal of teeth, tonsils and adenoids, it may be responsible for some of the cases of "problem children" encountered by teachers, according to Dr. Fletche,. Nervous instability in an individual may be increased beyond a critical point.

HOW MEN CONVERSE

Men to-day use almost 3,000 languages and dialects.

There are 820 separate modes of speech in Africa, 130 in India, 87 in the Phillipine Islands, 46 in Europe, and 42 languages are heard on the streets of Jerusalem.

The growth of the English language is remarkable. A hundred years ago we were told that it was spoken by 20,000,000 people. To-day it is the language of 250,000,000, and with 60,000,000 who are able to use it sufficiently for business purposes, some believe that that English "drawl" fast to become the universal speech."

THE BLUE WHALE AND ITS HABITS

Two curiously interesting characteristics belong to the blue whale and all of his type. The small eyes do not move, so the great body must be turned about in the waters for any change of vision.

But the strangest thing is that contraption of fringed whale bone which drops from the roof of his mouth.

He swims along, jaws apart, collecting small fish. The water draining with them flosts them behind his strainer-pendulums and his sleve drops to hold them fi.

When he is ready to enjoy his fish tid-bit, he closes his jaws, forces the water out of his mouth, and the little fish caught behind the whale-bone strainer are still there ready to go down to nourish the largest animal in the world.

—HONEY— ITS VALUES AND VARIETIES

Honey is one of man's oldest foods. There are references to it in the picture-writing of the ancient Egyptians, and the early Romans used quantities of it. When explorers opened King Tut's tomb, they found a jar of honey in perfect condition. Scientists say honey is so pure that it will keep indefinitely.

Perhaps that is why this sweet has received such a universal stamp of approval from the medical profession, and your dentist will tell you how much better your teeth will be if you use honey instead of sugar.

Most people know honey as a quick energy food. Athletes use it before and during contests, and it is the first thing a deep-sea diver gets as the helmet is lifted off his head. It is also used as a disinfectant in surgical dressings.

The quality and the taste of honey depend on the source from which the nectar comes. We are all familiar with clover, buckwheat, orange blossom and sage flavors, but it is quite a surprise to learn that one of the real taste thrills is sumac honey.

Goldenrod, alfalfa, and the flowering tulip tree all produce unusual flavors. Scotland has a heather honey that is considered exceptional, while the honey of Mt. Hymettus in Greece, which comes from the nectar of wild thyme, is famous all over Europe.

But honey is not all sweetness. It contains definite quantities of iron, calcium, sulphur, magnesium, phosphoric acid, and silumen, all of which have their part in making it one of the best natural foods.

MT. PLEASANT PIONEER W. I.

On Thursday evening, March 7th, the Mount Pleasant Pioneer Women's Institute met at the hall for their regular monthly meeting, with the members of Tyendinaga East W. I. as their guests. The meeting which was in charge of the president, Mrs. G. Dupre, opened with the ode, after which the Lord's Prayer was repeated in unison. Several items of business were discussed and committees were read, including letters from the two schools in the district, thanking the Institute for having made it possible for the children to have hot lunches. Plans were made for a play to be put on in the hall in the near future.

At the conclusion of the business portion of the meeting, the president of the visiting Institute, Mrs. R. Tucker, took charge of the social programme, which opened by all joining in singing O' Canada. This was followed by a very interesting paper by Mrs. C. Akey, on the great writer of songs, Carrie Jacobs Bond, at the conclusion of which a popular number by the writer "Just a Wearin' for You," was sung. Mr. and Mrs. C. Akey then favoured with two musical numbers which were enjoyed by all. A very instructive paper on "Glass" was read by Miss Geraldine Mowers. A contest conducted by Mrs. D. Harvey was won by Mrs. C. Nugent. An appropriate Irish reading was given by Mrs. C. Russell.

Mrs. Cary Provins gave an interesting talk on her trip to the West and showed views of places of interest which she had visited. Following this an original and amusing contest was conducted by Mrs. F. Hutchinson. A vote of thanks was extended to the visiting Institute for the fine programme which they had presented.

The meeting was brought to a close by singing the National Anthem. Lunch was served and all enjoyed a social hour together.

RED CROSS NEWS

The annual Membership Drive for the Canadian Red Cross Society, is now in full swing and canvassers are wroking in the town from door to door. The county is being contacted by letter only, this year, and the committee in charge hopes that the response will not be less generous because of this system. There is still a great need, and your dollar can help bring better living conditions to millions of war-torn Europeans.

On Tuesday evening, March 26th at eight o'clock in the evening, Mrs. Ralph Bell will talk on her experiences Overseas, as a Nursing Sister, in the Red Cross rooms. A special invitation is extended to the members of the various Nursing Reserve classes held through the past years, but everyone is welcome.

At the last business meeting, Mrs. Douglas Graham was appointed the Red Cross representative on the Youth Council.

Many people wonder what our peacetime work consists of, and the following list of articles sent to headquarters will give an idea: 31 quilts, 22 children's sweaters, 30 pairs of infants' leggings, 80 diapers, 30 sheets, 46 pairs of boys' shorts, 60 girls' undervests, 2 complete layettes, and a number of small articles.

Spy Probe Unnecessary In South Africa

Capetown — Justice Minister H. G. Lawrence said recently in the House of Assembly that a parliamentary inquiry into subversive activities in the Union during the war was unnecessary, but promised to prepare a white paper in which full details of subversive activities, sabotage and Nazi spying there would be revealed.

Mr. Lawrence said a special team of investigators had left for Europe where they will endeavor "to track down war criminals. The Union government had a full list of names of all Nazi party members in the Union and Southwest Africa and an inquiry would only serve as a post-mortem, he said.

Dominion party member J. S. Warwick, who moved to call a parliamentary inquiry into subversive activities in the Union, alleged there was corruption in the defence force and a great shortage of information to Berlin of ship and troop movements from the Union.

British Plan Cut in German Civilian Ration

Herford, Germany. — Red Cross officials said that British occupation authorities are considering a new, drastic cut in German civilian rations to a maximum of 750 calories daily.

British authorities have indicated that a "spartan" plan for Germans is to be imposed in April, May and June, because of the deteriorating food situation, but it could not be learned whether the new ration is the basis of the plan.

Red Cross officials said the new ration contemplated for April was insufficient to keep some Germans alive.

According to information the Germans allotted the French 1,600 calories daily in the winter of 1940 and increased the ration to 1,700 after that, while in Holland the figure was 1,400 to 1,600 calories.

Grace Church C.G.I.T. Social Evening

Officers and members of the C.G.I.T. Group of Grace United Church, of which Miss Roxey Hawley is the leader, held a get-to-gether and social meeting in the Sunday School room on Tuesday night, which was fairly well attended.

Besides the local members, out-of-town guests were present, and the evening was delightfully spent in games under the direction of Miss Barbara McLaughlin. At the close delicious refreshments were served.

Hostesses for the evening were Audrey Vine, Catherine Calver, Helen Storey, Doris Lemmon, Rilla Parks, Peggy Sheppard, Barbara McLaughlin and Roxey Hawley.

NAPANEE W. I.

The March meeting of the Women's Institute was held on Tuesday afternoon in the Agricultural rooms with an average attendance. Mrs. E. I. Boyls, president, presided for the opening and business period. The meeting opened with the singing of the Ode, Prayer for Peace and Salute to the Flag. The treasurer, Mrs. F. Richards, gave her report which was most gratifying. The several dues were ordered to be paid. The sum of $3 was given for seeds for the Girls' Garden Club. All correspondence was completed for the short course on Refreshments, which is to be held in the Agricultural Rooms on Thursday and Friday, March 21 and 22. A pot luck supper is to be held in the Agricultural Rooms on Friday, March 29th. Prizes for the euchre after the supper were donated by Mrs. E. Vine, Mrs. A. Empey and Mrs. Chilman.

The conveners of the programme were Mrs. Haynes, Mrs. T. S. Moore and Mrs. F. Perry. Mrs. Haynes presided and the programme consisted of a vocal solo by Mrs. R. Jackson, accompanied at the piano by Mrs. F. Mills. Capt. A. S. Hughson gave a very interesting talk on Child Delinquency. Mrs. K. Powell gave two splendid recitations. A contest conducted by Mrs. F. Smith was won by Mrs. K. Powell.

A vote of thanks was given by Mrs. Imeon. A vote of thanks was extended to the visiting Institute for the fine programme which they had presented.

The meeting was brought to a close by singing the National Anthem. Lunch was served and all enjoyed a social hour together.

SCIENCE COMBATS PUBLIC ENEMY NUMBER ONE

The mosquito is Public Enemy No. 1 in the colony of Fiji. The director of medical services, Lieut. Leahy recently opened a campaign for its extermination, pointed out that the mosquitoes in Fiji have for long been convicted of carrying, by their bite, at least three serious diseases. Little could be done, however, until the people themselves would co-operate with the medical services.

The chance came when the Fijians flocked eagerly to volunteer to fight against the enemy in the Solomon Islands. The volunteers who then had to be rejected at the medical examination, because they had been so much weakened by mosquito-born diseases, were bitterly disappointed and determined to take their revenge on the mosquito. They and their people are now eager to join with the medical services in the new war.

The campaign in Fiji was opened in the village of Caubata. It was welcomed by the Fijian chiefs and villagers with ancient ceremonial rites, and over 100 Fijians came forward to have their blood tested for the presence of disease parasites. This is a preliminary step in the cooperative effort which in three years should stamp out mosquito - borne diseases in the island.

HOW THE WAR-TIME "JEEP" GOT ITS NAME

The Comptroller-general of Patents and Trade Marks in Eire has declared that the word "jeep", having "fallen into the public use," has become a common noun.

This decision was given during a case in which the makers of the jeep, Willys-Overland, of Toledo, U. S. A., asked that the word should be registered as their trade mark. The refusal was based on the fact that although the word "jeep" had been used in advertisements it had never been impressed on the "goods," and was therefore not a mark.

The case was interesting in another respect for it cleared up the mystery of the origin of the word. It has often been said that "jeep" is nothing but G.P., initials meaning "General Purpose" (surely an excellent name for this ubiquitous vehicle), but in the argument put before the Irish court it was said that the first jeep was nothing but a "wonder-script little animal in a popular strip cartoon."

And so from a little animal devised to amuse newspaper readers the name has passed to one of the outstanding transport innovations of the war and now, by way of an Irish court, into the English language. Jeep is now a common noun.

DRASTIC CHANGES IN DIET

It is unwise to make drastic changes in the diet even to take advantage of some new vitamin or other discovery. This warning is sounded by Dr. C. A. Elvehjem, professor of biochemistry at the University of Wisconsin, a widely known authority on vitamins, in a communication to the American Chemical Society. Most nutritionists, he says consider a high protein diet desirable but it has been discovered lately that a deficiency of pyrodoxin, or vitamin B 6, develops faster under a high protein.

A man had been trying to write a telegram with a pen provided by the post office. After two or three ineffectual starts, he turned to the girl behind the counter and said:

"Is this by any chance the pen used by King John at the signing of Magna Charta?"

The girl replied: "Inquiries on the right, please!"

Hello Homemakers!

When we ran into Aunt Mary's kitchen the other evening and found fourteen year old Jamey eagerly waiting beside the oven, we naturally expected to see butter tarts or a luscious pie appear, but, to our amazement, a pan of spicy whole wheat cinnamon rolls issued forth. Since when had the bobby-soxers become interested in the lowly bun? As Jamey retired with each hand clutching a hot bun and a burned tongue protruding from his mouth, Aunt Mary explained that cinnamon rolls, made with whole wheat flour, were just the thing for anyone to resist.

And the same rulbs apply to the cooking of any cereal. Make it attractive and the whole family will enjoy it.

• • •

TAKE A TIP

1 If it's porridge you are making be sure it is sufficiently cooked. Many people have acquired a dislike for cereal because they have never tasted it when it has been free of starchy flavour.

2 Serve cooked cereal piping hot, smooth, without lumps, and with rich milk or cream, topped with brown sugar. This last item often makes the whole dish delicious.

3 Most cereals require a much larger quantity of salt to heighten the flavour than other foods.

4 Use a little psychology when serving a new cooked cereal: never announce that it is full of vitamins and minerals. Wait until the teenagers exclaim "Huba-Huba," then nonchalantly introduce a few health pointers into the conversation.

5 Keep in mind that whole grain cereals are the most inexpensive foods to buy. This is, in itself, an important reason for their extensive use.

So let's roll up our sleeves and make the whole neighborhood jealous of the aroma of cooking bread and rolls.

• • •

WHOLE WHEAT BREAD

Three cups lukewarm milk, three teaspoons salt, three tablespoons sugar, three tablespoons fat, two yeast cakes, six cups whole wheat flour, two and one-third cups of white, sifted flour.

Combine salt, sugar, fat and milk, and when lukewarm, add crumbled yeast. Let stand until bubbles appear. Add white flour and beat well. Add whole wheat flour. Place in greased bowl, remembering to grease the surface of the sponge also. Let rise until double in bulk. Knead on floured board and return to bowl, which has been washed and greased well. Let rise again until double in bulk. This time knead it in the bowl. Let rise until double. Knead again in the bowl, always greasing all surfaces. Let rise again until double and turn onto a floured board and shape into loaves. Place in pans and allow to rise until double in bulk. Place in a hot oven, 400 degrees, and cook for twenty minutes. Reduce heat to 350 degrees and bake until done. If a small pan of water is placed in the oven during the cooking period the crust will be much thinner and of better colour.

CLOVER LEAF ROLLS

Proceed, using the same method as above, but when sponge is ready for pans, break off small pieces about the size of a large walnut, roll lightly in the palm of the hand and place three of these together in each individual muffin tin. Allow to rise and place in oven and cook about fifteen minutes.

CINNAMON ROLLS

Make sponge similar to that used for whole wheat bread but place on floured board and roll to about half-inch thick. Spread with the following mixture: three tablespoons fat, one half-cup brown sugar, one teaspoon cinnamon, well creamed.

Roll dough like a jelly roll and cut into slices about an inch thick. Place in greased muffin tins and let rise. Do not try to serve immediately.

NOTE: At this time of year, one should take particular care to see that all the materials are warm, also the ingredients. No drafts should reach the sponge when it is rising, or it will fall. Such a little care makes all the difference in the quality of the finished product.

• • •

At this time of the year our appetites demand something everything tastes bland. You need a chef's skill to perk up the flavour of your cooking. Here are a few suggestions that add more appeal to every meal:

Prepare devilled eggs as usual, but before filling the whites with the mashed yolks and mayonnaise, put chopped peanuts in the bottom of the cases.

Mash a banana in French dressing just before serving. This is especially good with fruit salad. By the way, have you ever tried frying plums and adding a cupful of this puree to basic gelatine dishes.

Baked beans are de luxe when you sprinkle them with a half-teaspoon of commercial celery salt.

If you have some leftover chicken gravy, pour it over a casserole in which you've arranged layers of cooked noodles and chopped wieners; then sprinkle with bread crumbs mixed with a dash of sage and heat in the oven for twenty minutes.

Favourite Plum Whip — Mix together equal parts of one-quarter cups of cooked stewed plums, one egg white, half-cup sugar, one teaspoon lemon juice and a dash of salt. Beat with a rotary or electric beater until light and fluffy; stir in half-cup chopped nuts. Pile in sherbet glasses and chill in electric refrigerator thoroughly.

NOTE: We are assuming you canned some plums as we did last fall. If not, we hope you can persuade some plums to this dish.

Gingerbread Layers—Split squares of gingerbread and put together with any leftover custard sauce.

THE QUESTION BOX

In answer to many requests we publish the simple method of making Butter Spread: Let a pound of butter stand in a warm place until soft, but not melted. Cream butter. Gradually add two cups of milk, beating with a rotary beater until perfectly blended. Add a half-teaspoon salt and combine well! Chill before serving on table or making sandwiches.

COUNTY FEDERATION NEWS
Lennox and Addington

This is a time to look ahead and to plan for the future. With the coming into effect of the marketing scheme, there will be given to the producer of hogs, in Ontario, greater power to regulate the marketing of his product than has been given to any other group. Greater because of the numbers of people it affects and the territory that it covers. That power does not mean just to control the marketing of our product but it means, as well, the responsibility of improving in general a $65,000,000 industry. There are other schemes in operation, but none whose product is so universally used and so complicated in the marketing.

There are many things we wish and hope to do, but we should move cautiously, consider each step very carefully and in this manner, endeavour to build up our organization and improve our industry. We exported a hog for each one consumed. Thus, as producers, we have two markets for our product—the Canadian consumer and the British market, and both are important. Of the two, the domestic market is the one we are sure of, providing we do not lose it. Under ordinary conditions, the domestic consumer is just as particular and demands as high a quality of product as the British consumer, but during the war, and up to the present, they have not been getting it.

One hundred per cent. A grade hogs and 60 per cent. of the product of B 1 hogs are exported. That means the Canadian consumer has been getting low or medium grade product and due to Britain's great need, there have been few complaints. It has been of great benefit to Canadian hog producers for it has permitted us to get a hold in the United Kingdom market which could not have been attained in any other way.

SUPPER DISHES

With the family's favourite recipes for Supper Dishes in the file, the homemaker has no difficulty in planning her luncheon or supper menus. These dishes may utilize left-over meats or their basis may be such ideal meat substitutes as milk, eggs and cheese, which are so suitable for Lenten menus.

The home economists of the Consumer Section, Dominion Department of Agriculture say there is a great variety of ways in which milk, eggs and cheese may be combined. They may be used in sauces, casseroles, omelets, souffles, escallops and other supper dishes. The colour, flavour and texture of cheese give an appetite to any meal, which is welcome at this time of the year. When mixed with bland foods, it provides that appeal, which they otherwise lack.

Cheese is also an economical food in concentrated form with every crumb edible. For cooking purposes select according to flavour and consistency. A hard cheese is preferable for grating, while softness is a desirable quality for melting or cutting. Hardened and thoroughly dried pieces may be grated, bottled and kept in a cool place ready for use.

Cheese and eggs both require low heat for cooking. High temperatures give a tough product. When these two foods are combined and cooked in the oven, best results are obtained by "oven-poaching." This means setting the mixture to be cooked in a pan of hot water.

CABBAGE
TOMATO AND CHEESE DISH

Three cups finely shredded cabbage, one and one-half cups of canned tomatoes, three-quarters teaspoon of salt, one-quarter of teaspoon paprika, two tablespoons sugar, one cup grated cheese, one cup bread crumbs, four strips bacon, chopped finely (optional). Cook shredded cabbage for five minutes in boiling, salted water and drain well. Heat tomatoes and add salt, paprika and sugar. Grease a baking dish and place alternate layers of tomatoes and cabbage, beginning with tomatoes. Sprinkle each layer with grated cheese and bread crumbs. Sprinkle chopped bacon over top. Bake in a moderate oven, 350 deg. F., for about half an hour or until crumbs are brown. Six servings.

LUNCHEON CASSEROLE

One and one-quarter cups dried lima or navy beans, four cups boiling water, one small onion, sliced, one and one-quarter teaspoons salt, one-fifth teaspoon pepper, one and one-quarter cups milk, two and one-half tablespoons flour, one cup of grated cheese, two tablespoons of catsup or chili sauce, two hard cooked eggs, half-cup soft bread crumbs. Soak beans overnight in water, to cover. Drain. Add boiling water and onion. Cover and cook over low heat until tender and very little liquid remains. Add salt and pepper. Heat one cup milk in top of double boiler. Blend flour with remaining one-quarter cup cold milk, and add to heated milk. Cook, stirring constantly, until mixture thickens. Add half-cup grated cheese and stir until melted. Add the catsup or chili sauce season with salt and pepper and add the cooked beans. Pour half this mixture into a greased baking dish, cover with sliced eggs and add remaining bean mixture. Sprinkle top with bread crumbs which have been mixed with the remaining cup of cheese. Bake in a moderate oven, 350 deg. F. for twenty minutes or until the cheese is melted and mixture is heated. Six servings.

JOURNEY INTO AUSTRIA

BY DeWITT MACKENZIE
(A.P. Writer on World Tour)

Vienna — Present day total war is synonymous with obliteration in the minds of most people and the destruction wrought by the conflict certainly goes far towards substantiating that idea, but it is amazing to see how life goes on amidst the ruins of Europe.

The curious mixture of people who fought for places on the crowded Vienna express and the country through which it passes, gives a cross section of this Austria which is trying to reassert itself.

There are on the train refugees returning with their few belongings in Alpine sacks which they carried on their shoulders.

Along with them was an entirely different class which radiated not only hope but confidence and a determination to make the best of a bad situation. They were the tanned young men and women skiers who seize every opportunity to pursue their favourite sport in the hills.

There were a few obvious war profiteers who travel back and forth making a profit out of the country's suffering, and there were honest tradesmen who still believe in the old world and are taking a hand in her reconstruction.

There were, of cotrse, the inevitable allied officers, for at one time or another during the 24-hour journey you will encounter British, American, French and Russians.

These represent the forces of occupation, which for years will maintain order while Austria is undergoing rehabilitation and reform. There also were numerous United Nations Relief and Rehabilitation Administration workers of various nationalities representing humanitarian efforts to help the fallen country.

The trip into the occupied zones of Austria is filled with thrills and some anxiety. Not only do civilian passengers have to carry passports which are up to date in every detail, but both civilians and military have to provide themselves with permits to pass through the American, French and Russian control zones.

Examination of permits goes on through the night and it was about four o'clock when the Russians went through the train. It was a tense time, for they accept no arguments in place of correct permits.

You begin your trip amidst the grandeur of the Alps and for hours run through country untouched by force. There is nothing visible to indicate that this is part of a defeated nation. Gradually, however, you begin to note bridges which have been destroyed by bombing and then you come into the industrial area where are towns and cities which have suffered heavily.

Vienna is in a shocking state of destruction from bombs and gunfire, but the devastation is nothing like as complete as it is in Berlin and in many other German cities. Many of its fine buildings can be restored.

Half of the hotel in which I am staying was destroyed but the other half is still in existence. From the windows of my room I can look across the city opera house, which is heavily damaged but which the Nazis was able to provide an opera.

Austria and its capital will take long to recover, but they are on their way.

Review Conditions in Eastern Europe

In the recent issue of "Agriculture Abroad" issued by the Economics Division, Department of Agriculture, Ottawa, reports are given on developments on agricultural policies in many countries, and reconstruction, world food needs, with other subjects are dealt with in this broad and comprehensive viewpoint.

Dealing with reconstruction and world food needs, there are many interesting comments on conditions in Eastern Europe. While reasonably good prospects exist for obtaining higher levels of output in plant products next year in Northern, Western and Central Southern Europe, these regions will still require abnormally large quantities of imported plant foods during 1946 and these food products for an additional period of two or three years. The situation in Eastern Europe is less favourable. Devastation in the Ukrainian Republic of the Soviet Union and dislocation in Poland were so far-reaching that it will take some time before a sufficiently large farm population can be re-located and housed to turn out farm produce in volume comparable to pre-war days.

In 1944-45, acreage under cultivation in the Ukraine was still about 90 per cent below pre-war, although grains occupied a little over 81 per cent. of the area devoted to these products before the war. Probably as much as two-thirds or three-quarters of the live stock in occupied regions was lost. According to an article published in the official organ of the Soviet People's Commissariat for Agriculture on September 14th, 1945, the following numbers of animals were destroyed by the Soviet collective farms during the occupation: horses, 7 million; cattle, 17 million; swine, 20 million; sheep and goats, 7 million; and poultry, 110 million. In the entire Soviet Union in 1938, there were 18 million horses; 63 million cattle; 31 million swine; 110 million goats and sheep; and 200 million poultry. Despite these losses, which were aggravated by extensive destruction or confiscation of tractors and machinery, considerable progress has already been achieved in reconstruction. By 1940 at the end of the five-year plan, it is expected that production levels will exceed those of pre-war.

MR. AND MRS. WM. HUNTER GUESTS OF HONOUR AT FAREWELL PARTY

On Tuesday evening, March 5th about one hundred friends and neighbours gathered at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Bill Hunter, near Marven, to say farewell to them before their departure for their new home at Empey Hill. After a social hour was enjoyed, Bill and Irene were called to the living room where the following address was read by Mr. Lynn Perry. Messrs. Wilfred Lake and Ronald Young presented them with a beautiful tri-light and mirror.

Following is the address:

Dear Irene and Bill:

It is with a very real sense of regret that we have gathered here this evening to say farewell to a young couple who have meant so much to the community, as you have. It is not enough to say, simply, that you will be missed. It goes much deeper than that. Certainly you will be missed in our church and community life, but your absence will mean a real loss to each one of us. You have made a place for yourselves in the heart of everyone here this evening and many others who were unable to attend.

When you leave you can be sure that our love and best wishes go with you. You have had your hardships and disappointments and we have felt sorry for you. But we feel certain that with your enthusiasm and energy, you will get along well, wherever you are.

May God's richest blessing rest upon you both in your new undertaking.

Yours truly,
Your Friends of Marven Community.

It was also "Bill's" birthday and all joined in singing "Happy Birthday to You," after which lunch was served, including a lovely birthday cake.

Jobs Follow Organization
But Employers and Workers Must Assist
During the war organization of manpower was made possible through co-operation of employers and workers.
This co-operation is no less necessary to assist in organizing the employment market during the present critical period.
Some manpower controls still remain. These are still law. They are aimed at assisting in organizing the employment market.
Remaining controls are designed to help employers and workers—and actually require only minor assistance from the public.
YOU ARE URGED TO COMPLY WITH THE FOUR CONTROLS WHICH REMAIN:
1—Employers MUST notify the National Employment Office of any need for workers, as soon as that need is known.
2—Where employers engage workers outside the National Employment Service they MUST notify the nearest NES Office within three days, that an employee has been engaged. (Form NSS 312 is provided for this purpose.)
3—Unemployed workers seeking employment MUST register with the National Employment Office if unemployed for seven consecutive days.
4—Generally speaking, any employer or employee MUST give seven days' notice to the other party of any intention to terminate employment. (Form NSS 120 is still required.) Exceptions may be learned from the nearest NES Office.
The partners to industry—employers and employees—should help the National Employment Service to promote a high level of employment by complying with these simple rules.
Only with public support can an employment service give full assistance to the community.
Make full use of the Local Office of the National Employment Service. It is there to serve your needs, and those of the entire Community.

SHOWY FLOWERS

A really wonderful showing can be made with half a dozen annual flowers. Cosmos, marigolds, zinnias, petunias, portulacas, nicotine, spider plant, calendula, alyssum, stocks, etc. are easily grown almost anywhere in Canada. Some of the larger flowers can be used in the place of shrubs. Seeds should be started early and in finely prepared soil. Plants are transplanted to permanent quarters when they are well established with several sets of leaves. Ready started bedding plants can be bought from the seed store or greenhouse man. For husky growth, tall things like common, gladiolus, dahlias, giant marigolds and zinnias should have about two feet each. Geraniums and similar things need about a foot.

EARLY, MEDIUM AND LATE

Most annuals vegetables divide themselves into three main planting groups. In the first are the hardy sorts. These are planted just as soon as the soil can be prepared regardless of the weather ahead. They will stand a little frost, and for best results they must make their first growth while the weather is still cool and wet. In this class are peas, the first onions, carrots and beets, radish spinach and lettuce. Make the first planting just as soon as the soil has worked up nicely and is no longer muddy. Experienced gardeners, however, don't stop with one seeding. They make a practice of sowing beets, radish, spinach, etc., at least three times, about two weeks apart.

Next there are the semi-hardy things like potatoes, the first corn, beans and cabbage. These will stand cool weather but very little frost. At the end of the line are very tender plants that can stand no frost at all, such as melons, cucumbers, tomatoes, pumpkins. There is no object, in planting these until both soil and air are warm.

GENERAL LAYOUTS

An informal layout of flower gardens, lawn and shrubbery about the home almost always gives the best results. The formal garden where there are straight rows, straight paths and everything is just so, is a matter for professionals and large estates. With the average lot in town or country there are too many straight lines in any case, like driveways, foundation walls and fences. The main idea in gardening is to break these and soften them. To do this, shrubbery is planted in irregular clumps around, but not too close to, the house, with biggest groupings at the corners and around the front porch. Variety may be added by the odd climbing vine.

IMPROVING THE SOIL

While a natural, rich, open loam makes the best garden soil, it is possible to make practically any type suitable.

With both clay and sand cultivation, plus the incorporation of rotted vegetable matter, will work wonders. One of the best treatments of course is plenty of barnyard manure, but this is not always available and especially so in urban locations. Good substitutes are vegetable refuse like tops of beets, carrots, pea pods, lawn clippings, leaves and shredded green oats, rye or clover dug or plowed under. With clay this opens up the soil and makes it more easily workable, less inclined to bake. With sandy ground, the manure or vegetable material adds strength and helps it retain moisture.

As you have such strange names for your towns, an Englishman remarked to an American soldier. For instance, Hohokus, Hoboken, Poughkeepsie, and others.

I suppose they do sound queer to English ears," said the American thoughtfully, "Do you live in London all the time?"

"Oh, no!" said the unsuspicious Briton, "I spend part of my time at ChippingNorton, and then I've a place at Kokestogg-on-the-Hike."

CANADIAN DEPARTMENT STORES

NEW BOOKS AT THE PUBLIC LIBRARY

Up The Stream Of Time —Vicsentes Byng

Lady Byng modestly describes her delightful volume of reminiscences as "Thumbnail Sketches of Episodes in my Long Life", a quite inadequate description of this informal and altogether charming auto-biography. From it emerges a striking portrait of her self and her famous husband as every stage of their long and interesting lives.

East Is West — Stark.

A book by Freya Stark is a literary event. This new one deals with her war experiences in Arabia, Egypt, Palestine, Syria, Iraq and Persia.

Officially Dead — Reynolds

The story of Commander C. D. Smith, skipper of Yangtze River steamer, Shanghai Harbor, pilot, Captain of the U.S.S. Wake, and the prisoner the Japs couldn't hold. It contains material that was regarded as "secret" Washington authorities throughout the war, and was added to the text when Commander Smith made a fortunate visit to New York after V-J Day.

Village In The Sun—Chandos

Village in the Sun is a unique and deeply satisfying book to which the heart, intelligence, and the senses eagerly respond. In it is woven all the magic that gives rise to the saying, "Once the dust of Mexico has settled on your heart, you have no rest in any other land." Seldom has a place or a people been portrayed so sensitively and so delightfully.

Before The Sun Goes Down — Howard

Winner of bothe the M.G.M. and Doubleday prize contests. The outstanding qualities of this vital novel are warmheartedness and compassion.

Storm Tide — Ogilvie

Elisabeth Ogilvie has a talent for getting places — and people — on paper that a painter might envy. If you have ever known and loved a corner of the Maine coast, Storm Tide will take you back there quicker than the old Bangor boat ever did.

Behold Your King — Bauer

This is the story of Jonathon of Cyrene and his stay in the turbulent land of the Jews during the early days of the first century. It illuminates not only the Gospel narrative, but the whole drama of the Messiah of the Jews.

Put Off Thy Shoes—Yerniah

A most unusual historical novel by a woman who became famous for a best-seller "The Oadfly" published in 1897. The new novel is really a study of conflicting values and ideals, of incompatibilities, class barriers and family ties, set in the rural Warwickshire and Cornwall of George III.

Call Portrait of Marriage — Buck

Always in Pearl Buck's novels the people quickly become far more important than the setting or the period. It is interesting that the scene of this novel is Pennsylvania, countryside in which she has lived for the past ten years.

Bridesheard Revisited — Waugh

In Brideshead Revisited, Evelyn Waugh's first new novel in three years, the qualities prized by so many show at their finest. Here is wit, feeling, audacity, intellect, imagination and a deceptive blandness; here is a novel that will entertain, stir the emotions, recharge the brain cells, and induce laughter.

The King's General—DuMaurier

A story of three hundred years ago told by Miss duMaurier as if it happened yesterday. Only Miss duMaurier could do justice to the hair-breadth escapes and exciting events which punctuate this tale.

The River Road — Keyes

Rich, extravagant, fascinating—an enchanting story, rich in history, drama and romance. It paints a full picture of the proud aristocrats whose estates edge the River Road. Its scope is tremendous.

David The King — Schmitt

David the King in the considered judgment of John Beecroft, Editor of the Literary Guild "is destined to be considered one of the most original. one of the best written, one of the most interesting and fascinating books in many years."

Miss Bunting — Thirkell

A novel of English life in wartime.

Build a Boat — Pop Mech. Press

It's easy to build your own boat. Includes row boat, canoe, power, and sail craft, ply-wood cutboard, inboard rushabout, cabin cruiser, and many other interesting projects for the boatman.

The Small General — Standish

Equal parts of violence, laughter and conspiracy, make up a novel of contemporary China, which provides a vivid "lookee" into Chinese life, and proverbems and throws light on the characteristic traits and foibles that make the Chinese personality so different from that of the Occidental.

BOY SCOUTS NEWS

FIRST NAPANEE WOLF CUB PACK

A record turn-out of Cubs was on hand for the weekly meeting held on Saturday evening.

With only two meetings left, competition ran high among the Sixes for the Honour Six Pennant at the end of the month. During inspection many points were lost due to dirty hands and finger nails.

Rousing games of "Storm", Jump the Ropes" and "Compass Pointer" were played during the meeting.

During Red Flower the final part of the story of Rikki-Tikki-Tavi was told to the pack. Next week a new story will be told.

With many Cubs on hand Akela took up the subject of attendance and dues. Cubs are forgetting the 3 weeks' ruling and places themselves in a precarious spot. Cubs not only let their Six down but they deprive some other lad of being a member of the pack. Not only is the attendance in the pack lax but dues are in a similar shape. The whole matter was left up to a member of the pack.

The forthcoming meeting will be one for review and list passing tests. All members are requested to be on hand.

Badge presentation night will be on Saturday, March 30th. Parents are to will be invested and all badges will be presented.

The meeting closed with Cub Silence, Cub Prayer and Flag Down.

New Device Makes Easier Landings For Flying Boats

London.—British flying-boat manufacturers have constructed a new device which should prove of vital importance to flying-boat traffic. Hitherto flying-boat landings were coupled with considerable difficulties. When flying-boats could not reach the anchor-buoy under their own power because of heavy seas, they had tb be towed to the buoy and even then mooring was often a dangerous business. These difficulties and dangers will now be completely eliminated by the new invention.

In future, flying-boats will simply alight near the intended landing place. The pilot then lands his machine over a cable supported by floats, which engages an automatic pick-up point fixed in the nose of the aircraft. The pilot then merely has to swing the flying-boat round so as to engage another pick-up point in the tail and the landing takes place without risk. It is then only a matter of towing the flying-boat to its pre-destined mooring by means of a winch.

Shirt Charles I Wore

London. — Buried under London in an underground railway tunnel is a treasure hoard over which thousands, unsuspecting, walk every day.

The underground railways of London have provided safe hideouts for many of Britain's most valuable treasures during the war.

Scattered in disused corridors are a variety of treasures, including the shirt that Charles I wore at the Whitehall scaffold, stained glass windows from St. Margaret's, and priceless antique jewellery which survived the Great Fire of London in 1666.

Not one item has suffered damage. Many are back on show in the museums but War Office officials state it will be some time before the treasures from the British Museum can be restored.

BORDER SECURITY, SAYS STALIN

BY LOUIS F. KEEMLE
B.U.P. Correspondent

Part of the answer to the question, "what is Russia up to now?" has been given by Generalissimo Josef Stalin.

Russia is "up to" what she has been in front of the past quarter century — security for the borders of the Soviet Union.

Stalin's forthright declartion in Pravda, broadcast to the world, shows clearly that he is not satisfied with the security offered by the United Nations organization, under existing conditions.

Stalin's pronouncement—it might be called a manifesto — may be regarded as the current Soviet utterances and actions to make Moscow's position reasonably clear. It appears to be based on these points:

1 Russia retains her long - standing fear of "encirclement" by unfriendly nations on her vast frontiers.

2 She dreads a combination against her by other big powers, notably Great Britain and the United States.

3 This combination either could be military to strike through the smaller powers bordering Russia, or political within the United Nations.

Shortly before the Stalin interview appeared in Pravda, the newspaper carried an editorial in which is proclaimed world peace to be basic Soviet policy. It said:

"The Soviet people well know there are in the world forces hostile to the Soviet Union, but the Soviet people will fight for peace among nations."

It may reasonably be assumed that Russia does not want war. What the people are being told is that Russia does not intend to attack, and must be strong and ready.

The truth probably is that Soviet Russia does not believe the United States has no intention of going to war with Russia and that Britain is not strong enough to do so, even if she wanted Winston Churchill's Missouri speech afforded an opportunity to raise the spectre of powerful United States being egged into an anti-Soviet war by British machinations. The opportunity was seized.

Under these circumstances, Russia is in a position to get a large measure of what she wants without risking the danger of war.

What she wants includes friendly nations all around her, perhaps some distant outposts, and a strong military and industrial position which would make attack by any power or group of powers a most unlikely possibility.

When that has been acnieved, or is well on the way to achievement, Russia may be expected to submit with less suspicion to the authority of the U.N.O. Russia could present a "united front" which she would be entirely willing to see prescribed. In the meantime, of course, these objects of utmost danger of a Big Three split which would wreck the U.N.O. or at least postpone its full development for many years.

Moscow sees no possible taint of aggression in her present course in Eastern Europe, the Middle East and Manchuria. Stalin put it quite simply from the Russian viewpoint. It was the keynote of his statement. He said:

"The Germans carried out an invasion in the U.S.S.R through Finland, Poland, Roumania, Bulgaria and Hungary. The Germans were able to carry out invasion through these countries by reason of the fact that these countries had governments inimical to the Soviet Union. . .

"What can be surprising, therefore, in the fact that the Soviet Union, in a desire to ensure its security for the future, tries to achieve that these countries should have governments whose relations to the Soviet Union are loyal? How can one, without having lost one's reason, qualify these peaceful aspirations of the Soviet Union as 'expansionist tendencies of our government?'"

PRINCESS ALICE THANKS WOMEN OF CANADA

YOUTH TRAINING FUND WILL PERPETUATE NAME

Ottawa, (C.P.) — The women of Canada, presented Princess Alice with a gift in honor of her five-year term in Canada and in doing so established a series of scholarships in youth training which will perpetuate the Princess' name throughout the country.

The Princess Alice Foundation Fund, to which Canadian women have contributed instead of to the usual personal gift to the wife of a retiring governor-general, now totals $47,850 and an amount was handed to Her Royal Highness at a brief ceremony in Government House ballroom.

Idea for the fund came from Princess Alice herself who said in thanking the committee that: is has thus made it possible for me to show, in some measure, how much I care for the people of Canada and how much I value their friendship."

Her Royal Highness gave the cheque to Chief Justice Thibaudeau Rinfret, who, with Watson Sellar, auditor general of Canada, is trustee of the fund. Then all signed the fund's indenture.

Referring to the gift as "most generous and most imaginative," she said, "I cannot begin to put into words my gratitude. I can only say thank you again and again from my heart.

"You have given me the greatest pleasure imaginable in the sympathetic response to my request that your loving gift should be dedicated to the youth of Canada, in my name.

"It is my earnest wish that the bursaries from this fund may be given to young men and young women throughout Canada, and from all classes of schools and universities, and that they should be open to young people of all denominations."

Princess Alice stressed the need for good leadership for young people between the "ages of 14 and 18, when the young unfolding minds are so easily perverted and when their leisure so easily leads to wasted time."

She added she hoped the bursaries would make possible attendance at youth training leadership courses in Britain and other Dominions as well as in Canada.

FASCINATING FACTS ABOUT THE MIRACLE OF HIBERNATION

One of the strangest things about some animals (and fish) is their habit of hibernating through long periods of time. In the extremely cold weather of some climates, and the extremely hot weather of others, nature has provided animals with the instinct to hibernate until normal weather conditions return. This cold weather sleep is called hibernation. When they do it in hot weather it is called estivation. Most of us know that bears hibernate during the long winter months.

The bear isn't the only animal that goes into this seasonal sleep. Squirrels, snakes, insects, frogs, rats, snails, lizards, crocodiles, and others also hibernate. Each of these has its own peculiar way of going into this long sleep. The bear gets ready for its long hibernation by getting as fat as possible and living off this fat during the winter months. But all bears do not hibernate. Those that do are very vicious when they awaken because they're hungry. The brown bear just goes to sleep, but will awaken at the slightest disturbance.

The habits of other animals that hibernate are very odd. A small python for the winter by burying itself in the ground, head upward. It then closes the mouth of its shell with a ball of shell-like material. Snails also fatten themselves before they hibernate and French people consider them a very rare dish! It is said that snails can live in hibernation for as long as four years and then come to life suddenly and act as if nothing had happened! Frogs are known to live in hibernation for years. Many strange stories are told of frogs being found in solid rocks, in lumps of coal and in layers of solid granite, praying that they have been hibernating for long periods of years. Fish hibernate by burying themselves in mud, but not all of them do this, but not all of them do. There are cases of fish being discovered under the dry beds of lakes and ponds, the waters of which have been dried up for years. But when the dried up pond was filled with water from a long rain, it was found to have fish in it, the fish having come to life after the mud has been softened and dissolved, enabling them to swim in the water above. Crocodiles will also bury themselves in the mud during a very dry season. Water snakes go into winter hibernation by they gather together in large numbers in a rocky cave or hole. They dry, and coil themselves around one another into a huge ball. It is claimed that the bite of a venemous snake is not poisonous when it is awakened from a winter sleep. This has not been proved fully yet.

Even plants and vegetation hibernate. All of us know that flowers and weeds disappear in winter but grow up out of the ground again in spring. The seed will stay for years. Winter is the time for hibernating and sleeping by many animals and plants, and spring is the time for awakening and growing and living.

BRITAIN'S SPEED RECORDS

With the Meteor's six hundred and six miles per hour flight, Britain now holds world speed records on water, land and in the air.

On the water Sir Malcolm Campbell established the world motor boat record when he made his 141.74 miles per hour run over Coniston Water in August, 1939. On the Atlantic the fastest passage in both directions was made by the "Queen Mary" on her first two trips, thirty-nine minutes from Bishop Rock to Ambrose Light, and three days, twenty hours, forty minutes from Ambrose to Bishop (1938).

On land the world record was won by the Club at Bonneville Flat, Utah, in August 1939, when he achieved a speed of 368.85 miles per hour in a British car powered by a Rolls Royce engine.

The rail record is held by the London North Eastern Railway—Mallard" — which in July, 1939, achieved 125 miles per hour.

THE LIGHTEST METAL

Aluminum is light; magnesium light; but lithium is lighter than all other metals, and weighs only one-fifth as much as that of aluminum. It is a silver - white metal, when occurs more plentifully than lead or zinc, while little used until recently, it is now used in its cost pounds in high-conductivity copper castings, tin bronzes, silicon bronzes aluminum weldings, magnesium welding and casting, and in the heat treating of metals. And now the plocers are on the hunt for this lightest of all metals. Some has already been found in Canada, and more much more probably exists.
